Now when the aungell came in/ he saluted hym/ and sayde: Joye be with ỹ for euermore. And olde Tobiah sayde: what ioye can I haue that syt here in darcknes/ & se not the lyght of heauen? The younge man sayde vnto hym: Be of good cheare / God shall helpe the shortly. And Tobiah sayd vnto hym: Cānst thou bringe my sonne to Gabelus/ vnto the cytye of Rages in Medea? And when thou commest agayne/ I shall paye the thy hyre. And the Aungell sayde vnto hym: I shall leade thy sonne/ & bringe him to the agayne. Then Tobiah answered hym: tell me I praye ỹ/ of what house/ or of what trybe art thou? The Aungell Raphael sayde vnto hym: Alkest thou after the kynred of an hyrelyng/ or seketh thou a gyde for thy sonne to go wyth hym? But that I make the not carefull / I am Azarias the sonne of greate Ananias. And Tobiah answered: thou art come of a greate kynred: but I praye the/ be not dysplealed/ that I desyred to know thy kynred. The Aungell sayde vnto hym: thy sonne shall

I leade forth safely / and bringe hym whole to the agayne.

D Then answered Tobiah / and sayde: well / go on youre waye / & God be in youre iourney / and his Angell beare you cõpany. So when they had prepared all thynges / ỹ they wolde take with them in their iourney: Tobiah bad hys father & hys mother fare well / and they went on their waye both together. Now when they were gone / hys mother began to wepe / and sayde: The staff of oure age hast thou taken awaye / and sent hym from vs.

Wolde God that money had neuer bene / for the which thou hast sent hym awaye. If we had bene content with oure pouerte / this had bene greate ryches vnto vs / ỹ we sawe oure sonne here. Then sayde Tobiah vnto her: wepe not / oure sonne shall come to vs agayne safe and sounde / & thine eyes shall se him. For I trust / that ỹ good Angell of God shall beare him cõpany / and order well all ỹ thynges that he doth: so that he shall come to vs agayne wt ioye. At these wordes hys mother left of frõ wepynge / & held her tonge.

¶ Young Tobiah is delyuered from the fysshe / by the Aungell. The Aungell exhorteth Tobiah to take Sara to his wyfe.

¶ The.vj. Chapter.

A SO Tobiah wente on hys waye / & a dogg folowed him / and the fyrst nyght they abode by the water of Tigris. Then wẽt he out to wash his fete / & beholde / there came forth an horryble fysh to deuoure hym. Of whome Tobiah was afrayed / & cried wyth a loude voyce / sayenge: Lorde / he cõmeth vpon me. And the Aungell sayde vnto hym: Take him by ỹ cheke blade / and draw hym to the. And he dyd so / and drew him vpõ the lande. And the fysh beganne to leape at hys fete.

B Then sayde the Aungell vnto hym: Take out the bowels of this fysh / & as for ỹ herte / the gall and the leuer / kepe them by the. For these thynges are necessary and good for medicyne. Tobiah dyd so / and rosted the fysh / and they toke hym with thẽ in their iourney: the residue they salted / as moch as was sufficient for them / tyll they came to Rages. Then Tobiah asked the Aungell / & sayd vnto him: I praye the brother Azariah / tell me / wher to are these thynges good of the fysh / that thou hast bydden me kepe?

The Aungell answered him and sayde: If thou layest a pece of the hert vpon ỹ coales / the smoke therof dryueth awaye all maner of euell spretes / whether it be from man or frõ womã / so ỹ frõ thence forth ỹ same shall come nomore vntothẽ. The gall is good to anoynte or to streke ỹ eyes withall / where as there is eny blemish in them / so shall they be whole.

And Tobiah sayde vnto hym: where wylt thou ỹ we remayne? The Aungell answered and sayd: Here is a nye kynsmã of thine / one Raguell by name / whych hath a daughter called Sara / & hath nether sonne ner daughter but her. All hys good belõgeth vnto the / and thou must mary hys daughter: and therfore desyre her of her father / & he shall geue her the to wyfe. Then answered Tobiah and sayde: As I vnderstãde / she hath bene maried vnto seuen housbãdes / and they all are deed: and I haue herde saye / that the deuell slewe them. I am afrayed therfore / lest soch thinges happẽ vnto me also: which yf it came to passe (seynge I am the onely sonne of my father & my mother) I shulde bringe thẽ in their age with sorow to their graues.

Then sayde ỹ Aungell Raphael vnto him: D Heare me / & I wyll tell the what they be of whom the deuell hath power. Namely / they that receaue mariage of soch a fashion / that they shut God out from thẽ & frõ their hert / & geue thẽ selues to their awne lust / euẽ as it were an horse & Mule / whych haue no vnderstanding: vpõ soch hath the deuell power. But when thou takest her / & art come in to the chamber / withholde thy selfe from her thre dayes / & geue thy dyligence vnto nothynge but vnto prayer with her.

And in the fyrst nyght rost the leuer of the fish / & the deuell shalbe dryuẽ awaye. The secõde night shalt thou be receaued in to ỹ cõpany of the holy patriarkes. The thirde night shalt thou opteyne the blessynge of God / so ỹ whole chyldrẽ shalbe borne of you. After the thirde night take ỹ maydẽ in ỹ feare of God / & more for the desyre of chyldrẽ / then for eny fleshly lust: that in the sede of Abraham thou mayest optayne the blessynge in chyldren.

¶ Young Tobiah and the Aungell come to the house of Raguell. He requyreth Raguels daughter to wyfe / and obtayneth her.

¶ The.vij. Chapter.

THen wente they in to Raguell / A which receaued thẽ ioyfully. And when Raguell loked vpõ Tobiah / he sayde vnto Anna his wyfe: How lyke is this youge mã vnto my systers sonne. And whẽ he had spokẽ this / he sayde: whence be ye good brethren? They sayde: Of ỹ tribe of Nephthalt / out of ỹ captyuite of Ninive. Then sayde Raguel vnto them: know ye my brother Tobiah? They sayde: yee / we knowe hym well. And when he had spoken moch good of him / the Aungell sayd vnto Raguel: Tobiah of whom thou askest / is thys young mans father. Then Raguel bowed him selfe downe / and wepte / toke him aboute ỹ neck and kyssed hym/& sayde: Gods blessinge haue thou my sonne/for thou arte the sonne of a good vertuous man. And Anna his wife and Sara his daughter wepte also.

Now when they had talked together/Raguel bad kyll a wether/and to make a feast. And when he prayed them to sytt downe to dynner/ Tobiah sayd: I will nether eate ner dryncke here thys daye/except thou fyrst graūte me my peticiō/& promyse me to geue me thy daughter Sara. Whē Raguel herde this/he was astonnyed/for he knewe/what had hapened vnto the other .vij. men/ y wēte in vnto her: & he begāne to feare that it shuld chaunce vnto hym also in lyke maner.

And whyle he stode so in doute/& gaue the younge man no answere/the aungell sayde vnto hym: Feare not to geue him thy daughter/for vnto thys man that feareth God/ belongeth thy daughter to wyfe/ therfore myght none other haue her.

Then sayd Raguel: I doute not/but God hath accepted my prayers and teares in his sight: & I trust he caused you to come vnto me for the same intēt/ that this daughter of myne myght be maried in her awne kynred/ accordynge to the lawe of Moses. And now dowte thou not/but I wyll geue her vnto y: So he toke the right hande of his daughter/ and gaue her into the right hand of Tobiah/ & sayde: The God of Abraham/ the God of Isaac/ and the God of Jacob be wyth you/ ioyne you together/ & fulfyll his blessing in you. And they toke a letter & made a wryting of the mariage. And then made they merry/ & prayed God. And Raguel called Anna hys wyfe vnto hym/and bad her prepare another chamber/and thyther he brought Sara hys daughter/and she wepte. Then sayde he vnto her: Be of good cheare my daughter/the Lorde of heauen geue the ioye/ for the heuynesse that thou hast suffred.

¶ The aungell byndeth the deuell. Tobiah exhorteth hys wyfe to prayer/and they praye thre dayes before they lye together.

¶ The .viij. Chapter.

NOw after y they had supped/they brought the yonge man in to her. Thē thought Tobiah vpō the wordes of the aungell/and toke out of his bagge a pece of the leuer of the fish/and layed it vpō the hote coales. So the aungell Raphael tokeholde of the deuell/ & sent him awaye/and bounde him in the wyldernes of the hyer Egypte. Thē spake Tobiah vnto the virgin/& sayde: Up Sara/let vs make oure prayer vnto God to daye/tomorow/ & ouermorow: for these thre nightes will we reconcyle oure selues with God: & whan the third holy night is past/we shall ioyne together in the deuyte of mariage. For we are the chyldren of holy men/ & we maye not come together as the Heathen/that knowe not God.

Then stode they vp both together/and besought God earnestly/that he wold preserue them. And Tobiah sayde: O Lorde God of oure fathers/ praysed be thou of heauen and earth/of the see/welles/& floudes/and of all the creatures that be therin. Thou madest Adā of the moulde of the earth/& gauest him Eua for an helper. And now Lorde thou knowest y it is not because of voluptuousnes/that I take this syster of myne to wyfe/ but only for the loue of chyldren/ in whō thy name be blessed for euer. And Sara sayde: haue mercy vpon vs (O Lorde) haue mercy vpon vs/& let vs both come whole & sounde to a good age.

And aboute the cock crowe/it happened/ that Raguel called his seruauntes/and they wente with hym/to make a graue. For he sayde: it is chaunced vnto hym peraduēture/ as it dyd vnto the other seuē men/that wente in vnto her. Now when they had made the graue/Raguel came agayne to hys wyfe/ & sayde vnto her: Sende one of thy maydēs/to loke yf he be deed/that I maye burye hym a fore it be lyght daye. So she sent a mayden to se/which whē she came into the chamber/ she founde them whole & sounde/ slepyng together. And so she came agayne/ & brought good tydinges. Then Raguel and Anna hys wyfe praysed the Lorde/and sayde: Praysed be thou O Lorde God of Israel/for it is not happened vnto vs/as we thought. For thou hast dealte mercifully with vs/& put awaye from vs the enemye that persecuted vs/ and hast shewed mercy vnto ponder two beloued. O Lord/cause thē to magnyfye y more perfectly & to offre y the sacrifice of thy prayse/ & of their health: that all people may knowe/ that thou only art God in all the earth.

And immediatly Raguel cōmaunded hys seruauntes/ to fyll the graue/ that they had made/with earth/ afore it was lyght: & bade his wyfe prepare a feast/ & to make readye all thinges that were necessary for meate/to soch as wēte by the waye. He caused two fat kyne also/ and foure wethers to be slayne/ and meates to be prepared for all his neyghboures & frendes. And Raguel charged Tobiah/to remayne with hym two wekes. As for all the good that he had/he gaue Tobiah the one half of it/ & made this wryting/ that the halfe which remayned/ shulde fall vnto Tobiah after their death.

¶ The .ix. Chapter.

Then Tobiah called vnto hym the aungell/whō he thought to haue bene a man/and sayde vnto hym. Brother Azarias/I praye the herken vnto my wordes: Yf I shulde geue my selfe to be thy seruaunt/I shall not deserue thy prouydence. Neuertheless I beseche the that thou wylt take the beastes & the seruautes/& go vnto Gabelus in Rages the cyte of Medes/& delyuer him his handwrytynge/& receaue the money of him/and praye hym to B come to my mariage. For thou knowest thy self/that my father telleth the dayes: and yf I tary one daye to long/he wylbe sory in his mynde. Now seist thou how earnestly Raguel hath requyred me/so that I can not saye him nay.

Then toke Raphael foure of Raguels seruauntes/& two Camels/and wēte vnto Rages the cyte of the Medes: and when he had founde Gabelus/he gaue him hys handwrityng/& receaued all the money. He tolde him also of Tobiah the sonne of Tobi/how all thinges had happened/& caused him to come
C with hym to the mariage. Now whē he came in to the house of Raguel/he foūde Tobiah syttynge at the table: & he leape vp/and they kyssed one another/& Gabel⁹ wepte/& praysed God/& sayde: the blessynge of the God of Israel haue thou/for thou art the sonne of a right verteous & iust man/& of one that fearD eth God/& geueth greate almes. And blessinge haue thy wyfe/& youre elders/that ye maye se youre chyldren & your chylders chyldren/vnto the thyrde & fourth generacyon/& that youre sede may be blessed of the God of Israel/which reigneth world without ende. And when they all had sayd Amen/they wēt to the feast/but with the feare of the Lorde helde they the feast of the maryage.

¶ The.x. Chapter.

A Now whyle yonge Tobiah made longe taryenge/by reason of the maryage/hys father was full of care & heuines/and thought: what shulde be the cause/that my sonne taryeth so longe? Or why shulde he be kepte so longe there? Peraduenture Gabelus is deed/and no man wyll geue hym the money. Thus beganne he to be very sorowfull/he & Anna his wyfe with him/and begāne to wepe both together/because their sonne was not come agayne vnto thē at the daye appoynted. As for his mother/she wepte with discomfortaB ble teares/& sayde: Wo is me/my sonne: Oh what ayled vs to sende ẏ awaye into a straūge coūtre/thou light of oure eyes/thou staffe of oure age/thou comforte of oure life/thou hope of oure generacyon? Seynge all the thinges that we haue are only in ẏ/we shuld not haue sent the awaye from vs.

Then Tobiah comforted her/and sayde: holde thy tonge/& be not dyscomforted/oure sonne is whole and sounde: the man that we sent him withall/is faithfull ynough. Neuertheless she myght in no wyse be comforted: but daylye went out/loked aboute/& wente about all the stretes/wherby she thought he shulde come agayne: that (yf it were possible) she myght se hym commynge afarre of.

But Raguel sayde vnto his sonne in lawe: C O tary here/and I shall sende a messaunger vnto thy father Tobiah/to tell him that thou art in good health. Tobiah sayde vnto hym: I am sure/that my father & my mother counte euery daye/and that their hertes are sory.

So when Raguel prayed Tobiah wyth many wordes/& wold in no wyse heare him/he delyuered Sara vnto him/& ẏ halfe part of all his good: in seruaūtes & handmaydēs/in shepe/in Camels/& in kyne/& moch money/& so sent hym awaye from hym w̄ peace and ioye/and sayde: The holy aungell of the Lorde be wyth you in youre yourney/and D bringe you forth safe & sounde/that ye maye fynde all thinges in good case with youre elders/& that myne eyes may se youre chyldrē afore I dye. So the elders embraced their daughter/kyssed her/& let her go/exhortinge her to honoure her father & mother in lawe/to loue her husbande/to rule well her housholde/to kepe her house in good ordre/and to shew her selfe fauteles.

¶ Younge Tobiah leuynge hys wyfe & housholde in the mydde waye/commeth before wyth the Aungell. The dreame of his mother lokyng after her sonne. He is ioyfully receaued of his father & mother. Sara cometh. vij. dayes after.

¶ The.xj. Chapter.

As they now were goinge homewarde agayne/vpon the. xj. daye A they came to Charra/which lyeth in the halfwaye towarde Niniue. And the Aungell sayde: Brother Tobiah/thou knowest how thou hast left thy father: therfore yf it please the/we two wyll go before/& let the housholde with thy wyfe & the catell come soft & fayrly after vs. And when Tobiah was content that they shulde go before/Raphael sayde vnto hym: Take of the B gall of the fish with the/for it shalbe necessary. So Tobiah toke of the gall/& they went their waye. But Anna the mother of Tobiah sat dayly by the waye syde vpon the toppe of an hyll/frō whence she myght se farre about her. And whyle she was waytynge there for his cōmynge/she loked afarre of/and anone she perceaued her sonne cōmynge/& anne & tolde tolde her husband/saying: Behold/thy sonne commeth. And Raphael sayde vnto Tobiah: As soone as thou cõmest in to the house/immedyatly worshyppe the Lorde thy God/and geue thãkes vnto him: then go to thy father/& kysse hym/& stryke his eyes ouer with the gall of the fysh/that thou hast brought with the. For be sure/that his eyes shall strayght waye be opened/& thy father shall se ỹ light of heauen/& shall reioyse at the sight of the. Then the dogge that had bene wyth them in their iourney/ ranne before/ and came as a messenger/and wagged wyth hys tayle for gladnesse.

¶ So the blynde father arose/ and beganne to rẽne/and stombled with his feate/& gaue a seruaũt his hande/rãne to mete his sonne/ receaued hym/and kyssed hym/he and hys wyfe/and beganne to wepe for ioye.

Now when they had worshipped & thancked God/they sat downe. Then toke Tobiah of the fysches gall/ and anoynted hys fathers eyes: and taryed half an houre/and then beganne the blemish to go out of his eyes/like as it had bene the whyte shynne of an egge: which Tobiah toke/and drew frõ his eyes/ and immediatly he receaued his sight.

¶ Then they praysed God/ he and his wyfe/ and all they ỹ knew hym. And Tobiah sayd: O Lorde God of Israel/ I geue the prayse and thanckes/for thou hast chastened me/& made me whole. And lo/now do I se my sonne Tobiah. After seuen dayes came Sara his sonnes wyfe also whole and sounde with all the housholde and catel/with camels and moch moneye of hys wyues/ & with the money that he had receaued of Gabelus: and he tolde his father and his mother all the benefytes/ whych God had done for hym/ by the man that led hym. Achior also and Nabath Tobiah syster sonnes came/and were glad/ & reioysed with him/by reason of all ỹ good that God had shewed vnto him. And so for ỹ space of seuen dayes they made mery/ and were right ioyfull euerychone.

¶ Younge Tobiah reckeneth vp vnto hys father the pleasures that the Aungell dyd hym. He offreth vnto the Aungell halfe the goodes that he brought wt hym.

¶ The xij. Chapter.

A ¶ Then Tobiah called his sonne vnto hym/& sayde: What may we geue this holy man/ that wente wt the? Tobiah answered his father/and sayde: Father/ what rewarde shall we geue hym? Or what thinge can deserue his benefytes? He hath bene my gyde/ and brought me safe agayne: he receaued the money from Gabelus/ he caused me to get my wyfe/ he drone ỹ euell spyrete frõ her/ he hath bene an occasyon of gladnesse to her father and mother: he deliuered me/that I was not deuoured of the fish/ he hath made the to se ỹ light of heauen/ yee we all haue receaued greate good of him. How shuld we worthyly deserue these thinges vnto hym? But I praye the my father/that thou wylt desyre hym/ yf happly he wyll bouchsafe/ to take with him the halfe of all that we haue brought.

¶ So the father and the sonne called him/ toke hym aside/ & beganne to praye hym/ ỹ B he wolde be contẽt to take in good worth/ the half parte of all that he had brought. Then sayde he secretly vnto them: Prayse the God of heauen/& geue thanckes vnto hym before all men lyuyng/ for he hath shewed his mercy* vnto vs. It is good to hyde the kynges secrete/but to shew & to prayse the workes of God/it is an honorable thynge. Prayer is good with fastynge/ and to geue almes is better/then to hoorde vp treasures of golde. For almes delyuereth from death/ clenseth synne/& causeth to fynde euerlastynge lyfe. But they that do synne & vnryghtuousnes/ are the enemyes of their awne soules.

Then

When old Tobiah opened his mouth & prayed ỳ Lorde/& sayde: Great art thou O Lorde for euermore/ & thy Kyngdome worlde without ende: for thou scourgest & healest/thou ledest vnto hell/& bringest out agayne/and ther is none that may escape thyne hande. happened / that Nabuchodonosor the Kynge of the Assyrians (which raygned in the great cyte of Niniue) fought agaynst Arpharat / & ouercame him in the greate felde called Ragau / beside Euphrates and Tigris & Jada-son in ỹ feld of Erioth the Kyng of ỹ Elikes.

Then was the Kyngdome of Nabuchodonosor exalted / & hys herte was lyft vp: & he sent vnto all them that dwelt in Celicia /
C in Damascus / in Libanus / & vnto the Heathen that dwelt in Carmel and Cedar / and to soch as dwelt in Galile in the greate felde of Esdrelon / to all thē that were in Samaria / and beyonde the water of Jordane vnto Jerusalem and the whole lande of Jesse vnto ỹ mountaynes of Ethiopia. Vnto all these dyd D Nabuchodonosor the Kynge of the Assyriās sende messaungers. But they all wyth one consent wolde not agree vnto hym / and sent the messaungers agayne emptye / and put them awaye wythout honoure. Then Na-buchodonosor the Kynge toke indignacyon at all those landes / and sware by hys trone & by hys Kyngdome / that he wolde be auenged of all those countreys.

¶ Holofernes is sent of Nabuchodonosor / to subdue all the worlde. The preparacyon and pursute of Holofernes.

¶ The .ij. Chapter.

A In the .xiij. yeare of Kynge Nabu-chodonosor / vpon the .xxij. daye of the fyrst moneth / it was deuysed in the courte of Nabuchodonosor the Kynge of the Assyrians / that he wolde defende hym selfe. So he called vnto hym all ỹ elders / al his Captaynes / & men of warre / & shewed them hys secrete councell / & tolde them / that hys purpose was / to bringe the whole earth vnder his dominyon. Now whē they were all contēt wyth this sayinge / Na-buchodonosor the Kynge called Holofernes the chefe Captayne of his warres / and sayde vnto hym: Go thy waye forth agaynst all the Kingdomes of the West / & specially agaynst those that haue despysed my cōmaundemēt. B Thou shalt spare no realme / all stronge cytyes shalt thou bringe in subiecciō vnto me.

Then Holofernes called together all the Captaynes & rulers of all the power in Assyria / and mustred the soudyers vnto the hoste (lyke as the Kyng commaunded hym) namely / an hundreth and twentye thousand fightynge men vpon fote / and twelue thousand archers vpon horsebacke. All his ordynaūce sent he before with an innumerable multitude of camels / so that the hoost was well C prouyded for with oxen / & small catell / & that without nōbre. He caused corne to be prepared out of all Syria for his hoste. Moch gold & siluer also toke he out of ỹ Kynges house.
So he toke his iourneye / he & all his hoost / with charettes / horsmen / & archers: of whō there were so many / that they couered the grounde of the lande / lyke the grashoppers.

And when he was gone past the borders of the Assyrians / he came towarde the greate mountaynes of Ange / which lye vpō the left syde of Celicia: & so he went vp in to all their castels / & wanne euery stronge holde. As for D the welthye citie of Melothus / he brake it downe / & spoyled all the chyldren of Tharsis and the Ismaelytes / which laye towarde the wildernes / and vpon the South syde of the lande of Chelon. He wente ouer Euphrates also / and came in to Mesopotamia / & brake downe all the hye cyties that were there / frō the broke of Mambre tyll a man come to ỹ see: & he toke the borders in from Celicia vnto the coastes of Japhet toward the South.
He caryed awaye all the Madianytes / and spoyled all their goodes: & whosoeuer wythstode hym / he slew them with the swerde. After this he went downe into the felde of Damascus in the tyme of haruest / & brēt vp all the corne & all the trees / & caused the bynes to be cut downe. And ỹ feare of hym fell vpō all them that dwelt in the earth.

¶ Kynges become wyllyngly subiect to Holofernes. The tyrannie and crueltye of hym.

¶ The .iij. Chapter.

A So the Kynges and Prynces of all cytyes & landes sent their Embas-sytoures: namely / they of Syria &
Mesopotamia / Syria Sobal / & Lybia / & Celicia / which came to Holofernes / & sayde: Let thy wrath ceasse towarde vs: It is better for vs to serue ỹ greate Kyng Nabu-

Nabuchodonosor with oure lyues/and to be subiecte vnto the/then that we shulde dye/ & be slayne/& receaue greater hurte. All oure cytyes and possessyons/all mountaynes and hylles/al feldes/greate & smal catell/shepe/ goates/horses/and camels/all oure goodes & houshold/ be in thy power/vnder thy subiecc̄yon be it all together. We oure selues also & oure chyldren wylbe thyne awne/come vnto vs a peaceable Lorde/and vse oure seruyce at thy pleasure.

B Then came Holofernes downe from the mountaynes with horsmen & greate power/ and conquered all stronge fensed cytyes/and all that dwelt in the lande. And out of all cytyes he toke strōg men/ & soch as were mete for the warre/to helpe hym. There came soch a feare also vpō those countrees, that the indwellers of all the cities/the Princes & Rulers/and the people together/wente forth to mete hym as he came/ & receaued him honorably with garlandes & torches/with daunces/tabrettes and pypes.

C Neuertheles though they dyd thys/yet might they not swage his rygorous stomak: but he destroyed their cytyes/& hewed downe their woddes. For Nabuchodonosor ỹ Kyng had cōmaunded hym/that he shulde rote out all the Goddes of the lande: to the intent that he only myght be called and taken for God/ of the nacyons which Holofernes with hys power brought vnder hym. So went he thorow Syria Sobal/and thorow all Appamia/& all Mesopotamia/came to the Idumeans/in the lande of Gabaa and Septopoly/& toke their cytyes/and remayned ther xxx. dayes/wherin he cauled al ỹ whole multitude of his Host to be gathered together.

C Israel requyreth help of God/agaynst Holofernes. They fast and praye.

C The.iiij. Chapter.

A When the chyldren of Israel that dwelt in Iewry hearde thys/they were sore afrayed of hym. There came soch tremblinge also & feare vpon thē/that they sorowed he shulde do vnto the cytie of Jerusalem & the temple of the Lorde/as he had done to other cyties & their temples. So they sent into all Samaria rounde aboute vnto Jericho/toke in & occupyed all the toppes of the moūtaynes/made fast the townes wyth walles/and prepared corne for them agaynst the battayll.

Eliachim also ỹ Prest wrote vnto all thē that dwelt towarde Eldrelon (whych lyeth ouer agaynst the greate felde by Dothaim) & vnto all those by whom men myght haue passage vnto them/that they shulde take in the wayes of the moūtaynes/ wherby there myght be any waye and passage to Jerusalem/& that they shulde holde dylygent watch where any straite waye was betwixt ỹ moūtaynes. And the chyldren of Israel dyd/as Eliachim the Prest of the Lorde had commaunded them. And all the people cryed earnestly/& humbled their soules with fastinge & prayers/they & their wyues. The Prestes put on hearrye clothes/ and layed the yonge babes before the temple of the Lorde/& couered the aulter of the Lorde with an hearrie cloth. And w̄ one accorde they cryed vnto the Lorde God of Israel/that their childrē should not be geuen into a pray/& their wyues into a spoyle/that their cities shulde not be layed waste/and that their Sanctuary shulde not be vnhalowed/and so they to be a shame and rebuke vnto the Heathen.

B Then Eliachim the hye Prest of the Lorde wente rounde aboute all Israel/and spake vnto them/sayinge: Be ye sure/ỹ the Lorde will heare youre peticyons/yf ye contynue stedfast in fastynges & prayers in the syght of the Lorde. Remembre Moses the seruaūt of the Lorde/ which ouerthrew the Amalechites (that trusted in their myght & power/ in their hoost/in their shyldes/in their charrettes & horsmē) not with weapēs/but with holy prayers. Euen so shall all the enemies of Israel be/yf ye contynue in this worke/ that ye haue begonne. So vpon this exortacion they cōtynued in prayer before the Lorde In so moch that they which offred brent sacrifices vnto the Lorde/offred the offringes vnto ỹ Lord/beynge arayed in hearrie clothes and had ashes vpon their heades. And they all besought God from their whole hert/that he wolde vyset his people of Israel.

C Holofernes is discontent with the Jewes. Achior sheweth vnto Holofernes the meruelles of God done vnto the Jewes/for whych thynge the rulers vnder Holofernes were very angry with him.

C The.v. Chapter.

A And worde came to Holofernes the Prynce of the warres of the Assyrians/that the chyldren of Israel prepared them selues to make resystaunce/& how they had stopped ỹ wayes betwixte the mountaynes. Then was he exceadyng wroth/and called all the Princes of Moab/& the Captaynes of Ammon/& sayd vnto thē: Tell me/what people is this/that kepeth in the mountaynes? Or what maner of cytyes are they? What is their power? Or what maner of Host haue they? who is their Captayne? And why do they despise vs (more then al those that dwel in the East) and come not forth to mete vs/ỹ they myght receaue vs with peace? Then Achior the Captayne of all the Ammonites answered/ and sayde: Syr/yf it please the to heare me/I wyll tell the the trueth before the concernyng this people that dwell in the mountaynes/and there shall no lye go out of my mouth.

Thys people is of the generacyon of the B Caldees/they dwelt fyrst in Mesopotamia/ for they wold not folowe the goddes of their fathers that were in the lande of the Chaldees/& so forsoke they the customes of their fore fathers (whych had many goddes) and worshipped one God/ that made heaue & earth: which also cōmaunded them that they shulde go from thence/and dwell at Haran. Now whē there came a dearth in to ỹ whole lande/they wente downe to Egypte/& there they dwelt foure hūdreth yeares/in ỹ which they multyplied so greatly/that their hoost myght not be nombred. And when the kyng of Egypte oppressed them/ & subdued them in buyldynge of hys cytyes wyth makynge of claye and bryck/they cried vnto God their Lorde/ which punyshed the whole lande of Egypte with dyuerse plages.

Now when the kynge of Egypte let them
C go their waye/& the plage ceassed/& then folowed after thē/ to take thē/ & to bryng thē agayne into hys seruyce/ whyle they were flyenge awaye/ the God of heaue opened the see/so ỹ the waters stode fast vpon both the sydes as a wall/& these went thorow the botome of the see drye shod. In the which place when an innumerable people of the Egipcians folowed vpō thē/they were so ouerwhelmed wt the waters/that there remayned not one/to tell them that came after/how it hap-
D pened. So when this people was passed thorow the reed see/ they came in to the wylderines of the mount Synai/ where neuer man myght dwell afore/& where the sonne of mā had neuer rested. There were the bytter waters made swete for them / that they myght drynke/& xl. yeares had they meate frō heauen. Whersoeuer they wēte (without bowe & arowe/without buckler or swerd) their God fought for thē/ & caused thē to haue the victory. Yee no man was able to hurte this people/except it were so/that they departed vnfaythfully frō the worshypping of the Lorde their God. But as oft as they worshypped any other beside their God/he gaue thē ouer to be spoyled/to be slayne/ & to be put to cōfusyō. Neuertheles as oft as they were sory for departynge from the worshippe of their God/ the same God of heauen gaue them power & strēgth to withstāde their enemyes.

Moreouer they slew the kyng of the E nanites/Jebusites/Pherezits/Hethits/Euites & Amorites/& all ỹ mightye in Hesebon/ & toke their landes & cities in possession: & so long as they synned not in the syght of their God/it wente well with them/for their God hateth vnrighthuousnesse. For in tymes past when they went out of the waye/which God had geuen thē/ that they shulde walke in it/ they were destroyed in dyuerse batayles of many nacyons: & many of them were caryed awaye prysoners vnto a straunge countre. But now lately they haue turned thē selues agayne vnto the Lord their God/& are come together agayne out of the countrees where they were scatred abrode: and thus haue they cōquered these mountaynes/ & dwell therin: and as for Jerusalem where their Sanctuary is/ they haue it agayne in possessyon.

And therfore my lorde/ make diligent in-
F quysicyō/ yf this people haue done wyckednesse in the syght of their God/ then let vs go vp agaynst thē/ for doutles their God shall delyuer thē in to thy handes/ & subdue them vnto thy power. But yf this people haue not displeased their God/we shall not be able to withstande them/for their God shall defende thē/ & so shall we be a shame to all the world.

Now when Achior had spoken out these wordes/all the Princes of Holofernes were wroth/ & thought to slaye him/ & sayde one to another: what is he this/which darre say/ ỹ the chyldrē of Israel are able to wythstande Nabuchodonosor the kynge and hys hoost: where as they are an vnwepened people/ without strēgth or vnderstāding of ỹ feates of warre: That Achior therfore may knowe that he hath dysceaued vs / we wyll go vp in to the mountaynes: & when the myghty men of thē are taken/he also shalbe stycke wt the swerde/ ỹ all people may know/that Nabuchodonosor is the God of the earth/and that there is none other without hym.

¶ Achior is commytted into the handes of the Jewes by Holofernes. He is tyed to a tree/but is lowsed of the Jewes. The prayer of the people. Achior is comforted of the Jewes.

¶ The.vj. Chapter.

SO whē they had left of speakīng/ Holofernes toke sore indygnacyō/ A & sayde vnto Achior. For so moch as thou hast prophecyed vnto vs/ sayynge: that the people of Israell shalbe defended of their God/ I wyll shewe the / that there is no God but Nabuchodonosor. Yee when we slaye them all as one man/thou also shalt perysh with them thorow the swerde of the Assyrians / and all Israel shalbe destroyed wyth the / and then shalt thou fele/ that Nabuchodonosor is the Lorde of the whole earth. Then shall the swerde of my knyghthode go thorow thy sydes/ and thou shalt fall downe stycke amōge the wouded of Israel/ & shalt not come to thy selfe agayne/but be vtterly destroyed with thē. But yf thou thinckest thy prophecy to be true/ why

doſt thou then chaũge thy colour? why arte thou afrayed? Thinkeſt thou that my wordꝭ
B are not able to be perfourmed? But ꝙ thou mayeſt know/ ꝙ thou ſhalt fele theſe thingꝭ with them/ beholde/ frõ this houre forth will I ſende the vnto yonder people/ that when the punyſhmẽt of my ſwerd (which they haue worthely deſerued) falleth vpon them/ thou mayeſt be punyſhed with them.

So Holofernes cõmaunded hys ſeruaũtes to take Achior/ & to cary hym vnto Bethulia/ and to delyuer hym into the handes of the chyldren of Iſrael. Then Holofernes ſeruaũtes toke hym/ & wẽt thorow ꝑ playne felde. But whẽ they drew nye vnto the moũtaynes/ the ſlynge caſters came out agaynſt them: Neuertheles they gat them awaye by the ſyde of the mountayne/ & bounde Achior hande & fote to a tree/ & ſo left him bound wt withyes/ & turned agayne vnto their Lorde.

Notwithſtandynge the chyldrẽ of Iſrael wente downe frõ Bethulia/ came vnto him/ lowſed hym/ brought him into Bethulia/ ſet him in the myddeſt of the people/ and aſked him what the matter was/ that the Aſſyrias had left hym bounde.

C Olias the ſonne of Micha of the trybe of Symeon/ & Charmim (which is alſo called Gothoniel) were the principall rulers at the ſame tyme. Now when Achior ſtode in the middeſt of the Senatoures/ & before thẽ all he tolde them/ what anſwere he gaue Holofernes/ to the thinge that he aſked him/ and how Holofernes people wolde haue ſlayne him for ſo ſayinge/ & how Holofernes hym ſelfe was wroth/ & commaunded hym for the ſame cauſe to be delyuered vnto the Iſraelites: that when he ouercame the chyldren of Iſrael he myght commaunde Achior alſo to be put to death wyth dyuerſe tormẽtes/ becauſe he ſayde: the God of heauẽ is their defender. And when Achior had playnely tolde out all theſe thinges/ all ꝙ people fell downe vpon their faces/ praylynge the Lorde/ and poured out their prayers together vnto the Lorde/ with a generall complaynte and wepynge/ & ſayde: O Lorde God of heauen and of earth/ beholde their pryde/ & loke vpõ oure lowlynes/ and cõſyder how it ſtandeth with thy ſaynctes/ & make it to be knowne/ ꝙ thou forſakeſt not thoſe/ which holde them faſt by the/ & how that thou bryngeſt them lowe/ ꝙ preſume of them ſelues/ & make their boaſt in their awne ſtrẽgth. So when the weping
D & prayer of the people (which they had made the whole daye longe) was ended/ they comforted Achior/ ſayinge: The God of oure fathers/ whoſe power & ſtrẽgth thou haſt prayſed/ ſhall ſo rewarde the/ that thou ſhalt rather ſe their deſtruccyon. When the Lorde oure God then ſhall geue his ſeruaũtes this liberte/ God be alſo with the amonge vs: ſo that yt it pleaſe the/ thou wyth thyne mayeſt dwell with vs.

Now when Olias had ended the coũcell/ he toke him into his houſe/ and made a great ſupper/ called the elders to it/ and ſo they refreſſhed them ſelues after the faſtynge. And afterwarde was all the people called together/ which made their prayers all the nyght longe in the congregacyon/ and beſought ꝙ God of Iſrael for helpe.

C Bethulia is beſeged of Holofernes. The people requyreth helpe of God. They of Bethulia wolde geue ouer the cytye for wante of water. The prayer of the people with teares and lamentacyon.

C The.vij. Chapter.

THe next daye/ Holofernes commaũded his hoſt/ to go vp agaynſt Bethulia. There were an .C. and xx. thouſande fyghtynge men on fote/ & two & twentye thouſande horſmen/ beſyde the preparing of thẽ that were wõne: & came to them on euery ſyde out of the coũtrees and cyties which he had takẽ. All theſe prepared thẽ ſelues vnto the battayl agaynſt ꝙ Iſraelites/ & came on by ꝙ hyll ſyde/ vnto the toppe ꝙ loketh ouer agaynſt Bothaim/ from the place which is called Belma/ vnto Chelmon that lyeth towarde Eldrelon.

Now when the chyldren of Iſrael ſawe ſo
B greate a multytude of the Aſſyrias/ they fell downe flat vpõ the grounde/ ſtrawed aſhes vpon their heades/ & prayed with one accord/ that the God of Iſrael wolde ſhew his mercy vpon his people. And ſo they toke their weapens/ & ſat betwixte the mountaynes in the narow place/ & kepte the waye daye & night. But whyle Holofernes was goinge aboute/ he founde the water ſprynge/ which frõ the South ſyde was conueyed into the cyte by a condyte: thys commaunded he to be dyrecte another waye/ & to cut their condyte in ſunder There were welles alſo not farre from the walles/ whych they vſed ſecretly/ more for pleaſure then for neceſſyte.

Then wente the Ammonytes & the Moabytes vnto Holofernes/ & ſayde: The childrẽ C of Iſrael truſt nether in ſpeare nor arowe/ but haue taken vn/ & kepe the mountaynes & hylles. That thou mayeſt ouercome thẽ ther fore without the ſtrykynge of any battayll/ ſett men to kepe the welles/ that they drawe no water out of them: ſo ſhalt thou deſtroye thẽ without ſwerde/ or at the leaſt they ſhall be ſo feble/ that they muſt be fayne to geue ouer the cytye/ which they thynke not able to be wonne/ for ſo moche as it lyeth in the mountaynes. Theſe wordes pleaſed Holofernes well and all his men of warre/ and he

And when this watch had endured twen tye dayes/ ꝑ Cisternes and all that had wa-ter/ fayled them that dwelt in the cite of Be-thulia / so that in ꝑ whole cite they had not dzynke ynough foz one daye / foz the people had water geuen them daylie in a measure. Then came the men and wemen/ yonge per-sonnes and childzē all vnto Olias / and sayd all with one voyce: God be iudge betwyxte vs and the/ foz thou hast dealt euell with vs: thou woldest not speake peaceably wyth the kynge of ꝑ Assyrians/ therfozehath God solde vs in their handes/ and there is noman to helpe vs where as we are bzought downe befoze their eyes in thirst & greate destruc-cyon. Therfoze gather now together all the people that be in the cite / that we maye all yelde oure selues willyngly vnto the people of Holofernes: foz better it is ꝑ we be cap-tyue and pzayse the Lozde with oure lyues/ then to beslayne and perishe / and to be lau-ghed to scozne and shamed of euery man whē we se oure wyues and chyldzen dye befoze oure eyes. We take heauen & earth this daye to recozde / and the God of oure fathers (which punysheth vs acozdynge to the de-seruyng of oure synnes) and geue you war-nyng / that ye geue vp the cyte now in to the power of Holofernes hoost / that oure ende maye be shozte wᵗ the swerde/ which els shal endure longe foz wāte of water & foz thirst.

When they had spoken out these wozdes/ there was a greate wepyng and howlynge in the whole congregacion/ and that of eue-ry man/ and they creyd an whole houre lōge vnto God wyth one voyce/ sayēge: we haue synned wyth oure fathers / we haue done amysse/ we haue dealt wyckedly. Thou that art gracious/ haue mercy vpon vs / punysh oure vnrighteousnes wᵗ thyne awne scourge/ & geue not those ouer that knowledge the/ vnto a people whych knoweth the not / lest they saye amonge the Heythen: where is their God?

And when they were so weery wyth this cryenge and weypynge / that they helde their tunges/ Olyas stode vp with watrye eyes/ and sayde: O take good hertes vnto you/ (deare bzethzen) and be of good cheare / and let vs wayte yet these fyue dayes foz mer-cy of the Lozd: peraduenture he shall cut a-waye his indignaciō/ & geue glozy vnto his name. But yf he helpe vs not whē these fiue dayes are past/ we shal do as ye haue sayde.

¶ Of ꝑ ver tuouse woman Judith/ whych repzoueth the auncientes because they tempted the Lozde. She also moueth them to encozage & herten ꝑ people / and sheweth her cōcell agaynst ꝑ enemyes of ꝑ Jewes.

¶ The. viij. Chapter.

And it happened when these wozdes A came to the eares of Judith a wyd-dowe / whych was the daughter of Merari/ ꝑ sonne of Idox / ꝑ sonne of Joseph/ the sonne of Oziah / the sonne of Elai/ the sonne of Jammoz/ the sonne of Je-deon/ the sonne of Raphoim/ the sonne of A-chitob / the sonne of Melchia / the sonne of Euam/ the sonne of Nathania / the sonne of Salathiel/ the sonne of Simeon/ the sonne of Ruben. And her housbād was called Ma-nasses / which dyed in the dayes of the barlye haruest. Foz whyle he was byndynge the sheues together in ꝑ felde/ ꝑ heate came vpō his head / and he dyed at Bethulia his cyte/ & there was he buried beside his fathers. Now B was Judith his desolate wyddowe thze yearz and syx monethes. And in the hyer partes of her house she made her selfe a pzeuy chābze/ where she dwelt / beynge closed in wyth her maydens. She ware a smock of hearre/ and fasted all the dayes of her lyfe / excepte the Sabbathes/ & newemones & the solempne dayes that the people of Israel kepte. She was a very fayze & beutifull personne. Her housbande also had left her greate ryches/ & plenteous housholde / greate vnmoueable possessions & many catell. This Judith was a woman of a very good repozte wyth euery one / foz she feared the Lozde greatly / and there was no body that spake an euell wozde of her.

When this Judith herde / how Olyas had pzomysed the people / that after the fyfte daye he wolde geue vp the cyte vnto the Assyrians / she sent foz the elders Cham-bzi and Charmyn / and when they came to her / she sayde: what thynge is this / wheryn Olyas hath cōsented/ that yf God helpe not wythyn fyue dayes / he wyl geue ouer the cite to ꝑ Assyrians? What are ye/ ꝑ ye tēpte the Lozde? This deuice optayneth no mercy of God/ but pzouoketh him vnto wzath and displeasure. Wyl ye set ꝑ mercy of ꝑ Lozde a time & appointe him a daye after youre wil?

Neuertheles foz so moch as the Lozde is C pacyent / lett vs rather amende oure selues/ pourynge out teares / and besechyng him of grace. Foz God thzeateneth not as a man/ ne-ther wyll he be pzouoked vnto wzath as the childzen of men. And therfoze let vs hertely fall downe befoze him / and serue him with a meke spzete / and wyth weppynge eyes saye vnto the Lozde / that he deale with vs acoz-dynge to his awne wyll and mercy: that lyke as oure hert is now vexed / & bzought lowe thozow the pzyde of them / it maye so be cō-fozted thozow his grace: in so moch as we fo-lowe not the synnes of oure fathers / which fozsoke their God / & wozshipped other god-des: for the which synne they perished with the swerde/ were spoyled & brought to shame of all theyr enemyes. As for vs/ we knowe none other God but onely him/ for whose cõforte lett vs tary wyth mekenesse. He shall requyre & make inquisiciõ for oure bloude/ from ỹ vexacyons of oure enemyes: he shall bringe downe all the Heythen/ that ryse vp agaynst vs/ and put them to dishonoure/ euen the Lorde oure God.

Therfore deare brethren/ seynge ye are ỹ
D honorable and elders in the people of God/ vnto whom all the people haue respecte/ & vpon whom the lyfe of the people standeth/ lyft vp their hertes with youre exortacyon/ ỹ they may call to remembraũce/ how oure fathers also in tymes past were tempted/ ỹ they myght be proued/ yt they worshypped theyr God aryght. They ought to remẽbre/ how oure father Abraham beynge tempted/ and tryed thorow many trybulacyous/ was founde a louer and frende of God. So was Isaac/ so was Jacob/ so was Moses/ & all they that pleased God/ beynge tryed thorow many troubles/ were foũde stedfast in faith Agayne/ they that receaued not their tentacyons with the feare of God/ but put thẽ selues forth with vnpacyency and murmuring agaynst God/ perysshed of the destroyer/ and were slayne of serpẽtes. And therfore shulde not we vndertake to be auenged/ for ỹ thing that is done vnto vs: but to consydre/ that all these punyshmentes are farre lesse then oure synnes & mysdedes. Beleuynge also/ ỹ thys correccyon commeth vnto vs (as to the seruauntes of God) for amendment/ and not for oure destruccyon.

Then sayde Oseas & the elders vnto Ju-
C dyth: All that thou speakest/ is true/ and no man can reproue thy wordes. Praye thou for vs now therfore vnto God/ for thou art an holy woman/ & fearest God. And Judyth sayde vnto them: Seynge ye knowe/ ỹ my wordes are of God/ then proue my coũcell & deuyce/ yt it be of God: & beseche God/ ỹ he will bringe my councell to good ende.

Thus haue I deuysed: Ye shall stande this nyght before the porte/ and I wyll go forth with Abra my mayde: Praye ye therfore vnto God/ that he wyll graciously remembre his people of Israel wythyn fyue dayes/ as ye haue sayde. As for the thynge that I go in hãde wyth all/ aske ye no questyõs of it/ tyll I open it vnto you myself: do ye nothyng els but praye vnto the Lorde youre God for me. Then Oseas the prynce of the people of Juda sayde vnto her: Go thy waye in peace the Lorde be wyth the/ that we maye be auenged of oure enemyes. And so they wente frõ her agayne.

C The prayer of Judith for the victorye way/ Judith wẽte in to hir oratory/ put on an hearrye smock/ strowed asshes vpon hir head fel downe before the Lord/ & cryed vnto him/ sayẽge O Lord God of my father Symeon/ which gauest him a swerde for a defence agaynst ỹ enemyes/ that shed vyolence & wylfulnes and that rauysshed ỹ virgyn & put her to dishonesty. Thou ỹ gauest theyr wyues in to a praye/ and their daughters in to captyuite/ and all their praye for a spoyle vnto thy seruauntes/ whych bare a zele vnto the/ helpe me wyddow/ O Lord my God/ I beseche the For thou hast done all thynges from the begynnynge/ and loke what thou hast taken in hande and deuysed/ it came euer to passe. For all thy wayes are prepared/ & thy iudgmẽtes are done in thy euerlastyng for knowlege. O loke now vpon the armyes of ỹ Assyrias/ lyke as it was thy pleasure somtyme to loke vpon the hoost of the Egyptyãs/ whẽ they beynge weapened/ persecuted thy seruaũtes/ & put their trust in their charrettes horsmen/ and in the multitude of theyr men of warre. But thou lokedest vpõ their hoost castyng a thyck darcknes before them: and when they came in to the depe/ the waters ouerwhelmed them.

Euen so Lorde lett it go with these/ that B trust in ỹ power and multitude of their mẽ of warre/ in theyr charettes/ arowes & speares/ and knowe not/ that thou onely art oure God/ whych destroyest warres from the begynnynge/ and that thou art the Lorde. O lyft vp thyne arme now lyke as euer from ỹ begynnynge/ and in thy power bringe their power to naught/ cause theyr myght to fall in thy wrath. They make theyr boast/ ỹ they wyll vnhalowe and defyle thy Sanctuary/ and to wayst the tabernacle of thy name and to cast downe ỹ horne of thyne auiter wyth theyr swerde. Bringe to passe (O Lord) that the pryde of the enemye maye be cut downe with hys awne swerde that he maye be takẽ with the snare of his eyes in me and ỹ thou mayest smyte hym wyth ỹ lyppes of my loue. O geue me a stedfast mynde/ that I maye despyse him and his strength/ & that I maye destroye hym.

Thys shall bringe thy name an euerla- C

O thou

O thou God of the heauens/thou maker of ỹ waters/& Lorde of all creatures/ heare me poore womā/callyng vpon the/and puttyng my truſt in thy mercy. Remembre thy couenaunt O Lorde/ and mynister wordes in my mouth / & ſtablyſh this deuyce in my hert/ that thy houſe maye cōtynue ſtil in holynes/and that all the Heithen maye knowe and vnderſtande / ỹ thou art God / and that there is none other but thou.

¶Judith decketh her ſelfe to go to Holofernes. The bleſſyng that the Elders gaue Judith. Holofernes is in loue with Judith.

¶The.x. Chapter.

AND whan ſhe had left of cryēge vnto the Lorde / ſhe roſe vp from the place/where ſhe had lyen flat before the Lorde/an called her mayde/ went downe into her houſe /layed ỹ hearrie cloth from her / put of the garmentes of hir wyddowhode/ waſſhed her body / anoynted hir ſelf w̄ precious things of ſwete ſauoure/ broyded and platedher hearre / ſet an hooue vpon hir heade/ and put on ſoche apparell as belongeth vnto gladneſſe / ſlippers vpon hir fete/armelettes/ſpāges/earynges/ fynger rynges / and deckte herſelf with all hir beſt araye.

The Lorde gaue her alſo a ſpeciall beutye and fayrneſſe(for all this deckinge of hir ſelf was not done for eny volupteouſneſſe and pleaſure of the fleſh/ but of a right diſcrecion and vertue / therfore dyd the Lorde increaſe hir bewtye) ſo ỹ ſhe was exceadinge amyable and welfauoured in all mens eyes. She gaue hir mayde alſo a bottell of wyne/a pot with oyle/pottage / cake bred & cheſe/and wente hir waye.

Now whan ſhe came to the porte of the B cite/ the founde Ozias and the elders of the cite waitinge there. Which whan they ſawe her/they were aſtonnyed/& marueled greatlyat her bewty/neuertheles they aſked no queſtion at her/but let her go/ſayenge: The God of oure fathers geue ỹ his grace / and with his power perfourme all the deuyce of thy hert: that Jeruſalem maye reioyſe ouer the/ and that thy name maye be in the nombre of the holy & righteous. And all they ỹ were there/ſayde w̄ one voyce: ſo be it/ ſo be it. Judith made hir prayer vnto the Lorde/& wente out at the porte/ ſhe & hir mayde.

And as ſhe was goinge downe the mountayne/ it happened that aboute the ſpringe of the daye / the ſpyes of ỹ Aſſirians met w̄ her/and toke her ſayenge: whence commeſt thou? Or whither goeſt thou? She anſwered: I am a daughter of ỹ Hebrues/ and am fled from them/for I knowe/ that they ſhalbe geuē vnto you to beſpoyled: becauſe they thought ſcorne to yelde thē ſelues vnto you/ that they might fynde mercy in youre ſight. Therfore haue I deuyſed by my ſelf after this maner: I wyll go before the prynce Holofernes/ and tell him all their ſecretes / and wyll ſhew him/how he maye come by them/ and wynne them / ſo that not one man of his hooſt ſhall periſh.

And whan theſe men had herde hir wordes / & conſidered hir fayre face / they were C aſtonnyed(for they wondred at hir excellent bewtye) & ſayd vnto her: Thou haſt ſaued thy life by fynding out this deuyce/ ỹ thou woldeſt come downe to oure lord: & be thou ſure/ that whan thou cōmeſt vnto him/he ſhall intreate the well/ & thou ſhalt pleaſe him at ỹ hert. So they brought her in to Holofernes pauylion / and tolde him of her. Now when ſhe came in before him / immediatly he was ouercome & take w̄ hir bewty. Then ſayd his ſeruauntes: who wolde deſpyſe the people of the Jewes / that haue ſo fayre wemē? Shulde we not by reaſon fight againſt thē for theſe? So whē Judith ſawe Holofernes ſytting in a canapy/ ỹ was wrought of purple/ ſylke/ golde / Smaragde and precious ſtones/ ſhe loked faſt vpō him / & fell downe vpō ỹ earth. And Holofernes ſeruaūtes toke her vp agayne/at their lordes cōmaūdement.

¶The.xj. Chapter.

THen ſayd Holofernes vnto her: Be of good chere / & feare not in thyne A hert / for I neuer hurte man / that wolde ſerue Nabuchodonoſor the kynge. As for thy people/ yf they had not deſpyſed me. I ſhulde not haue lift vp a ſpeare & gaynſt thē. But tell me now/ what is ỹ cauſe ỹ thou art departed from thē / and wherfore art thou come vnto vs.

And Judith ſayde vnto hym: Syr/ vnderſtande the wordes of thy handmayden: for yf thou wilt do after ỹ wordes of thy handmayden / the Lorde ſhall bringe thy matter to a proſperous effecte. As truly as Nabuchodonoſor a lorde of the lande lyueth / & as truly as hys power lyueth / whych is in the to the punyſhment of all men that go wrōg/ all men ſhall not onely be ſubdued vnto hym thorow the/but all the beeſtes alſo of ỹ feld. For all people ſpeake of thy prudent actyuyte / and it hath euer bene reported / how thou onely art good and myghtye in all hys kyngdome/and thy diſcrecion is commended in all landes.

The thynge is manifeſt alſo/ that Achior B ſpake/and it is wel knowne / what thou cōmaūdedſt to do vnto him. For this is playne and of a ſuretye / that oure God is ſo wroth with vs (by the reason of oure synnes) that he hath shewed by hys Prophetes vnto the people/how that for their synnes he wylde-liuer them ouer vnto the enemye. And for so moch as the chyldren of Israell knowe that they haue so displeased their God / they are sore afrayed of the.

They suffre greate honger also / and for wante of water, they are deed now in a maner. Moreouer they are appoynted to slaye all their catell / that they maye drynke the bloude of them: and are purposed to spende all the holy ornamentes of their God (which he hath forbydden them to touch) for corne/ wyne and oyle. Seynge now that they do these thynges / it is a playne case / that they must nedes be destroyed. ¶Whych when I thy handmayden perceaued / I fled from them/and the Lorde hath sent me vnto the/ to shew the these thynges. For I thy handmaydē worshipe God euen here now beside the / and thy handemayden shall goo forth/ and I wyll make my prayer vnto God/ & he shall tell me/when he will reward thē their synne: then shall I come & shew the & bringe the thorow the myddest of Jerusalem/so that thou shalt haue all the people of Israel/as ỹ shepe without a shepeherde: there shall not so moch as one dogg barcke agaynst the/ for these thynges are shewed me by the prouydence of God: and for so moch as God is displeased with them/ he hath sent me to tell ỹ the same.

¶ These wordes pleased Holofernes and all his seruauntes/which marueled at the wysdome of her/and sayde one to another: there is not soch a woman vpon earth / in bewtye and discrecyon of wordes. And Holofernes sayde vnto her: God hath done well/that he hath sent the hyther before thy people / that thou mayest geue them in to oure handes. And for so moch as thy promyse is good / yf thy God perfourme it vnto me/he shal be my God also/and thou shalt be excellent & great in the courte of Nabuchodonosor / and thy name shalbe spoken of in all the lande.

¶ Holofernes commaundeth that Judith be well intreated. She desyreth lycence to go out in the nyght season to praye/and obtayneth it. Bagao is sent vnto her/to mone her to come in to Holofernes to a bāckett/and she commeth. Holofernes is droncken.

¶ The.xij.Chapter.

THen commaunded he her to go in/ where his treasure laye/and charged that she shulde haue her dwellynge there/and appoynted what shuld be geuē her from his table. Judith answered him/ & sayde: As for the meate that thou hast commaunded to geue me/ I maye not eate of it as now (lest I displease my God) but will eate of soch as I haue brought with me. Then sayde Holofernes vnto her: If these thinges that thou hast brought with the fayle/what shal we do vnto the? And Judith sayde: As truly as thou lyuest my lorde/ thy hande mayden shall not spende all thys/ tyll God haue brought to passe in my hande/ the thynges that I haue deuysed.

So his seruauntes brought her in to the B tent/where as he had appoynted. And as she was goynge in / she desyred that she myght haue leue to go forth by night & before daye/ to her prayer and to make intercessyon vnto the Lorde. Then commaunded Holofernes hys Chamberlaynes/ that she shulde go out & in at her pleasure/to praye vnto God those thre dayes.

And so in the nyght season she wēte forth into the valley of Bethulia/ and washed her selfe in the well water. Then wente she vp/ and besought the Lorde God of Israel that he wolde prosper her waye / for the deliueraunce of his people. And so she wente in/ and remayned clene in her tent/ tyll she toke her meate in the euenynge.

Upon the fourth daye it happened / that C Holofernes made a costly supper vnto hys seruauntes/ & sayde vnto Bagao hys Chamberlayne: Go thy waye/and councell thys Hebrues /that she may be wyllyng to consent to kepe company with me. For it were a shame vnto all the Assyrians/ that a woman shulde so laugh a man to scorne / ỹ she were come from hym vnmedled with all.

Then wente Bagao vnto Judith/ & sayd: Let not the good daughter be afrayed / to come in to my Lorde / that she maye be honoured before hym/ ỹ she may eate & drincke wyne/ & be mery with hym. Unto whom Judith answered: Who am I/that I shuld saye my Lorde naye? whatsoeuer is good before his eyes/I shall do it: and loke what is hys pleasure / that shall I thyncke well done/ as longe as I lyue.

So she stode vp/and decked herselfe wyth her apparell/and wente in/ and stode before D hym. And Holofernes herte was whole moued/so that he brent in desyre towarde her. And Holofernes sayde vnto her: drynke now and sytt downe / and be mery / for thou hast founde fauoure before me. Then sayde Judith: Syr/ I wyll drynke/for my mynde is meryer to daye / then euer it was in all my lyfe. And she toke and ate and dranke before hym/the thynges that her mayden had prepared for her. And Holofernes was mery wt her / and dranke more wyne / then euer he dyd afore in hys lyfe.

¶ Holo-

Holofernes sleapeth for very dronckenes/and Judith cutteth of his heade/and goeth therwith to her awne people: of whom she is receaued with ioye. They geue thanckes vnto God/ for their delyuraunce. Judith speaketh vnto Achior/ which marueleth at her feate done to Holofernes.

¶ The xiij. Chapter.

A NOw when it was late in ỹ nyght hys seruauntes made haste euery man to hys lodgynge. And Bagao shut the chamber dores/and went his waye/ for they were all ouerladen wyth wyne. So was Judith alone in ỹ chamber. As for Holofernes he laye vpon the bed all dronckē/ & of very dronckennes fell a slepe.

Then commaunded Judith her maydē/ to stande without before the dore/ & to wayte. And Judith stode before the bedd/ makynge her prayer with teares/ & moued her lyppes secretly/ & sayd: Strengthē me O Lord God of Israel/ & haue respecte vnto the worckes of my handes in this houre/ that thou mayst set vp thy cyte of Jerusalē/ lyke as thou hast promysed: O graunte that by the I may perfourme the thynge/ whych I haue deuysed thorow the beleue that I haue in the.

B And when she had spoken this/ she wente to the bedsteade/ and lowsed the swerde that hanged vpon it/ & drew it out. Then toke she holde of the hearrye lockes of his heade/ and sayde: Strengthē me O Lorde God in thys houre: & with that/ she gaue hym two strokes vpon the neck/ and smote of his heade. Then toke she the canapy awaye/ and rolled the deed body aslyde. Immediatly she gat her forth/ & delyuered ỹ head of Holofernes vnto her maydē/ & bad her put it in her walet.

And so these two wente forth together after their custome/ as though they wolde praye/ and so passed by the hoost/ and came thorow the valley vnto the porte of the cyte. And Judith cryed afarre of vnto the watchmen vpō the walles: Open the gates (sayde she) for God is with vs/ whych hath shewed his power in Israel. And when they hearde her voyce/ they called the elders of the cytye together. And they came all to mete her/ litle and greate/ younge & olde/ for they thought not that she shulde haue come so soone. So they lyghted candels/ and gathered aboute her euerichone: but she wente vp into an hye place/ and caused sylence to be proclamed.

C When euery man now helde his tonge/ Judith sayde: O prayse ỹ Lorde oure God/ for he hath not despysed/ nor forsaken them/ that put their trust in hym: & in me hys hādmaydē he hath perfourmed his mercy/ which he promysed vnto the house of Israel: yee in my hande this same nyght hath he slayne the enemy of hys people.

And with that she toke forth the heade of Holofernes out of the wallet/ and shewed it them/ sayinge: Beholde the head of Holofernes the Captayne of the Assyrians/ & this is the canapy/ wherin he laye in his dronkēnes: where the Lorde oure God hath slayne hym by the hande of a woman.

But as truly as the Lord lyueth/ his Angell hath kepte me/ goinge thither/ remaynyng there/ & cōmynge hyther agayne from thence. And the Lord hath not suffred me his handmayden to be defyled/ but without any filthines of sinne hath he brought me agayne vnto you: & that with greate victory/ so that I am escaped/ & ye delyuered. O geue thankes vnto hym euerychone/ for he is gracyous/ and his mercy endureth for euer.

So they praysed the Lorde altogether/ D and gaue thankes vnto him. And to her they sayde: The Lord hath blessed ỹ in his power/ for thorow the he hath brought oure enemyes to naught. And Ozias the chefe ruler of the people of Israel/ sayde vnto her: Blessed art thou of the Lorde the hye God/ aboue all wemen vpon earth.

Blessed be the Lorde/ the maker of heauen and earth/ which hath gyded the a ryght to wounde and to smyte of the head of the Captayne of oure enemyes. For this daye he hath made thy name so honorable/ that thy prayse shall neuer come out of the mouth of men/ which shall all waye remēbre ỹ power of the Lord: seing thou hast not sparedthyne awne selfe/ but put the in ieopardy/ considering the anguysh and trouble of thy people/ and so hast helped their fall before God oure Lorde. And all ỹ people sayde: Amen/ Amē.

Achior also was called/ & he came. Then E sayde Judith vnto hym: The God of Israel vnto whō thou gauest witnes/ that he wold be auēged of his enemyes/ euen he hath this nyght thorow my hande smytten of the head of all the vnfaythfull. And that thou mayest se that it so is/ beholde this is ỹ head of Holofernes/ which in his presumptuous pryde despyled the God of the people of Israel/ & threatened the with destruccyō/ saying: whē the people of Israel is taken/ I shall cause the also to be stycke with the swerde. When Achior saw Holofernes head he fell downe vpon his face to the groūde for very anguish & feare/ so ỹ he swowned with all. But after that he was come agayne to hym self/ he fell downe before her/ and praysed her/ sayinge: Blessed art thou of thy God in all the tabernacles of Jacob: for all the people that heare of thy name/ shall prayse the God of Israel because of the.

¶ The councell of Judith. Achior being an heathen man/ turneth to God. The Assyrians are afrayed of the Jewes.

IUdith sayd vnto all ỹ people: Bꝛe-thꝛē heare me. Stycke vp this hea-de vpon oure walles / and when ỹ Sunne aryseth / take euery man his weapen / and fall out vyolently: not as though ye wolde go beſyde thē / but to renne vpō them / w̄ violence. ¶ When the ſpyes in ỹ tentes ſe this / they ſhall of neceſſite be com-pelled to fle backward / and to rayſe vp theyr captayne to ỹ battayll. So when theyꝛ ca-ptaynes come in to Holofernes pauylion / and fynde ỹ deed body wꝛapped in the bloud / fearfulnes ſhall fall vpon thē: and when ye perceaue that they fle / folowe them without all care / foꝛ God ſhall delyuer them vnto you / to be deſtroyed.

Then Achyoꝛ ſeynge the power of God which he had ſhewed vnto the people of Iſ-rael / fell of from his Heatheniſh beleke / and put hys truſt in God / and let hym ſelf be cir-cumciſed: and ſo was he nombꝛed among ỹ people of Iſrael / he and all his poſterite vn-to thys daye.

B Nowas ſoone as it was daye / they ſtickt vp Holofernes head vpon the walles / and euery man toke his weapē / and ſo they wēte out wyth an hoꝛꝛible crye. ¶ When the ſpyes ſawe that / they ranne vnto Holofernes tent. And they that were within the tente / came beſoꝛe hys chamber / and made a greate ruſ-ſhing to wake him vp, becauſe they thought wyth the noyſe to haue rayſed him. Foꝛ there durſt not one of the Aſſyrians knocke / go in oꝛ open.

But when the captaynes and pꝛynces and all the chefe in the kynge of the Aſſyriās hooſt came together / they ſayde vnto the chāberlaynes: Go youre waye in / and wa-ke him vp / foꝛ ỹ myſe are crepte out of their holes / and darre pꝛouoke vs vnto battayll.

¶ Then wente Bagao in to hys chamber / ſtode beſoꝛe the bed / and clapped wyth hys handes / foꝛ he thought he had bene ſleppynge wyth Judith.

But when he had herkened perfectly w̄ hys eares / and coude perceaue no ſterynge / he wente nyer to the bed / and lift it vp / and then ſawe he the deed body of Holofernes ly-enge there with oute a head / weltred in hys bloude vpon the earth. Then cried he with loude voyce / and with wepyng rent his clo-thes / and wente in to Judiths tent / and foūd her not: And ſo he leapte out vnto the people and ſayde: one woman of the Jewes / hath bꝛought all Nabuchodonoſoꝛs people to ſha-me. Foꝛ lo / Holofernes lyeth vpon the groūd and hath no head.

When ỹ cheke of the Aſſyꝛians hooſt herd that / they rente theyꝛ clothes / and there fell an intollerable feare and tremblynge vpon them / ſo ỹ theyꝛ myndes were ſoꝛe a frayed. And there was an exceadyng greate crye in the whole hooſt.

¶ The flyght of the Aſſyꝛians. The purſute of Iſrael after them. Iſrael becometh ryche / by the ſpoyles of the Aſſyꝛians. Judith is pꝛayſed of Joacim and of the people.

¶ The.xv. Chapter.

NOw when all the hooſt herde that Holofernes was headed / theyr mynde and counceil fell from thē: and ſoch a feare came vpon thē / ỹ they vndertoke to defende thē ſelues by flyēg awaye: one ſpake not to another / but han-ged downe their heades / left all behynd thē / & made haſte to eſcape from ỹ Hebꝛues: foꝛ they herde / that they were haſtyng to come after with their weapens / and ſo they fled by the wayes of the feldes / and thoꝛow all the kote pathes of the dales.

And when ỹ childꝛen of Iſraell ſawe that they fled / they folowed vpō them / and wente downe w̄ trōpettes / blowyg and ma kynga greate crye after thē. As foꝛ the Aſſyrians / they had no oꝛdꝛe / and kept not them ſelues together / but fled their waye. Neuertheleſſe ỹ childꝛen of Iſrael fell vpon them with one cōpany and oꝛdꝛe / and diſcōfeted as many as they might gett. And Ozias ſent meſſaun-gers vnto all the cities and countrees of Iſraell.

So all the regiōs and euery citie ſent out B their beſt men after thē in harneſſe / & ſmote them with the ſwerde / tyll they came to the vttemoſt parte of their boꝛders. And ỹ other ỹ were in Bethulia came in to the tentes of the Aſſyꝛians / and toke all that they whych were fled had left behynd them / and ſo they founde great good. And they ỹ came agayne to Bethulia from the battayll / toke with them ſoch thinges as had bene theirs: there was no nombꝛe of the catell / and of all coſt-ly Jewels / ſo that from the loweſt vnto the hyeſt / they were all made riche of the ſpoy-les of them. And Joachim the Hye pꝛeſt at Jeruſalem / came to Bethulia with all the elders / that they might ſe Judith.

Now when

¶ Now when she came out vnto them/ they beganne all to prayse her wyth one voyce/ sayinge: thou worshippe of the cyte of Jerusalem/ thou ioye of Jsrael/ thou honoure of oure people/ thou hast done manly/ and thy herte is comforted/ because thou hast loued clenlynes & chastyte/ & hast knowen no man but thyne awne husbande: therfore hath the hande of the Lord comforted the/ and blessed shalt thou be for euer. And all people sayde: so be it/ so be it.

In thyrtye dayes coulde the people of Jsrael scarse gather vp the spoyles of the Assyrians. But all that belonged vnto Holofernes/ & had bene hys specyally (whether it were of gold/ of syluer/ precyous stones/ clothinge and all ornamentes) they gaue it vnto Judith. And all ỳ people reioysed/ both wemen/ maydēs/ and yonge people/ with pipes and harpes.

¶ The songe of Judith for the victorye. After the victorye obtayned/ the people commeth to Jerusalem/ to worshyppe and prayse God.

¶ The .xvj. Chapter.

THen songe Judith this songe vnto the Lorde: Begynne vnto ỳ Lorde vpon the tabrettes/ singe vnto the Lord vpon the cymbales. O singe vnto hym a new songe of thankesgeuyng/ be ioyfull & call vpon his name. Jt is the Lorde that destroyeth warres/ euē the Lorde is his name. Which hath pitched his tentes in the myddest of his people/ that he myght delyuer vs frō the hande of all oure enemyes. Assur came out of the mountaynes in the multitude of his strength. His people stopped ỳ water brokes/ & their horses couered ỳ valleys. He purposed to haue brent vp my lande/ and to slaye my yonge men with the swerde.

He wolde haue caryed awaye my childrē and virgyns in to captyuyte/ but ỳ almyghtye Lorde hurte hym/ and delyuered hym in to the handes of a woman/ whych brought hym to confusyō. For their myghtye was not destroyed of the yonge men. Jt was not the sonnes of Titan that slew hym/ nether haue the greate gyauntes set them selues agaynst him: but Judith the daughter of Merari wher fayre bewtye hath discomfyted him/ and brought him to naught. For she layed awaye her wyddowes garment/ & put on the apparell of gladnesse in the reioysinge of the childrē of Jsrael. She anoynted her face/ and bounde vp her hearre in an hooue/ to begyle him. Her slippers rauished his eyes/ her bewtye captyuated hys mynde/ wyth the swerde smote she of his neck. The Persyās were astonnyed at her stedfastnesse/ and the Medes at her boldnes. Then howled the armyes of the Assyrias/ whē my symple appeared/ dyre of thyrst. The sonnes of the daughters haue pearsed them thorow/ & slayne thē as fugityue chyldren: they perysshed in the battayll/ for the very feare of the Lorde my God. Let vs synge a songe of thankesgeuynge vnto ỳ Lorde/ a new songe of prayse wyll we synge vnto oure God. Lorde/ Lorde/ thou arte a great God/ myghtye in power/ whom noma may ouercome. All thy creatures shulde serue the: for thou spakest but the word/ & they were made: thou sentest thy spyryte/ and they were created/ & no man can withstande thy voyce. The mountaynes shall moue frō the foundacyōs with ỳ waters/ the stony rockes shall melt before the lyke waxe. But they ỳ feare the: shalbe greate vnto the in all thinges. Wo vnto the people that ryse vp agaynst my generacyon/ for the Almyghtye Lorde wyll auenge hym selfe of them/ and in the daye of iudgement wyll he vysyet them. For he shall geue fyre & wormes in to their flesh/ ỳ they may burne and fele it for euermore.

D After this it happened/ that after the victory all the people came to Jerusalē/ to geue prayse & thanckes vnto the Lorde. And whē they were puryfyed/ they offred all their brēt sacrifices and their promysed offrynges. And Judith offred all Holofernes weapens/ and all the Jewels/ that ỳ people had geuē her/ & the canapy that she toke frō his bed/ & hanged them vp vnto the Lord. The people was ioyfull/ as the vse is: and this ioye by reason of the victorye/ wyth Judith/ endured thre monethes.

So after these dayes euery man wente home agayne/ & Judith was in greate reputacyon at Bethulia/ & right honorably takē in all the lāde of Jsrael. Vnto her vertue also was chastite ioyned/ so that after her husbande Manasses dyed/ she neuer knew man all the dayes of her lyfe. Upon ỳe solēpne dayes she wente out with greate worshippe. She dwelt in her housbandes house an hundreth & fiue yeare/ & left her handmaydē free/ & dyed/ & was buryed besyde her husbande in Bethulia. And all the people mourned for her seuen dayes. So long as she lyued/ there was none that troubled Jsrael/ & many yeares also after her death.

The daye wherin this victory was gottē/ was solemply holdē/ & reckened of the Jewes in the nombre of the holy dayes/ & it is yet greatly holden of the Jewes euer sence/ vnto this daye.

¶ The.xj.Chapter after the Latyne.

A MArdocheus the sonne of Jair/the sonne of Semei/ the sonne of Cisei of the tribe of BenJamin/a Jew: which had his dwellyng in Sulis/ a man of greate reputacyon/ & excellent amonge all them that were in the Kynges courte (Neuertheleſſe he was one of the preſoners/whom Nabuchodonoſor the Kyng of Babylon had caried awaye frō Jerusalem vnto Babylon with Jechonias the Kynge of Juda.) In the seconde yeare of the raygne of great Artaxerses in the fyrſt daye of the moneth Nisan/had this Mardocheus soch a dreame: He thought he herde a greate tēpeſt/horrible thonderclappes/erthquakes/& great bproure in the land: & ꝑ he sawe ij. greate dragōs/ready to fyght one agaynſt another. Their crye was great. At the which roaring & crye all Heathē were vp/to fight agaynſt the righteous people. And the same B daye was full of darckines & very vncleare/ full of trouble & anguyſh/yee a greate fearfulnes was there in all the lande. ¶ The righteuous were amased/for they feared ꝑ plage & euell that was deuyſed ouer thē/& were at a poynte with them selues to dye. So they cryed vnto God: & whyle they were cryenge/ the lytle well grew into a great ryuer & in to many waters. And wyth that it was daye/& the sunne roſe vp agayne. And ꝑ lowly were exalted/& deuoured the glorious & proude.

Now when Mardocheus had sene thys dreame/he awoke/& muſed ſtedfaſtly in hys herte/what God wolde do: and so he deſyred to knowe all the matter/and hys mynde was therupon vntyll the nyght.

¶ Mardocheus vttereth the treaſon deuyſed agaynſt the Kyng/and is therfore rewarded of hym.

¶ The.xij.Chapter.

A AT the same tyme dwelt Mardocheus wyth Bagatha & Tares the Kinges Chamberlaynes & porters of the palace. But when he hearde their deuyce/and had dylygently conſydered their ymagynacyōs/he perceaued that they wēte about/to laye their cruell handes vpō the Kyng Artaxerses: and so he certyfyed the Kyng therof. ¶ hen caused the Kynge to examen the two gelded with tormētes. And whē they had graūted it/they were put to death.

This the Kyng caused to be put in ꝑ Cronycles for an euerlaſtynge remembraunce/ and Mardocheus wrote vp the same matter. So the Kynge commaunded that Mar- B docheus ſhulde do ſeruyce in the courte/and for thys faythfulneſſe of hys/he gaue hym a rewarde. But Aman the sonne of Amadathu the Agagite/whych was holden in greate honoure & reputacyon in the Kynges courte vndertoke to hurte Mardocheus & hys people/because of the two chamberlaynes that were put to death.

¶ The.xiij.Chapter.

THe great Kyng Artaxerses which A raygneth from India vnto Ethiopia/ouer an hundreth and seuen & twentye landes/sendeth his frendly ſalutacion vnto all the Prynces and debytes of the countrees/which be ſubiecte vnto his domynyon. When I was made Lorde ouer many people/& had ſubdued the whole earth vnto my domynyon/my mynde was not with crueltye & wronge to exalte my ſelf by the reaſon of my power: but purposed w equyte alwaye and gentylnes/to gouerne thoſe that be vnder my iuriſdyccyon/& wholy to ſet them in a peaceable lyfe/and therby to brynge my Kyngdome vnto tranquyllite/ that men myght ſafely go thorow on euery ſyde/and to renue peace agayne/whych all B men deſyre. Now when I aſked my Counceilers how theſe thynges myght be brought to a good ende/there was one by vs/excellent in wyſdome/whoſe good wyll/trueth/and faythfulnes hath oft bene ſhewed and proued (which was alſo the pryncypall and next vnto the Kynge) Aman by name: whych certyfyed vs/how that in all landes there was crepte in a rebellyous folke/that made ſtatutes and lawes agaynſt all other people/& haue allwaye deſpyſed the proclamed commaundementes of Kynges: and how that for this cauſe it were not to be ſuffred/that ſoch rule ſhulde contynue by you & not to be put downe. Seyng now we perceaue the ſame/ C ꝑ this people alone are contrary vnto euery man/blynge ſtraunge and other maner of lawes/& withſtāde oure ſtatutes & doinges/ and go aboute to ſtablyſh ſhrewd matters/ that oure Kyngdome ſhulde neuer come to good eſtate/and ſtedfaſtnes: Therfore haue we commaunded/that all they that are appoynted in wryting and ſhewed vnto you by Aman (which is ordened & ſett ouer all oure buſynes) and the moſt pryncypall next vnto the Kynge/and in maner as a father) ſhall with their wyues and chyldren be deſtroyed and and roted oute with the swerde of their enemyes and aduersaryes: and that there shalbe no mercy shewed/and no man spared. And this shalbe done the .xiij. daye of the moneth (called Adar) of this yeare/that they which of olde (& now also) haue euer bene rebellious/ maye in one daye wyth vyolence be thrust downe in to the hell/ to the intent that after this maner/ oure empyre maye haue peace and tranquylite.

But Mardocheus thought vpon all the D worckes and noble actes of the Lorde/ and made his prayer vnto him/saying: O Lorde Lorde/thou valeaunt and almyghtie kynge (for all thynges are in thy power/ & yf thou wylt helpe and delyuer Israell/ there is no man that can withstãde ner lett the: for thou hast made heauen and earth/and what wonderous thynge so euer is vnder the heauen: thou art Lorde of all thynges/ & there is no mã/ ẏ can resist the O Lord) Thou knowest all thynges/thou wotest Lorde/ ẏ it was nether of malyce/ner presumpcion/ner for eny delyre of glory/ ẏ I wolde not bowe downe my selfe ner worshyppe yonder proude presumptuous Aman (for I wolde haue bene content/& that wyth good wyll/ yf it myght haue done Israel eny good/ to haue kyst euẽ hys fotesteppes) but that I dyd it/ because I wolde not sett the honoure of a man in the steade of the glorye of God/ and because I wolde worshyppe none but onely the my Lorde. And this haue I done in no pryde ner presumpcyon.

E And therfore O Lorde thou God & king/ haue mercy vpon thy people for they ymagin how they maye bringe vs to naught/ yee their mynde and delyre is to destroye and to ouerthrowe the people/ that hath euer bene thyne enheritaũce of olde. O despyse not thy porciõ/ which thou hast deliuered & brought oute of Egypte for thyne awne selfe. Heare my prayer/ & be mercyfull vnto thy people/ whom thou hast chosen for an heretage vnto thy selfe. Turne oure cõplaynte & sorowe in to ioye/ that we maye lyue O Lorde/ and prayse thy name. O Lorde/ suffre not the mouthes of thẽ ẏ prayse the/ to be destroyed.

All ẏ people of Israel in lyke maner cried as earnestly as they coulde vnto the Lorde/ for their death and destruccyon stode before their eyes.

A Queene Esther also beynge in ẏ battayll of death/ reloyned vnto the Lorde/ layed awaye her glorious apparell/ & put on the garmentes that serued for syghynge & mournyng. In ẏ steade of precyous oyntment/ she scatered asshes & donge vpon her head: and as for her body/ she humbled it/ and brought it very lowe. All the places where she was wonte to haue ioye afore/ those filled she wt ẏ hearre/ ẏ she plucte out her selfe. She prayed also vnto ẏ Lorde God of Israel wt these wordes.

O my Lorde/thou onely art oure kynge/ helpe me desolate woman/ whych haue no helper but the/ for my mysery & destruccyon is harde at my hãde. From my youth vp I haue herde oute of the kynred of my father/ that thou tokest Israel frõ amonge all people (& so haue oure fathers of their fore elders) that they shulde be thy perpetuall inherytaunce/ and loke what thou dydest promyse them/thou hast made it good vnto them.

Now well Lorde/ we haue synned before B
the/ therfore hast thou geuen vs in to the handes of oure enemyes/ because we worshipped their goddes. Lorde thou art ryghtuous. Neuertheles it satisfieth them not/ ẏ we are in bytter and heuy captiuite and oppressed amõge thẽ/ but thou hast layed their handes vpon the handes of their goddes: so that they begynne to take awaye/ the thing that thou with thy mouth hast ordened & oppoynted: to destroye thyne inherytaunce/ to shut and to stoppe the mouthes of them that prayse the/ to quẽch the glory and worshype of thy house and thyne aulter/ and to open ẏ mouthes of ẏ Heathen/ ẏ they maye prayse the power and vertue of the goddes/ and to magnifye the fleshly kynge for euer.

O Lorde/ geue not thy scepter vnto them C that be nothyng/ lest they laugh vs to scorne in oure mysery and fall: but turne their deuyce vpon them selues/ and punish him/ that hath begonne the same ouer vs/ and sett him to an example. Thynche vpon vs O Lorde/ and shew thy selfe in the time of oure distres and of oure trouble. Strength me O thou kynge of Goddes/ thou Lorde of all power/ geue me an eloquent and pleasaunt speach in my mouth before the Lyon. Turne hys hert in to ẏ hate of oure enemye/ to destroye him/ and all soch as consent vnto hym. But delyuer vs with thy hande/ and helpe me desolate woman/ whych haue no defence ner helper but onely the. Lorde thou knowest all thinges/ thou wotest ẏ I loue not the glory and worshyppe of the vnryghtuous/ & that I hate and abhorre the bed of the vncircumcysed and of all Heathen.

Thou knowest and wotest my necessyte/ that I hate the token of my preemynence & D worshyp/ which I beare vpõ my head/ what tyme as I must shew my selfe and be sene/ & that I abhorre it is an vncleane cloth/ and that I weare it not when I am quyete and alone by my selfe. Thou knowest also that I thy hande mayden haue not eaten at Amans table / and that I haue had no pleasure nor delyte in the Kynges feaste/ that I haue not dronke the drinckoffringes / and that I thy hande mayden haue had no ioye sence ỹ daye that I was brought hyther/ vnto this daye/ but onely in the O Lorde. O thou God of Abraham / O thou myghtye God aboue all/ heare the voyce of thē / that haue none other hope/ & delyuer vs out of the hād of the wycked/ & delyuer me out of my feare.

¶ Mardocheus moueth Hester to go in to the Kynge/ and make intercessyon for her people/ and she performeth his request.

¶ The .xv. Chapter.

AND vpon the thyrde daye it happened / that Hester layed awaye the mournynge garmentes/ & put on her glorious apparell / and decked her selfe goodly (after ỹ she had called vpon God/ which is the beholder and Sauioure of all thynges) toke two maydes w̄ her: vpon the one she leaned her selfe / as one that was tender: the other folowed her / and bare the trayne of her vesture. The shyne of her bewtye made her face rose coloured. The symilytude of her face was chearfull and amiable/ but her herte was soroufull for great feare. She wente in thorow all the dores / & stode before the kynge. The Kynge satt vpon the trone of his kyngdome / and was clothed in his goodly araye / all of gold / & set with precious stones / and he was very terryble. He lyft vp his face / that shone in the clearnes / and loked grymly vpon her. Then fell the Quene downe / was pale and faynt / leaned her selfe vpon the heade of the mayde that wente with her.

B Neuertheles God turned ỹ kyngs mynde/ that he was gentle / that he leape oute of hys seate for feare / and gat her in his armes / and held her vp tyll she came to her selfe agayne. He gaue her louynge wordes also / and sayde vnto her: Hester / what is the matter? / I am thy brother / be of good cheare / thou shalt not dye: for oure commaundement toucheth the comons not the. Come nye. And with that he helde vp his golden wande / and layde it vpō her neck / and enbraced her frendly / & sayde: talke with me. Then sayd she: I sawe the (O Lorde) as an Angell of God / & my hert was troubled for feare of thy maiesty & clearnesse For excellent and wonderfull art thou (O Lorde) and thy face is full of amyte. But as she was thus speakynge vnto him / she fell downe agayne for fayntnes: for the whych cause the kyng was afrayed / and all his seruauntes comforted her.

THe greate King Artarerses / which A raygneth frō India vnto Ethiopia ouer an hundreth & .xxvij. landes / sendeth vnto the Princes & rulers of the same landes / soche as loue hym / hys frendly salutacyon. There be many that for the sondrye frendshyppes & benefytes which are dyuersly done vnto them for their worshyppe / be euer the more proude & hye mynded / & vndertake not only to hurte oure subiectes (for plēteous benefytes maye they not suffre / and begynne to ymagyn some thinge agaynst those that do them good / & take not only all vnthankfulnes awaye from men) but in pryde & presumpcyon (as they that be vnmyndefull & vnthankefull for the good dedes) they go about to escape the iudgemēt of God / that seyth all thinges / which (iudgemēt) hateth & punyshyth all wyckednes. It happeneth oft also / that they which be set in offyce by the hyer power / & vnto whom the busynes & causes of the subiectes are cōmitted to be handled / waxe proude / & dekyle thē selues wyth sheddynge of innocent bloude / which bryngeth them to intolerable hurte. Which also with false & dysceatfull wordes and with lyeng tales / disceaue and betraye the innocent goodnes of Princes.

Now is it profytable and good / that we B take hede / make search therafter / and consider / not only what hath happened vnto vs of olde: but the shamefull / vnhoneste / and noysome thynges / that the debites haue now taken in hande before oure eyes: and therby to be warre in tyme to come / ỹ we maye make the Kyngdome quyete and peaceable for all men / and that we myght some tyme drawe it to a chaūge: and as for the thynge that now is present before oure eyes / to withstande it / and to put it downe / after the mooste frendly maner.

What tyme now as Aman the sonne of Amadathu the Macedonyan (a straunger verely of the Persians bloude / & farre from oure goodnes) was come in amōge vs as an aleaunt / and had optayned the frendshyppe that we beare towarde all people / so that he was called oure father / and had in hye honoure of euery man / as the next and principall vnto the Kynge / he coulde not forbeare him selfe from hys pryde / hath vndertaken not onely to robbe vs of the kyngdome / but of oure lyfe.

With manyfolde disceate also hath he de- ¶ syred to destroye Mardocheus oure helper and preseruer / which hath done vs good in all thinges: and innocēt Hester the lyke partaker taker of oure kingdome/with all her people. For his mynde was (when he had taken thē oute of the waye / and robbed vs of them) by this meanes to translate the kyngdome of ỹ Perſians vnto them of Macedonia. But we fynde / that the Jewes (whych were accuſed of the wicked/that they myght be deſtroyed) are no euell doers/but vſe reaſonable & right lawes: and that they be the chyldren of the moſt Hye lyuynge God/by whom the kyngdome of vs and oure progenitours hath bene well ordred hitherto. Wherfore/as for ỹ letters and commaundementes / that were put forth by Aman the ſonne of Amadathu / ye ſhall do well/yf ye holde them of none effect: for he that ſett them vp and inuented them/ hangeth at Suſis before the porte / withall his kynred/and God(which hath all thinges in his power) hath rewarded hym after hys deſeruynge.

And vpon this ye ſhall publiſh and ſet vp
D the copy of thys letter in all places/ that the Jewes maye frely and without hinderaunce holde them ſelues after their awne ſtatutes/ and that they maye be helped / and that vpon ỹ. xiij. daye of ỹ. xij. moneth Adar/they maye be auenged of them / whych in the tyme of their anguyſh and troubie/ wolde haue oppreſſed them. For the God that gouerneth all thynges/hath turned to ioye the daye/ wher in the choſen people ſhulde haue periſhed.

Moreouer/amōge ỹ hye ſolempne dayes that ye haue / ye ſhall holde thys daye alſo w̄ all gladneſſe: that now and in tyme to come/ this daye maye be a remembrauūce to good/ for all ſoch as loue the proſperite of the Perſians: but a remembraunce of deſtruccion to thoſe that be ſedicyons vnto vs.

All cyties and landes that do not this/ſhal horryblȳ peryſh and be deſtroyed wyth the ſwerde and fyre/and ſhall not onely be nomore inhabited of men/ but be abhorred alſo of the wylde beaſtes & foules.

¶ The ende of the reaſt of the boke of Eſther.

¶ How we ought to ſearche and enquyre after God/ and who be thoſe that fynde hym. Of the holy gooſt. We ought to flye from backbityng & murmuring. &c.

¶ The fyrſt Chapter.

Sett youre affeccion vpon wyſdome / ye that be iudges of the earth. Haue a good opinion of the Lorde/ and ſeke hym in the ſyngleneſſe of herte. For he wyll be founde of them that tempte hym not/ and appeareth vnto ſoch as put their truſt in him As for frowarde thoughtes / they ſeparate frō God/but vertue(yf it be alowed) refourmeth the vnwyſe. And wyll wyſdome ſhall not entre in to a frowarde ſoule / ner dwell in the body that is ſubdued vnto ſynne. For the holy gooſt abhorreth fayned nurtoure/ and withdraweth hym ſelfe frō ỹ thoughtes that are without vnderſtandyng: and where wyckednes hath the vpperhande / he flyeth from thence. For the ſpyrete of wyſdome is louynge/gentle and gracious / and wyll haue no pleaſure in him that ſpeaketh euell wyth hys lyppes. For God is a wytneſſe of hys reynes/a true ſearcher out of his herte/ and an hearer of his tonge. For the ſpyrete of the Lorde fylleth the rounde cōpaſſe of ỹ world/ and the ſame that vpholdeth all thynges/ hath knowledge alſo of the voyce.

Therfore he that ſpeaketh vnrightuous
B thynges/can not be hydd/nether maye he eſcape the iudgment of reyproke. And wyll inquiſycion ſhalbe made for the thoughtes of the vngodly/and the reporte of hys wordes ſhall come vnto God/ ſo that his wickednes ſhalbe puniſhed. For ỹ eare of gelouſy heareth all thynges / and the noyſe of the grudginges/ ſhall not be hydd. Therfore bewarre of murmurynge/which is nothynge worth/ & refrayne youre tonge from ſclaunder. For here is no worde ſo darck and ſecrete/ that it ſhall goo for naught: and the mouth that ſpeaketh lyes/ ſlayeth the ſoule.

¶ Seke

Dlese not your awne death in the erroure of your lyfe/destroye not your selues tho-row the worckes of youre awne handes. For God hath not made death / nether hath he pleasure in the destruccyon of the lyuynge.
For he created all thynges/ that they myght haue their beynge: yee all the people of the earth hath he made ꝑ they shuld haue health/that there shulde be no destruccyon in them/and that the kyngdome of hell shulde not be vpō earth (for ryghtuousnesse is euerlasting and immortall / but vnryghtuousnes bryn-geth death.) Neuertheles / the vngodly call her vnto them both with wordes & workes/and whyle they thynche to haue a frende of her/they come to naught: for ꝑ vngodly that are confederate with her and take her parte/are worthy of death.

¶ The ymagynacyons and desyres of the wycked/and their counsell agaynst the faythfull.

¶ The.ij. Chapter.

For the vngodly talke and ymagin thus amonge them selues (but not right:) The time of oure lyfe is but short & tedyous / & when a man is once gone/ he hath no more ioye ner pleasure / nether knowe we eny mā that turneth a-gayne frō death: for we are borne of naught and we shall be herafter as though we had neuer bene. For oure breth is as a smoke in oure nosetreis / and ꝑ wordes as a sparck to moue oure herte. As for oure body / it shalbe very asshes that are quenched/and our soule shall vanysh as the soft ayre. Oure lyfe shall passe awaye as the trace of a cloude / & come to naught as the myst that is dryuen awaye wyth the beames of ꝑ Sonne/ & put downe wt the heate therof. Oure name also shalbe forgotten by lytle and lytle/and no mā shall haue oure worckes in remembraunce.

For oure tyme is a very shadow ꝑ passeth awaye/ & after oure ende there is no retur-nyng/ for it is fast sealed/so ꝑ no mā cōmeth agayne. Come on therfore/ let vs enioye the pleasures ꝑ ther are / & lett vs soone vse the creature lyke as in youth. We will fyll oure selues with good wyne and oyntment/ there shall no floure of the tyme go by vs. We will crowne our selues wyth roses afore they be wythered. There shall be no fayre medowe/but oure lust shall goo thorow it. Lett euery one of you be partaker of oure voluptuousnes. Let vs leaue some tokē of our pleasure in euery place/ for that is oure porcyon/ els get we nothynge. Lett vs oppresse the poore ryghtuous/ let vs not spare the wyddow ner olde man/ let vs not regarde the heades ꝑ are gray for age. Let the lawe of vnryghtuous-nesse be oure auctorite/ for the thyng that is feble is nothynge worth. Therfore let vs de-fraude the ryghtuous / & why: he is not for oure profet/ yee he is cleane cōtrary to oure doings. He chydeth vs for offending agaynst the law / & slaundreth vs as transgressours of all nurtour. He maketh his boost to haue ꝑ knowledge of God/ yee he calleth him selfe Gods sonne. He is the bewrayer of oure thoughtes: It greueth vs also to loke vpon him/ for his lyfe is not lyke other mens / hys wayes are of another fashyon. He counteth vs but vayne personnes / he wdrawyth hym selfe from oure wayes as from fylthynes: he cōmendeth greatly the latter ende of ꝑ iust/& maketh hys boast that God is hys father.
Let vs se then yf his wordes be true / lett vs proue what shal come vpon him: so shall we knowe what ende he shall haue. For yf he be the true sonne of God/ he wyll receaue him & delyuer him from the handes of his enemies Let vs examen him with despytefull rebuke and tormentynge/ that we maye knowe hys dignite and proue his pacience. Lett vs condemne hym wyth the most shamefull death:
for lyke as he hath spoken / so shall he be rewarded.

Soch thynges do the vngodly ymagin/ & go astraye/ for their awne wyckednes hath blynded them. As for the mysteries of God/they vnderstande them not: they nether hope for ꝑ rewarde of ryghtuousnesse/ ner regarde ꝑ worshipe that holy soules shall haue. For God created man to be vndestroyed / yee after the ymage of his awne lyckenesse made he him. Neuertheles thorow envye of ꝑ deuell came death in to the worlde/ and they ꝑ holde of his syde/ do as he doth.

¶ The conseruacyon and assurance of the ryghtwes.
The rewarde of the faythfull.

But the soules of the righteous are in the hande of God / & the payne of death shall not touch them. In ꝑ syght of ꝑ vnwyse they appeare to dye / & their ende is taken for very destruccyon. The waye of the ryghtuous is iudged to be vtter destruccyon / but they are in rest.
And though they suffre payne before men/yet is their hope full of immortalyte. They are punished but in few thynges / neuerthelesse in many thynges shall they be well rewarded. For God proueth them/ and fyndeth them mete for him selfe: yee as the golde in ꝑ fornace doth he trye thē / & receaueth thē as a brent offerynge / and when the tyme commeth they shalbe loked vpon.

The ryghtuous shall shyne as ꝑ sparkes that renne thorow the rede bushe. They shal iudge the nacyons / & haue dominion ouer ꝑ people / & their Lorde shall raygne for euer.
They ꝑ put their trust in hym / shall vnder-

stande the trueth/ & soch as be faithfull/ wil agree vnto him in loue: for his chosen shall haue giftes & peace. But the vngodly shalbe punished according to their awne ymaginacions / for they haue despysed the righteous/ & forsaken the Lorde.

Who so despyseth wysdome & nurtour/ he is vnhappie / and as for the hope of soch/ it is but vayne/ their labours vnfrutefull / and their workes vnprofitable. Their wyues are vndiscrete / and their childzen most vngodly. Their creature is cursed. Blessed is rather ỹ baren & vndefyled/ which hath not knowne the synfull bedd: she shal haue frute in ỹ reward of the holy soules. And blessed is ỹ gelded/ which w̄ his handes hath wrought no vnrighteousnesse / ner ymagined wicked thinges agaynst God. For vnto him shall be geuen ỹ speciall gift of faith / and the most acceptable porcion in ỹ temple of God. For glorious is the frute of goodlaboure / & the rote of wysdome shall neuer fade awaye. As for ỹ childrē of aduoutrers/ they shall come to an ende/ & the sede of an vnrighteous bedd shall be roted out. And though they lyue longe/ yet shal they be nothing regarded/ & their last age shalbe without honoure. Yf they dye hastely/ they haue no hope/ nether shall they bespokē to in ỹ daye of knowledg For horryble is the death and ende of the vnrighteous.

¶ Of the chaste generacyon of the faythfull / and of their felycite. Of the death of the ryghtwes / and of the condemnacyon of the vnfaithfull.

¶ The .iiij. Chapter.

How fayre is a chaste generacion w̄ vertue: The memoriall therof is immortall / for it is knowne w̄ good men. When it is present/ mē take exāple there at: and yf it go a waye/ yet they desyre it. It is all waye crowned & holden in honour / & wynneth ỹ reward of the vndefyled battayll. But ỹ multitude of vngodly childrē is vnprofitable/ and ỹ thyngs ỹ are plāted w̄ whordome/ shal take nodepe rote / ner laye eny fast foundacion. Though they be grene in ỹ braūches for a tyme / yet shal they be shakē w̄ the winde for they stāde not fast / & thorow the vehemēce of ỹ wynde they shalbe roted out. For ỹ vnparfecte braunches shalbe brokē / their frute shalbe vnprofitable & lower to eate / yee mete for nothyng. And why? all ỹ childrē ỹ are borne of the wicked / must beare recorde of ỹ wickednesse agaynst their fathers & mothers / when they be asked. But though the righteous be ouertaken w̄ death / yet shall he be in rest.

Age is an honorable thinge: neuerthelesse it standeth not only in the lēgth of tyme / ner in the multitude of yeares: but a mans wysdome is the graye hearre / and an vndefyled lyfe is the olde age. He pleased God / & was beloued of him: so that whereas he lyued amonge synners / he translated him. Yee sodenly was he takē awaye / to the intent that wickednesse shulde not alter his vnderstandynge / & that ypocrysye shulde not begyle his soule. For ỹ craftye bewitchyng of lyes make good thynges darck / the vnstedfastnesse also & wickednes of voluptuous desyre turne aslyde the vnderstandinge of the symple. Though he was soone deed / yet fulfilled he moch tyme. For his soule pleased God therfore hasted he to take him awaye from amonge the wycked. This the people se / & vnderstande it not: they laye not vp soche thynges in their hertes / how that the louynge fauour & mercy of God is vpon hys saynctes / & that he hath respecte vnto hys chosen.

Thus the righteous that is deed/ condemneth the vngodly which are lyuynge: & the youth that is soone brought to an ende / the longe lyfe of the vnrighteous. For they se ỹ ende of the wyse / but they vnderstande not what God hath deuyled for him / & wherfore the Lorde hath taken him a waye. And whye they se him & despyse him / therfore shall God also laugh them to scorne: So that they them selues shall dye here after (but without honour) yee in shame amōg ỹ deed for euermore. For without eny voyce shall he burst those ỹ be pukt vp / & remoue thē frō ỹ foundacions / so ỹ they shalbe layed waste vnto the hyest. They shall mourne / and their memoryall shall perysshe. So they beyng afrayed shall remēbre their synnes / & their awne wyckednesse shall bewraye thē.

¶ The constantnes of ỹ ryghtwes before their persequuters. The hope of the vnfaythfull is vndurable & vayne. The blessednes and fortunatenes of ỹ saynctes & godly.

¶ The .v. Chapter.

Then shall the righteous stande in greate stedfastnesse agaynst soch as haue dealt extreamely wyth them / & taken a waye their labours. When they se it / they shalbe vexed with horrible feare / and shall wonder at the hastynesse of the sodane health: gronynge for very distresse of mynde / & shal saye within them selues / hauynge inwarde sorowe / and mournyng for very anguysh of mynde):

These are they / whom we somtyme had in derisyō / & iested vpon. We fooles thought their lyfe very madnesse / & their ende to be w̄ out honoure. But lo / how they are counted amonge the childrē of God / & their porcion is amōge is amõge the layntes. Therfoze we haue erred from the waye of trueth / ỹ light of righteoulneſſe hath not ſhyned vnto vs / and the ſunne of vnderſtanding roſe not vp vpon vs.

We haue weeried our ſelues in the waye of wickedneſſe & deſtruction. Tedious wayes haue we gone: but as foz the waye of ỹ Lozd
B we haue not knowne it.

What good hath oure pryde done vnto vs?
Oz / what profyt hath the pompe of ryches brought vs? All thoſe thynges are paſſed awaye like a ſhadow / & as a meſſaunger rẽ-nynge befoze: as a ſhippe ỹ paſſeth ouer the waues of the water / which when it is gone by / the trace therof can not be foũde / nether the path of it in the ſloudes. Oz as a byrde that flyeth thozow ỹ ayze / & no man can ſe eny token where ſhe is flowen / but only heareth the noyſe of her wynges / beatinge the light wynde / partinge the ayze thozow the behemẽce of her goinge / & flyeth on ſhakyng her wynges / where as afterwarde no token of her waye can be founde. Oz lyke as when an arowe is ſhott at a marck / it parteth the ayze / whych immediatly commeth together agayne / ſo that a man can not know where it wente thozow. Euen ſo we in lyke maner as ſoone as we were bozne / beganne imme-diatly to dzawe to oure ende / & haue ſhewed no tokẽ of vertue / but are conſumed in oure awne wickedneſſe.

C Soch wozdes ſhall they that haue ſynned ſpeake in the hell: foz the hope of the vngodly is lyke a dzye thyſtell floure (oz duſt) that is blowen awaye wt the wynde: lyke as thynne ſcomme ỹ is ſcatred abzode with ỹ ſtozme:
lyke as the ſmoke which is diſperſed here & & there with the wynde / & as the remembzaũce of a ſtraunger that tarieth foz a daye / & then departeth. But the ryghtuous ſhall lyue foz euermoze: their reward alſo is wt the Lozde:
& their remembzaũce wt the Hyeſt. Therfoze ſhall they receaue a glozius Kyngdome and a bewtyfull crowne of the Lozdes hande: foz with his right hande ſhall he couer thẽ / and with his awne arme ſhal he defende thẽ. His gelouſy alſo ſhall take awaye the harneſſe / & he ſhal weapẽ the creature to be auẽged of the enemyes. He ſhall put on ryghtuouſnes foz a brеſt plate / and take ſure iudgement in ſteade of an helmet. The inuyncyble ſhylde of equite ſhall he take / his cruell wzath ſhal he ſharpẽ foz a ſpeare / & the whole compaſe of the wozlde ſhall fyght wyth hym agaynſt the vnwyſe.

D Then ſhall the thonder boltes go out of ỹ lightenynges / & come out of the rayne bowe of the cloudes to the place apoynted: out of the harde ſtony indygnacyon there ſhall fall thick hayles / & ỹ water of ỹ ſee ſhalbe wzoth agaynſt thẽ / & the floudes ſhall renne roughly together. Yee a myghty wynd ſhall ſtande vp agaynſt them / & a ſtozme ſhall ſcater the abzode. Thus the vnryghteous dealynge of them ſhall bzynge all the lande to a wyldernes / and wyckednes ſhall ouerthzowe the dwellynges of the myghtye.

C The callynge of Kynges / Pzynces / and Judges:
which are alſo exhozted to ſearche wyſdome.

C The .vj. Chapter.

Wyſdome is better then ſtrẽgth / & a mã of vnderſtãding is moze wozth then one that is ſtrõg. Heare ther-foze (O ye Kynges) & vnderſtãde: O lerne ye that be iudges of the endes of the earth. Geue eare ye that rule ỹ multitudes / & delyte in moch people. Foz ỹ power is geuen you of the Lozde / & the ſtrẽgth from the Hyeſt: which ſhall tꝛye youre wozckes and ſearch out your ymagynacyõs: How that ye beinge offycers of hys Kyngdome / haue not executed true iudgemẽt / haue not kepte the lawe of ryghtuouſnes / noz walked after hys wyll. Hozribly and that right ſoone ſhall he appeare vnto you: foz an harde iudgement ſhall they haue that beare rule. Mercye is graunted vnto the ſymple / but they that be in auctozyte ſhalbe ſoze punyſhed. Foz God whych is Lozde ouer all / ſhall excepte no mãs perſonne / nether ſhall he ſtande in awe of any mans greatneſſe: foz he hath made the ſmall & greate / & careth foz all a lyke. But ỹ mighty ſhall haue the ſozer punyſhment.

Unto you therfoze (O ye Kynges) do I ſpeake / that ye maye lerne wyſdome & not go amyſſe: foz they that kepe ryghtuouſnes ſhalbe ryghtuouſly iudged: and they that are lerned in rightuous thynges / ſhall fynde to make anſwere. Wherfoze ſet youre luſt vpõ my wozdes / & loue thẽ / ſo ſhall ye come by nurtour. Wyſdome is a noble thynge / & neuer faydeth awaye: yee ſhe is eaſely ſene of thẽ ỹ loue her / & founde of ſoche as ſeke her.
C She pzeuẽteth thẽ that deſyze her / that ſhe maye fyrſt ſhewe her ſelfe vnto thẽ. Who ſo awaketh vnto her by tymes / ſhall haue no great trauayle / foz he ſhall fynde her ſitting readye at his dozes. To thynche vpon her / is parfecte vnderſtandyng: & who ſo watcheth foz her / ſhalbe ſake / and that ſoone. Foz ſhe goeth aboute / ſekynge ſoch as are mete foz her / ſheweth herſelf cherefully vnto them in their goinges / & meteth thẽ with al diligẽce.
Foz the vnfayned deſyze of refourmacion is her begynnynge: to care foz nurtour is loue / & loue is the kepynge of her lawes. Now the kepyng of the lawes is perfeccyon & an vn-cozrupte lyfe / & an vncozrupte lyfe maketh a man famylier wyth God. And ſo the deſyze of wyſdome ledeth to the Kyngdome euerla-lastynge. If youre delyte be then in royall seates & cepters(O ye kynges of the people) set youre lust vpon wysdome / that ye maye raygne for euer more. O loue ỹ light of wysdome/all ye that be rulers of the people. As for wysdome what she is/ & how she came vp I wyll tell you/and wyll not hyde the mysteries of God from you: but wyll seke her out frō the begynnynge of the natyuite/ & bringe the knowledge of her in to lyght/ & wyll not kepe back the trueth: Nether wyll I haue to do wyth consumynge enuye / for soch a man shall not be partaker of wysdome. But the multitude of ỹ wyse is ỹ welfare of ỹ world/ and a wyse kyng is the vpholdyng of the people. O receaue nourtoure then thorowe my wordes/and it shall do you good.

¶ The.vij.Chapter.

I My selfe also am a mortall man/ lyke as all other / and am come of the earthy generacion of hym that was fyrst made / & in my mothers wombe was I fashyoned to be flesh: In the tyme of ten monethes was I brought together in bloude thorow the lede of man/ & the commodyous appetyte of slepe. ¶ Whē I was borne/I receaued lyke ayre as other men / & fell vpon ỹ earth(which is my nature(crying and weppynge at the fyrst / as all other do. I was wrapped in swadlynge clothes / and brought vp wyth greate cares. For there is no kyng ỹ hath had eny other begynnyng of byrth. All men then haue one entraunce vnto lyfe/and one goynge out in lyke maner.

B Wherfore I desyred/ and vnderstandynge was geuen me: I called/ & the spryte of wysdome came in to me/ I sett more by her then by kyngdomes & royall seates/ and counted ryches nothyng in comparison of her. As for precyous stone I compared it not vnto her: for all golde is but grauell vnto her/ & syluer shalbe counted but claye before her syght. I loued her aboue welfare and beutye/ & purposed to take her for my lyght/ for her shyne can not be quenched. All good thynges came to me wt her/ & innumerable ryches thorowe her handes. I was glad in them all / for thys wysdome wente before me/ & I knew not ỹ she is ỹ mother of all good thynges. Now as I my selfe learned vnfaynedly/ so do I make other mē partakers of her/ & hyde her ryches from no man: for she is an infynite treasure vnto men/which who so vse/be come partakers of the loue and frendshipe of God/ and are accepted vnto hym for the gyftes of wysdome.

¶ God hath graunted me to talke wysely/ & conuenyently to handle the thynges that he hath graciously lent me. For it is he/ ỹ ledeth vnto wysdome/ & teacheth to vse wysdome a ryght. In his hand are we and oure wordes: yee all oure wysdome/ oure vnderstandyng & knowledge of all oure workes. For he hath geuen me the true scyence of these thynges: so that I knowe how the worlde was made/ & the powers of ỹ elemētes: the begynning/ endynge and myddest of the tymes: how the tymes alter/ how one goeth after another/ and how they are fulfylled: the course of the yeare: the ordynaunces of the starres: the natures & kyndnes of beastes: the furyousnesse of beastes: the power of ỹ wyndes: the ymaginacyons of men: the deuersyties of yonge plātes: the vertues of rotes/ & all soch thinges as are secrete and not loked for/ haue I learned. For the workmaster of all thinges hath taught me wysdome. In her is the spryte of D vnderstandynge/ which is holy/ manyfolde/ one onely/ sotyll/ curteous/ discrete/ quyck/ vndefyled/ playne/ swete/ louyng the thyng ỹ is good/ sharpe / whych forbyddeth not to do well/ gētle/ kynde/ stedfast/ sure/ fre: hauyng all vertues/ circumspecte in all thynges: receauynge all spryetes of vnderstādyng beyng cleane and sharpe. For wysdome is nemble then all nemble thynges: she goeth thorowe and attayneth to all thynges/ because of her clennes. For she is the breth of the power of God / and a pure cleane expressynge of the clearnes of Allmyghtye God. Therfore can no vndefyled thynge come vnto her: for she is ỹ bryghtnes of ỹ euerlastynge lyght / ỹ vndefyled myrroure of the maiesty of God/ and the ymage of his goodnesse. And for so moch E as she is one/ she maye do all thynges: and beynge stedfast her selfe she renueth all/ and amonge the people conueyeth she her selfe in to the holy soules. She maketh Gods frindes and prophetes: for God loueth no man / but him in whō wysdome dwelleth. For she is more beutyfull then the Sunne/ and geueth more lyght then the starres / and the daye is not to be compared vnto her: for vpon ỹ daye commeth nyght. But wyckednesse can not ouer come wysdome / and foolyshnes maye not be with her.

W Ysdome reacheth from one ende to another mightely/ & louingly doth she order all thinges. I haue loued her and laboured for her euen from my youth vp: I dyd my dyligence to mary my selfe wt her/ soch loue had I vnto her beutye. Who so hath the cōpany of God / cōmendeth her nobilyte/ yee the Lord of all thynges him selfe loueth her. For she is the scolemastresse of the of the nurtour of God / & ye choser out of his wozkes. Yf a man wold desyze riches in this lyfe / what is rycher then wysdome / ye wozketh all thynges? Thou wylt saye: vnderstandynge wozketh. What is it amonge all thinges / that wozketh mozethen wysdome?

If a man loue vertue & ryghtuousnes / let him laboure foz wysdome / foz she hath great pertues. And why? she teacheth sobernes & pzudence / ryghtuousnes & strength / whych are soch thynges as men can haue nothinge
B mozepzofitable in their life. If a man desyze moch knowledge / she can tell the thynges ye are past / & dyscerne thinges foz to come: she knoweth the soteltyes of wozdes / & can expounde darcke sentences. She can tell of tokens & wonderous thynges / oz euer they come to passe / and the endes of al tymes and ages. So I purposed after thys maner: I wyll take her vnto my company / and comen loungly with her: no doute she shal geue me good coũcell / & speake comfoztably vnto me in my carefulnes & grefe. Foz her sake shall I be well and honestly taken amõge the co-mens & Lozdes of the councell. Though I be yonge / yet shall I haue sharpe vnderstã-dynge / so that I shalbe maruelous in ye sight of greate men / & the faces of Pzynces shall wonder at me. When I holde my tonge / they shall byde my leasure: when I speake / they shall loke vpon me: & yf I talke moch / they shall laye their handes vpon their mouth.
Mozeouer / by the meanes of her I shall ob-tayne immoztalyte / & leaue behynde me an euerlastynge memozyall / amonge them that come after me. I shal set the people in ozdze /
& the nacyons shalbe subdued vnto me. Hoz-ryble tyzauntes shalbe afrayed / when they do but heare of me: amonge the multytude I shalbe counted good / & myghtye in batayll.
Whẽ I come home / I shal finde reste wt her:
foz her cõpany hath no bitternes / & her felo-shyp hath no tedyousnesse / but myzth & ioye.
¶ Now when I consydered these thynges by my selfe / and pondered thẽ in my herte / how that to be ioyned vnto wysdome is immoztalite / and greate pleasure to haue her frendshippe: how that in the wozckes of her hãdes are infinite ryches: how that / who so kepeth company with her shalbe wyse: and that he which talketh wt her / shall come to honoure:
I wente aboute sekynge / to get her vnto me.
Foz I was a ladd of a tzype wytt / and had a good vnderstandynge.

But when I grew to moze vnderstãding /
I came to an vndefyled body. Neuertheles when I perceaued that I coulde not kepe my selfe chaste / excepte God gaue it me (and that was appoynte of wysdome also / to knowe whose gyft it was) I stepte vnto the Lozde / and besought him / and with my whole herte
I sayde after this maner:

¶ A prayer of Salomon to obtayne wysdome.

¶ The ix. Chapter.

O God of my fathers / and Lozde of mercyes (thou that hast made all thynges with thy wozde / & ozdeyned man thozow thy wysdome / ye he shulde haue domynyon ouer the creature which thou hast made: that he shulde ozdze ye wozlde accozding to equyte & righteousnes / & execute iudgement wyth a true hert) geue me wysdome / which is euer about thy seate:
& put me not out from amonge thy chyldzẽ:
foz I thy seruaunt & sonne of thy handmay-den / am a feble personne / of a shozte tyme / & to younge to the vnderstandynge of iudge-ment & the lawes. And though a man be neuer so parfecte amonge the childzen of men / yet yf thy wisdome be not with hym, he shal-be nothynge regarded. But thou hast chosen me to be a Kyng vnto thy people / & the iudge of thy sonnes and daughters.

Thou hast commaunded me to buylde a B tẽple vpõ thy holy mount / & an aulter in the citie wherin thou dwellest: a lyckneße of thy holy tabernacle whych thou hast pzepared frõ the begynnyng / & thy wysdome with the / which knoweth thy wozckꝭ: which also was wt ye / when thou maydest ye wozlde / & knewe what was acceptable in thy syght / and ryght in thy commaundementes. O sende her out of thy holy heauens and from the trone of thy maiesty / that she maye be with me / & laboure with me: that I maye knowe / what is acceptable in thy sight. Foz she knoweth & vnderstandeth all thynges: & she shall lede me soberly in my wozkes / and pzeserue me in her power. So shall my wozkes be acceptable / and then shall I gouerne thy people righteously / & be wozthy to syt in my fathers seate. Foz what man is he / that maye knowe the councell of God? Oz / who can thynke what the will of God is? Foz the thoughtes of moztall men are miserable / & oure foz-castes are but vncertayne. And why? a moz- ¶ tall & cozruptible body is heuy vnto ye soule and the earthy mansyõ kepeth downe ye vnderstanding ye museth vpon many thynges.
Very hardly can we discerne ye thynges that are vpon earth / and greate labour haue we / oz we can fynde the thynges whych are be-foze oure eyes: Who wyll then seke oute the grounde of the thynges ye are done in heauẽ?
Oh Lozde / who can haue knowledge of thy vnderstandyng and meanyng / excepte thou geue wysdome and sende thy holy goost frõ aboue? that the wayes of them whych are vpon earth maye be refourmed: ye men maye learne

learne the thinges ꝑ are pleasaunt vnto the/ and be ꝓserued thorow wysdome.

¶ The deliueraūce of the ryghtwes cōmeth through wysdome.

¶ The.x. Chapter.

A Wysdome ꝓserued the fyrst man/ whom God made a father of the worlde/ whē he was created alone/ brought him out of his offence/ toke him out of the moulde of ꝑ earth/ & gaue him power to rule all thynges. When ꝑ vnryghtuous wente awaye in hys wrath from thys wysdome/ the brotherhead perysshed thorow the wrath of murthur. Agayne/ whē the water destroyed the whole worlde/ wysdome ꝓserued ꝑ righteous thorow a poore tre/ wherof she was gouerner her selfe. Moreouer when wyckednes had gotten the vpper hande/ so that the nacyons were puft vp with pryde/ she knewe the ryghtuous/ ꝓserued him fautlesse vnto God/ and layed vp sure mercy for his chyldren. She ꝓserued the ryghtuous/ when he fled frō the vngodly that perysshed/ what tyme as the fyre fell downe vpon the .v. cyties: Lyke as yet thys B daye the vnfrutefull/ waste/ and smokyng land geueth testimony of their wyckednesse: yee the vnrype and vntimely frutes ꝑ growe vpon the trees.

And for a tokē of a remembraunce of the vnfaythfull soule/ there standeth a pyler of salt. For all soch as regarded not wysdome/ gat not only this hurte/ that they knewe not the thynges whych were good/ but also left behynde thē vnto men/ a memoriall of their foolishnes: so that in ꝑ thynges wherin they synned/ they coulde not be hydd. But as for soch as take hede vnto wysdome/ she shal deliuer them from sorowe.

¶ When the ryghtuous fled because of his brothers wrath/ wysdome led him the ryght waye/ shewed hym the kyngdome of God/ gaue him knowledge of holy thynges/ made him ryche in his labours/ & brought to passe the thinges that he wente aboute. In the disceatfulnes of soch as defrauded him/ she stode by him/ and made him ryche. She saued him from the enemyes/ & defended him from the disceauers. She made hym stronge in battayll & gaue him the victory/ that he myght knowe/ how that wysdome is stronger then all thynges. When the ryghtuous was sold/ she forsoke him not/ but deliuered him from synners. She wente downe with him in to the dongeon/ and fayled him not in the bāds: tyll she had brought hym the scepter of the realme/ & power agaynst those that oppressed hym. As for them that had accused hym/ she declared thē to be lyers/ & brought hym to perpetuall worshippe.

She deliuered the righteous people and fautlesse sede/ frō the nacyons that oppressed them. She entred in to the soule of ꝑ seruaūt of God/ & stode by him in wonders & tokens agaynst the horryble kynge. She gaue the righteous the rewarde of their labours/ and led them forth a maruelous waye: on ꝑ daye tyme she was a shadowe vnto thē/ & a lyght of starres in the nyght season. She brought thē thorow the reed see/ & caryed thē thorow ꝑ greate water. She drowned their enemies in the see/ & brought them out of ꝑ depe. So the righteous toke the spoyles of the vngodly/ & praysed thy holy name/ O Lorde/ and magnifyed thy victorious hand with one accorde. For wysdome openeth the mouth of ꝑ dōme/ & maketh ꝑ tōges of babes to speake.

¶ The myracles done for Israell. The vengeaunce of synners. The greate power and mercy of God.

¶ The.xj. Chapter.

She prospered their worckes in ꝑ hād of ꝑ holy prophet: so ꝑ they wente thorow the wyldernes ꝑ was not inhabited/ & pitched their tentes in the waste deserte. They stode agaynst their enemyes/ & were auenged of their aduersaries. Whē they were thirstie/ they called vpō the/ and water was geuen thē out of ꝑ rock & their thirst slaked out of ꝑ harde stone. For by the thynges/ where thorow their enemyes were punysshed/ were they helped in their nede. For vnto the enemies thou gauest mans bloude in steade of lyuyng water. And where as they had scarcenesse in the rebuke when the chyldren were slayne/ thou gauest vnto thyne awne a plenteous water vnlooked for: declarynge by the thyrst that was at that tyme/ how thou woldest bryng thyne awne vnto honoure/ & slaye their aduersaryes.

For when they were tryed & norytured w̄ B fatherly mercy/ they knowledged how ꝑ vngodly were iudged/ and punished thorow the wrath of God. These hast thou exhorted as a father/ & proued thē: but vnto the other thou hast bene a boysterous kynge/ layed hard to their charge/ & cōdemned thē. Whether they were absent or present/ their punishmēt was alyke. For their greefe was double: namely/ mournyng/ & the remembraunce of thynges past. But whē they perceaued ꝑ their punishmētes dyd them good/ they thought vpon the Lorde/ & wondered at the ende. For at the last they helde moch of hym/ of whō in ꝑ out castynge they thought scorne/ as of an abiecte. Neuertheles the righteous dyd not so when they were thirstie: but euē lyke as ꝑ thoughtes of ꝑ foolish were/ so was also their wickednes. Where as certayne mē now (thorow errour) dyd worshipe dōme serpētes & vayne beastes/thou sendedst a multytude of dōme beastes vpō them for a vengeance: that they might know/ that loke where withalla man synneth, by ỹ same also shall he be punyshed. For vnto thy allmyghty hande/ that made ỹ worlde of naught / it was not vnpossible / to sende amoge them an heape of Beeres/ or woode lyons/ or cruell beastes of a straunge kynde, soch as are vnknowne/ or spoute fyre or cast out a smokynge breth/ or shote horrible sparkes out of their eyes: whych myght not only destroye them with hurtynge / but also kyll them with their horrible syght. Yee without these beastes might they haue bene slayne with one winde/ beynge persecuted of their awne workes / and scatered a broade thorow the breth of thy power.

Neuertheles thou hast ordred all thynges in measure/ nombre & weight. For thou hast euer had great strēgth & myght/ & who maye withstāde ỹ power of thyne arme? And why? lyke as the small thing ỹ the balaūce weyeth so is ỹ worlde before ỹ: yee as a droppe of ỹ morninge dew / that falleth downe vpon the earth. Thou hast mercy vpon all / for thou hast power of all thynges: and makest the as though thou sawest not the synnes of men/ because they shulde amende. For thou louest all ỹ thinges that are / & hatest none of them whom thou hast made: nether didest thou ordeyne or make eny thinge/ of euell will.

How myght eny thinges endure/ yf it were not thy will? Or how coulde eny thynge be preserued/ excepte it were called of ỹ? But thou sparest all/ for all are thyne/ O Lorde/ thou louer of soules.

¶ The. xij. Chapter.

O Lorde/ how gracious and swete is thy spirete in all thinges? Therfore chastenest thou thē measurably ỹ gowrōge/ & warnest thē cōcerning ỹ things wherin they offende: thou speakest vnto thē (O Lord) & exortest thē to leaue their wyckednes/ & to put their trust in the. As for those olde inhabiters of thy holy lande/ thou myghtest not awaye w thē / for they cōmytted abhominable workes agaynst the: as wytchcraft / sorcery and Idolatry: they slew their awne chyldre wythout mercy: they ate vp mens bowels/ & deuoured the bloude: yee because of soch abhominacyōs / mysbleues & offerynges, thou slewest the fathers of the desolate soules by ỹ handes of oure fathers: ỹ the lād which thou louest aboue all other/ might be a dwellynge for ỹ children of God.

Neuertheles thou spardest them also (as men) & sendedst the forerūners of thyne hoost euen hornettes to destroye them out by lytle & lytle. Not that thou wast vnable to subdue the vngodly vnto the ryghteous in battayle or wyth cruell beastes / or wyth one rough worde to destroye them together: But thy mynde was to dryue them out by lytle & litle geuynge them tyme & place to amende: knowyng well / that it was an vnrighteous nacyon & wicked of nature & that their thought myght neuer be altered. For it was a cursed seede from the begynninge/ & feared no man: Yet hast thou pardoned their synnes. For who wyll saye vnto the: why hast thou done that? Or who wyll stande agaynst thy iudgment? Or who wyll come before thy face an auenger of vnrighteous men? Or who will blame the/ yf the people perish/ whom thou hast made? For there is none other God but thou/ that carest for all thynges: ỹ thou mayest declare how that thy iudgmēt is not vnright. There darre nether kynge / ner tyraunt in thy sight requyre accōptes of them whom thou haste destroyed.

For so moch then as thou art ryghteous they selfe thou ordrest all thinges righteously & punishest euen him that hath not deserued to be punished/ & takest him for a straunger & an aleaunt in the lande of thy power. For thy power is the beginning of righteousnes: & because thou art Lord of all thinges therfore art thou gracious vnto all. When men thinke ỹ not to be of a full strength / thou declarest thy power: & boldly delyuerest thou them ouer ỹ knowe ỹ not. But thou Lord of power iudgest quyetly/ & ordrest vs w great worshype / for thou mayest do as thou wilt.

By soch workes now hast thou taught thy people / that a man also shulde be iust & louynge: and hast made thy chyldren to be of a good hope: for euen when thou iudgest / thou geuest rowme to amende from synnes. For in so moch as thou hast punished/ and w soch diligence delyuered the enemyes of thy seruauntes/ which were worthy to die (where thorow thou gauest them tyme & place of amendemēt ỹ they myght turne frō their wickednes (w how great diligēce then punishest thou thyne awne chyldren / vnto whose fathers thou hast swore & made couenaūts of good promises? So where as thou doest but chastē vs/ thou punishest our enemys diuerse wayes to ỹ intēt ỹ whē we punishe we shuld remēbre thy goodnesse: & whē we our selues are punyshed/ to put oure trust in thy mercy

Wherfore where as men haue lyued ignoraūtly & vnrighteously thou hast punished thē sore euē thorow ỹ same thinges that they worshypped. For they wente astraye very longe in ỹ waye of errour / & helde ỹ beastes (which euē their enemies despised) for goddes lyuynge as chyldren of no vnderstandynge.

Therfore

Therfore hast thou sent a sorowfull punishment amōge them/as amōge the chyldren of ignorauncē. As for soch as wolde not be re-fourmed by those scornes and rebukes/ they felt the worthy punyshment of God. For the thinges that they suffred/they bare them vn-pacyently/being not contēt in them but vnwyllyng. And whē they perished by the same thynges ꝑ they toke for goddes/they knoweledged then/ ꝑ there was but one true God/whom afore they wolde not knowe: therfore came the ende of their damnacyō vpō them.

¶ All thynges be vayne/ except the knowledge of God. Idolaters and Idoles are mocked.

¶ The.xiij. Chapter.

A Vayne are all men/ which haue not the knowledge of God: as were they ꝑ out of ꝑ good thing ꝙ which are sene/ knew not hym/ ꝑ of him selfe is euerlastynge. Nether toke they so moch regarde of the worckes that are made/as to know/ who was the craftesman of thē:
but some toke the fyre/ some the wynde or ayre/ some the courle of the starres/ some ꝑ water/ some toke Sunne and Moone/ or ꝑ lyghtes of heauen which rule the earth/ for goddes. But though they had soche pleasure in their beuty/ that they thought thē to haue bene goddes: yet shulde they haue knowne/how moch more fayrer he is ꝑ made thē For the maker of beuty hath ordened all these thynges. Or yf they marueled at the power and worckes of them/ they shulde haue perceaued therby/ ꝑ he which made these thing ꝙ is myghtyer then they.

For by the greatnesse & beuty of the crea-B ture/ the maker therof may playnely be knowne. Noth wythstandynge they are the lesse to be blamed/ that sought God/ & wolde haue founde him/ & yet myssed. And why: for so moch as they wente about in his worckes & sought after them/ it is a token/ that they regarded & helde moch of hys worckes that are sene: howbeit they are not wholy to be excused. For yf their vnderstandyng & knowledge was so greate/ ꝑ they coulde dyscerne the worlde & the creatures/ why dyd they not rather fynde out the Lorde therof?

But vnhappye are they/ and amonge the deed is their hope/ that call thē Godd ꝙ which are but the worckes of mens handes: golde/syluer/ & the thinge that is founde out by cōnyng/ ꝑ symplytude of beastes/ or any vayne stone that hath bene made by hande of olde.
Or as when a carpēter cutteth downe a tree out of the wodd/ & pareth of the barck of it cōnyngly: and so with the one parte maketh a vessell to be vsed/ & dighteth meate with ꝑ
C resydue. As for the other parte that is left/which is profytable for nothinge (for it is a croked pece of wodd and full of knobbes) he carueth it dylygētly thorow his vanyte/ and (accordyng to the knowledge of his cōnyng) he geueth it some proporcion/ fassyoneth it after the symylytude of a man/ or maketh it like some beast/ streaketh it ouer with redd/& paynteth it/ and loke what foule spot is in it he casteth some coloure vpon it.

Then maketh he a conuenient tabernacle for it/ setteth it in the wall/ & maketh it fast with yron/ prouydynge so for it/ lest it happen to fall: for it is well knowne/ that it can not helpe it selfe: And why? it is but an yma-ge/ and must of necessyte be helped.

Then goeth he & offreth of his goodes vn-D to it/ for hys chyldren and for his wife: he se-keth helpe at it/ he asketh councell at it: he is not ashamed to speake vnto it that hath no soule: for health/ he maketh his petycyō vnto hym that is sycke: for lyfe/ he prayeth vnto him that is deed: he calleth vpō him for helpe/that is not able to helpe hym selfe: & to sende hym a good iourneye/ he prayeth him ꝑ may not go. And in all the thynges that he taketh in hande (whether it be to optayne any thing or to worcke) he prayeth vnto hym ꝑ can do no maner of good.

¶ The detestacyon and abhompnacyon of ymages. A curse of them/ & of hym that maketh thē. The euelles that come of Idolatrye.

¶ The.xiiij. Chapter.

A Gayne/ another man purposynge
A to sayle/ & begynnynge to take his iourney thorow the ragynge see/calleth for helpe vnto a stock/ that is farre weaker/ then the tree that beareth
hym. For as for it/ coueteousnesse of moneye hath founde it out/ & the craftesman made it with his connynge. But thy prouydence/ O father/ gouerneth all thinges frō the begyn-nynge: for thou hast made a waye in the see/and a sure path in the myddest of the waues:
declarynge therby/ that thou hast power to helpe in all thinges/ ye though a man wente to the see without shyppe. Neuertheless/ ꝑ the worckes of thy wysdome shulde not be vayne/ thou hast cansed an arke to be made:
and therfore do men cōmytte their lyues to a small pece of wodd/ passynge ouer the see in a shyppe/ and are saued.

For in the olde tyme also whē the proude B gyantes perished/ he (in whom the hope was
which was gouerned thorow thy hand/ and so lefte sede behinde hym vnto the world. For happye is the tree wher thorow righteousnes cōmeth: but cursed is the ymage of wod/that is made wyth handes/ yee both it & he ꝑ made it. He/ because he made it: & it/ because it was called God/ where as it is but a frayle thing. For the vngodly & his vngodlynes are both lyke abhominable vnto God. Euen so the worcke and he that made it also shalbe punyshed together. Therfore shall there a plage come vpon the ymages of the Heathen: for out of the creature of God they are become an abhominacyon/a temptacō vnto the soules of men/& a snare for the fete of the vnwyse. And why the sekynge out of ymages is the begynnyng of whordome/and & bringyng vp of thē is & destruccyō of lyfe. For they were not frō the beginnyng/nether shall they cōtynue for euer. The welthy ydelnes of men hath founde them out vpō earth/ therfore shall they come shortly to an ende.

¶ Whē a father mourned for his sonne & was takē awaye frō him/ he made him an ymage (in all & haste) of his deed sonne: & so begāne to worshyppe hym as God/which was but a deed man/& ordened hys seruauntes to offre vnto him. Thus by processe of tyme and thorow longe custome/thys errour was kepte as a lawe/& tyrauntes compelled men by violence to honour ymages. As for those & were so farre of/ that men myght not worshyppe them presently / their pycture was brought frō farre (lyke the ymage of a Kynge whom they wolde honoure) to the intent that with greate dylygence they myght worshype him which was farre of/ as though he had bene present. Agayne/the syngular connynge of the craftesmā gaue the ignorāt also a great occasion to worshype ymages. For & worckman willinge to do hym a pleasure that sett him a worcke/laboured withall his cōnyng to make the ymage of the best fashyon. And so (thorow the beuty of the worke) the comen people was dysceaued/in so moch that they toke hym now for a God/which a lytle afore was but honored as a man. And this was the errour of mās lyfe / when men (ether for to serue their awne affeccīō/ or to do some pleasure vnto Kynges) ascribed vnto stones and stockes the name of God / whych ought to be geuen vnto no man.

¶ Moreouer/thys was not ynough for thē that they erred in the knowledge of God: but where as they lyued in the greate warres of ignorāunce/those many and greate plages called they peace. For ether they slue their awne chyldrē/ & offred them/ or dyd sacrifice in the nyght season/ or els helde vnreasonable watches: so & they kepte nether lyfe ner mariage cleane: but ether one slue another to death maliciously/ or elsgreued his neighboure wyth aduoutrye. And thus were all thinges mixte together: bloude/manslaughter/theft/dissimulacīō/corrupcyō/vnfaythfulnesse/sedycyon/periury/disquyetinge of good men/vnthākfulnes/defiling of soules/ chaungyng of byrth/ vnstedfastnesse of mariage/mysorder of aduoutrye & vnclennesse. And why: the honouringe of abhominable ymages is & cause/the begynnyng & ende of all euell. For they & worshype Idols/ either they are mad when they be mery/or prophecye lyes/ or lyue vngodly/ or els lyghtly forsweare them selues. For in so moch as their trust is in & Idols (which haue nether soule ner vnderstandyng) though they sweare falsely/ yet they thincke it shal not hurte them.

¶ Therfore commeth a greate plage vpon them/& that worthely: for they haue an euell oppynyon of God/geuynge hede vnto Idols/ swearyng vniustly to dysceaue/ & despysing ryghtuousnes. For their swearinge is no vertue/but a plage of them that synne/and goeth euer with the offence of the vngodly.

¶ The voyce of the faythfull prayinge the mercy of God/for whose graces sake they serue not Idols.

¶ The.xv. Chapter.

quālis misera deus

But thou (O oure God) art swete/ long sufferyng and true/& in mercy ordrest thou all thyngs. Though we synne / yet are we thyne/ for we knowe thy strēgth. & we synne not/then are we sure/ that thou regardest vs. For to knowe the/is parfecte rightuousnes: Yee to knowe thy rightuousnes and power / is the rote of immortalyte. As for the thynge that men haue founde out thorow their euell science/it hath not dysceaued vs: as the paynetynge of the pycture (an vnprofytable labour) & carued ymage/ wt dyuerse colours/ whose sight entyseth the ignorāt: so that he honoureth and loueth the pycture of a deed ymage that hath no soule.

Neuertheless / they that loue soch euell thynges/ are worthy of death: they that trust in them/they that make them/they that loue them/and they that honoure them. The potter also taketh & tēpereth soft earth/ laboureth it/and geueth it the fashyon of a vessel/ whatsoeuer serueth for oure vse: & so of one pece of claye he maketh some cleane vessell for seruyce/and some contrary. But where to euery vessell serueth/that knoweth & potter him selfe. So with his vayne laboure he maketh a God of the same claye: thys doth euen he / whyche a lytle afore was made of earth him selfe/and wythin a lytle while after (when he dyeth) turneth to earth agayne.

gaue hym his soule to worcke/ & brethed in hym the breth of lyfe. They counte oure lyfe but a pastyme and oure conuersacyon to be but a market/ & ꝑ men shulde euer be gettynge/ & ꝑ by euell meanes. Now he that of earthy maketh fraile vessels & ymages/ knoweth hym self to offende aboue all other.

D All the enemyes of thy people & that holde thē in subiecc̄yon/ are vnwyse/ vnhappye/ & exceadynge proude vnto their awne soules; for they iudge all the Idols of the Heathen to be goddes/ which nether haue eyesyght to se/ ner noses to smell/ ner eares to heare/ nor fyngers of handes for to grope: & as for their fete/ they are to slowe to goo. For man made them/ and he that hath but a borowed spryte/ fashioned them. But no mā can make a God lyke vnto hym: for seynge he is but mortall hym selfe/ it is but mortall that he maketh with vnryghtuous handes. Ye him selfe is better then they whom he worshyppeth/ for he lyued though he was mortall/ but so dyd neuer they. Yee they worshippe beastes also/ which are most miserable: for cōpare thyngs that can not kele vnto them/ & they are worse then those. Yet is there not one of these beastes/ that with his syght can behold eny good thynge/ nether haue they geuen prayse ner thanckes vnto God.

¶ The punyshment of Idolatrers/ and the benefytes done vnto the faythfull.

¶ The. xvj. Chapte.

A For these and soch other thynges haue they suffred worthy punyshment/ and thorow the multytude of beastes are they roted oute. In steade of the which punishmentes thou hast graciously ordred thyne awne people/ and geuen them their desyre that they longed for: a new & straūge taist/ preparing thē quayles to be their meate: to the intent that (by the thynges which were shewed & sent vnto thē) they that were so gredy of meate/ myght be withdrawen euen from the desyre that was necessary. But these within shorte time were brought vnto pouerte/ and tasted a newe meate. For it was requisyte ꝑ (wythout eny excuse) destruccyon shulde come vpon those which vsed tyrānny/ & to shewe onely vnto ꝑ other/ how their enemyes were destroyed. For when the cruell woodnesse of the beastes came vpon them/ they perysshed thorow the stynges of the cruell serpentes.

B Not withstādyng thy wrath endured not perpetually/ but they were put in feare for a lytle season/ ꝑ they myght be reformed/ hauynge a token of saluacyon/ to remembre ꝑ cōmaundement of thy lawe. For he ꝑ cōuerted/ was not healed by the thynge ꝑ he sawe/ but by the/ Olauiour of all. So in this thou shewedst thyne enemyes/ ꝑ it is thou/ which deliuerest frō all euell. As for then whē they were bytten vᵽ grashoppers and flyes/ they died/ for they were worthy to perysh by soch: But nether the teeth of dragons ner of venymous wormes ouer cam thy childrē/ for thy mercy was euer by them & helped thē. Therfore were they punyshed to remembre thy wordes/ but hastely were they healed agayne: lest they shulde fall in to so depe forgetfullnesse/ that they myght not vse thy helpe.

It was nether herbe ner playster that restored thē to health/ but thy worde (O Lord) which healeth all thynges. It is thou (O Lord) that hast the power of lyfe and death: thou ledest vnto deathes dore/ and bryngest vp agayne. But mā thorow wyckednes slayeth his awne soule/ and when hys spryte goeth forth/ it turneth not agayne/ nether maye he call agayne the soule that is taken awaye: It is not possyble to eskape thy hād. For the vngodly that wolde not know the/ were punysshed by the strength of thyne arme: wyth straunge waters/ hales & raynes were they persecuted/ & thorow fyre were they consumed. For it was a wonderous thinge ꝑ fyre myght do more then water which quencheth all thynges: but the worlde is the auenger of the ryghtuous. Some tyme was the fyre so tame/ that the beastes which were sent to punish the vngodly/ brent not: & ꝑ because they shulde se & know/ ꝑ they were persecuted vᵽ the punishment of God. And some tyme brēt the fyre in the water on euery syde/ that it might destroye ꝑ vnrightuous nacion of the D earth. Agayne/ thou hast fed thyne awne people vᵽ Aungels fode/ & sent thē bred ready frō heauen (without their labour) beynge very pleasaunt and well gusted. And to shewe thy ryches & swetnesse vnto thy childrē/ thou gauest euery one their desyre/ so that euery mā myght take what lyked hym best. But the snowe & yse abode the violence of the fyre/ & melted not: that they myght knowe/ that the fyre burnynge in the hale & rayne/ destroyed the frute of the enemyes: the fyre also forgat his strēgth agayne/ ꝑ the rightuous myght be norished. For the creature that serueth the (which art the maker) is fearle in punishing the vnryghtuous/ but is easy & gentle to do good/ vnto soch as put their trust in ꝑ. Therfore dyd all thynges alter at the same tyme/ and were all obedient vnto thy grace/ which is the norse of all thynges/ accordyng to the desyre of them that had nede therof: that thy childrē/ O Lorde/ whō thou louest/ myght knowe/ that it is not nature & the growyng of frutes ꝑ fedeth mē/ but ꝑ it is thy worde/ which preserueth them that put their trust in the. For loke what myght not be destroyed with the fyre/as soone as it was warmed w a lytle Sunne beame/it melted: that al men might knowe/ ꝑ thankes ought to be geuen vnto the before ꝑ Sunne ryse/and that thou oughtest to be worshypped before the daye sprynge. For the hope of the vnthākfull shall melt awaye as the wynter yse/ and perysshe as water/that is not necessary.

¶ The. xviij. Chapter.

GReate are thy iudgmētes (O Lord) & thy counceis can not be expressed therfore men do erre/ ꝑ wyll not be reformed wyth thy wisdome. For when the vnrighteous thought to haue thy holy people in subiectyon / they were bounde with the bandes of darcknes & longe nyght/ shutt vnder the rofe/ thinkynge to escape the euerlastynge wysdome. And whyle they thought to be hyd in the darcknesse of their synnes/they were scatered abrode in ꝑ very myddest of the darck couerynge of forgetfulnes / put to horrible feare & wonderously vexed for the corner where they myght not kepe them frō feare: because the sounde came downe & vexed them: yee many terrible and straunge visions made them afrayed.

No power of the fyre myght geue them lyght/nether myght the cleare flammes of ꝑ starres lyghten ꝑ horrible night. For there appeared vnto thē a sodane fyre/ very dredeful: At ꝑ which (when they sawe nothinge) they were so afrayed/that they thought ꝑ thynge which they sawe/to be the more fearfull. As for the sorcery & enchauntemēt ꝑ they vsed/ it came to derision / & the proude wysdome was brought to shame. For they ꝑ promised to dryue awaye the fearfulnes & drede from ꝑ weake soules / were sycke for feare themselues/& that wt scorne. And though none of ꝑ wonders feazed thē/yet were they afraied at ꝑ beestes which came vpō thē/ & at ꝑ hyssynge of the serpentes. In so moch that with trembling they swowned/ & sayde they sawe not ꝑ ayre/ which no man yet maye escape.

For it is an heuy thynge/ when a mans awne cōscience beareth recorde of his wyckednes & condēpneth him. And why? a vexed and wounded conscience / taketh euer cruell thinges in hāde Fearfulnes is nothyng els/ but a declarynge that a man seketh helpe & defence / to answere for hym self. And loke how moch lesse ꝑ hope is within / ꝑ more is the vncertētye of the matter / for the whych he is punysshed. But they that came in the mighty nyght: slepte ꝑ slepe ꝑ fell vpon thē frō vnder & from aboue: somtyme were they afrayed thorow the feare of the wonders / & sōtyme they were so weake ꝑ they swowned withall: for an hastye & sodane fearfulnes came vpon them. After warde / yf eny of thē had fallen/he was kepte and shutt in prison but without chaynes. But yf eny dwelt in a vyllage / yf he had bene an herd or husbandmā he suffred intollerable necessite: for they were all boūde wt one chayne of darcknesse.

Whether it were a blasynge wynde/or a swete songe of ꝑ byrdes amonge the thycke braunches of the trees / or the vehemence of hastie rūninge water/or greate noyse of the fallynge downe of stones / or the playenge & rūninge of beastes whom they sawe not / or the mightie noyse of roaringe beastes/or the sownde ꝑ answereth agayne in the hye moūtaynes: it made thē swowne for very feare. For all the earth shined wt cleare light / & no mā was hindered in his labour. Onely vpō them there fell a heuy nyght / an ymage of darcknesse that was to come vpon them. Yee they were vnto them selues the most heuy & horrible darcknesse.

¶ The fyre lyght that they Israelites had in Egypte The persequucyon of the faythfull. The Lord smote all the fyrst borne of Egypt. The synne of the people in the wylderues. Aaron stode betwyxt the lyue & the deed/with his censoure.

NEuertheles thy sanctes had a very greate light (and ꝑ enemyes herde their voyce/but they sawe not the figure of them.) And because they suffred not ꝑ same thinges/ they magnyfyed the: and they that were vexed afore (because they were not hurte now) thanked the/ and besought the (O God) that there myght be a difference. Therfore had they a burnyng pyler of fyre to lede thē in the vnknowne waye & thou gauest them ꝑ Sunne for a fre gyft without eny hurt. Reason it was/that they shulde want lyght and be put in the prison of darcknes/which kepte thy children in captyuite/by whom the vncorrupte light of ꝑ lawe of ꝑ worlde was for to be geuē. When they thought to slaye ꝑ babes of ꝑ righteous (one being layed out /and preserued to be leder vnto the other) thou broughtest out the whole multytude of the children / and destroydest these in the myghtye water. Of that nyght were oure fathers certyfyed afore/ ꝑ they knowyng vnto what othes they had geuē credēce/myght be of good cheare.

Thus thy people receaued the health of the righteous/but ꝑ vngodly were destroied. For like as thou hast hurte oure enemies/so hast thou promoted vs whō thou calledest afore. For ꝑ righteous children of the good mē offred secretly and ordred the lawe of righteousnes vnto vnite: ꝑ the iust shulde receaue good & euell in like maner/ singinge prayses vnto ꝑ father father of all men. Agayne / there was herde an vnconuenient voyce of the enemies / & a pyteous crie for childzen ỹ were bewayled. ¶ The master and the seruaũt were punyshed in lyke maner. For they all together had innumerable that dyed one death.

Nether were ỹ lyuinge sufficient to bury ỹ deed / for in ỹ twinckelynge of an eye / ỹ no vnlest nacion of thẽ was destroyed. As oft as God helped thẽ afore / yet wolde it not make them beleue: but in the destruccion of ỹ first borne they knowleged / that it was the people of God. For whyle all thynges were still / & whẽ the nyght was in the myddest of her course / thy Almyghtie worde (O Lord) leapte downe from heauen out of thy royall trone / as a rough man of warre / in the myddest of the lande that was destroyed: and the sharpe swerde perfourmed their straite commaundement / standyng & fyllyng all things with death: yee it stode vpon the earth & reached vnto the heauen. Then the syght of the euell dreames vexed them sodenly / and fearfulnesse came vpon them vnawarres.

Then laye there one here / another there / half deed half quyck / and shewed the cause of his death. For the visions that vexed them / shewed them these thynges afore: so that they were not ignoraũt / wherfore they perysshed.

The tentacyon of death touched the ryghteous also / and amonge the multitude in the wylderneſſe there was insurrection / but thy wrath endured not longe. For the fautlesse man wente in all the hast / and toke the battayll vpon him / brought forth the weapen of his mynistracyon: euen prayer and the censours of reconcilinge: sett him self agaynst the wrath / and so brought the misery to an ende: declaringe therby / that he was thy seruaunt. For he ouercame not the multitude with bodely power / ner wt weapẽs of might: but with the worde he subdued him that vexed him / puttinge the in remembraunce of the othe & couenaunt made vnto the fathers. For when the deed were fallen downe by heapes one vpon another / he stode in the myddest / pacified the wrath / and parted ỹ waye vnto the lyuyng. And why? in hys longe garment was all the beu ty / & in ỹ foure rowes of the stones was the glory of the fathers grauen / and thy maiesty was wrytten in the crowne of his head. Vnto these the destroyer gaue place / and was afrayed of them: for it was only a tentacion worthy of wrath.

¶ The deeth of the Egyptians / and the great ioye of the Hebrues. The meate that was geuen at the desyre of the people. The elementes serue not onely to the wyll of God / but also to the wyll of man.

AS for the vngodly / ỹ wrath came vpon them without mercy vnto ỹ ende. For he knew before what shulde happen vnto them: how that (when they had consented to lett them go / & had sent them out with greate dilygẽce) they wolde repente / and folowe vpon them. For when they were yet mournyng & makynge lamentacion by the graues of the deed / they deuyled another foolyshnes: so that they persecuted them in their flienge / whom they had cast out afore with prayer. Worthy necessyte also brought them vnto this ende / for they had cleane forgotten the thynges that happened vnto them afore. But the thynge that was wantynge of their punyshment / was requyryte so to be fulfylled vpon them with tormentes: ỹ thy people might haue a marueious passage thorow / & that these myght fynde a straunge death.

Then was euery creature fashyoned agayne of new accordynge to the wyll of their maker / obeyeng thy cõmaundementes that thy chyldren myght be kept without hurte. For the cloude ouershadowed their tẽtes / & the drye earth appeared / where afore was water: so that in the reed see there was a waye without impedyment / and the great depe be came a grene felde: where thorow all the people wente ỹ were defended with thy hande / seinge thy wonderous & maruelous workes. For as the horses / so were they feed / & leapte lyke lambes / prayeng the (O Lord) which haddest deliuered them. And why: they were yet myndefull of the thyngs / that happened whyle they dwelt in the lande: how ỹ grounde brought forth flyes in steade of catell / & how the ryuer scrauled wyth ỹ multitude of frogges in steade of fyshes.

But at the last they sawe a new creacyon of byrdes / what tyme as they were disceaued with lust / and desyred delycate meates. For when they were speakinge of their appetite / the quayles came vp vnto thẽ from the see / and punyshementes came vpon the synners not without the tokens whych came to passe afore by the behemence of the streames: for they suffred worthely acordynge to theyr wickednesses / they dealt so abhominably & churlishly with straungers. Some receaued no vnknowne gestes / some brought ỹ straũgers in to bondage that dyd them good. Be syde all these thynges there were some / that not only receaued no straungers with their wylles / but persecuted those also / and dyd them moch euell / that receaued them gladly. Therfore were they punyshed with blyndnesse / lyke as they that were couered with sodane darknesse at ỹ dores of the righteous so ỹ euery one sought ỹ entraũce of his dore.

Thus the elementes turned in to them
selues/lyke as when one tyme is chaunged vpon an instrument of musyck / and yet all the residue kepe their melody: whych maye easely be perceaued/by the lyght of ỹ thingꝫ that are come to passe. The drye lande was turned into a watery/and the thynge ỹ afore swamme in the water/ wente now vpon the drye grounde. The fyre hath power in ỹ water(contrary to his awne vertue)and the water forgat his awne kinde to quēch. Agayne/the flammes of the noysome beastes hurte not the flesh of them that wente wyth them/nether melted they the yse/which els melteth lightely. In all thynges hast thou promoted thy people(O Lord)and brought thē to honour:thou hast not despysed thē/but allwaye & in all places hast thou stande
by them.

¶ The ende of the boke of wysdom

¶ The boke of * Jesus the sonne of Syrach/which is called in latyne Ecclesiasticus.

* Or/Jesus.

The Prologe of Jesus the sonne of Syrach vnto his boke.

MAny and greate men haue declared wysdome vnto vs out of the lawe/out of the Prophetes and oute of other that folowed them. In the which thynges Israel ought to be commended / by the reason of doctryne & wysdome: Therfore they that haue it and reade it/ shuld not onely thē selues be wyse there thorow/but serue other also wyth teachynge and wrytynge.

After that my graund father Jesus had geuen dyligent labour to reade the lawe/the Prophetes and other bokes that were left vs of oure fathers/ and had well exercysed him selfe therin: he purposed also to wryte some thynge of wysdome & good maners/ to the intent that they which were willynge to learne and to be wyse myght haue the more vnderstandynge/and be the more apte to leade a good conuersacyon.

Wherfore I exorte you to receaue it louyngly/to reade it wyth dyligence/ and to take it in good worth/though oure wordes be not so eloquēt as the famous oratours For ỹ thyng that is wrytten in the Hebrue tonge/ soundeth not so well when it is translated in to another speache. Not only this boke of myne/but also the lawe / the Prophetes & other bokes sounde farre other wyse/then they do/when they are spoken in their awne language.

Now in the .xxxviij. yeare when I came in to Egypte in the tyme of Ptolomy Euerges/ and contynued there all my lyfe/I gat lybertie to reade & wryte many good thinges. Wherfore I thought it good and necessary/to bestowe my dyligence and trauayle to interprete this boke. And consyderynge that I had tyme/I laboured and dydmy best to perfourme this boke/and to brynge it vnto lyght: that the straungers also which are disposed to lerne/myght applye them selues vnto good maners/and lyue accordynge to the lawe of the Lorde.

¶ Wysdome proceadeth and cōmeth of God. A prayse of the feare of God. Rightwesnes is a degre to come by wysdome.

¶ The first Chapter.

ALl wysdome commeth of God the Lord / & hath bene euer with him / and is before all tyme. Who hath nombred the sande of ye see / the droppes of the rayne and the dayes of time? Who hath measured the heygth of heauen / the bredth of the earth & the depenesse of the see? Who hath sought owt the grounde of Goddes wysdome / which hath bene before all thinges? Wysdome hath bene before all thynges / and the vnderstandynge of prudence from euerlastynge. (Gods worde in ye heygth is the well of wysdome / and the euerlastynge cōmaundementes are the entraūce of her.) Vnto whom hath the rote of wysdome bene declared? Or who hath knowne her wyt? Vnto whō hath ye doctryne of wysdome bene discouered & shewed? & who hath vnderstande ye many folde entraunce of her?

B There is one: euen the Hyest / the maker of all thynges / ye Allmyghtye / the kynge of power (of whom mē ought to stande greatly in awe) which sytteth vpon his trone / beinge a God of dominiō: He hath created her thorow ye holy goost: he hath sene her / nombred her / and measured her: He hath poured her out vpon all his workes / and vpon all flesh accordynge to his gyft: he geueth her richely vnto them that loue hym. The feare of the Lord is worshippe and triumphe / gladnesse & a ioyfull crowne. The feare of the Lorde maketh a mery hert / geueth gladnesse / ioye and longe lyfe. Who so feareth the Lorde / it shall go well wyth hym at the last / & in the daye of hys death he shall be blessed.

¶ The loue of God is honorable wysdome: loke vnto whom it appeareth / they loue yt / for they se what wonderous thynges it doth. The feare of ye Lorde ys the begynnynge of wysdome / and was made wyth the faythfull in the mothers wombe: yt shall go wyth the chosen wemen / and shalbe knowne of the ryghteous and faythfull. The feare of the Lorde is the ryght Gods seruyce / that preserueth and iustifieth the hert / and geueth myrth and gladnesse. Who so feareth ye Lord shall be happye: and when he hath nede of comforte / he shall be blessed. To feare God is ye wysdome that maketh rych / and bryngeth all good wt her. She fylleth the whole house wyth her gyftes / and the garners wyth her treasure. The feare of the Lord ys the crowne of wysdome / and geueth plenteous peace and health. He hath sene her and nombred her: knowlege and vnderstandynge of wysdome hath he poured out as rayne: & them ye helde her fast / hath he brought vnto honour

The feare of the Lorde ys the rote of wysdome / and her braunches are longe lyfe. In D the treasures of wysdome ys vnderstandyng and deuocyon of knowledge / but wysdome is abhorred of synners.) The feare of the Lord dryueth out synne / for he that is without feare / can not be made ryghteous / and his wyllfull boldnes is his awne destrucciō. A pacyent man wyll suffre vnto the tyme / & thē shall he haue ye rewarde of ioye. A good vnderstandynge wyll hyde his wordes for a tyme / and many mens lippes shall speake of his wysdome. In the treasures of wysdome is the declaracyon of doctryne / but the synner abhorreth the worshyppe of God. My sonne / yf thou delyre wysdome / kepe the cōmaundement / and God shall geue her vnto the: for the feare of the Lorde is wysdome & nurtoure / he hath pleasure in fayth and louynge mekenesse / and he shall fyll the treasures ther of. Be not obstinate and vnfaithfull to the feare of the Lorde / and come not vnto him with a double hert. Be not an ypocryte in the sight of men / and take good hede what thou speakest. Marcke well these thinges / lest thou happen to fall and bryngе thy soule to dishonoure / and so God discouer thy secretes / and cast the downe in the myddest of ye congregacyon: because thou woldest not receaue ye feare of God / & because thy hert is full of faynednes and disceate.

¶ He exhorteth the seruauntes of God to ryghtwesnes loue / vnderstandyng / and pacience / and exhorteth him that feareth God / to beleue / to hope / and to loue: because God nether confoundeth ner forsaketh them / that trust in hym. A curse vpon the sotteil / fearce / & impacyent of herte.

¶ The .ij. Chapter.

MY sonne / yf thou wilt come into A the seruyce of God / stande fast in ryghtousnes and feare / and arme thy soule to tentacyon: settle thine hert / and be pacyent: bowe downe thyne eare receaue the wordes of vnderstandynge / and chrynche not awaye / when thou art entysed. Holde the fast vpon God / ioyne thy self vnto hym and suffre / that thy lyfe maye encreace at ỹ last. Whatsoeuer happeneth vnto the/receaue it:suffre in heuynesse/& be patient in thy trouble. For lyke as golde & syluer are tryed in the fyre/euen so are acceptable men in the fornace of aduersyte. Beleue in God/& he shall helpe the: ordre thy waye a ryght/and put thy trust in him. Holde fast his feare/and growe therin. O ye that feare ỹ Lord/take sure holde of his mercy:chrincke not awaye frō him/that ye fall not. O ye that feare the Lorde/beleue hym/ and youre rewarde shall not be emptie. O ye ỹ feare ỹ Lorde put youre trust in him / & mercy shall come vnto you for pleasure. O ye that feare the Lorde set youre loue vpon him / & youre hertes shalbe lyghtened.

B Consydre the olde generacions of men(O ye chyldren)and marck them well:was there euer eny one confounded / that put his trust in ỹ Lorde: Who euer continued in his feare and was forsaken? Or whom dyd he euer despyse / that called faythfully vpon him? For God is gracious and mercyfull / he forgeueth synnes in the tyme of trouble / and is a defender for all them that seke hym in the trueth. Wo be vnto him ỹ hath a duble hert/ wycked lyppes and euell occupied handes/& to the synner ỹ goeth two maner of wayes. Wo be vnto them that are loose of herte/ which put not their trust in God / & therfore shall they not be defended of him. Wo be vnto them that haue lost pacience / forsaken ỹ ryght wayes/and are turned back in to frowarde wayes. What wyll they do/ when the Lorde shall begynne to vysyt them?

C They that feare the Lorde/wyll not mistrust his worde:and they that loue him/ will kepe his commaundement. They that feare the Lord wyll seke out the thinges / that are pleasaunt vnto hym: & they that loue hym / shall fulfyll his lawe. They ỹ feare ỹ Lorde wyll prepare their hertes/and humble their soules in his syght. They ỹ feare the Lorde kepe his commaundementes/& wyll be pacient tyll they se hym self/sayinge: better it is for vs to fall into the handes of the Lorde/ then into the handes of men:for his mercy is as greate as hym selfe.

To oure father and mother ought we to geue double honour. Of the blessyng and curse of the father and mother. No man ought ouer curyously to searche out the secretes of God.

C The.iij. Chapter.

A THe chyldren of wysdome are a cōgregacyon of the ryghtuous/and their exercyse is obedience & loue. Heare me youre father (O my deare chyldren)& do there after/that ye may be safe. For the Lorde wyll haue the father honoured of the chyldren / and loke what a mother commaundeth her chyldren to do/ he will haue it kepte. Who so honoureth his father/ hys synnes shall be forgeuen him: and he that honoureth hys mother is lyke one ỹ gathereth treasure together. Who so honoureth his father/shall haue ioye of his awne chyldren:and when he maketh his prayer, he shall be herde. He that honoureth his father/ shall haue a longe lyfe: and he that is obedient for the Lordes sake/ hys mother shall haue ioye of him.

He that feareth the Lorde/ honoureth his father and mother / and doth them seruyce/ as it were vnto the Lorde him self. Honoure B thy father in dede/in worde / and in all pacience / that thou mayest haue his blessynge: for the blessing of the father buyldeth vp the houses of the children / but the mothers curse roteth out the foundacyons. Reioyse not when thy father is reproued / for it is no honoure vnto the / but a shame. For the worshipe of a mās father is his awne worshipe/ and where the father is without honoure/ it is the dishonesty of the sonne. My sonne/ make moch of thy father in his age/& greue him not as longe as he liueth. And yf his vnderstanding fayle/haue pacience with him/ and despyse hym not in thy strength. For the good dede that thou shewest vnto thy father/ shall not be forgotten:& when thou thy selfe wantest/it shall be rewarded the (& for thy mothers offence thou shalt be recompensed with good/yee it shall be founded for the in ryghtuousnes)& in the daye of trouble thou shalt be remembred: thy synnes also shall melt awaye/lyke as ỹ yse in ỹ fayre warme wether.

He that forsaketh his father / shall come C to shame:and he that defyeth his mother/ is cursed of God. My sonne / perfourme thy workes w̄ louenge mekenesse / so shalt thou be loued aboue other men. The greater thou art/the more humble thy self(in all thynges) and thou shalt fynde fauour in the sight of God. For greate power belongeth onely vnto God/& he is honoured of the lowly.

Seke not out the thinges that are aboue thy capacyte / and searche not the grounde of soch thynges as are to mightye for the: but loke what God hath cōmaunded the/ thynke vpon that all waye / and be not curyous in many of hys workes. For it is not nedefull for the to se w̄ thyne eyes the thynges ỹ are secrete. Make not thou to moch searche in superfluous thynges/ & be not curious in many of hys workes: for many thynges are shewed vnto the allready / which be aboue ỹ capacite of men. The medlynge w̄ soch hath begyled many a mā/and tangled their wittes

in vanyte. Now he that loueth parell / shall perish therin.

D An harde herte shall fayre euell at ỹ last (an hert that goeth two wayes / shal not prospere: & he that is frowarde of hert / will euer be the worse & worse.) A wicked hert shalbe ladē with sorowes / & ỹ vngodly synner will heape one synne vpō another. The counceil of the proude hath no health / for the plante of synne shall be roted out in them. The hert of him ỹ hath vnderstandyng shall perceaue hye thinges / & a good eare wyll gladly herken vnto wysdome. An hert that is wyse and hath vnderstādyng / will abstayne frō synne / and increase in ỹ workes of rightuousnes. Water quencheth burnynge fyre / & mercy reconcyleth synnes. God hath respecte vnto him that is thanckfull: he thincketh vpō him agaynst the tyme to come: so that whē he falleth / he shall fynde a stronge holde.

¶ Almes must be done with all meakenes. The study of wysdome and her frute. A nudge ought to be mercyfle. An exhortacyon to eschue euell & to do good.

¶ The. xiij. Chapter.

A My sonne / defraude not the poore of his almes / and turne not awaye thyne eyes frō him that hath nede. Delyuer not an hongrye soule / & defye not the poore in his necessite: greue not the herte of him that is helpless / and withdrawe not the gyft from the nedefull. Refuse not the prayer of one that is in trouble / & turne not awaye thy face from ỹ nedy. Cast not thyne eyes aslyde from the poore / ỹ thou geue him not occasyon to speake euell of ỹ. For yf he complayne of the in the bytternes of his soule / his prayer shall be herde: euē he that made him / shal heare him. Be curteous vnto the company of the poore / humble thy soule vnto the elder / & bowe downe thy head to a man of worshippe. Lett it not greue the to bowe downe thyne eare vnto ỹ poore / but paye thy dett / and geue hym a frendly an-

B swere / and that with meknesse.

Delyuer him ỹ suffreth wronge from the hāde of the oppressour / & be not faynt harted when thou sytteſt in iudgmēt. Be mercyfull vnto the fatherles as a father / & be in steade of an housbande vnto their mother: so shalt thou be as an obedient sonne of the Hyest / & he shall loue the more then thy mother doth. Wysdome bryngeth lyfe in to her chyldrē / receaueth them that seke her / & wyll go before thē in the waye of rightuousnes. He ỹ loueth her / loueth lyfe: & they ỹ seke her diligently / shall haue greate ioye. They that kepe her / shall haue the heretage of lyfe: for where she entreth in / there is the blessyng of God. They that honoure her / shall be the seruauntes of the holy one: and they that loue her / are beloued of God. Who so geueth eare vnto her / shall iudge the Heathen: and he that hath respecte vnto her / shall dwell safely.

He ỹ beleueth her / shall haue her in pos- C session / and his generacyon shall endure: for when he falleth / she shal go with him / before all. Feare / drede & tēptacion shall she bryng vpon him / and trye him in her doctryne: tyll she haue so proued hym in hys thoughtes / ỹ he commytte his soule vnto her. Then shall she stablish him / bringe the ryght waye vnto him / make him a glad man / shewe him her secretes / and heape vpon hym the treasures of knowledge / vnderstandyng & ryghtuousnes. But yf he go wronge / she shall forsake hym / and geue hym ouer in to the handes of his enemye.

My sonne make moch of the tyme / eschue D the thynge ỹ is euell / & for thy lyfe shame not to saye ỹ trueth. For there is a shame ỹ bringeth synne / and there is a shame that bryngeth worshippe and fauour. Accepte no person after thyne awne wyll / that thou be not confounded to thyne awne decaye. Be not ashamed of thy neyghbour in his aduersite / & kepe not back thy coūcell when it maye do good / nether hyde thy wysdome in her beuty. For in the tonge is wysdome knowne / so is vnderstandyng / knowledge & lernynge in ỹ talkynge of the wyse and stedfastnesse in the workes of ryghtuousnes. In no wyse speake agaynst ỹ worde of treuth / but be ashamed of ỹ lyes of thyne awne ignorauce. Shame not to cōfesse thyne errour / & submytte not thy selfe vnto euery man because of synne. Withstande not the face of the myghtie / and stryue not agaynst the streame. But for the trueth stryue thou vnto death / and God shall fyght for the agaynst thine enemyes. Be not hastye in thy tonge / nether slack & negligent in thy workes. Be not as a lyon in thyne awne house / destroyīg thy housholde folcke / and oppressyng them that are vnder the. Let not thyne hande be stretched out to receaue / and shut when thou shuldest geue.

¶ In ryches maye we not put any confydence. The vengeaunce of God ought to be feared / and to repentaunce maye we not be slowe.

¶ The. v. Chopter.

TRust not vnto thy ryches / & saye not: tusch / I haue ynough for my A lyfe. (For it shall not helpe in the tyme of vengeaunce & temptaciō) Folowe not the lust of thyne awne herte in thy strength / and saye not: tusch / how haue I had strength / or who wyll bringe me vnder because of my workes: for doutles God shal auēge it. And saye not: I haue cōmytted no synnes /

synnes / but what euell hath happened me? ¶ For the Almyghtye is a pacyent rewarder. Because thy synne is forgeuē ỹ / be not therfore without feare / nether heape one synne vpō another. And saye not: tush / the mercy of ỹ Lord is great / he shal forgeue me my synnes / be they neuer so many. For like as he is mercyfull / so goeth wrath frō him also / & his indignacyon cōmeth downe vpon synners.

Make no taryenge to turne vnto ỹ Lord / & put not of frō daye to daye: for sodenly shall his wrath come / & in the time of vengeaunce he shall destroie ỹ. Trust not in wicked rychs for they shall not helpe in the daye of punishment & wrath. Be not caryed about to euery wynde / and goo not into euery waye: for so doth the synner ỹ hath a double tōge. Stāde fast in the waye of the Lorde / be stedfast in thy vnderstandynge / abyde by the worde / and folowe the worde of peace & ryghtuousnes. Be gentle to heare the worde of God / ỹ thou maye st vnderstande it / and make a true answere with wysdome. Be swyft to heare / but slowe & pacient in geuynge answere. If thou hast vnderstādynge / shappe thy neyghboure an answere: If no / laye thyne hād vpō thy mouth: lest thou be trapped in an vndiscrete worde / & so cōfounded. Honour & worshippe is in a mans wyse talking / but ỹ tonge of the vndiscrete is his awne destruccion. Be not a pryuy accuser as longe as thou lyuest / & vse no sclaūder with thy tonge. For shame and sorow goeth ouer the theefe / and an euell name ouer him that is double tonged: but he that is a pryuy accuser of other men / shalbe hated enuyed and confounded. Se that thou iustifye the small and greate alyke.

¶ It is the propertye of a synner to be euell tonged. The doctryne and good councell of the wyse is to be embraced. Wysdome shulde be searched for. The profet therof.

¶ The.vj. Chapter.

Be not thy neyghbours enemye for thy frindes sake: for who so is euell shall be the heyre of rebuke & dyshonoure / & whosoeuer beareth enuye & a doubble tōg offendeth. Be not proude in the deuyce of thyne awne vnderstandyng / lest thy leaues wither / and thy frute be destroyed / & so thou be left as a drye tree. For a wycked soule destroyeth hym ỹ hath it / maketh hym to be laughed to scorne of hys enemyes / (& bringeth hym to the porcyon of the vngodly.) A swete worde multiplieth frinds / and pacifyeth them that be at baryaunce / and a thanckfull tonge will be plenteous in a good man. Holde frendshippe wyth many / neuertheles haue but one cōsceler of a thousande.

If thou gettest a frende / proue him fyrst / and be not hastie to geue him credence. For some man is a frende / but for a tyme / & will not abyde in the daye of trouble. And there is some frende that turneth to enemyte / and taketh parte agaynst the: & yf he knowe eny hurte by the / he telleth it out. Agayne / some frende is but a compayon at the table / and in the daye of nede he contynueth not. But a sure frende wil be vnto the euen as thyne awne self / & deale faythfully wyth thy housholde folke. If thou suffre trouble and aduersyte / he is with the / and hydeth not hym self from the. Departe from thyne enemyes yee and bewarre of thy frendes.

A faythfull frende is a stronge defence: who so fyndeth soche one / fyndeth a noble treasure. A faithfull frende hath no peare / ỹ wight of golde & syluer is not to be compared to the goodnesse of his faith. A faythfull frende is a medicyne of lyfe / & they that feare the Lord / shall fynde him. Who so feareth the Lorde / shall prospere with frendes: & as he is himself / so shall his frende be also. My sonne / receaue doctryne frō thy youth vp so shalt thou fynde wysdome tyll thou be olde. Go to her as one that ploweth / and soweth / and wayte pacyently for hir good frutes. For thou shalt haue but lytle laboure in hir worke / but thou shalt eate of hir frutes right soone. O how exceading sharpe is wisdome to vnlerned men? an vnstedfast body wilt not remayne in her. Vnto soch she is as it were a touchstone / & she casteth her from him in all the haste: for wisdome is with him but in name / there be but few ỹ haue knowledge of her. (But with them that know her / she abydeth euen vnto ỹ apperynge of God.)

Geue eare (my sonne) receaue my doctryne / and refuse not my councell. Put thy fote in to her fyncktes / and take her yock vpon thy neck: bowe downe thy shoulder vnder her / beare her pacyently / and be not weery of her bandes. Come vnto her with thy whole hert / & kepe her wayes with all thy power. Seke after her / and she shalbe shewed the: and whē thou hast her / forsake her not. For at the last thou shalt fynde rest in her / and that shall be turned to thy greate ioye. Then shall her fetters be a stronge defence for the / & her yock a glorious rayment. For the bewtie of lyfe is in her / and her bandes are the couplynge together of saluacion. Yee a glorious rayment is it / thou shalt put it on / & the same crowne of ioye shalt thou weere.

My sonne / yf thou wylt / take hede / thou shalt haue vnderstādynge: and yf thou wylt applie thy minde / thou shalt be wyse. If thou wylt bowe downe thyne eare / thou shalt receaue doctryne: & yf thou delyte in hearyng / thou thou shalt be wyse. Stande with the multitude of soch elders as haue vnderstandynge/ & consente vnto their wysdome wyth thyne herte: that thou mayest heare all godly sermons/and that the worthy sentences eskape the not. And yf thou seist a man of dyscrete vnderstandynge/ get the soone vnto hym/ & let thy fote treade vpon the steppes of his dores. Let thy mynde be vpon the commaundementes of God/ & be earnestly occupied in hys lawes: so shall he stablysh thy hert/ and geue the wysdome at thyne awne desyre.

¶ We must forsake euell/ & yet not iustifye our selues The behaueour of the wyse towarde hys wyfe/ hys frynde/ his chyldren/ his seruauntes/ his father & mother/ the prestes & c.

¶ The. viij. Chapter.

A DO no euell/ so shal ther no harme happen vnto the. Departe awaye from the thynge that is wycked/ & no myschortune shall medle wt the. My sonne/ sowe no euell thynges in the forowes of vnrightuousnes/ so shalt thou not reape them seuenfolde. Laboure not vnto man for any lordshype/ nether vnto ỹ Kyng for the seate of honoure. Justifye not thy self before God (for he knoweth the hert) & desyre not to be reputed wyse in the presence of the King. Make no laboure to be made a iudge/ excepte it so were/ that thou couldest myghtely put downe wyckednes: for yf thou shuldest stande in awe of the presence of ỹ mightye/ thou shuldest fayle in geuynge sentẽce. Offende not in the multitude of the cite/ and put not thy self amonge the people. Bynde not two synnes together/ for in one synne shalt thou not be vnpunyshed. Saye not: tush/ God wyll loke vpon the multitude of my oblacyons/ and when I offre to the hyest God/ he wyll accepte it.

B Be not faynt harted when thou makest thy prayer/ nether slack in geuing of almes. Laugh no man to scorne in the heuynesse of his soule/ for God (which seyth all thinges) is he that can bringe downe/ & set vp agayne. Accepte no lesyng agaynst thy brother/ nether do the same agaynst thy frende. Vse not to make any maner of lye/ for the custome therof is not good. Make not many wordes/ when thou art amonge the elders: and when thou prayest/ make not moch babblynge. Let no laborius worcke be tedious vnto the/ nether the husbandrye which the Allmyghtie hath created. Make not thy boast in ỹ multytude of thy wyckednes/ but humble thy selfe euen from thyne herte: and remembre that the wrath shall not be longe in tarying/ and that the vengeaunce of the flesh of ỹ vngodly is a very fyre & worme. Geue not ouer thy frynde for eny good/ nor thy faythfull brother for the best golde.

Departe not from a discrete & good woman/ that is fallen vnto the for thy porcyon in the feare of the Lorde/ for the gyft of her honesty is aboue golde. Where as thy seruaũt worcketh truly/ intreate him not euell/ nor the Hyrelynge that is faythfull vnto the. Loue a dyscrete seruaunte as thyne awne soule/ defraude hym not of hys lybertye/ nether leaue him a poore mã. If thou haue catell/ loke well to them: and yf they be for thy profyt/ kepe thẽ. If thou haue sonnes/ bring thẽ vp in nurtoure & lernynge/ & holde them in awe from their youth vp. If thou haue daughters/ kepe their body/ & shewe not thy face cherefull toward thẽ. Marie thy daughter/ and so shalt thou perfourme a weyghtye matter: but geue her to a man of vnderstandynge. If thou haue a wyfe after thine awne mynde/ forsake her not: (but commytte not thy selfe to the hatefull.)

D Honoure thy father from thy whole herte and forgett not the sorofull trauayle ỹ thy mother had wyth the: remembre that thou wast borne thorow them/ and how cãst thou recõpense them the thynges that they haue done for the? Feare ỹ Lord with all thy soule & honoure his mynistres. Loue thy maker wyth all thy strength/ & forsake not hys seruauntes. Feare the Lord with all thy soule/ & honoure hys Prestes. Geue thẽ their porcyõ of the fyrst frutes & increase of ỹ earth/ lyke as it is cõmaunded the: geue them the shoulders/ and their appoynted offrynges & fyrstlynges. Reache thyne hande vnto the poore/ that God maye blesse the wyth plentuousnes. Be lyberall vnto all men lyuyng/ yet let not but do good euen to them that are deed.

Let not them that wepe be without comforte/ but mourne wt soch as mourne. Let it not greue the to vyset the sick/ for that shall make the to be beloued. Whatsoeuer thou takest in hande/ remembre the ende/ & thou shalt neuer do amysse.

¶ Agaynst thy better is no stryuyng. Of the deeth of thyne enemye mayste thou not reioyce/ ner despyse thy neyghbours/ ner the wordes of the wyse.

STryue not with a myghtye man/ lest thou chaunse to fall in to hys A handes. Make no bariaunce with a rych mã/ lest he happẽ to bringe vp an harde quarell agaynst ỹ. For golde & syluer hath vndone many a man/ yee euẽ the hertes of Kyngs hath it made to fall. Striue not with a man ỹ is ful of wordes/ & laye no stykes vpon his fyre: Kepe no cõpany with ỹ vnlerned/ lest he geue thy kynred an euell reporte. Despyse not a man that turneth hym selfe awaye from synne/ and cast hym not not in the teeth wythall: but remembre ꝑ we are fraile euerychone. Thynke scorne of no man in his olde age / for we ware olde also. Be not glad of the death of thyne enemye / but remembre that we must dye all the sorte of vs (and fayne wolde we come in to ioye.) Despyse not the sermons of soch elders as haue vnderstãdyng / but acquaynte thy selfe with the wyse sentences of them: for of them thou shalt lerne wysdome and the doctrine of vnderstandyng / and how to serue great men wythout complaynte.

B Go not from ꝑ doctryne of the elders / for they haue lerned it of their fathers. For of thẽ thou shalt lerne vnderstandynge / so ꝑ thou mayest make answere in the tyme of nede. Kyndle not ꝑ coales of synners / lest thou be brent in the fyre flãmes of their synnes. Resyst not the face of the blasphemer / ꝑ he laye not wayte for thy mouth. Lende not vnto him that is myghtier then thy selfe: If thou lendest him / counte it but lost. Be not suertie aboue thy power: yf thou be / then thincke surely to paye it. Go not to lawe wyth ꝑ iudge / for he will iudge accordyng to his awne honoure. Trauayle not by the waye wyth him that is braynelesse / lest he do the euell: for he foloweth his awne wylfulnes / and so shalt thou perish thorow his foly.

C Stryue not wyth hym that is angrie and cruell / and go not with him in to the wyldernes: for bloude is nothinge in hys syght / and where there is no helpe / he shall murther ꝑ. Take no councell at foles / for they loue nothynge but the thynges ꝑ please thẽ selues. Take no coũcell before a straũger / for thou canst not tell what will come of it. Opẽ not thyne herte vnto euery man / lest he be vnthanckfull to the / and put the to reproffe.

C The ieopardyes of chastenes are to be eschued. An olde frynde is to be preferred before a newe. The glory and rychesse of synners. Ryghtwes men shulde be bydden to gest. Labour is the chefe thyng in a worcke man / and wysdome in a prynce.

C The.ix. Chapter.

A Bre not gelous ouer the wyfe of thy bosome / that she shewe not some shrewed poynte of wycked doctryne vpon the. Geue not the power of thy lyfe vnto a woman / lest she come in thy strength / & so thou be confounded. Loke not vpon a woman that is desyrous of many men / lest thou fall in to her snares. Vse not the company of a woman that is a player & daunser / and heare her not / lest thou perysh thorow her entysyng. Beholde not a mayde / that thou be not hurt in her bewtie. Cast not thy mynde vpon harlottes in eny maner of thynge / lest thou destroye both thy selfe and thyne herytage. Go not aboute galynge in euery lane of the cytye / nether wandre thou abrode in ꝑ stretes therof. Turne awaye thy face from a beutyfull woman / and loke not vpon the fayrnesse of other.

Many a man hath perysshed thorow the B bewty of wemen / for thorow it the desyre is . kyndled as it were a fyre. (An aduuoturous woman shalbe trodden vnder fote as myre / of euery one that goeth by the waye. Many a mã wonderynge at the bewtye of a straũge woman / hathe bene cast out / for her wordes kyndle as a fyre.) Sytt not wt another mãs wyfe by eny meanes / lye not wyth her vpon the bedd / make no wordes with her at the wyne: lest thine hert consent vnto her / and so thou wt thy bloude fall in to destruccyõ. Forsake not an olde frende / for the new shall not be lyke him.

A new frẽde is new wyne: let him be olde & thou shalt drynke him with pleasure. Desyre not ꝑ honoure and ryches of a synner / for thou knowest not what destruccyon is for to come vpon him. Delyte not thou in ꝑ thynge that the vngodly haue pleasure in / beinge sure that the vngodly shall not be accepted vntyll their graue.

C Kepe the from the man that hath power to slaye / so nedest thou not to be afrayed of death. And yf thou commest vnto him / make no fawte / lest he happen to take awaye thy lyfe. Remembre ꝑ thou goest in the myddest of snares / & vpon the bul workes of the citye Be warre of thy neghboure as nye as thou canst / and medle with soch as be wyse and haue vnderstandynge. Lett iust men be thy gestes / lett thy myrth be in the feare of God / let the remẽbraunce of God be in thy mynde and let all thy talkynge be in the commaundementes of the Hyest. In the hãdes of craftesmen shall the workes be commended / so shall the prynces of the people in the wysdome of their talkynge. A mã full of wordes is perlous in his cytie: and he that is temerarious and past shame in his talkynge / is to be abhorred.

C Of kynges and Judges. Pryde / & couetousnes are to be abhorred. Labour is praysed.

C The.x. Chapter.

A Wyse iudge will ordre hys people with discrecion / and where a man A of vnderstandynge beareth rule / there goeth it well. As the iudge of the people is him selfe / euen so are his officyers: and loke what maner of man the ruler of the cytye is / soch are they that dwell theryn also. An vnwyse kyng destroyeth his people / but where they that be in auctorite are men of vnderstandynge / there the cytye prosperyth.

The power of the earth is in the hande of God /

God/and when his time is/he shall set a prokytable ruler vpon it. In the hande of God is the power of man/& vpon the Scribes shall he laye his honoure. Remembre no wronge of thy neyghboure/& medle thou with no vnrightuous worckes. Pride is hatefull before God and man/and all wickednes of the Heathen is to be abhorred. Because of vnryghtuous dealyng/wrōge/blasphemies and dyuerse disceate / a realme shall be translated from one people to another.

B There is nothyng worse then a couetous man. Why art thou proude / O thou earth & asshes? There is not a more wicked thinge/ then to loue moneye. And why? Soch one hath hys soule to sell: yet is he but fylthye donge whyle he lyueth.

And though the phisician shewe his helpe neuer so longe/yet in conclusion it goeth after this maner/to daye a kynge / to morowe deed. For when a man dyeth / he is the heyre of serpentes/beastes & wormes. The begynnynge of mans pryde / is to fall awaye from God: and why? his hert is gone from his maker / for pryde is the ouergenall of all synne. Who so taketh holde therof shalbe fylled w curlynges/and at the last it shall ouerthrow him. Therfore hath the Lord brought the cōgregacions of the wycked to dishonoure / & destroyed them vnto the ende.

God hath destroyed the seates of proude prynces/and sett vp the meke in their steade. God hath wythered the rotes of the proude Heathen/& planted the lowly amonge them. God hath ouerthrowne the lādes of the Heathen/and destroyed them out of the grounde. He hath caused them to wyther awaye / he hath brought them to naught/and made the memoriall of them to ceasse from oute of the earth (God hath destroyed ỹ name of ỹ proude/ and left the name of the humble of mynde.) Pryde was not made for man/nether wrothfulnes for mens chyldrē. The sede of mē that feareth God/shalbe brought to honoure: but the sede which transgresseth the commaundmentes of the Lorde shalbe shamed. He that is ỹ ruler amōge brethrē/is holdē in honoure amonge thē/& he regardeth soch as feare the Lord. The glory of the ryche/of ỹ honorable and of the poore is the feare of God.

D Despyse not thou the iust poore mā/ and magnifie not ỹ rych vngodly. Greate is the iudge & mighty in honour/ yet is there none greater/then he ỹ feareth God. Vnto the seruaūt that is discrete/shall the fre do seruyce. He that is wyse & well nurtoured / wyll not grudge when he is refourmed/& an ignoraūt body shall not come to honour. Be not proude to do thy worcke / & dispare not in ỹ tyme of aduersyte. Better is he that laboureth/ & hath plentcousnes of all thyngs/then he that is gorgeous & wanteth bred.

E My sonne/kepe thy soule in meknes/ & geue her her due honoure. Who shall iustifie him that sinneth agaynst him self? Who will honoure him/ ỹ dishonoureth his awne lyfe? The poore is honoured for his faythfulnes & trueth/but the ryche is had in reputacion because of his goodes. He that ordreth him self honestly in pouerte/ how moch more shall he behaue him self honestly in ryches? And who so ordreth him selfe vnhonestly in rychs/ how moch more shall he be haue hym selfe vnhonestly in pouerte.

¶ The prayse of humilytie. After the outwarde apperaunce ought we not to iudge. Of heady and rashe iudgement. The ryche is not wythout offence. All thinges come of God. All men are not to be brought in to thyne house.

The wysdome of hym ỹ is brought lowe/shall lyft vp his head/& shall A make hym to sytt amonge greate men. Commende not a man in hys bewtye / nether despyse a man in hys vtter apperaunce. The Bee is but a small beast amōge the foules/yet is her frute exceading swete. Be not proude of thy raymēt/& exalte not thy selfe in the daye of thy honoure: for ỹ worckes of the Hyest onely are wonderfull: ye glorious/secrete and vnknowne are hys worckes. Many tyrauntes haue bene fayne to syt downe vpon the earth / & the vnlyckly hath worne the crowne. Many mightie men haue bene brought lowe / and the honorable haue bene delyuered in to other mens hādes. Condemne no man / before thou haue tryed out the matter: and when thou hast made enquisycion/then refourme rightuously. Geue no sentēce before thou hast herde the cause/ but fyrst let men tell out their tayles.

B Stryue not for a matter that toucheth not thy selfe/and stande not in the iudgment of synners. My sonne/medle not with many matters: & yf thou wylt be ryche / thou shalt not get it: and though thou renneste thy waye afore/yet shalt thou not escape. There is some man that laboureth / & the more he weerieth him selfe/ỹ lesse he hath. Agayne/ some man is slouthfull/hath nede of helpe/wāteth strength/and hath greate pouerte/and Gods eye loketh vpon him to good/ setteth him vp from his lowe estate/and lifteth vp his head: so that many men maruell at him/ and geue honoure vnto God.

Prosperite and aduersyte/lyfe and death/ pouerte and ryches come all of the Lorde. C (Wysdome/nurtoure and knowledge of the lawe are with God: loue & the wayes of good are with him. Errour & darcknes are made for synners: and they that exalte them selues in euell/in euell / waxe olde in euell.) The gyft of God remayneth for the righteous / and hys good wyll shall geue prosperyte for euer. Some man is rich by lyuynge nygardly / & that is the occasyon of hys rewarde / in that he sayeth: now haue I gotten rest / and now wyll I eate and drynke of my goodes my self alone. And yet he consydereth not / that tyme draweth nye / that he must leaue al these thinges vnto other men / and dye him self. Stande thou fast in thy couenaunt / and exercyse thy self therin / and remayne in the worke vnto thy age. Contynue not in the workes of synners / but put thy trust in God / and byde in thyne estate: for it is but an easy thinge in ¶ sight of God / to make a poore man riche / & that sodenly. The blessynge of God hasteth to the rewarde of the ryghtous / and maketh his frutes soone to florysh & prosper. Saye not: what helpeth it me? & what shall I haue ye whyle? Agayne / saye not: I haue ynough / how can I wāte? When thou art in welfare / forget not aduersyte: and when it goeth not well with the / haue a good hope / that it shal be better. For it is but a small thynge vnto God / in the daye of death to rewarde euery man accordynge to his wayes. The aduersite of an houre maketh one to forgett all pleasure: and when a man dyeth / his workes are discouered. Prayse no body before his death for a man shalbe knowe in his children.

€ Bringe not euery man in to thine house / for ¶ disceatfull layeth wayte dyuersly. Like as a partrych in a maunde / so ys the hert of the proude: and lyke as a spye / that loketh vpon the fal of his neghbour. For he turneth good vnto euell / and sclaundreth the chosen. Of one sparck ys made a greate fyre / & an vngodly man layeth wayte for bloude. Beware of the disceatfull / for he ymagyneth wicked thinges / to bringe the in to a perpetuall shame. If thou takest an aleaūt vnto ¶ he shall destroye the in vnquietnes / & dryue the from thine awne wayes.

¶ Vnto whō we ought to do good. Enemyes ought to be eschued.

¶ The. xii. Chapter.

A WHen thou wilt do good / knowe to whom thou doest it / & so shalt thou be greatly thanked for thy benefites. Do good vnto the righteous and thou shalt fynde great rewarde: though not of him / yet (no doute) the Lorde him self shall rewarde the. He standeth not in a good case ¶ is alwaye occupied in euel / & geueth no almes: for the Hyest hateth the synners / and hath mercy vpon them that shew the workes of repentaūce. Geue thou vnto soch as feare God / and receaue not a synner. As for the vngodly and synners / he shall recompense vengeaūce vnto them / and kepe them to ¶ daye of wrath. Geue thou vnto ¶ good / and receaue not the synner: do well vnto him that is lowly / but geue not to the vngodly. Let not the bred be geuen him / that he be not myghtyer then thy selfe therin. For so shalt thou receaue twyse as moch euell / in all the good that thou doest vnto hym: And why? the Hyest hateth synners / and shal rewarde vengeaunce to the vngodly.

In prosperite / a frynd shal not be knowne / and in aduersyte an enemie shall not be hyd. B For when a man is in wealth / it greueth his enemies: but in heuynes and trouble a man shall knowe hys frynde. Trust neuer thyne enemy / for lyke as an yron rusteth / so doth his wyckednes. And though he make moch croutchyng and knelyng / yet kepe well thy minde / and bewarre of him. Set him not by the / nether let him syt at thy right hande: lest he turne him / gett in to thy place / take thy rowme and seke thy seate / and so thou at the last remembre my wordes / and be pyched at my sayinges.

Bynde not two synnȝ together / for there shall not one be vnpunished. Who will haue pytye of ¶ charmer / that is stynged of ¶ serpent / or of all soch as come nye the beastes? Eue̅ so is it with him ¶ kepeth cōpany wyth a wycked man / and lappeth him selfe in hys synnes. For a season wyll he byde with the / but yf thou stomble / he tarieth not. An enemy is swete in his lippes / he can make many C wordes & speake many good thinges: Yee he can wepe wyth hys eyes / but in his herte he ymagineth / how to throw the in to ¶ pytte: & yf he maye fynde opportunite / he will not be satisfyed with bloude. If aduersite come vpō ¶ / thou shalt fynde him there first / & though he pretende to do the helpe / yet shall he vnder myne the. He shall shake his head / and clape his hādes ouer the for very gladnes / & whille he maketh many wordes / he shall dysguyse his countenaunce.

¶ The companies of the proude and of the ryche are to be eschued. The loue of God lyke do cōpany with their lyke.

A WHo so toucheth pitch / shalbe fyled withall: & he that is familiar wt the proude / shall clothe hym selfe with pryde. He taketh a burthen vpon him / that accompanyeth a more honorable man then him selfe. Therfore kepe no familyarite with one that is rycher then thy selfe. How agree the ketell and the pot together? for yf ¶ one be smytē agaynst ¶ other / it shall be broke̅. The ryche dealeth vnryghtuously / and threateneth withall: but ¶ poore

beynge oppressed & wrongeously dealt with= all / suffreth scarcenesse / and geueth fayre wordes. If thou be for hys profyt he vseth the: but yf thou haue nothyng he shall forsake the. As lõge as thou hast eny thyng of thyne awne/he shall be a good felow with the: yee he shal make the a bare mã/ & not be sory for the. If he haue nede of the/he shall defraude the: & (wyth a preuy mocke) shall he put the in an hope / & geue the all good wordes / and saye: what wantest thou? Thus shall he shame the in his meate/vntill he haue supte the cleane vp twyse or thryse/ & at the last shal he laugh the to scorne. Afterwarde/whẽ he seyth that thou hast nothynge/he shall forsake the / & shake his head at the.

B Bewarre/that thou be not disceaued and brought downe in thy symplenesse. Be not to humble in thy wysdome / lest when thou art brought lowe/thou be disceaued thorow foolyshnes. If thou be called of a myghtye man/ablent thy selfe / so shall he call the to him the more oft. Preasse not thou vnto him/ that thou be not shott out: but goo not thou farre of/lest he forget the. Withdraw not thy self frõ his speach / but beleue not his many wordes. For with moch cõmunicacion shall he tempte the/ & (with a preuy mock) shall he question the of thy secretes. The vnmercifull mynde of his shall marck thy wordes/he shall not spare to do the hurte & to put the in prison/ Bewarre/ & take good hede to thy selfe / for thou walkest in parell of thy ouerthrowing.

C Now when thou hearest his wordes/make the as though thou werest in a dreame/ and wake vp. Loue God all thy lyfe longe / and call vpõ him in thy nede. Euery beast loueth his like/euẽ so let euery mã loue his neyghboure. All flesh wyll resorte to their like/and euery man wyll kepe company with soch as he is him selfe. But as the wolfe agreeth wyth the lambe/so doth the vngodly wyth the ryghtuous. What felishippe shulde an holy man haue with a dogge? How can the ryche & the poore agree together? The wylde Asse is the lyõs pray in the wylderneße/ euẽ so are poore men the meate of the ryche. Like as the proude maye not awaye with lowlynes / euẽ so doth the rych abhorre the poore. If a rych mã fall/ his frendes set him vp agayne: but when the poore falleth hys frendes forsake hym. If a rych man fall in to an errour/ he hath many helpers: he speaketh proude wordes/and yet men iustifye him.

D But yf a poore man go wronge/ he is punyshed: yee though he speake wysely/yet can it haue no place. When the ryche man speaketh/euery body holdeth his tonge: and loke what he sayeth/they prayse it vnto the cloudes. But yf the poore man speake/they saye What felowe is this? and yf he do amysse/ they shal destroye him. Ryches are good vnto him that hath no synne in hys conscience/ and pouerte is a wycked thing in the mouth of the vngodly. The hert of man chaungeth his countenaunce/whether it be in good or euell. A chearfull countenaunce is a token of a good herte/for els is it an harde thynge to knowe the thought.

A Eccli.xix.c.and xxv.c. Jacob.iij.a.

BLessed is the man / that hath not fallen with the worde of his mouth/ and is not pricked wyth the conscience of synne. Happie is he that had no heuynes in his mynde/and is not fallen from his hope. It be commeth not a couetous man and a nygarde/to be ryche: and what shulde a nygarde do with golde? He that with al his carefulnes heapeth together vnryghtuously/gathereth for other folckes / & another man shal make good chere with his goodes. He that is wicked vnto hym selfe/ how shulde he be good vnto other men? How can soch one haue eny pleasure of his goodz? There is no thyng worse/then when one disfauoureth him self/and this is a rewarde of his wickednes. If he do eny good / he doth it not knowynge therof/and agaynst hys will/ & at the last he declareth his vngraciousnes. A nygarde hath a wycked eye / he turneth awaye his face/and despyseth his awne soule. Pro.xxvij.c. A couetous mans eye hath neuer ynough in the porcyon of wyckednes / vntyll the tyme that he wyther awaye/ & haue lost his awne soule. Eccli.i.a

B A wycked eye spareth bred/ & there is scarcenesse vpon his table. My sonne/do good to thy selfe of that thou hast/ & geue the Lorde hys due offerynges. Remembre that death tarieth not / and how that the couenaunt of the graue is shewed vnto the: for y couenaũt of this worlde shall dye the death. Do good vnto thy frynde before thou dye/and accordyng to thy abylite reach out thyne hande/ & geue vnto the poore. Be not dispoynted of the good daye/ & lett not the porcyon of the good daye ouerpas the. Shalt thou not leaue thy trauayles and labours vnto other men? In the deuydinge of the heretage geue and take / & sanctifye thy soule. Worcke thou righteousnes before thy death / for in the hell there is no meate to fynde. All flesh shall fade awaye lyke grasse / and lyke a florysshynge leafe in a grene tre. Some growe / some are cast downe: euen so is the generacyon of flesh and bloude: one cõmeth to an ende / another is borne. Eccli.xl.a. 1.Petri.i.b. Jacob.i.b. Eccli.xiij.a. Tobi.iiij.b. Luc.xvi.b.

¶ All transytory thynges shall fayle at the last/and the worker therof shall go withall. Euery chosen worke shalbe iustified/and he ꝑ medleth withall/ shall haue honoure therin. Blessed is the man ꝑ kepeth him in wysdome/and exercyseth hym self in vnderstandyng/& with discrecyon shall he thinke vpō the forekno wledge of God. Which consydereth ꝑ wayes of wysdome in hys hert/hath vnderstandynge in her secretes/goeth after her(as one that seketh her out)& contynueth in her wayes. He loketh in at her windowes/ & herkeneth at her dores: He taketh hys rest beside her house/& fasteneth his stake in her walles: He shall pytch his tente nye vnto her hande/and in his tent shall good thinges rest for euermore: He shall set hys chyldren vnder her couering/& shall dwell vnder her braunches. Vnder her couerynge shall he be defended from the heate/and in her glory shall he rest.

¶ The goodnes that foloweth hym whych feareth God. God reiecteth and casteth of the synner. God is not the auctor of euell.

¶ The.xv. Chapter.

A HE that feareth God/wyll do good: and who so kepeth the lawe/shall optayne wysdome. As an honorable mother shall she mete hym/and as a virgyn shall she receaue hym. Wyth the bred of lyfe and vnderstandyng shall she fede him/& geue him the water of wholsome wysdome to drincke. If he be constant in her/he shall not be moued: & yf he holde hym fast by her/he shall not come to confusyō. She shal bringe hym to honoure amonge his neyghboures/& in the myddest of the congregacyō shall she open his mouth. With the spyrete of wysdome & vnderstanding shall she fyll him/ & clothe him with the garmēt of glory. She shall heape the treasure of myrth & ioye vpō hym/and geue hym an euerlastyng name to heretage. Folysh men wyll not take holde vpon her/but soch as haue vnderstandynge/ wyll mete her/for she is farre frō pryde and dysceate. ¶ Saye not thou: I wyll hyde my selfe from God/for who wyll thynche vpon me from aboue? I shall not be knowne in so greate a heape of people/for what is my soule amonge so many creatures? Beholde/ the heauen/yee the heauen of heauens/the depe/the earth/and all that therin is/shall be moued at hys presence: the mountaynes/ the hylles/and the foundacyons of the earth shall shake for feare/when God vysyteth the. These thinges doth no hert vnderstande/ but he vnderstandeth euery herte/and who vnderstandeth hys wayes? No man seyth hys storme/and the most part of his worckes are secrete. Who wyll declare the worckes of hys ryghtuousnes? Or who shalbe able abyde them? For the couenaunt is farre frō some/and the tryenge out of men is in the fulfyllyng. He that is humble of hert/thinketh vpon soche thynges: but an vnwyse and erroneous man casteth hys mynde vnto folysh thynges.

D My sonne/herken thou vnto me/& lerne vnderstandynge/& marcke my wordes with thyne herte: I wyll geue the a sure doctryne/ and planely shall I instructe the. God hath sett hys worckes in good ordre from the begynnyng/& parte of them hath he sundered from the other. He hath garnished hys worckes from euerlastyng/and their begynnynges/accordynge to their generacyons. None of them hyndered another/nether was any of them dysobedyent vnto hys worde. After thys/God loked vpon the earth/and fylled it wyth hys goodes. Wyth all maner of lyuynge beastes hath he couered the grunde/and they all shalbe turned vnto earth agayne.

A GOd shope man of the earth/and turned hym vnto earth agayne. He gaue hym the nombre of dayes and certayne tyme/yee and gaue hym power of the thynges & are vpon earth. He clothed hym wyth strength/& made hym after hys awne lyckines. He made all flesh to stande in awe of hym/so that he had the dominyon of all beastes and foules. He made out of hym an helper lyke vnto hym selfe/ and gaue them dyscrecyon and tonge/eyes and eares/and a herte to vnderstande/and fylled them with instruccyon and vnderstandynge. He created for them also the knowledge of the spyrete/fylled their hertes wb vnderstandyng/and shewed them good & euell. He set hys eye vpon their hertes/declarynge vnto them hys greate and noble worckes: that they shulde prayse hys holy name together/reioyse of hys wonders/and be tellynge of hys noble actes. Besyde thys/he gaue them instruccyon/and the lawe of lyfe for an heretage.

He made hym an euerlastyng couenaunt with them/and shewed them his ryghtuousnes and iudgementes. They sawe hys glory wyth their eyes/and their eares hearde the maiesty of hys voyce. And he sayde vnto them beware of all vnryghtuous thynges. He gaue euery man also a commaundemēt cōcernynge hys neyghboure.

Their wayes are euer before hym/& are not hyd from hys eyes. He hath set a rular vpon euery people/but Israel is the Lordes porcyō. All their worckes are as ỹ Sunne/ in the sight of God/and hys eyes are alwaye lokynge vpon their wayes. All their vnrighteousnesses are manyfest vnto hym/and all their wyckednesses are open in hys syght. The mercy that a man sheweth is as it were a purse with hym/and a mās good dede preserueth hym as the apple of an eye. At the last shall he awake/and rewarde euery man vpon his he ad as he hath deserued/and shall turne thē together into the nethermost partes of the earth. But vnto thē that wyll repent/he hath geuen the waye of ryghtuousnes. As for soche as be weake/he comforteth them/suffreth thē/and sendeth them the porcyon of the veryte. O turne then vnto the Lorde/forsake thy synnes/make thy prayer before the Lorde/do the lesse offence/turne agayne vnto the Lorde/forsake thyne vnryghtuousnes/be an vtter enemye to abhominyacyon/lerne to knowe the ryghtuousnes and iudgementes of God/stande in the porcyon that is set forth for the/and in the prayer of the most hye God. Go in to the porcyon of the holy worlde/wyth soche as be lyuynge and geue thankes vnto God.

Who wyll prayse the Lorde in the hell? Abyde not thou in the errour of the vngodly/but geue hym thanckes before death. As for the deed/thanckfulnesse perysheth from hym as nothynge. Geue thou thanckes in thy lyfe/yee whyle thou art liuinge & whole shalt thou geue thanckes/and prayse God/ and reioyse in hys mercye. O how greate is the louynge kyndnesse of the Lorde/and hys mercyfull goodnes vnto soche as turne vnto hym: For all thynges maye not be in man: and why the sonne of man is not immortall/ and he hath pleasure in the vanyte of wyckednes. What is more cleare then ỹ Sūne: yet shall it fayle. Or what is more wycked then the thynge ỹ flesh & bloude hath ymagyned: and that same shalbe reproued. The Lorde seyth the power of the hye heauē/and all are but earth & asshes.

Gene.i.d. A HE that lyueth for euermo3e / made all thynges together. God onely is rightuous / & remayneth a victorious kynge for euer. Who shalbe able to expresse ỹ wo3ckes of him? Who hath sought out the grounde of hys noble actes? Who shall declare the power of hys greatnesse? Or / who wyll take vpō him to tell out his mercy? As for ỹ wonderous wo3kes of ỹ Lo3de / there maye nothynge be taken from them / nothynge maye be put vnto them / neyther maye the grounde of thē be founde out. But when a man hath done his best / he must begynne agayne: and when he thynketh to become to an ende / he must go agayne to his labour. What is mā? Wherto is he wo3thy? What good or euell can he do? If ỹ nombre of a mās dayes be almost an hūdreth yeare / it is moch.

B Lyke as the droppes of rayne are vnto ỹ see / and as a grauell stone is in comparison of ỹ sande: so are these few yeares to ỹ dayes euerlastynge. Therfore is the Lo3de pacient with them / and poureth out his mercy vpon them. He sawe and perceaued the thoughtes and ymaginacyons of their herte / that they were euell: therfore heaped he vp his mercyfull goodnes vpon them / & shewed them the waye of ryghtuousnes. The mercy ỹ a man hath / reacheth to his neyghboure: but ỹ mercy of God is vpon all flesh. Some man kepeth silence/and is founde wyse: but he that is not ashamed what he sayeth/is hatefull. Some man holdeth hys tonge/because he hath not ỹ vnderstanding of the language: and some man kepeth sylence/waytynge a conuenient tyme. A wyse man wyll holde hys tonge tyll he se opportunitie/but a wanton and vndiscrete body shal regarde no tyme. Some man hath oft tymes prosperite in wicked thinges: Agayne/some mā getteth moch/and hath harme and losse. There is some gift that is nothinge worth: Agayne there is some gift/whose rewarde is double. Some mā getteth a fal for beyng to proude and some commeth to worshype from lowe estate. The foole sayeth: I haue no frende/I haue no thanke for all my good dedes: yee euen they that eate my bred/speake no good of me. O how oft/and of how many shall he be laughed to scorne? He taketh a more perlous fall by soch wordes then yf he fell vpon the grounde: euen so shal the falles of wicked men come hastely. Stryfe and wrongeous dealynge shall waste awaye a mās goodes/ & thorow pryde a ryche house shalbe brought to naught: so the ryches of the proude shalbe roted oute. The prayer of the poore goeth oute of the mouth/ and commeth vnto the eares/ and hys vengeaunce (or defence) shall come/ and that hastely. Who so hateth to be reformed it is a token of an vngodly personne: but he that feareth God/ wyll remembre hym selfe. A myghtye man is knowne a farre of by his tonge/ but he that hath vnderstanding/ perceaueth that he shall haue a fall.

B Who so buyldeth hys house wyth other mens cost/ is lyke one that gathereth stones in wynter. The congregacyō of the vngodly is lyke stubble gathered together/ their ende is a flamme of fyre. The waye of the vngodly is lett wyth stones/ but in their ende is hell/ darckenes/ and paynes. He that kepeth the law/ wyll holde fast ỹ vnderstādyng therof/ and the ende of the feare of God is wysdome. He that is not wyse/ wil not be taught in good: but the vnwyse man aboundeth in wyckednesse: and where bytternes is/ there is no vnderstandyng. The knowledge of the wyse shall flowe lyke water ỹ renneth ouer/ and his councell is lyke a fountayne of lyfe.

The hert of a foole is lyke a brokē vessell/ he can kepe no wysdome. When a man of ¶ vnderstandynge heareth a wyse worde/ he shall cōmende it/ and make moch of it. But yf a voluptuous man heare it/ he shall haue no pleasure therin/ but cast it behynde hys back. The talckynge of a foole is lyke an heuy burthē by the waye: but to heare a wyse man speake/ it is a pleasure. Where a doute is in the cōgregacon/ it is asked at ỹ mouth of the wyse/ & they shal ponder his wordes in their hertes. Lyke as a house ỹ is destroyed/ euen so is wysdome vnto a foole: As for the knowledge of the vnwyse/ it is but darck wordes. Doctryne is vnto hym that hath no vnderstandynge/ euen as fetters aboute hys fete/ & lyke mannycles vpon his ryghthand. A foole lyfteth vp his voyce with laughter/ but a wyse man shall scarse laugh secretly.

Lernynge is vnto a wyse man a Jewell of golde/ & lyke an armlet vpō his ryght arme. A foole wyll pepe in at the wyndow in to ỹ house/ but he that is well nourtured/ wyll stande without. A foolish man standeth herkenyng at the doze/ but he that is wyse/ will be ashamed.

The lyppes of the vnwyse wylbe tellynge foolish thynges/ but the wordes of soch as haue vnderstandynge/ shalbe weyed in ỹ balaunce. The hert of fooles is in their mouth/ but the mouth of the wyse is in their herte. When the vngodly curseth the blasphemer/ he curseth his awne soule. ¶ The purgacyon of the slouthfull. Of the folysshe sonne & daughter/ we must haue discrecyon how and to whom we ought to preache/ of sorowing vpon the deed. A fole is not to be moche talked with all. Iniuryes & wronges do breake frendshyp & amytie.

A SLouthfull body is moulded of a stone of claie: he that toucheth him must wash hys handes agayne. A mysnurtored sonne is ỹ dishonoure of the father. A foolish daughter shalbe lytle regarded. Lyke as the vapour & smoke goeth out at the ouē before the fyre/ euen so euell wordes/ rebukes and threatenynges go before bloudsheddynge. Be not ashamed to defende thy frende: as for me/ I wyll not hyde my face frō him/ though he shulde do me harme. Whosoeuer heareth it/ shall bewarre of hym. Who shall set a watch before my mouth/ & a sure seale vpon my lyppes/ that I fall not with them/ & that my tonge destroye me not?

¶ A prayer agaynst pryde/ lechery/ and glotony. Of othes/ blaspheny/ & of vyle communicacyon. Of the thre kindes of synnes. Many synnes proceade of aduoutrye. Of the feare of God.

O Lorde/ father & gouernoure of

Who will kepe my thought with the scourge/ & the doctryne of wysdome in myne herte: that he spare not myne ignorauunce/ that I fall not with them/ lest myne ignorauunces increase/ that myne offences be not many in nombre/ & that my synnes exceade not: lest I fall before myne enemyes/ & so my aduersary reioyse. O Lord thou father & God of my life/ leaue me not in their ymagynacyon. O let me not haue a proude loke/ but turne awaye all voluptuousnes fro me. Take fro me the lustes of the body/ let not the desyres of vnclennes take holde vpon me/ & geue me not ouer into an vnshamefast and obstynate mynde.

Heare me (O ye chyldren) I will geue you a doctryne/ how ye shall order youre mouth: who so kepeth it/ shal not perysh thorow his lyppes/ ner be hurt thorow wycked workes As for the synner/ he shall be taken in hys awne vanyte: he that is proude & cursed/ shal fall therin.) Let not thy mouth be acustomed with swearyng/ for in it there are many falles. Let not ỹ namyng of God be cōtynually in thy mouth: for lyke as a seruaunt whych is oft punyshed cā not be without some sore/ euen so whatsoeuer he be that sweareth and nameth God/ shal not be cleane pourged frō synne. A man that vseth moche swearinge/ shalbe fylled wyth wickednes/ and the plage shall neuer go from hys house. If he begyle his brother/ hys faute shalbe vpon him: yf he knowledge not hys synne/ he maketh a dubble offence/ & yf he sweare in vayne/ he shall not be founde ryghteous/ for his house shal be full of plages.

Vse not thy mouth to vnhoneste and filthy talkynge/ for in it is ỹ worde of synne. Remembre thy father and thy mother/ when thou art set amonge greate men: lest God forget the in their sight/ & lest thou doting in thy custome suffre rebuke/ & wysh not to haue bene borne/ and so curse the daye of thy natyuite. The man that is accustomed with the wordes of blaspheny/ wyll neuer be reformed all the dayes of his lyfe. To synne twise is to moch/ but the thyrde bringeth wrath & destruccyō. An hote stomack can not be quenched (euen lyke a burnynge fyre) tyll it haue swalowed vp somthing: euē so an vnchast man hath no rest in hys flesh/ tyll he haue kyndled a fyre.

A man that breaketh wedlock / & regardeth not his soule/ but sayeth: Tush / who seyth me? I am compassed aboute with darcknes/ the walles couer me/ no body seyth me: whō nede I to feare? The Hyest wyll not remembre my synnes. He vnderstādeth not that hys eyes se all thynges/ for all soch feare of men dryueth awaye the feare of God from hym: for he feareth onely the eyes of men/ and consydereth not that the eyes of the Lorde are clearer then the Sunne/ beholdynge all the wayes of men and the grounde of the depe/ and lokynge euen to mens hertes in secrete places. The Lorde God knewe all thynges or euer they were made / and after they be brought to passe also he loketh vpon thē all. The same man shalbe openly punyshed in ỹ stretes of the cytie/ & shalbe chased abrode lyke a yonge horse foale: & whē he thynketh leest vpon it/ he shalbe takē. Thus shal he be put to shame of euery mā / because he wolde not vnderstande the feare of the Lorde. And thus shal it go also with euery wife that leaueth her housband/ and getteth enheretaūce by a straunge mariage. First, she hath bene vnfaithfull vnto the lawe of the Hyest: Secondly/ she hath forsakē her awne housband: Thirdly/ she hath played ỹ whore in aduoutry/ & gottē her children by another mā. She shalbe brought out of the cōgregacyō/ & her children shalbe loked vpon Her childrē shall not take rote: & as for frute / her braunches shall bringe forth none. A shamefull report shall she leaue behynde her/ & her dishonour shall not be put out. And they ỹ remayne/ shal knowe/ ỹ there is nothing better/ then ỹ feare of God: & ỹ there is nothing sweter then to take hede vnto the cōmaundemētes of the Lorde. A greate worshippe is it to folowe ỹ Lord/ for longe lyfe shalbe receyued of him

WYsdome shall prayse her selfe/ and be honoured in God / & reioyse in the myddest of his people: In ỹ cōgregaciōs of ỹ Hyest shal she open her mouth/ & triumphe in the beholdynge of his power: In the middest of her people shall she be exalted / & wondred at in the holy fulnesse: In the multytude of ỹ chosen she shalbe cōmended/ and amonge soch as be blessed she shalbe praysed/ & shall saye: I am come out of ỹ mouth of the Hyest/ fyrst borne before all creatures. I caused ỹ lyght that fayleth not/ to aryse in the heauen/ & couered all ỹ earth as a cloude. My dwellynge is aboue in the heyth/ & my seate is in the pyler of the cloude. In all these thinges also I sought rest/ & a dwellinge in some enheritaunce. So the creator of all thynges gaue me a cōmaundement: & he that made me/ appoynted me a tabernacle/ and sayde vnto me: Lett thy dwelling be in Jacob/ & thyne inheritaūce in Israel/ & rote thy selfe amōge my chosen. I was created from the begynnynge and before the worlde / & shall not leaue of vnto the worlde to come. In the holy habytacyon haue I serued before him / and so was I stablyshed in Sion. In ỹ holy citie rested I in like maner: & in Jerusalem was my power/ I toke rote in an honorable people / euen in the porcyon of the Lord & in his heretage / & kepte me in the fulnes of ỹ saynctes. I am set vpan hye like a Ceder vpon Lybanus / & as a Cypers tre vpon the mount Hermon: I am exalted lyke a palme tre in Cades/ & as a rose plāte in Jericho: As a fayre olyue tre in the felde / & am exalted like as a planteyne tre by the water syde. I haue geuen a smell in the strettes/ as the Cynamom and Balme/ that hath so good a sauoure: yee a swete odoure haue I geuen as it were Myrre of the best.

I haue made my dwellynges to smell as it were of rosyn/ Galbanum / of Clowes/ & Incense/ & as Libanus when it is not hewē downe/ & myne odoure is as ỹ pure Balme. As the Terebynte haue I stretched out my braunches/ and my braūches are the braunches of honoure and louynge fauoure. As ỹ byne haue I brought forth frute of a swete sauoure/ & my floures are ỹ frute of honoure & ryches. I am ỹ mother of bewtye/ of loue/ of feare/ of knowledge & of holy hope. In me is all grace of lyfe & trueth: In me is all hope of lyfe & vertue. O come vnto me/ all ye that be desyrous of me / & fyll youre selues wyth my frutȝ: for my spyrete is sweter then hony/ & so is my inherytaunce more then the hony combe: the remembraūce of me endureth for euermore. They that make me to be knowen/ shall haue euerlastynge lyfe.

All these thynges are the boke of lyfe/ the couenaunt of the Hyest/ & the knowledge of the trueth. Gene.xiii.b. before God and men: The vnyte of Roma.xii.a brethren/ the loue of neyghbours/ and man and wyfe that agree wel together.

Thre thynges there be which my soule hateth / and I vtterly abhorre the lyfe of them:

Eccli.xl.d A poore man that is proude. A rych man that is a lyar/ and an olde body that doteth/ and is vnchaste.

If thou hast gathered nothynge in thy youth / what wylt thou fynde then in thyne age? O how pleasaunt a thynge is it/ when gray headed mē are discrete/ & whē ý elders cā geue good counsel? O how comely a thing is wysdome vnto aged men? yee vnderstandyng and councell is a gloryous thing. The crowne of olde men is to haue moch experience/ & the feare of God is their worshyppe.

There be .ix. thynges / which I haue iud-

B ged in myherte to be happye/ & the tēth wyll I tell forth vnto men with my tonge. A man that whyle he lyueth / hath ioye of hys chyldren/ & seith the fall of hys enemyes. Well is hym that dwelleth wyth an houswyfe of vnderstandynge/ & ý hath not fallen wyth hys tonge/ & ý hath not bene fayne to serue soch as are vnmete for hym. Well is hym/ ý fyndeth a faythfull frende: & well is hym/ which talketh of wisdome to an eare ý heareth hym. O how great is he/ ý fyndeth wysdome and knowledge? Yet is he not aboue hym / that feareth the Lorde. The feare of God hath set it self aboue all thinges. Blessed is the man/ vnto whom it is grauted to haue the feare of God. Vnto whō shall he be lyckened/ ý kepeth it fast? The feare of God is the begynnyng of his loue/ & the begynnynge of fayth is to cleue fast vnto it. The heuynes of the hert is all the punyshment/ & the wickednes of a woman goeth aboue all. All punyshmēt and plage is nothynge in comparison of the plage of the herte/ euen so all wyckednes is nothynge to the wyckednesse of a woman.

Whatsoeuer happeneth vnto a man/ is nothinge in comparyson of it/ that his euell C wyllers do vnto him: and all vengeance is no thynge to the vengeaunce of the enemye.

There is not a more wicked heade then the head of the serpent / & there is no wrath aboue the wrath of a woman. I will rather dwell wt a lyō & dragō/ then to kepe house wt a wicked wyfe. The wyckednesse of a womā chaūgeth her face/ she shall mosfell her coūtenaunce as it were a Beer/ & as a sack shal she shewe it amōge the neyghbours. Her husbande is brought to shame amōge his neyghbours/ and whē he heareth it/ it maketh him to syghe. All wyckednes is but lytle to the wyckednes of a woman / the porcyon of the vngodly shall fall vpon her.

Lyke as to clymme vp a sandy waye is D to the fete of the aged/ euen so is a wyfe full Eccli.xlii.b. of wordes to a styll quiete man. Loke not to ii.Reg.xi.a. narowly vpon the bewtye of a woman / lest and.xiii.a. thou be prouoked in desyre toward her. The wrath of a woman is dishonoure and greate confusyon. If a womā get the mastrie/ then is she contrary to her housbande. A wycked wyfe maketh a sory herte / an heuy countenaunce & a deed wounde. Of ý womā came Gene.iii.a. the begynnyng of synne/ and thorow her we 1.Timo.viii.b all are deed. Geue thy water no passage / no not a lytle/ nether geue a wicked womā her wyll. If she walcke not after thy hande/ she shall confounde the in the syght of thy enemies. Cut her of then from thy flesh/ that she do not alwaye abuse the.

¶ The prayse of a good woman. Of the feare of thre thynges & of the fourth. Of the Jelouze & dronckē woman. Of two thynges that cause sorowe/ & of the thyrde which moueth wrath. It is harde to fynde a marchaunt without dysceate/ or a tauerner without synne in his tonge. ¶ The .xxvj. Chapter.

A HAppie is the man that hath a vertuous wyfe/for the nombre of his yeares shalbe dubble. An honest woman maketh her housbande a ioyfull man / and she shall fyll the yeares of his lyfe in peace. A vertuous womã is a noble gyft/ which shalbe geuen for a good portion vnto soch as feare God. Whether a man be rych or poore / he maye haue euer a mery herte/and a chearfull countenaunce / there be thre thynges that my herte feareth / & my face is afrayed of the fourth. Treason in a cytie / a sedycious people/ & noysome tõges/ all these are heuyer then the death. But whẽ one is gelous ouer hys wyfe / it bryngeth payne and sorowe vnto the herte: and a womã that telleth out all thynges/is a scourge of the tonge. When one hath an euell wyfe/ it is euen as when an vnlyke pare of oxen must drawe together / he that getteth her/ getteth a scorpiõ. A drõckẽ womã is a great Judicum.xvi. plage/for she can not couer her awne shame

B The whordome of a woman maye be knowen in the pryde of her eyes and eyelyddes. If thy daughter be not shamefast/ holde her straytly / lest she abuse her selfe Eccli.xlij.b. thorow ouermoch lyberte. Beware of all ỹ dishonesty of her eyes / & maruell not yf she do agaynst the. Lyke as one that goeth by ỹ waye & is thirstie/so shal she opẽ her mouth/ & dryncke of euery nexte water ỹ she maye get. By euery hedge shall she syt her downe/ & open her quyuer agaynst euery arowe. A louynge wyfe reioyseth her housbande & fedeth his bones with her wysdome. A womã of few worde is a gyfte of God / & to al well nurtured mynde maye nothyng be cõpared.

C An honest and manerly woman is a gyft aboue other gyftes/ & there is no weight to be compared/ vnto a mynde that can rule it selfe. Lyke as the Sunne when it ariseth/is an ornament in the hye heauen of ỹ Lorde/ so is a vertuous wyfe the bewtye of all her house. Like as the cleare lyght is vpõ ỹ holy candelstick/so is the bewtie of ỹ face vpõ Genesis.v.d. an honest body. Lyke as the golden pylers are vpon the sockettes of syluer / so are the fayre legges vpon a woman that hath a cõstant mynde. Perpetuall are ỹ foundacyõs that be layed vpon a whole stonye rocke / so are the commaundementes of God vpon an holy woman.

D There be two thinges that greue my hert/ and in the thirde is a displeasure come vpon me. When an experte man of warre suffreth scarsenes and pouerte. When men of vnderstandynge and wysdome are not sett by: And when one departeth from rightuousnes vnto synne. Who so doth soch/the Lorde hath prepared him vnto the swerde. There be two maner of thynges/ whych me thyncke to be herde and perylous. A marchaunt can not lyghtly kepe him from wronge/ nether a tauerner him selfe from synne.

C Of the poore that wolde be ryche. The probacyõ of the man that feareth God. The vnconstantnesse of a fole. The secretes of a frynde are not to be vttered. The wycked ymagineth euell/which retourneth vpõ hym selfe.

C The.xxbij.Chapter.

A BEcause of pouerte haue many one offended: and he that seketh to be riche/turneth his eyes aslyde. Like as a nayle in the wall sticketh fast betwyxte two stones / euen so doth synne sticke betwixte ỹ byer & the seller. If he hold him not dilygently in the feare of the Lorde/ his house shall soone be ouerthrowen. Lyke as when one syfteth / the fylthynes remayneth in the syue: So/remayneth there some vncleane thinge in the thought of man. The Sapien.iij.a. ouen proueth the potters vessell/so doth tẽpi.Petr.iij.b. tacyõ of trouble trye ryghtuous men. *The tre of the felde is knowẽ by hys frute/so is ỹ *Mat.vij.b. thought of mãs hert knowne by his wordes. Prayse no mã excepte thou haue herde him/ for a man is knowen by his wordes. If thou folowest ryghtousnes/thou shalt get her/ & put her upon the as a fayre garment. And thou shalt dwell with her/ & she shal defende the for euer/ & in ỹ daye of knowledge thou shalt fynde stedfastnesse. The byrdes resorte vnto their lyke/ so doth the trueth turne vnto them that be occupied withall. The lyon wayteth for the praye: so do the synnes lurke vpõ ỹ worckers of wickednes. The talking of him ỹ feareth God/is nothynge but wysdome: as for a foole / he chaungeth as the Moone. If thou be amonge the vndiscrete/ kepe thy worde to a conuenient tyme / but amonge soch as be wyse/speake on hardely. C The talkyng of fooles is abhomynacyon/ & their sporte is voluptuousnesse and misnurtoure. Moch swearing maketh the hearre to stande vp / and to stryue wyth soch/stoppeth the eares.

The stryfe of ỹ proude is bloudshedding/ & their blasphemynge is heuy to heare. Who so discouereth secretes/ leseth his credence/ Eccli.xvi.b. & fyndeth no frynde after his wyll. Loue thy xxij.d. frynde/& bynde thy selfe in faithfulnes with him: but yf thou bewrayest his secrets/ thou shalt not get him agayne: For lyke as ỹ man is that destroyeth hys enemye/so is he also ỹ dealeth falsly in the frendshipe of his neyghboure.

Lyke as one that letteth a byrde go oute of his hande/can not take her agayne: Euen D so thou / yf thou geue ouer thy frynde/ thou canst not get him agayne: Yee thou cãst not come by him/for he is to farre of. He is vnto the to the as a Roo escaped out of the snare/ for his soule is wonded. As for woundes / they maye be bounde vp agayne / and an euell worde maye be reconcyled: but who so bewrayeth the secretes of a frende / there is no more hope to be had vnto him.

Prouer.x.b. He that wincketh with the eyes / ymagyneth some euell / and no man shall take hym from it. When thou art present / he shall hymie commede and prayse thy wordes: but at the last he shall turne his tayle/ & sclaunder thy sayenge. Many thynges haue I hated/ but no thinge so euell/for the Lorde himself also abhorreth soch one.

Ero.xxi.b. ¶ Who so casteth a stone on hye/it shall fall vpon hys awne head: and he that smyteth with gyle/ woundeth himself. Who so dyggeth a pyt / shall fall therin: and he ꝑ layeth a snare/ shall be taken in it himself. Who so geueth a wycked noysome councell / it shall come vpon hymself/ and he shall not knowe from whence. The proude blasphemeth are scorne full/ but vengeance lurketh for them as a lyon. They that reioyse at the fall of the righteous/ shall be takē in ꝑ snare/ angwysh of herte shall consume them before they dye. Anger and rygorousnes are two abhominable thynges / and ꝑ vngodly hath them both vpon hym.

¶ We ought not to desyre vengeaūce / but to forgeue the offence. Of the vyces of the tonge/and of the daūgers therof.

He that seketh vengeaunce / shall fynde vengeaunce of the Lorde/ which shall surely kepe hym hys synnes. Forgeue thy neyghboure the hurte that he hath done the / and so shall thy synnes be forgeuen the also/ when thou prayest. A man that beareth hatred agaynst another / how darre he desyre forgeuenesse of God? He that sheweth no mercy to a man which is lyke him selfe / how darre he aske forgeuenesse of his synnes? If he that is but flesh/beareth hatred and kepeth it/who wyll intreate for his sinnes? Remembre ꝑ ende/ & let enmyte passe/ which seketh death and destruccyō/ & abyde thou in ꝑ cōmaundemēts. Remembre the commaundement / so shalt thou not be rygorous ouer thy neyghboure.

Ecclī.viij.a. ¶ Thincke vpō the couenaunt of the Hyest / & forgeue thy neyghbours ignorāunce. Beware of strife/ & thou shalt make thy sinnes fewer. For an angrie mā kindleth variaūce/ and the vngodly disquyeteth frendes/ & putteth discorde amonge them that be at peace.

Prou.xxvi.c. The more wodd there is/the more vehement is the fyre: and the mightier that men be/ the greater is the wrath: and ꝑ longer the stryfe endureth/the more it burneth.

An hastye brawlynge kyndleth a fyre/ & C an hastie stryke sheddeth bloude. If thou blowe the sparke: it shal burne: If thou spyt vpon it: it shall go forth / & both these go out of thy mouth. The sclaunderer & dubble tonged is cursed/ for many one that be frendes setteth he at varyaunce. The tyrde tonge hath disquyeted many one/ and dryuen them from one lande to another. Stronge cyties hath it broken downe/ and ouerthrowne the houses of greate men. The tyrde tōge hath cast out many an honest woman / and robbed them of their labours. Who so herkeneth vnto soch/ shal neuer fynde rest/ & neuer dwell safely. The stroke of the rod maketh yedders/ but the stroke of the tonge smyteth ꝑ bones in sunder. There be many that haue perysshed w the swerde / but many mo thorow the tonge.

Ecclī.xxiij.a. ¶ Well is him ꝑ is kepte frō an euell tonge/ D & commeth not in the anger therof / whych draweth not the yock of soch/ & is not bounde in the bandes of it. For the yock therof is of yron/and the bande of it of stele. The death therof is a very euell death: hell were better for one/then soch a tonge. But the fyre of it maye not oppresse them that feare God/ and ꝑ flamme therof maye not burne thē. Soch as forsake the Lorde/ shall fall therin: and it shall burne them/ and no mā shall be able to quench it. It shall fall vpō them as a Lyon/ and deuoure thē as a leparde. Thou hedgest thy goodes with thornes: why doest thou not rather make dores & barres for thy mouth? Thou weyest thy golde and syluer: why doest thou not weye thy wordes also vpon the balaunce? C A good honest mā is suertye for his neyghboure / but a wycked personne ietteth hym come to shame. Forget not the frendshype of of thy suertye / for he hath geuē his soule for the. The vngodly despyseth the good dede of his suertye/ & the vnthanckfull & ignorant leaueth his suertye in daunger. Some man promyseth for hys neyghboure: and when he hath lost his honesty/ he shal forsake him. Suertishyppe hath destroyed many a ryche man/ & remoued them as the waues in ẏ see. Mightie people hath it dryuen awaye / and caused thē to wandre in straunge countrees. An vngodly mā transgressyng the cōmaund-ment of the Lorde / shall fall in to an euell suertishipe: & though he force him self to get out/ yet shall he fall into iudgmēt. Helpe thy neyghbour out after thy power/ & bewarre/ that thou thy selfe fall not in soch dett. The chefe thynge that kepeth in ẏ lyfe/ is water and bred/ clothynge and lodginge/ to couer ẏ shame.

Who so enfourmeth & teacheth his sonne/ greueth ẏ enemye: & before hys frendes he maye haue ioye of him. Though the father dye/ yet is he as though he were not deed: for he hath left one behynde him that is lyke him. In his lyfe he sawe him/ & had ioye in him/ and was not sory in his death/ nether was he ashamed be-fore the enemyes. For he left behynde hym an auenger agaynst his enemyes/ & a good doer vnto the frendes. For the lyfe of chyldrē he shal bynde the woundes together/ and his herte is greued at euery crye. He setteth vp the soule / & lyghteneth the eyes: He geueth health lyfe & blessynge. He that geueth an offering of vnrighteous good / his offeryng is refused: and the scornefull dealynges of the vnryghteous please not God. God hath no delyte in the offerynges of the vngodly / nether maye synne be reconcyled in the multitude of oblacyõs. Who so bryngeth an offerynge oute of the goodes of the poore / doth euen as one ỹ kylleth the sonne before the fathers eyes.

D The bred of the nedefull is the lyfe of the poore: he that defraudeth him therof / is a mã of bloude. Who so robbeth hys neyghboure of his lyuyng / doth as greate synne as though he slew hym to death. He that defraudeth the labourer of his hyre / is a bloude shedder. Whẽ one buyldeth and another breaketh downe / what profyt haue they then but laboure? When one prayeth & another curseth / whose voyce wyll the Lorde heare? He that washeth him selfe because of a deed body / and then toucheth the deed agayne / what doth hys washynge? Take no soch folckes to coūcell/ but be diligēt to seke coūcell at a vertuous man that feareth God/ soch one as thou knowest to be a keper of the cōmaundemētes/ which hath a mynde after thyne awne mynde/ and is sory for the when thou stomblest.

And holde thy councell fast in thyne hert: C for there is no mā more faythfull to kepe it: then thou thy self. For a mās mynde is som-tyme more dysposed to tell oute/ then seuen watchmen that syt aboue in an hye place lo-kynge aboute thē. And aboue all this praye the Hyest/ yͭ he wyll lede thy waye in fayth-fulnes & trueth. Before all thy worckȝ aske coūcell first: & or euer thou doest eny thinge/ be well aduysed. There be foure thyngȝ that declare a chaunged herte/ wherout there spryngeth euell & good/ death & lyfe/ and a master full tonge that bableth moch. Some mā is apte & well instructe in many thingȝ/ & yet very vnprofitable vnto him selfe. Some man there is/ yͭ can geue wyse and pru-dent councell/ & yet is he hated/ & cōtynueth a begger: for yͭ grace is not geuē him of God/ to be accepted. An other is robbed of all wys-dome/ yet is he wyse vntohim self/ & yͭ frute of vnderstādyng is faythfull in his mouth.

D A wyse man maketh his people wyse/ & yͭ frutes of his wysdome fayle not. A wyse mā shall be plenteously blessed of God: & all they yͭ se him/ shall speake good of hym. The lyfe of man standeth in the nombre of the dayes/ but the dayes of Israel are innumerable. A wyse man shall opteyne faythfulnes & cre-dence amonge his people/ & his name shal-be perpetuall. My sonne/ proue thy soule in thy lyfe: & yf thou se eny euell thyng/ geue it not vnto her. For all thynges are not profita ble for all mē/ nether hath euery soule plea-sure in euery thynge. C The. xxxviij. Chapter.

HOnoure yͭ Physicien: honoure him A because of necessite. God hath crea-ted him (for of the Hyest commeth medecyne) & he shall receaue giftes of the kynge. The wysdome of the Physi-cien bringeth him to greate worshipe/ and in the syght of the greate men of thys worlde/ he shalbe honorably takē The Lord hath crea-ted medecine of yͭ earth/ and he that is wyse/ will not abhorre it. Was not the bytter wa-ter made swete wyth a tre: that men myght learne to know the vertue therof. The Lord hath geuen men wysdome and vnderstan-dynge/ that he myght be honoured in his wō-derous worckȝ. With soch doth he heale mē/ & taketh awaye their paynes: Of soch doth the Apotecary make a confeccyō/ yet can no man perfourme all his worckes. For of the Lorde commeth prosperous wealth ouer all the earth. Exod. xv. d. iiij. Reg. iiij. c.

My sonne/ despyse not this in thy sicknes but praye vnto the Lorde/ & he shall make the whole. Leaue of from synne/ & ordre thy handes a ryght: clense thyne herte from all wickednes. Geue a swete sauoured offring/ & the fyne floure for a tokē of remēbraunce: make the offerynge fat/ as one that geueth the fyrst frutes/ and geue rowme to the Phy-sicien. For the Lorde hath created hym: lett him not go frō the/ for thou hast nede of him. The houre maye come/ that the seke maye be helped thorow them/ when they praye vn to the Lorde/ that he maye recouer/ and gett health to lyue longer. He that synneth before hys maker/ shall fall in to the handes of the Physicien. B Eccl. xxxviij. a. ij. Para. xvi. c.

My sonne/ bryng forth thy teares ouer the deed: and begynne to mourne/ as yf thou haddest suffred greate harme thy selfe: & thē couer his body after a conuenient maner/ & despyse not his buryall. Enforce thy selfe to wepe/ and prouoke thy self to mourne/ and make lamentacyon expedyently/ & yͭ a daye or two/ lest thou be euell spoken of: and then comforte thy selfe because of the heuynes. For of heuynes commeth death/ the heuynes of the hert breaketh strength. Heuynes and pouerte greueth the herte in tentacyon & of-fence. Take no heuynes to herte/ dryue it a-waye/ and remembre the last thynges. For-get it not/ for there is no turnynge agayne. C Eccli. xxxviij. c. 1. Thes. iiij. b. Pro. xxv. d. and. xvij. d. He setteth his herte to make forowes / & is diligent to geue the kyne fodder. So is euery carpenter also & worckmaster / that laboureth styll nyght & daye: he caruеth / graueth & cutteth oute / & his desyre is in sondrye connyng thynges / & hys hert ymagyneth / how he maye conyngly cast an ymage / his diligēce also & watchyng perfourmeth the worcke. The yronsmyth in lyke maner bydeth by his stythye / & doth hys dilygence to labour the yron. The vapoure of the fyre brenneth his flesh / & he must fight with the heate of the fornace. The noyse of the Hammer soundeth euer in his eares / and hys eyes loke styll vpon the thynge ỹ he maketh. He hath set his mynde there vpon / that he wyll make out hys worcke / and therfore he watcheth / how he maye set it out / & bring it to an ende.

His herte ymagyneth how he maye make it pleasaunt / and his diligence is to clense the ouen. All these hope in their hādes / & euery one thynketh to be cōnyng in his worke. Without these maye not the cyties be manteyned / inhabited ner occupied: yet come they not hye in the congregacyon: they vnderstande not the couenaunt of ỹ lawe: they can not declare equyte & iudgment: they can not fynde out ỹ darck sentēces. but thorow them shall ỹ creature of the worlde be manteyned: their prayer concerneth onely the worcke & labour of cōnyng.

A HE that applyeth his mynde to vnderstande the lawe of God / doth dilygently seke out the wysdome of them of the olde tyme / & exercyseth hym selfe in the Prophetes. He kepeth the sayinges of famous men / and preasseth to ỹ vnderstandynge of darck sentences of wysdōme. He seketh oute the mysterie of secrete sayinges / & exercyseth hym selfe therin contynually. He doth seruyce amonge greate men / & appeareth before ỹ prynce. He goeth in to a straūge coūtre / & trauayleth thorow it: loke what good or euell is amonge men / he proueth it & seketh it out. He purposeth in hys herte / to resorte early vnto the Lorde ỹ made hym / & to praye before the Hyest God. B
He openeth his mouth in prayer / & prayeth for hys synnes. When the greate Lord will / he shalbe fylled wyth the spyrete of vnderstādyng / that he maye then poure out wyse sentences / and geue thanckes vnto the Lorde in hys prayer. He shall order his deuyce / & lede hys knowledge a ryght / & geue hym vnderstandynge of secrete thynges. He shall shew forth the science of his lernyng / & reioyce in the couenaunt of the lawe of the Lord. The whole congregacon shall cōmende his wysdome / & it shall neuer be put out. The remēbraunce of hym shall neuer be forgotten / & hys name shall contynue from one generacyon to another. His wysdome shalbe spokē of / & the whole congregacyon shall openly declare his prayse. Whyle he lyueth / he hath a greater name then a thousande beside: and after his death / ỹ same name remayneth vnto hym. Yet wyll I speake of mo men of vnderstandyng / for I am full as the Moone. Ecclī.xliij.b. C

Herkē vnto me (ye holy vertuous chyldrē) bringe forth frute / as the rose that is plāted by the brokes of the felde / & geue ye a swete smell as Libanus. Yee euē with ỹ songe of poure lyppes / wyth harpes & playenge / and in geuynge thanckes vnto hym / saye after thys Gette.i.d. maner: All the worckes of the Lorde are exceadynge good / & all hys commaundemētes are mete and conuenient in due season.

A mā nede not to saye: what is ỹ? what is D that? for at tyme conuenient they shall all be sought. At his cōmaundement ỹ water was as a wall / & at the worde of his mouth ỹ waters stode styll. In hys commaundement is euery thynge acceptable and reconcyled / & his health can not be mynished. The worckes of all flesh are before him / & there is nothing hyd frō his eyes. He seyth frō euerlastyng to euerlastyng / and there is nothing to wōderfull or hye vnto hym. A man nede not to saye then / what is this / or that? For he hath made al thynges to do good vnto mā. Hys blessyng shall renne ouer as the streame / and moysture the earth lyke a floude of water. Lyke as he maketh the water for drouth / so shall his wrath fall vpon the Heathen. Gette.vij.d.

His

¶ His wayes are playne and ryght vnto the iust/but the vngodly stomble at them. For the good are good thinges created from the begynnynge/& euell thinges for the vngodly. All thinges necessary for the lyfe of man are created frō the begynnyng: water/fyre/yron and salt/meel/wheate and hony mylk & wyne/oyle & clothinge. All these thinges are created for the best to the faythfull: But to the vngodly shall all these thinges be turned to the hurte and harme. There be spyrytes that are created for vengeaunce/ & in their rygorousnes haue they fastened their tormētes. In ỹ tyme of ỹ ende they shall poure out their strength/& pacyfye ỹ wrath of him that made them. Fyre/hayle/hōger & death: all these thinges are created for vengeaūce.

¶ The teeth of wylde noysome beastes/the scorpions/serpentes/& the swerde are created also for vengeaunce/to the destruccyō of the vngodly. They shall be glad to do his cōmaundementes: and when nede is/they shal be ready vpon earth: and when their houre is come/ they shall not ouerpasse the commaundement of the Lorde.

Therfore haue I takē a good corage vnto me from the begynnynge/and thought to put these thynges in wrytyng/ and to leaue thē behynde me. All the workes of the Lorde are good/& he geueth euery one in due season/& whan nede is/so that a man nede not to saye: thys is worse then that. For in due season they are all pleasaunt and good: And therfore prayse the Lorde wyth whole hert & mouth/& geue thankes vnto his name.

¶ Many mysery es light in a mānes lyfe. All thinges passe awaye/but a fyrme & stable fayth remayneth. Of the blessynge of the rightuous/and prerogatyue of the feare of God.

¶ The .xl. Chapter.

A Greate trauayle is created for all men & anheuy yock vpon all mens chyldrē frō the daye ỹ they go out of their mothers wombe/ tyll they be buried in (ỹ earth) ỹ mother of all thingꝫ: namely/their thoughtes and ymaginacyōs/ feare of the hert/councell/meditacions/longinge and desyre/the daye of death: from the hyest that sytteth vpō ỹ glorious seate/ vnto the lowest & most symple vpon the earth: from him that is gorgyously arayed & weereth a crowne/vntyll hym that is but homely and symply clothed. There is nothynge/ but wrath/zele/fearfulnes/vnquyetnes/ & feare of death/ rygorous anger and stryfe. And in the nyght when one shulde rest and slepe vpon his bedd/the slepe chaungeth hys vnderstandynge and knowledge. A lytle as nothynge is hys rest/ in the slepe as well as in the daye of laboure.

He feareth and is disquyted in the bisyon of his hert/as one that renneth out of a battayll: and in the tyme of healthy he awaketh/ and marueleth that the feare was nothynge. Soch thynges happen vnto all flesh/ both man and best: but seuen folde to the vngodly. Moreouer death/bloudshedding/strife & swerde/oppression/ honger/destruccyon and punyshement: these thynges are all created agaynst the vngodly/ & for their sakes came the floude also. All that is of the earth/ shall turne to earth agayne: & al waters ebagaine in to the see. All wrybes and vnryghteousnes shalbe put awaye/ but faythfulnes & trueth shal endure for euer. The substaūce & goodz of the vngodly shalbe dryed vp and synke awaye as a water floude/ & they shall make a sounde like a greate thonder in the rayne. Ecclī. xxxix.c Genesis. vj.d. .ij.d.

¶ Lyke as the rightuous reioyseth when he openeth his hāde/ so shall the trāsgressours be faynte/when their goodes vanysh & consume awaye. The chyldren of the vngodly shall not obtayne many braunches: and the vncleane rotes vpō the hye rockes shalberoted out before the gras by the water syde & vpon the ryuer banckes. Eccli. xl.b.

Frendlynes & lyberalyte in the increase and blessynge of God/is lyke a paradyse and garden of pleasure: soch mercy also & kyndnes endureth for euer. To labour & to be content wt what a man hath/is a swete pleasaunt lyfe: & that is to fynde a treasure aboue all treasures. To beget chyldren and to repayre the citie/maketh a perpetuall name: but an honest woman is more worth then they both. Wyne & mynstrelsye reioyse the hert/ but ỹ loue of wysdome is aboue them both. i. Timo. vi.b. Philip. iij.b.

¶ Pypinge & harpyng make a swete noyse/ but a frendly tonge goeth beyonde thē both. Thyne eye desyreth fauoure and bewtie but a grene sede tyme rather then they both. A frende and cōpanyon come together at oportunyte/but aboue them both is a wyfe that agreeth with her housbande. One brother helpeth another in the tyme of trouble/but almes shall delyuer more then they both. Golde and syluer fasten the fete/but a good. councell is more pleasaunt then they both Temporall substaunce and strength lyft vp the mynde: but the feare of the Lorde more then they both. The feare of the Lorde wanteth nothyng/and nedeth no helpe. The feare of the Lorde is as a pleasaunt garden of blessynge/and nothyng so bewtyfull as it is. My sonne/lede not a beggers lyfe/for better it were to dye thē to begg. Who so loketh to another mans table/ taketh no thought for his awne lyuynge how to vp holde hys lyfe/ for he fedeth himself with other mens meat. But a wyse and well nurtoured man wyll bewarre therof. Beggynge is swete in the mouth of the vnshamefast / but in hys bely there burneth a fyre.

¶ Of the remembraunce of deeth. Deeth is not to be feared. A curse vpon them that forsake the lawe of God. Good name & fame. An exhortacyō to geue hede vnto wysdome. Of what thynges a man ought to be ashamed.

O Deeth/how bytter is the remembraūce of the / to a mā that seketh rest and cōforte in hys substaunce and ryches / vnto the man ỹ hath nothynge to vexe him/and that hath prosperite in all thynges/yee vnto hym that yet is able to receaue meate? O deeth/how acceptable and good is thy iudgment vnto the nedefull/and vnto him whose strength fayleth/& that is now in hys last age / and that in all thynges is full of care and fearfulnes: vnto him also that is in dispayre/ & hath no hope ner pacyence? Be not thou afrayed of deeth: remembre them that haue bene before the: & that come after the: this is the iudgment of ỹ Lord ouer all flesh. And why woldest thou be agaynst this pleasure of the Hyest? Whether it be ten / an hundreth / or a thousande yeares: deeth asketh not how lōge one hath lyued.

B The chyldren of the vngodly are abhomynable chyldren/and so are they that kepe cōpany with the vngodly. The inheretaunce of vngodly chyldren shall come to naught/ and their posterye shall haue perpetuall shame & confusion. The chyldrē complayne of an vngodly father: and why? for hys sake they are rebuked and despysed. Wo be vnto you (O ye vngodly) which haue forsaken the lawe of ỹ Hyest God: yf ye be borne/ye shall be borne to cursyng/yf ye dye/ the curse shal be youre porcyon.

Ecclī.xl.b.

All that is of ỹ earth/shall turne to earth agayne: so go the vngodly also out of ỹ curse in to destruccyon. The sorow of men is in their body: but the name of the vngodly shall be put out/for it is nothyng worth. Laboure to get the a good name/ for that shall contynue surer by the/ then a thousande greate treasures of golde. A good lyfe hath a nōbre of dayes / but a good name endureth euer.

¶ My chyldren/kepe wysdome in peace: for wysdome that is hyd and a treasure that is not sene/what profyt is in thē both? A man that hydeth his folishnes/is better then a mā ỹ hydeth his wysdome. Therfore be ye turned at my wordes: for it is not good / in all thinges & alwaye to be ashamed. True faith must proue and measure it.

Be ashamed of whordome before father and mother: Be ashamed of lesynge before the prynce & men of auctorite: Of synne/before the iudge & ruler: Of offence/before the cōgregacion & people: Of vnrighteousnes/ before a companyon & frende: Of theft/before the neyghbours. As for ỹ trueth of God and his couenaunt/be not ashamed therof.

Roma.i.b.

Be ashamed to lye wyth thyne elbowes vpon the bred: Be ashamed to loke vpō harlottes: Be ashamed to turne awaye thy face frō thy frende: Be ashamed to take & not to geue: Be ashamed also to loke vpō anothers mans wyfe / and to make many tryflynge wordes with her mayden/or to stande by her bedsyde. Be ashamed to vpbrayde thy frēde: when thou geuest eny thynge / cast hym not in the teth withall.

C The.xliij.Chapter.

A Psal m.ix.a. THe glory of the heygth / is ꝑ fayre and cleare firmament/ the bewtye of the heauē in his glorious clearnes. The sunne whē it appeareth / declareth the daye in the goinge out of it / a maruelous worcke of the Hyest. At noone it burneth the earth / & who maye abyde for ꝑ heate therof? Who so kepeth an ouen whē it is hote/thre tymes more doth the Sunne burne vpon the mountaynes / when it bretheth oute the fyrie beames & shyneth: wyth ꝑ brightnes of it/it blyndeth ꝑ eyes. Greate is the Lorde that made it/& in his cōmaund-ment he causeth it to renne hastely.

Gene.i.b The Moone also is in all/ & at cōuenient

Exo.xij.a of the tyme. The token of the solempne feast is taken of the Moone/a lyght ꝑ mynisheth and increaseth agayne. The Moneth is called after the Moone/it groweth wonderously in her chaungynge.

The armye of heauē also is in ꝑ Heygth/ B in the firmament of heauē it geueth a cleare and glorious shyne. This is the clearnes of the starres/the bewtifull apparell of heauē/

Heygth. In his holy worcke they cōtynue in him ꝑ made it: very bewtyfull is it in hys shyne. He compaseth the heauē aboute with his clearnes & glory/the handes of the Hyest haue bended it. Thorow his cōmaundement he maketh the snowe to fall/& the thonder of his iudgment to smyte hastly. Thorowe hys commaundement the treasures are opened/and the cloudes flie as the foules. In hys power hath he strengthened the cloudes / and broken the hayle stones.

The mountaynes melt at ꝑ sight of him/
the wynde bloweth accordynge to hys wyll.
The sounde of his thonder beateth ꝑ earth / and so doth the storme of the north: the whyrle wynde also lyghteth downe as a fethered foule / casteth oute and spredeth the snow abrode: & as the greshoppers ꝑ destroye all/so falleth it downe. The eye marueleth at ꝑ bewtye of the whytenesse therof/ and ꝑ herte is afrayed at the rayne of it. He poureth out the frost vpon earth/lyke salt/ and whē it is frosen/it is as sharpe as ꝑ pricke of a thistle.

When the coulde Northwynde bloweth / C harde Chrystall cōmeth of ꝑ water. He lygh-teth downe vpon all the gatherynges together of water / and putteth on the waters as a brest plate. He deuoureth the mountaynes/and burneth the wyldernesses: & loke what is grene/he putteth it out like fyre. The medycine of all these is/ when a cloude cōmeth hastely: and when a dew commeth vpon the heate/it shalbe refreshed agayne.

In his worde he stilleth the wynde. In his councell he setteth the depe / and (the Lorde) Jesus planted it. They that sayle ouer the see/tell of his parels and harmes: and when we heare it with our eares/ we maruell the-kes / dyuerse maner of nyce beasts & whal-

¶ The .xliiij. Chapter.

A LEt vs cōmende the noble famous men / and the generacyon of oure forefathers & fathers. Many more glorious actes hath ỹ Lord done / and shewed hys greate power euer sens the beginning. The noble famous men raigned in their kyngdomes / and bare excellent rule. In their wysdome and vnderstandynge / they folowed the councell shewed in the prophecies. They led the folcke thorow the councell and wysdome of the Scrybes of the people. ¶Wyse sentences are founde in their instruccyon. They sought the swetenes and melody of Musick / and brought forth the pleasaunt songes in scripture. They were ryche also / & coulde comforte & pacifye those that dwelt with them. All these were very noble and honorable men in their generacions / and were wel reported of in their tymes. These haue left a name behinde them / so that their prayse shall alwaye be spokē of. Afterward there were some / whose remembraunce is gone. They came to naught & perished / as though they had neuer bene: and be came as though they had neuer bene borne / yee & their chyldren also with them.

B Neuertheles these are louyng men / whose ryghtuousnesse shall neuer be forgottē / but cōtynue by their posterite. Their chyldrē are an holy good heretage: Their sede endured fast in the couenaunt. For their sakes shall their chyldrē & sede cōtynue for euer / & their prayse shall neuer be put downe. Their bodyes are buried in peace / but their name lyueth for euermore. The people can speake of their wysdome / and the cōgregacyon can talke of their prayse. Enoch walked ryght & acceptably before the Lorde: therfore was he translated for an example of amendemēt to the generacyons. Noe was a stedfast and ryghtuous man: & in ỹ tyme of wrath he became a reconcylyng. Therfore was he left a remnaūt vnto the earth / whē ỹ floude came. O how greate/noble & excellent was he/when he lyft vp his hand/and drew out hys swerde agaynst the cyties? Who stode so manly before him? For the Lorde him selfe brought in the enemyes. Stode not the Sunne styll at Josue.x.c. his cōmaundemēt/ & one daye was as longe as two? Hys remembzaunce shalbe swete as hony in all mouthes / and as the playenge of Mulyck by ỹ wyne. He was appoynted to turne the people agayne / and to take awaye all abhomynacyons of ỹ vngodly. He toke care foz hys people / & delyuered them frõ destruccyõ. He kepte hys cytie & made it stronge / ỹ it shulde not be beleged. He dwelt in honoure and wozshype amonge hys people / and enlarged the intraunce of the house / and the courte. He geueth lyght as the mounynge starre in the myddest of the cloudes / and as the moone whā it is full. He shyneth as the sunne in the temple of God. He is as bryght as the rayne bowe in the fayre cloudes/ & flourisheth as the floures & roses in the sprynge of the yeare/ and as lylyes by the ryuers of water: Lyke as the braunches vpon the moūt Libanus in the tyme of Sōmer: as a fyre & incense that is kyndled: Like as an whole ornament of pure golde/ set wyth all maner of precyous stones: & as an olyue tree ỹ is frutefull/ & as a Cypres tree which groweth vp an hye.

B When he put on the garment of honoure/ & was clothed with all bewtye: when he wēt to the holy aulter/ to garnysh the couerynge of the Sanctuary: when he toke the portyons out of ỹ Prestes hand/ he hym self stode by the harth of the aulter/ and hys brethren rounde aboute in ordre. As the braunches of Cedre tree vpon the moūt Libanus/ so stode they rounde aboute hym. And as the braunches of the olyue tree/ so stode all the sonnes of Aaron in their glory. And that he myght sufficiently perfourme his seruyce vpon the aultre/ and garnysh the offryng of the hyest God/ he stretched out hys hande and toke of the drynck offrynge/ & poured in of the wyne: so he poured vpon the botome of the aulter a good smell vnto the hyest Prynce.

Then begāne the sonnes of Aarō to synge/ and to blowe with trompettes/ & to make a greate noyse/ for a remembraunce & prayse vnto ỹ Lord. Then were the people afrayed/ & fell downe to the earth vpon their faces/ to worshyppe the Lorde their God/ and to geue thankes to the almyghtye God. They sunge goodly also with their voyces/ so there was a pleasaunt noyse in the greate house of the Lord. And ỹ people in their prayer besought the Lorde the hyest/ that he wolde be mercyfull/ tyll the honoure of the Lorde were perfourmed. Thus ended they their mynistracīō
C and seruyce. Then went he downe/ and stretched out his hādes ouer the whole multytude of the people of Israel/ that they shulde geue prayse and thankes out of their lyppes vnto the Lorde/ & to reioyse in his name. He begāne yet once also to praye/ that he might openly shew the thankesgeuynge before the Hyest/ namely thus: O geue prayse & thākes (yee all) vnto the Lord oure God/ which hath euer done noble and greate thynges: whych hath increased oure dayes from our mothers wombe/ & dealt wyth vs accordynge to hys mercy: that he wyll geue vs the ioyfulnes of hert/ & peace for oure tyme in Israel. Which faythfully kepeth his mercy for vs euermore/ & all waye delyuereth vs in due season.

D There be two maner of people that I abhorre fro my hert: as for the thyrde/ whom I hate/ it is no people: They that syt vpon the mountayne of Samaria/ the Philystynes/ & the foolysh people that dwell in Sichimis.

I Jesus ỹ sonne of Sirach Eleazarus of Jerusalem/ haue tokened vp these informacyons and documentes of wysdome and vnderstandynge in this boke/ & poured out the wysdome of my hert. Blessed is he that exercyseth hym self therin: & who so taketh soche to hert shalbe wyse. Yf he do these thinges/ he shall be stronge in all. For the lyght of the Lorde ledeth hym.

C The. li. Chapter.

I Thanke the O Lorde & Kynge/ & prayse the O God my sauyoure. Thou hast delyuered me from the roaryng of them/ that prepared thē selues to deuoure me/ out of the hādes of soch as sought after my lyfe: from the multitude of thē that troubled me/ and went aboute to set fyre vpō me on euery syde/ so that I am not brēt in the myddest of the fyre: From the depe of hell/ frō an vncleane tonge/ from lyenge wordes/ frō the wycked Kyng/ and from an vnrighteous tonge. B They compased me round aboute on euery syde/ and there was no man to helpe me. I loked about me/ yf there were any man that wolde socoure me: but there was none. Then thought I vpon thy mercy O Lorde/ & vpon thy actes that thou hast done euer of olde: namely/ that thou delyuerest soch as put their trust in the/ & ryddest them out of ỹ handes of the Heathē. Thus lyft I vp my prayer frō the earth/ and prayed for delyueraunce from death. C When I was yet but yōge/ or euer I wēt astraye/ I desyred wysdome openly in my prayer. I came therfore before the temple/ & sought her vnto the last. Then florysshed she vnto me/ as a grape that is soone rype. My hert reioysed in her/ then wente my fote the ryght

Therfore will I ascribe ỹ glory vnto him / that geueth me wysdome: for I am aduysed to do therafter. I wyll be gelous to cleue vnto the thinge that is good / so shall I not be confounded. My soule hath wrestled with her / and I haue bene dyligent to be occupied in her. I lyft vp myne handes an hye / then was my soule lyghtened thorow wisdome / ỹ I knowleged my foolishnes. I ordred my soule after her / she & I were one hert frō the beginning / & I foūde her in cleanesse. And therfore shall I not be forsaken.

O come vnto me ye vnlerned / & dwell in the house of wisdome: withdrawe not your selues from her / but talke & comen of these thinges / for youre soules are very thirstie. temples / hauynge open clothes / whose hea-des and beerdes are shauen & haue nothyng vpon their heades: roaringe and cryeng vpō their goddes / as men do at the feast / when € one is deed.

The prestes also take awaye ỹ garmētes of the ymages / & decke their wyues & chyldren withall. Whether it be good or euell ỹ eny man do vnto them / they are not able to recompence it: they can nether set vp a kyng ner put him downe. In like maner they maye nether geue ryches / ner rewarde euell.
Though a man make a vowe vnto them and Eccle.5.a kepe it not / they wil not requyre it. They cā not restore a blynde mā to his syght / ner helpe eny man at his nede. They can shewe no mercy to ỹ widdowe / ner do good to the fa-therles. Their goddes of wodd / stone / golde & syluer / are but euen as other stones / that be hewen of ỹ mountayne. They ỹ worshipe thē / shal be cōfounded. How shulde they then be taken for goddes? yee how darre men call them goddes? And though the caldees worshiped them not / hearyng that they were but domme & coulde not speake. Yet they them selues offre vnto Bel / and wolde fayne haue him to speake: as who saye / they coulde fele / that maye not moue. But whan these men come to vnderstandynge / they shall forsake F thē / for their goddes haue no helyng. A great sorte of wemen gyrde with coardes / syt in the stretes / & burne olyue beries. Now yf one of them be conueyed awaye / & lye with eny soch as come by: she casteth her neghbouresse in ỹ teth / because she was not so worthely reputed / ner her coorde broken. What so euer is done for them / it is but in vayne & lost: How maye it then be thought or sayde / that they are goddes? Carpenters & goldsmythes make them / nether be they eny other thinge / but euen what the worke men wyll make of thē.
Yee the goldsmithes them selues that make them / are of no longe contynuaunce: How shulde then the thinges that are made of thē / be goddes? Vayne therfore are the thynges (yee very shame is it) that they leaue behinde thē for their posterite. For as soone as there cōmeth eny warre or plage vpon thē / then ỹ prestes ymagyn / where they maye hyde them selues with them. How can men thynke then that they be goddes / whych nether maye defende them selues from warre / ner delyuer them fro myschoritune? For seyng they be but of wod / of stone / of syluer & of golde: all people & kynges shall knowe her after / ỹ they be but vayne thinges: yee it shalbe openly declared / that they be no goddes: but euen the very workes of mens handes / & ỹ God hath nothinge to do wyth them. They can sett no kynge in the lande ner geue rayne vnto men.
They cā geue no sentēce of a matter / nether defende the lande from wronge: For they are not able to do so moch as a crowe / that flyeth betwirte heuen and earth.

Whan there happeneth a fyre in to ỹ hou- G se of those goddes of wodde / of syluer and of golde / the prestes wyll escape & saue thē sel-ues / but the goddes burne as ỹ balkes therin
They can not wythstande eny kynge or ba-tell: how maye it then be thought or graūted / that they be goddes? Moreouer / these godds of wodde / of stone / of golde and syluer maye nether defende them selues from theues ner robbers: yee ỹ very wicked are stronger then they. These strype them out of their apparell / that they be clothed wythall / these take their golde & syluer from them / and so get thē awaye: yet can they not helpe them selues.
Therfore it is moch better for a man / to be a kynge & to so shewe hys power: or els a profitable vessell in a house / wherin he ỹ oweth it / might haue pleasure: yee or to be a dore in a house / to kepe soch things sake as be therin then to be soch a vayne god. The Sunne / the Mone and all the starres whan they geue their shyne and light / are obedient / and do mē good: When the lightenynge glistreth / all is cleare: The wynde bloweth in euery countre and whan God commaundeth the cloudes to go rounde aboute the whole worlde / they do as they are bidden: whan ỹ fyre is sent downe from aboue and commaunded, it burneth vp hilles and woddes: But as for those goddes / they are not like one of these thinges / nether in beuty ner strength. Wherfore men shulde not thynke / ner saye ỹ they be goddes / seing they can nether geue sentence in iudgment / ỹ ner do men good. For so moch now as ye are sure / that they be no goddes / then feare them not: For they cā nether speake euell ner good of kynges. They can shewe no tokēs in heauen for ỹ Heithen / nether shyne as ỹ Sūne ner geue light as ỹ mone: yee the vnreasonable beastes are better then they / for they can get them vnder the roke / & do thē selues good.

So can

So can ye be certified by no maner of meanes/that they be goddes: therfore feare them not. For lyke as a frayboggarde in a garden of Cucumbers kepeth nothynge/ euē so are their goddes of wod/of syluer & golde: & lyke as a whytethorne in an orcharde/that euery byrde sytteth vpon: yee lyke as a deed body that is cast in the darcke. Euen so is it wyth those goddes of wodde/syluer and golde. By the purple and scarlet which they haue vpon them/and soone fadeth awaye/ye maye vnderstande/that they be no goddes: yee they them selues shall be consumed at the last/ which shall be a greate confusyon of ỹ lāde. Blessed is the godly man/that hath no ymages & worshyppeth none/ for he shalbe farre from reproke.

The story of Susanna/Which is the.xiij. Chapter of Daniel after the Latyn.

THere dwelt a mā in Babylon/called Joachim/ that toke a wyfe/whose name was Susanna/ ỹ daughter of Helchiah/a very fayre woman/ & soch one as feared God. Her father & her mother also were godly people/ & taught their daughter accordynge to the lawe of Moses. Now Joachim (her housbande) was a greate rych mā/ & had a fayre orcharde ioynyng vnto his house. And to him resorted the Jewes comenly/because he was a man of reputacyon amonge thē. The same yeare were there made two iudges/ soch as the Lorde speaketh of: All the wyckednesse of Babilon/ cōmeth from the elders (that is) from the iudges/which seme to rule the people. These came oft to Joachims house/ and all soch as had eny thynge to do in the lawe/ came thyther vnto them.

Now when the people came agayne at after noone/Susanna went in to her housbādes orcharde/to walke. The elders seyng this/that she wēt in daylye/& walcked: they burned burned for lust to her / yee they were almost out of their wittes / & cast downe their eyes / that they shuld not se heauē / ner remembre / ꝑ God is a ryghtuous iudge. For they were both woūded w̄ the loue of her / nether durst one shewe another his greke. And for shame / they durst not tell her their inordynate lust / ꝑ they wolde fayne haue had to do wyth her. Yet they layed wayte for her earnestly from daye to daye / that they myght (at the leest) haue a syght of her. And the one sayde to the other: Up / lett vs goo home / for it is dyner tyme. So they went their waye from her.

When they returned agayne / they came together / enquiryng out ꝑ matter betwixte them selues: yee the one tolde ꝑ other of hys wicked lust. Then appoynted they a tyme / when they might take Sulanna alone.

It happened also ꝑ they spyed oute a conueniēt tyme / when she went forth to walke (as her maner was) & no body with her / but two maydēs / & thought to wash her selfe in the garden / for it was an hote season: And there was not one person there / excepte the two elders / ꝑ had hyd thē selues / to beholde her. So she sayde to her maydens: go fet me oyle and sope / & shut the orcharde doze / that I maye wash me. And they dyd as she bad them / and shut the orcharde doze / & went out them selues at a backe doze / to fet the thing ꝑ she had cōmaunded: but Sulanna knewe not / ꝑ the elders laye there hyd within. Now when the maydens were gone forth / ꝑ two elders gat them vp: & ranne vpō her / saying: now the orcharde dozes are shut / that no mā can se vs: we haue a lust vnto the / therfore consent vnto vs / and lye wyth vs.

If thou wylt not / we shall bryng a testimoniall agaynst the: that there was a yonge felowe with the / and that thou hast sent awaye thy maydēs frō the for the same cause. Sulanna syghed / and sayde: Alas. I am in trouble on euery syde. Though I folow your mynde / it wyll be my death: and yf I consent not vnto you / I can not escape youre hādes. Well / it is better for me / to fall into youre hande without ꝑ dede doynge / then to synne in the syght of the Lorde: and with that / she cryed out with a loude voyce: the elders also cryed out agaynst her.

Then ranne there one to ꝑ orcharde doze / and smote it open. Now whē the seruaūtes of the house herde the crye in the orcharde / they russhed in at the backe doze / to se what the matter was. So when the elders tolde them the seruauntes were greatly ashamed / for why / there was neuer soch a reporte made of Sulanna. On the morow after came the people to Joachim her housbande / & the two elders came also / full of mischeuous ymaginaciōs agaynst Sulanna / to bryng her vnto death / & spake thus before the people: Sende for Sulanna the daughter of Helchias / Joachims wyfe. And immediatly they sent for her. So she came w̄ her father & mother / her chyldrē & all her kynrede. Now Sulanna was a tender person / and maruelous fayre of face. Therfore the wycked mē cōmaunded to take of the clothes frō her face (for she was couered) ꝑ at ꝑ leest / they might so be satisfyed in her beutie. Then her frēdes / yee & all they ꝑ knewe her / begāne to wepe.

These two elders stode vp in the myddest of the people / & layed their handes vpon the heade of Sulanna: which wepte / and loked vp towarde heauen / for her herte had a sure trust in the Lorde. And the elders sayde: As we were walckynge in the orcharde alone / this woman came in wyth her two maydēs: whom she sent awaye from her / and sparred the orcharde dozes. With that / a yonge felow (which there was hyd) came vnto her / & laye with her. As for vs / we stode in a corner of ꝑ orcharde. And whē we sawe this wickednes / we rāne to her: & perceaued / ꝑ they had medled together. But we coulde not holde hym / for he was stronger then we: thus he opened ꝑ doze / & gat him awaye. Now whē we had takē this womā / we asked her / what yonge felowe thys was: but she wolde not tell vs. This is the matter / & we be witnesses of the same. The comen sorte beleued them / as those ꝑ were the elders & iudges of the people / & so they condemned her to death. Susanna cryed out w̄ a loude voyce / & sayde: O euerlastyng God / thou sercher of secretes / Hebr.iiij.c. thou ꝑ knowest all thynges afore they come to passe: thou wotest / ꝑ they haue borne false wytnes agaynst me: & beholde / I must dye / where as I neuer dyd eny soch thynges / as these men haue maliciously inuēted agaynst me. And the Lorde herde her voyce. For whē she was led forth to death / the Lorde raysed vp the spyrete of a yonge chylde / whose name was Daniel / which cryed w̄ a loude voyce: G I am cleane frō this bloude. Then all ꝑ people turned them towarde him / & sayde: What meane these wordes / ꝑ thou hast spokē? Daniel stode in the myddest of thē / & sayd: Are ye soch fooles / O ye chyldren of Israel / that ye can not discerne? Ye haue here condemned a daughter of Israel vnto death / and knowe not the trueth wherfore: Go syt on iudgment agayne / for they haue spoken false wytnesse agaynst her. ij. Reg. iij.c. Actu.xx.d.

Wherfore the people turned agayne in all the haste. And the elders (that is / the prynci-pall heades) sayde vnto him: come syt downe here amonge vs / and shewe vs this matter / seyng God hath geuē the as greate honoure

3.Reg.iij.d as an elder. And Daniel sayde vnto thē: Put these two asyde one from another/ and then shall I heare thē. When they were put asunder one from another/ he called one of them/ and sayde vnto hym: O thou olde canckerde carle/ that hast vsed thy wyckednesse so lōg: thyne vngracyous dedes which thou hast done afore/ are now come to lyght. For thou hast geuen false iudgemētes / thou hast oppressed the innocent / & letten the gylty go fre/ where as yet the Lord sayeth: The innocent & righteous se thou slaye not. Wel thā/ yf thou hast sene her/ tell me vnder what tre sawest thou them talkyng together? He answered: Vnder a Wolbery tree. And Daniel sayde: very well/ now thou lyest euen vpon thyne head. Lo the messaūger of the Lorde hath receaued the sentence of hym/ to cut the in two. Then put he him asyde/ & called for the other/ & sayde vnto hym: O thou sede of Canaan/ but not of Juda: Fayrenesse hath dysceaued the/ & lust hath subuerted thyne herte. Thus dealte ye afore with the daughters of Israel/ and they (for feare) consented vnto you: but the daughter of Juda wolde not abyde youre wyckednesse. Now tell me than vnder what tree dydest thou take thē/ speakynge together? He answered: Vnder a Pomgranate tree. Then sayde Daniel vnto hym: Very wel/ now thou leyst also euē vpō thyne head. The messaunger of the Lorde standeth wayting with the swerde to cut the in two/ and to slaye you both.

Exo.xxiij.a. Prouer.xvij.c

With that/ all the whole multitude gaue a greate shoute/ and praysed God/ which alwaye delyuereth thē that put their trust in him. And they came vpō the two elders (whō Daniel had convycte w̄ their awne mouth: that they had geuen false witnesse) & dealte with them/ euē likewyse as they wolde haue done with their neyghboures: yee they dyd accordynge to the lawe of Moses/ & put thē to death. Thus the innocent bloude was saued the same daye.

Psal.xvij.a. Deute.xix.d. Prouer.xix.a.

Then Helchiah & hys wyfe praysed God/ for their daughter Susanna/ with Joachim her husbande and all the kynrede: that there was no dishonest founde in her. From that daye forth was Daniel had in greate reputacyon in the syght of the people.

¶ The ende of the story of Susanna.

The story of Bell/

and of the Dragon/ which is the.xiiij. Chapter of Daniel after the Latyn.

A THere was at Babylon an ymage/ called Bel: and there were spent vpon hym euery daye.xij. cakes .xl. shepe/ and syxe greate pottes of wyne. Hym dyd the kynge worshippe hym selfe/ & wente daylye to hon our hym: but Daniel worshypped his awne God. And the kyng sayd vnto him: Why dost not thou worshyppe Bel? He answered & sayde: Because I maye not worshyppe thynges ꝑ be made with handes/ but the lyuynge God which made heauen & earth/ and hath power vpon all flesh. The kyng sayde vnto him: thinckest thou not/ ꝑ Bell is a lyuynge God? Or seist thou not how moch he eateth and dryncketh euery daye? Daniel smyled/ & sayde: O kyng dysceaue not thy selfe: this is but made of claye within/ & of metall without / nether eateth he euer any thynge.

Deuteró.iiij.c. v.b.a. Exo.xx.a. Deute.vi.d. Mat.iiij.a. Eccli.xxx.c.

B Then the kynge was wroth/ & called for his prestes/ & sayde vnto them: Yf ye tell me not who is this/ ꝑ eateth vp these expenses/ ye shall dye: but yf ye can certyfye me / that Bel eateth them/ then Daniel shall dye / for he hath spokē blasphemy agaynst Bel. And Daniel sayde vnto the kynge: let it so be/ according as thou hast sayde. The Prestes of Bel were.lxx. besyde their wyues & chyldrē. And the kynge wente with Daniel in to the temple of Bel. So Bels prestes sayde: Lo/ we wyll go out/ & set thou the meate there (O kynge) & poure in the wyne: then shutt ꝑ dore fast/ and seale it with thyne awne signet: and to morow when thou commest in/ yf thou fyndest not/ that Bel hath eaten vp all/ we wyll suffre death: or els Daniel/ ꝑ hath lyed vpon vs. The prestes thought thē selfes sure ynough / for vnder the altare they had made a preuy intraunce/ & there wente they in euer/ and ate vp what there was.

Leui.xxiij.c.

C So when they were gone forth/ the kyng set meates before Bel. Now Daniel had cōmaunded hys seruauntes to bryng asshes and these he syfted thorow out all the tēple/ that the kynge myght se. Then wente they out/ and sparred the dore/ sealyng it wyth ꝑ kynges sygnet/ and so departed. In the night came the prestes with their wyues and chyldren (as they were wonte to do) and ate and droncke vp all. In the morenyng be tymes at the breake of the daye/ the kynge arose / and Daniel w̄ him. And the kyng sayd: Daniel/are the seales whole yet? He answered: Yee O kyng/they be whole. Now as soone as he had opened the doze/the kyng loked vnto the aultare/& cryed with a loude voyce: Greate art thou O Bel/and with the is no disceate. Then laughed Daniel/and held the kyng that he shulde not go in/and sayde: Beholde the pauemēt/marcke well/ whose fotesteppes are these? The kyng sayde: I se the fotesteppes of men/wemen and chyldzen.

D Therfoze the kynge was angrye/ & toke the pzestes/with their wyues and chyldzen/ and they shewed him the pzeuy dozes/where they came in/& ate vp soch thynges as were Jeremy.li.g. vpō ỹ aultare. Foz the which cause the kyng Esay.xlvi.a. slewe thē/ and delyuered Bel in to Daniels Jeremy.l.a. power/which destroyed him & his temple.

And in that same place there was a great dzagō/which they of Babylon wozshypped. And ỹ kyng sayde vnto Daniel: sayest thou/ that this is but a God of metall also? lo/ he lyueth/ he eateth & dzinketh: lo ỹ thou canst not saye/that he is no lyuynge God/therfoze wozshipe him. Daniel sayde vnto the kyng: Daniel.vi.g. I wyll wozshipe the Lozde my God/ he is ỹ true lyuynge God: as foz thys/ he is not the God of lyfe. But geue me leaue (O kyng) & I shall destroye this dzagō without swearde oz staf. The kynge sayde. I geue the leaue. Then Daniel toke pitch/ fatte and hearrye woll/& dyd seth them together/ and made lompes therof: this he put in the Dzagons mouth/& so the dzagon barst in sonder: and Daniel sayde: lo/there is he whom ye wozshipped. When they of Babylon herde that/ E they toke greate indignacion/& gathered thē together agaynst the kynge/ sayinge: The Kynge is become a Jewe also/ he hath destroyed Bel/he hath slayne the dzagon/ and put the pzestes to death. So they came to ỹ kyng/& sayde: let vs haue Daniel/oz els we wyll destroye the and thyne house.

Daniel.vi.c. Now when the kyng sawe/that they rushed in so soze vpon him/& that necessite constrayned him/he delyuered Daniel vnto thē: which cast him in to the lyons denne/ where he was syxe dayes. In the denne there were seuen lyons/and they had geuen them euery daye two bodyes and two shepe: which then were not geuē them/ ỹ they myght deuoure Daniel.

F There was in Jewry a Pzophete called Abacuch/ which had made potage/& brokē bzed in a depe platter/and was goynge in to the felde/foz to bzynge it to ỹ mowers. But the Angell of the Lozd sayde vnto Abacuch: go kary the meate that thou hast in to Babylon/vnto Daniel/ whych is in the lyons denne. And Abacuch sayde: Lozde/ I neuer sawe Babylon: & as foz the denne/ I knowe it not. Then the Angell of ỹ Lozde toke him Ezech.xiij.a. by the toppe/and bare him by ỹ hearre of ỹ head/& (thozow a mightie wynde) set him in Babylō vpō the denne. And Abacuch cried/ sayinge: O Daniel thou seruaunt of God/ haue/take ỹ breakefast/that God hath sent iij.Reg.xvij.a. the. And Daniel sayde: O God/ hast thou thought vpon me? well/ thou neuer fayllest them that loue the. So Daniel arose/ and ate: and the Angell of the Lozde sett Abacuch in his awne place agayne immediatly.

Upon the seuenth daye/ the kynge wente G to bewepe Daniel: and when he came to the denne/he loked in: and beholde/ Daniel sat in the myddest of the Lyons. Then cried the kyng with a loude voyce/saying: Greate art Jere.xxxvij.b. thou/ O Lozde God of Daniel: & he dzewe Hester.viij.b. hym out of the denne. As foz those that were the cause of his destruccyon/ he dyd cast thē Dani.vi.g in to the denne/ and they were deuoured in a moment befoze his face.

After this/wzote the kynge vnto all people/kyntredes and tunges/that dwelt in all countrees/sayenge: peace be multyplyed vō you. My cōmaundement is/in all the dominyon of my realme: that men feare and stāde in awe of Daniels God/foz he is the lyuing Daniel.vi.f. God/whych endureth euer: hys kyngdome abydeth vncozrupte/and his power is euer- Luc.i.c. lastynge. It is he that can delyuer and saue: Esai.xliij.b. he doth wōders and maruelous wozckes in Osee.xiij.b heauen & in earth/foz he hath saued Daniel.liij.f. Daniel from the power of the Lyons.

The prayer of Manasseh king of Juda/ when he was holden captyue in Babylon.

Lozde Almightie, God of oure fathers Abzaham/ Isaac & Jacob/ & of ỹ ryghtwesse seade of thē: which hast made heauē and earth/ wyth all ỹ oznament therof/ which haste ozdened the see by the wozde of thy cōmaundemēt: which hast shutte vp the depe/ and hast sealed it foz thy fearfull & laudable name/which all men feare/and tremble befoze the face of thy vertu/ and foz the anger of thy threatnynge the which is impoztable to synners. But the mercy of thy pzomes is greate and vnsearchable: foz thou arte the Lozde God most hyghe/aboue all the earth/ longesuffrynge/ and excedynge mercyfle/& repentasit foz ỹ malyce of men. Thou Lozd after thy goodnes hast promysed repentaunce of the remyssyon of synnes: and thou that arte the God of the ryghtwes hast not put repentaunce to the ryghtwes / Abraham Isaac / and Jacob / vnto them that haue not synned agaynst the: But because I haue synned aboue the nombre of the sandes of ỹ see / and that myne iniquities are multiplied I am humbled with many bãdes of yron / & ther is in me no breathyng. I haue sinned Lord I haue sinned / & know myne iniquitie. I desyre the by prayer / O Lord forgeue me: forgeue me & destroye me not with myne iniquityes / nether do thou alwayse remembre myne euelles to punysh them / but saue me (which am vnworthy) after thy great mercy: and I wil prayse the euerlastingly / all the dayes of my lyfe for all the vertue of heuen prayseth the / & vnto the belõgeth glorie / worlde with oute ende. The fyrst boke of the Machabees.

¶ After the deeth of Alexander the kynge of Macedonia / Antiochus taketh the kyngdome. Many of the chyldren of Israel make couenaunt with the Gentyles. Antiochus subdueth Egypte & Jerusalem vnto hys domynyon. Jerusalem beinge burnt maketh lawes of her awne / and forbyddeth to kepe Godes lawes. Antiochus setteth vp an Idole ouer the aulter of God.

¶ The fyrst Chapter.

AFter that Alexãder the sonne of Philyppe / kynge of Macedonia wente forth of ỹ lande of Cethim / & slewe Darius kynge of the persyans & Medes: It happened / that he toke greate warres in hãde / wanne very many stronge cities / & slew many kinges of the earth: going thorow to ỹ endes of the worlde & gettyng many spoyles of the people: In so moch / ỹ the worlde stode in greate awe of him / & therfore was he proude in his herte. Now whã he had gathered a mightye strõge hoost / & subdued ỹ landes & people wt theyr princes / so ỹ they became trybutaryes vnto him: he fel sick. And when he perceaued that he must nedes dye / he called for hys noble estate (which had bene brought vp with him of children) & parted hys kyngdome amonge them / whyle he was yet alyue. So Alexãder raygned xij. yeare / & then dyed. Daniel viij. a. e. viij. b.

After hys death fell the kyngdome vnto his princes / & they optayned it euery one in his rowme / & caused thẽ selues to be crowned as kinges: and so dyd their children after them many yeares / & moch wyckednesse increaced in the worlde. Out of these came ỹ vngracious rote / noble Antiochus the sonne of Antiochus ỹ king (which had bene a pledg at Rome) & he raigned in the C. xxxvij. yeare of the raigne of the Grekes. i. Mach. viij. a.

In those dayes wente there out of Israell wycked men / whych moued moch people wt their councell / sayenge: Lett vs go & make a couenaunt with the Heathen / ỹ are rounde aboute vs: for sence we departed from them / we haue had moch sorow. So thys deuyce pleased them well / and certayne of ỹ people toke vpon thẽ for to go vnto ỹ kynge / which gaue them lycence to do after the ordinaunce of the Heathen. Then set they vp an opẽ scole (at Jerusalem) of the lawes of the Heathen / & were nomore circuncysed: but forsoke the holy Testamente / & ioyned them selues to ỹ Heathen / & were cleane solde to do myschefe B

So when Antiochus beganne to be mightie in his kyngdome / he wente aboute to optayne ỹ lande of Egypte also / that he myght haue the dominyon of two realmes. Upon this entred he in to Egypte wt a stronge hoost with charrettes / elephantes / horsmen and a greate nombre of shippes / and beganne to warre agaynst Ptolomy the kynge of Egypte. But Ptolomy was afrayed of hym / and fled: and many of hys people were wounded to death. Thus Antiochus wãne many strõge cities / and toke awaye greate good out of the lande of Egypte.

And after that Antyochus had smytten Egypt / he turned agayne in the C. xliij. yeare & wente towarde Israel / & came vp to Jerusalem with a mightie people: & entred proudly in to the Sanctuary / and toke awaye ỹ golden altare / the candylstycke and all the ornamentes therof / the table of ỹ shewbred the pouring vessel ỹ chargers / ỹ golden spons the vale / the crownes and golden apparell of the temple / and brake downe all. He toke also the syluer & golde / the precious Jewels and the secrete treasures that he founde. And when he had taken awaye all together / caused a greate murthur of men / and so fulfilled his malicious pryde / he departed in to his awne lande. ¶

Thus there arose greate heuynesse and misery in al the lande of Israel. The princes & the elders of the people mourned / ỹ yonge men and the maydens were defyled / and the fayre the kayre beutye of wemen was chaunged: the bryde gro me and the bryde toke them to mournynge: the lande and chose that dwelt therin / was moued: for all the house of Jacob was brought to confusion.

D 1. Mach. v. c. After two yeares the kyng sent hys chefe treasurer vnto ỹ cyties of Juda / which came to Jerusalem with a great multitude of people / speakinge peaceable wordes vnto them but all was dissceate: for whā they had geuē hym credence / he fell sodenly vpon the cytye / & smote it sore / and destroyed moch people of Israell. And when he had spoyled the cytye / he set fyre on it / castynge downe houses and walles on euery syde. The wemen and theyr children toke they captiue / & led a waye their catel. Then buylded they the castel of Dauid with a great and thicke wall / & with mightie towres / and made it a stronge holde for thē. Beside all this they sett wycked people and vngodly men to kepe it / stoared it with weapens and vytales: gathered the goodes of Jerusalem / and layed them vp there: thus became it a theuysh castell. 1. Mach. vij. b. 1. Mach. ix. c.

And thys was done to laye waite for the people that went in to the Sanctuary / and for the cruell destruccyon of Israell. Thus they shed innocent bloude on euery syde of ỹ Sanctuary / and defyled it: In so moch that the citesyns were fayne to departe / and the citye became an habitacyon of straungers / beynge desolate of her awne sede / for her awne natyues were fayne to leaue her. Her Sanctuary was clene wasted / her holy dayes were turned in to mournynge / her Sabbathes were had in derisyon / and her honoure brought to naught. Loke how great her glory was a fore / so greate was her confusyon / and her ioye turned in to sorow. Tobi. ij. a Amos. viij. b.

E 1. Mach. vi. a. Antiochus also the kinge sent out a commission vnto all hys kyngdome / that all the people shulde be one. Then they left euery man hys lawe / and all the Heathen agreed to the cōmaundement of kynge Antiochus: Yee many of the Israelites consented there vnto / offeringe vnto Idols / and defylinge ỹ Sabbath. So the kynge Antyochus sent his messaungers wyth hys commissyon vnto Jerusalem / & to all the cytyes of Juda: that they shulde folowe the lawes of the Heathē / and forbad ether burntofferynge meatofferinge or peaceofferinge to be made in ỹ temple of God / & that there shulde no Sabbath ner hye feast daye be kepte: but commaūded / that the Sanctuary and the holy people of Israell shulde be defyled.

He commaunded also that there shulde be sett vp other altares / temples & Idols: to offre vp swynes flesh & other vnclene beastes: that men shulde leaue their chyldren vncircuncysed / to defyle their soules with all maner of vnclennesse & abhominacions: ỹ they myght so forget the lawe / & chaunge all the holy ordinaunces of God: & that whosoeuer wolde not do accordinge to the commaundement of kinge Antiochus / shulde suffre death In lyke maner commaunded he thorow out all his realme / and sett rulers ouer the people / for to compell them to do these thinges / commaundinge the cyties of Juda to do sacrifice vnto Idols.

Then wente the people vnto the heathen by heapes / forsoke the lawe of the Lorde / & cōmitted moch euel in the lande: yee and chaced out the secrete Israelites / which had hyd them selues in corners and preuy places. F The xv. daye of the moneth Casleu / in the Cxlv. yeare / sett kynge Antiochus an abhominable Idol of desolacion vpon the altare of God / and they buylded altares thorow out all the cytyes of Juda on euery syde / before the dores of the houses / and in the stretes: where they brent incense / and dyd sacrifyce. And as for the bokes of the lawe of God / they brent them in the fyre / and rent them in peces. What so euer he was that had a boke of the testament of the Lord foūd by hym / yee whosoeuer endeuored hymself to kepe the lawe of the Lorde / the kynges commaundement was / that they shulde put hym to death. And thorow hys auctorite they executed these thinges euery moneth / vpon the people of Israell that were founde in the cytyes. Jere. xxxvi. c.

G 1. Mach. vi. b. The fyue and twentye daye of the moneth what tyme as they dyd sacrifice vpon the altare (which stode in the steade of the altare of the Lorde) accordynge to the commaundement of kynge Antyochus / they put certayne wemen to death / whych had caused their chyldren to be circūcised: Not only that / but they hanged vp the chyldren by the neckes thorow out all their houses / and slewe ỹ circuncisers of them.

Yet were there many of the people of Israell / whych determed in them selues / that they wolde not eate vncleane thynges: but chose rather to suffre death / then to be defiled wt vncleane meates. So because they wolde not breake the blessed lawe of God / they were cruelly slayne. And this great tyranny increased very sore vpon the people of Israell.

¶ The mournyng of Mathathiah and his sonnes for the destruccyon of the holy cytye. They refuse to do sacrifice vnto Idoles. The zele of Mathathiah for the lawe of God. They are slayne & wyll not feight agayne because of the Sabboth daye. Mathathiah dyinge commaundeth his sonnes to stycke by the worde of God after the example of the fathers.

¶ The .ij. Chapter.

A IN thole dayes there dyd stande vp one Mathathyah ỹ sonne of Symeon the preest (out of the kynred of Joaris) from Jerusalem / & dwelt vpon the mount of Modin / & had v. sonnes: Jhō called Goddis: Symon / called Thasi: Judas / other wise called Machabeus: Eleazer / other wyse called Abaron: and Jonathas / whose surname was Apphus. These sawe the euell / that was done amonge the people of Juda & Jerusalē. And Mathathiah sayde: Wo is me / alas ỹ euer I was borne / to se this misery of my people / & the pyteous destrucciō of ỹ holy cite: & thus to syt so stil / it being delyuered in to ỹ hādes of ỹ enemis. Her Sanctuary is come in to the power of straungers her temple is / as it were a man ỹ hath lost his good name. Her precious ornamentes are caryed awaye captyue / her olde men are slayne in the strettes / & her yōge mē are fallen thorow ỹ swearde of the enemyes.

What people is it / that hath not some possession in her kingdome? Or who hath not gotten some of her spoyles? All her glory is taken awaye. She was a Quene / & now she is become an handmayde. Beholde oure Sanctuary / oure bewtye & honoure is wasted awaye / & defyled by the Gentiles. What helpeth it vs thē to lyue? And Mathathyah rente his clothes / he & his sonnes / & put sack cloth vpon them / & mourned very sore.

B Then came the men thither whych were sent of kyng Antiochus / to compell soch as were fled in to the cytie of Modyn / for to do sacrifice & to burne incense vnto Idols / & to forsake the lawe of God. So / many of the people of Israell consented & enclyned vnto thē / but Mathathyah & his sonnes remayned stedfast. Then spake the commissyoners of kyng Antiochus / and sayde vnto Mathathiah: Thou art a noble man / of hye reputacyon and greate in this citye / hauynge fayre children and brethren. Come thou therfore first / and fulfill the kynges cōmaundement / lyke as all the Heathen haue done / yee & the men of Juda / and soch as remayne at Jerusalem: so shalt thou and thy children be in the kynges fauoure / and enryched wyth golde / syluer & greate rewardes.

Mathathiah answered / and spake with a loude voyce: Though all nacyons obeye the kyng Antiochus / and fal awaye euery man frō kepyng the lawe of their fathers: though they cōsente to his commaundementes / yet wyl I & my sonnes and my brethren / not fall frō the lawe of oure fathers. God forbyd we shulde: that were not good for vs / that we shulde forsake the lawe and ordynaunces of God / and to agre vnto the commaundement of kynge Antiothus. Therfore we wyl do no soch sacrifice / nether breake the statutes of our lawe / to go another waye. And when he had spoken these wordes / there came one of the Jewes / whych openly in the syght of all / dyd sacrifyce vnto the Idols vpon the aulter in the cytie of Modyn / accordyng to the kynges commaundement.

When Mathathyah sawe thys / it greued hym at the herte / so that hys raynes shoke C withall / and hys wrath kindled for very zele of the lawe. Wyth that he gaue a skyppe forth / and kylled the Jew beside the aulter: Yee and slewe the kinges commissioner / that cōpelled him to do sacrifyce / & destroyed the aulter at the same tyme: soch a zele had he vn to ỹ lawe of God / like as Phynehes dyd vnto Zambri ỹ sonne of Salomi. And Mathathiah cried with a loude voyce thorow the citie / sayenge: Who so is feruent in the lawe / & wil kepe ỹ couenaūt / let him folowe me. So ỹ. Mach. v. c. he and hys sonnes fled in to the mountaynes & left all that euer they had in the citye. Many other godly men also departed in to ỹ wildernesse wyth their childrē / their wyues and their catel / & remayned there: for the tyrāny increaced so sore vpon them.

Now when the kynges seruauntes / and the hoost / whych was at Jerusalē in the cy- D tie of Dauid herde / ỹ certayne mē had broken the kynges commaundement and were gone their waye to the wyderneſſe in to secrete places / and that there were many departed after them: they folowed vpon them to fyght agaynst them in the Sabbath daye & sayde: Wyll ye yet rebell? Get you hence & do the commaundement of kyng Antiochus and ye shal lyue. They answered: We wil not go forth / nether wyll we do the kynges commaundement / to defyle the Sabbath daye. Josu. i. c.

Then begāne they to fyght agaynst thē neuertheleſſe they gaue them none other answere / nether cast they one stone at them nether made fast their preuy places / but sayde, We will dye al in oure innocency / heauē & earth shall testifie with vs / that ye put vs to death wrongeously. Thus they fought agaynst thē vpon the Sabboth / & slewe both men & catell / their wyues & their childrē / to the nombre of a thoulande people.

When Mathathiah and hys frēdes herde E this / they mourned for them right sore / and sayde one to another: If so be that we all do as our brethrē haue done / & fight not for our lyues & for oure lawes agaynst ỹ Heathen: then shall they the soner rote vs out of the earth. So they concluded amonge them selues at the same time / sayenge: Whatsoeuer he be that commeth to make battayll wyth vs vpon the Sabbath daye / we wyll fyght agaynst him / & not dye al / as our brethren ỹ were were murthured so hanously. Upon thys came the Synagoge of the Jewes vnto thē: stronge men of Israel/ all soch as were feruent in the lawe. And all they that were fled for persecucyon/came to helpe them/and to stande by them: In so moch that they gathered an hoost of men / and slewe the wycked doers in their gelousy/and the vngodly men in their wrath. Some of the wicked fled vnto the Heathen/and escaped.

Thus Mathathiah & his frendes wente aboute/and destroyed the aulters / and circumcysed the chyldren/that had not yet receaued circumcisiō: as many as they founde within the costes of Israel: & folowed mightely vpon the chyldren of pryde / & this acte prospered in their handes: In so moch/ that they kepte the lawe agaynst the power of ỳ Gentiles and the kinges/and gaue not ouer their dompynon vnto wycked doers.

After thys when the tyme drewe on fast/ that Mathathiah shulde dye/ he sayde vnto his sonnes: Now is pryde and persecucyon increased/now is the tyme of destruccyon & wrathfull displeasure: wherfore(O my sonnes)be ye feruent in the lawe/ and ieoparde your lyues for the Testamēt of the fathers: call to remembraunce what actes oure fathers dyd in their tyme/ so shall ye receaue greate honoure and an euerlastinge name.

Iacob.ỹ.c. Hom.xy.d Deus.fry.a

Remembre Abraham/was not he founde faythfull in tentacyon/ and it was reckened vnto him for rightuousnes? Joseph in tyme of hys trouble kepte the commaundement/ and was made a Lorde of Egypt. Phinehes oure father was so feruent for the honoure of God/ that he optayned the couenaunt of an euerlastynge prestlhode. Josue for fulfillinge the worde of God/was made the captayne of Israel. Caleb bare recorde before the congregaciō/and receaued an heretage. Dauid also in hys mercyfull kyndnesse/ optayned the trone of an euerlastynge kyngdome. Eliah beinge gelous and feruent in ỳ lawe/was taken vp in to heauē. Hananias/ Asarias and Misael remayned stedfast in fayth/and were deliuered out of the fyre. In lyke maner Daniel beynge vngyltye/ was saued from the mouth of the Lyons.

Hebr.xi.b.

And thus ye maye consyder thorow out all ages sence the worlde beganne/that who soeuer put their trust in God/were not ouercome. Feare not ye then the wordes of an vngodly man / for hys glory is but donge and wormes: to daye is he set vp/ and to morow is he gone: for he is turned into earth / and hys memoryall is come to naught. Wherfore (O my sonnes)take good hertes vnto you/ & quyte youre selues lyke men in the lawe: for yf ye do the thynges that are commaunded you in the lawe of the Lorde youre God / ye shall optayne greate honoure therin.

And beholde/I know that youre brother Symon is a man of wysdome: se ỳ ye geue eare vnto hym alwaye / he shalbe a father vnto you. As for Judas Machabeus / he hath euer bene myghtye and stronge frō hys youth vp: let him be youre captayne / & order the battayll of ỳ people: thus shall ye bringe vnto you all those that fauoure the lawe / & se that ye auenge the wronge of youre people/and recompence the Heathen agayne/ & applye youre selues whole to the commaūdement of the lawe. So he gaue them hys blessynge / and was layed by hys fathers: & died in the .C. & xlvi. yeare at Modin/where hys sonnes buried him in hys fathers sepulcre/ & all Israell made greate lamentacyon for hym.

¶ Judas is made ruler ouer the Jewes. He killeth Appolonius & Seron the prince of Syria. The confydence of Judas towarde God. Judas determyneth to fyght agaynst Lysias/whom Antiochus had made captayne ouer his host. The prayer of ỳ aduersaryes.

¶ The.iij. Chapter.

Then stode vp Judas Machabeus in his fathers steade/ & all his brethrē helped him: and so dyd all they that helde wt hys father / & fought with cherefulnesse for Israel. So Judas gat his people great honoure: He put on a brest plate as a giaunte/ & arayed hym selfe with his harnesse/ and defended the hoste with hys swearde. In his actes he was lyke a Lyon/ and as a lyōs whelpe roaringe at his praye. He was an enemye to the wycked/ & hunted them out: and brent vp those that vexed hys people: So that hys enemyes fled for feare of hym/ and all the worchers of vngodlynes were put to trouble: soch luche and prosperyte was in his hande. This greued dyuerse kyngs/ but Jacob was greatly reioyced thorow hys actes / and he gatt hymself a greate name for euer. I Josephus cap. viij.xx.li. xij. Antiq.

He wente thorow the cytyes of Juda/ destroyenge the vngodly out of them/turnyng awaye the wrath from Israell / and receauynge soch as were oppressed: and the fame of him wente vnto the vttemost parte of the earth. Then Appollonius (a prynce of Syria) gathered a myghtye greate hoost of the Heathē & out of Samaria/to fyght agaynst Israell. Whych when Judas perceaued / he wente forth to mete hym/ fought wyth hym: slewe him/and a great multitude with him/ the remnaūte fled/ & he toke their substaūce Judas also toke Appollonius awne swearde/and fought with it all his lyfe longe.

Now whē Seron (another prynce of Syria) herde saye/that Judas had gathered vnto hym the congregacyon and church of the faythfull B faythfull/he sayde: I wyll get me a name & a prayse thorow out the realme: for I wyll go fight with Judas & them that are wyth hym/as many as haue delyuered the kynges commaundement. So he made hym ready/ and there wente with him a greate myghtye hoost of the vngodly/ to stande by hym/ and to be auenged of the chyldren of Israel. And when they came nye vnto Bethoron/ Judas wente forth agaynst thē with a small company. And whē hys people sawe soch a great hoost before them/ they sayde vnto Judas: How are we able (beinge so fewe) to fyght agaynst so greate a multitude and so strōge? seinge we be so weery/ and haue fasted all thys daye?

But Judas sayde: It is a small matter for many to be ouercome wᵗ fewe: yee there is no differēce to the God of heauen/ to deliuer by a greate multytude or by a small company: for the victory of the battell standeth not in the multytude of the hoost/ but the strength cōmeth from heauē. Beholde/ they come agaynst vs wyth a presumptuous and proude multytude/ to destroye vs/ oure wyues and oure chyldren/ and to robbe vs. But we wyll fight for oure lyues/ & for oure lawes/ and the Lorde hym selfe shall destroye them before oure face: therfore be not ye afrayed of them.

As soone as he had spoken these wordes/ he leapte sodenly vpon thē. Thus was Seron smytten/ and his hoost put to flight/ and Judas folowed vpon them beyonde Bethoron vnto the playne felde: where there were slayne eight hundreth men of them/ and the residue fled in to the lande of the Philystynes. Then all the Heathē on euery syde were afrayed for Judas and hys brethren: so that the rumoure of hym came vnto the kynges eares/ for all the Gentyles coulde tell of the warres of Judas.

So when kynge Antiochus hearde these tydynges/ he was angry in his minde: wherfore he sente forth and gathered an hoost of hys whole realme very stronge armyes: and opened hys treasury/ and gaue hys hoost a yeares wagyes in hande/ commaundynge them to be ready at all tymes.

Neuertheless when he sawe/ that there was not moneye ynough in hys treasuries/ and that thorow the discorde and persecucyon/ whych he made in ỹ lande (to put downe the lawes that had bene of olde tymes) hys customes & tributes of the lande were mynysshed: he feared that he was not able for to beare the costes and charges any longer/ nor to haue soch gyftes/ to geue so liberally as he dyd afore/ more then the kynges that were before hym.

Wherfore he was heuy in his minde/ and thought to go into Persides/ for to take tributes of the lande/ & so to gather moch moneye. So he left Lysias (a noble man of the kynges bloude) to ouerse the kynges busynesses/ from the water Euphrates vnto the borders of Egypte: & to kepe well his sonne Antiochus/ tyll he came agayne. 1.Mach.vi.a.

Moreouer/ he gaue him half of his hoost and Elephātes/ commytted vnto hym euery thynge of hys mynde/ concernynge those whych dwelt in Juda and Jerusalem: that he shulde sende out an armye agaynst thē/ to destroye and to rote out the power of Israel and the remnaunt of Jerusalem: to put out their memorial from that place/ to set straūgers for to inhabyt all their quarters/ and to parte their lande amonge them. Thus the kynge toke the other parte of the hoost/ and departed from Antioch (a cyte of hys realme) ouer the water of Euphrates/ in the hundreth and .xlvij. yeare/ and went thorow the hye countrees. Joseph.capi.x. lib.xij.antiq.

And Lysias chose vnto hym Ptolomy the sonne of Doziminus/ Nicanor and Gorgias myghty men/ and the kynges frendes. These he sent with .xl. thousande fote men and .vij. thousande horsmen/ for to go into the lande of Juda/ and to destroye it/ as the kynge cōmaunded. So they wēte forth with all their power/ & came to Emmaus into the playne felde. When the marchauntes hearde ỹ rumoure of them/ they & their seruauntes toke very moch syluer & golde/ for to bye the chyldren of Israel to be their bonde men. There came vnto them also yet moo men of warre on euery syde/ out of Syria and from the Palestynes. 1.Mach.vij.b

Now when Judas and hys brethrē sawe that trouble increased/ & that the hoost drew nye vnto their borders: consyderyng the kynges wordes which he commaunded vnto the people: namely/ ỹ they shulde vtterly waste and destroye thē: They sayde one to another: Let vs redresse the decaye of oure people/ let vs fyght for oure folke and for oure Sanctuary. Then the congregacyon were soone ready gathered to fyght/ to praye & to make supplycacyon vnto God for mercy & grace.

As for Jerusalem/ it laye voyde/ and was as it had bene a wyldernesse. There wente no man in nor out at it/ and the Sanctuary was troden downe. The aleauntes kepte the castell/ there was the habytacyon of the Heathen. The myrth of Jacob was taken awaye/ the pype and the harpe was gone frō amonge them. 1.Mach.i.d.

The Israelytes gathered them to gether/ and came to Malpha before Jerusalē: for in Malpha was the place where they prayed afore afore tyme. So they fasted that daye/ & put sackclothes vpō them/cast asshes vpō their heades/rente their clothes/ & layde forth the bokes of the lawe (wherout the Heathen sought the lyckenesse of their ymages) and brought the Prestes ornamētes/the firstlinges and the tythes. They set there also the absteyners(which had fulfylled their dayes) before God/ and cryed wyth a loude voyce towarde heauen/sayinge: What shall we do wyth these? and whyther shall we cary them awaye? For the Sanctuary is trodē downe and defyled/ thy prestes are come to heuynesse and dyshonoure: and beholde/ the Heathen are come together for to destroye vs. Thou knowest what thynges they ymagyn agaynst vs. How may we stande before thē/ excepte thou(O God)be oure helpe?

They blewe out the trompette also wyth a loude voyce. Then Judas ordened captaynes ouer the people: ouer thousandes/ ouer hundredes/ouer fyftye / and ouer ten. But as for soch as buylded them houses/ maryed wyues/planted them vyneyardes/and those that were fearfull: he commaunded thē euery man to go home/ accordynge to the lawe. So the hoost remoued/and pytched vpō the southsyde of Emmaus.

Deutero.xx.a

And Judas sayde: Arme youre selues/be stronge (O my chyldren) make you ready agaynst to morow in the mornynge/that ye maye fyght wyth these people/ whych are agreed together to destroye vs & oure sanctuary. Better is it for vs to dye in battayll/ than to se oure people and oure sanctuary in soch a myserable case. Neuertheless/as the wyll is in heauen/ so be it.

Mat.vi.b. Luc.xi.a

¶ Judas goeth agaynst Gorgias which lieth in wayte. He putteth Gorgias and his hoost to flyght. Lisias inuadeth Jewrye/but Judas dryueth him oute. Judas purifyeth the temple and dedycateth the aultaer.

¶ The.iiij. Chapter.

THen toke Gorgias fyue thousand men of fote/ & a thousande of the best horsmen: & remoued by night/ to come nye where the Jewes hoost laye/ & so to slaye them sodenly. Now ỹ men that kepte the castell/were the conueyers of them. Then arose Judas to smyte the cheke & pryncipall of the kynges Hoost at Emmaus/ for the armye was not yet come together. In the meane season came Gorgias by nyght in to Judas tentes: & when he founde no man there/he sought them in the mountaynes/ & thought they had bene fled awaye because of him. But whē it was daye/Judas shewed hym selfe in the felde wyth thre thousande men only/ whych hath nether harnesse ner swearde to their myndes.

But on the other syde/ they sawe that the Heathen were myghtie and well harnessed/ and their horsmē aboute them/ and all these well experte in fettes of warre. Then sayde Judas to ỹ men that were with hym: Feare not ye the multitude of them/ be not afrayed of their violente runnynge: remembre how oure fathers were delyuered in the reed see/ when Pharao threatned them with a greate Hoost.

Euen so lett vs also crye now towarde heauen: and the Lorde shall haue mercy vpō vs/and remembre the couenaunt of oure fathers/ yee and destroye this Hoost before oure face this daye: And all ỹ Heathē shal know/ that it is God hym selfe/ which delyuereth & and saueth Israel.

B Then the Heathen lyft vp their eyes: and when they sawe that they were commynge agaynst them/they went out of their tentes in to the battayll: and they that were wyth Judas/ blewe vp the trompettes. So they buckled together/and the Heathen were discomfyted and fled ouer the playne felde: but the hynmost of them were slayne. For they folowed vpon them vnto Asaremoth/and in to the feldes of Idumea towarde Azot and Jamnia: so that there were slayne of them vpon a thre thousande men. So Judas turned agayne wyth his Hoste/ & sayde vnto the people: Be not gredy of the spoyles/ we haue yet a battayll to fyght: for Gorgias and his hoost are here by vs in the mountaynes/ but stande ye fast agaynst oure enemyes/ & ouercome thē: then maye ye safely take the spoyles.

C As Judas was speaking these wordes/ there apeared one parte of them vpon the mount. But whan Gorgyas sawe that they of his partye were fled/ and the tentes brent vp (for by the smoke they might vnderstande what was done) they perceauynge this/ were beryfore afrayed: and when they sawe also that Judas and hys hoost were in the felde ready to stricke batayll/ they fled euerychone in to the lande of the Heathen.

So Judas turned agayne to spoyle the tentes/ where they gatt moch golde and syluer/ precious stones/ purple & great riches. Thus they went home and songe a Psalme of thankesgeuinge and praysed God in heauen: for he is gracyous/ and hys mercy endureth for euer: And so Israell had a greate victory in that daye.

Psal.cvij. Psal.c.xxxvj.a

Now all the Heathen that escaped/ came and tolde Lysyas euery thynge as it happened. Wherfore Lysyas was fore afrayed and greued in his mynde/ because Israel had not gotten soch mysfortune as he wolde they

chulde / nether as the kynge commaunded. The nexte yeare folowing/gathered Lysias thre score thousande chosen men of fote / & fyue thousande horsmē/to fight agaynst thē

So they came in to Jewry / and pytched
D their tētes at Bethoron / where Judas came agaynst them with ten thousande men. And when he sawe so greate mightye an hoost/he made hys prayer and sayde: Blessed be thou (O sauioure of Israell) whych dyddest de-1.Reg.vij.g. stroye the violent power of the gyaunte / in the hande of thy seruaunt Dauyd / and ga-iiij.Reg.xiiij.b uest the hoost of the Heathen in to the hande of Jonathas (the sonne of Saul) and of hys weapen bearer.

Put thys hoost now in to the hande of thy people of Israell / and let them be confounded in their multitude and horsmen. Make them afrayed / & dyscomforth the boldnes of their strēgth / that they maye be moued thorow their destruccion. Cast them downe thorow the swearde of thy louers / then shall all they that knowne thy name/prayse the with thankesgeuynge.

So they stroke the batell/and there were slayne of Lysias hoost/fyue thousande men. Then Lysyas seynge the dyscomfetynge of hys men / and the manlynesse of the Jewes/ how they were ready / ether to lyue or to dye like men: He wente vnto Antyoche and chose out men of warre: that whā they were gathered together/ they myght come agayne in to Jewry. Then sayde Judas and hys brethren: beholde/ our enemyes are discomfited: Lett vs now go vp / to clense and to repayre the Sanctuary.

Upon thys / all the hoost gathered them
g.Mach.x.a. Now whan they sawe the Sanctuary laied waste/ & aulter defyled/the dores brēt vp/ & shrubbes growinge in the courtes/like as in a wod or vpon mountaynes/yee & & the prestes Celles were broken downe: They rente their clothes/made great lamentacion/ cast asshes vpon their heades/ fell downe flat to the grounde / made a greate noyse wyth the trompettes/& cried towarde heauen.

Then Judas apoynted certayne men to fyght agaynst those which were in the castel till they had clensed the Sanctuary. So he chose prestes & were vndefyled / such as had pleasure in the lawe of God: and they clensed the Sanctuary/ and bare out the defyled stones in to an vncleane place. And for so moch as the aulter of burntoffrynges was vnhalowed / he toke aduysement / what he might do vnto al: so he thought it was best to destroye it (lest it shulde happen to do them eny shame) for the Heathē had defyled it/ & therfore they brake it downe. As for & stony they layed thē vp vpō the mountayne by & houses in a conuenient place: til there came a prophet to shewe/what shulde be done with them.

So they toke whole stones accordinge to F & lawe/ & buylded a new aulter soch one as Exod.xx.d.
was before/ & made vp & Sanctuary within Deute.xxvij.a & without/ & halowed & courtes. They made Josue.viij.g.
new ornamentes/ & brought the candilstick the aulter of incense / & the table in to the tē-ple. The incense layed they vpon the aulter/ & lyghted the lampes whych were vpon the candilsticke / that they myght burne in & tē-ple. They set the shewbred vpon the table / & hanged vp the vale/and set vp the temple/as it was a fore. And vpon the xxv. daye of the ix.moneth/which is called the moneth of Ca- ij.Mach.x.a sleu/in the C.xlviij.yeare: they rose vp by tymes in the mornynge for to do sacrifice (accordinge to the lawe) vpon the new burnt offrynge aulter. that they had made: after the tyme and season that the Heathen had defyled it. The same daye was it set vp agayne/ with songes pypes/harpes & cymbales.

And all the people fell vpon their faces/ G worshippynge & thanckyng & God of heauē which had geuen them the victory. So they ij.para.vij.b.
kepte the dedicacion of the aulter viij. dayes offrynge burnt sacrifices & thankoffrynges with gladnesse. They decke the temple also w crownes & shildes of gold/ & halowed & portes & celles/ & hāged doores vpō thē. Thus there was very great gladnes amonge & people / because & blasphemy of & Heathē was put awaye. So Judas & his brethrē w the whole congregacyon of Israel/ordened/ that the tyme of the dedycacyō of the aulter shulde be kepte in hys season from yeare to yeare / by the space of viij. dayes/from the xxv. daye of the moneth Casleu: yee and that wyth myrth and gladnesse.

And at the same tyme buylded they vp the mount Syon wyth hye walles and stronge towres roundeaboute: lest & Gentiles shuld come and treade it downe/as they dyd afore. Therfore Judas sett men of warre in it / to i.Mach.vi.d.e.
kepe it: and made it stronge / for to defende Bethsura: that the people myght haue a refuge agaynst the Edomytes.

¶ Judas vaynquyshed the Heathen that go aboute to destroye Israel/and is holpen of his brethren Simon and Jonathas. He ouerthroweth the cytye of Ephron/ because they denyed hym passage thorow it.

¶ The.v. Chapter.

It happened also that whan the A Heathen roundeabout herd / how Joseph.cap.xij
& & the aulter & & Sanctuary were libro.xij.
sett vp in theyr olde estate: it displeased thē very sore / wherfore they though to destroye the generacyon of Jacob that was amonge them; In so moch that they began begãne to slaye and to persecute certayne of Ezech.xxv.c. the people. Then Judas fought agaynst the e.xxxv.a. chyldzẽ of Esau in Idumea / & agaynst those which were at Arabathane (for they dwelt H.Mach.x.c. rounde aboute the Israelites) where he slew and spoyled a greate multytude of them. He thought also vpon the malyce and vnfaythfulnes of ỹ chyldzẽ of Bean / how they were a snare & stoppe vnto the people / & how they layed wayte for them in the hye waye: wherfore he shut them vp in to towers / and came vnto them / condemned them / and brent vp their towres / with all that were in them.

After warde wente he agaynst the chyldzen of Ammon / wherof he founde a myghtye power & a greate multytude of people / with Timothy their captayne. So he stroke many battayls with them / whych were dystroyed before hym. And when he had slayne them / he wanne Gazer the cytye / wyth the townes belonginge therto / and so turned agayne in to Iewry. The Heathen also in Galaad gathered thẽ together / agaynst the Israelites that were in their quarters to slaye them: but they fled to ỹ castell of Datheman. and sent letters vnto Judas and his brethzẽ / sayinge: The Heathen are gathered agaynst
B vs on euery syde / to destroye vs / & now they make them for to come / and laye sege to the castell / wherunto we are fled / and Timothy is the captayne of their Host: come therfore / and delyuer vs out of their handes: for there is a greate multytude of vs slayne all ready. Yee and oure brethzen that were at Tubin / are slayne & destroyed (well nye a thousande men) and their wyues / their chyldzen and their goodes haue the enemyes led awaye captyue.

Whyle these letters were yet a readynge / beholde / there came other messaũgers from Galile / with rente clothes: which tolde euen the same tydynges / and sayde / that they of Ptolomaus / of Tyrus and of Sidon were gathered agaynst them / and that all Galilee was fylled wyth enemyes to destroye Israel When Judas and the people herde this / they came together (a greate congregacyon) to deuyse / what they might do for their brethzen / that were in trouble & beseged of their enemyes. And Judas sayde vnto Simõ his brother: chose the out certayne men / and go deliuer thy brethren in Galilee: As for me and my brother Jonathas / we wyll go in to Galaadithim. So he left Josephus ỹ sonne of Zachary / and Asarias to be Captaynes of the people and to kepe the remnaunt of ỹ Host in Iewry / and commaunded them / sayinge: Take the ouersyght of thys people / and se ỹ ye make no warre agaynst the Heathen / vntyll the tyme that we come agayne. And vnto Simon he gaue thzee thousande men for to go in to Galilee / but Judas hym selfe had eyght thousande in Galaadithim.

C Then wente Symon in to Galilee / and stroke diuerse batelly with the Heathẽ: whõ he discomfyted / and folowed vpon them vnto the porte of Ptolomais. And there were slayne of the Heathen allmost .iij. thousande men. So he toke ỹ spoyles of them / and caried awaye the Israelites / that were in Galilee and Arbatis / wyth their wyues / their chyldzen and all that they had / and brought them in to Iewry with greate gladnesse. Judas Machabeus also and his brother Jonathas / wente ouer Jordane / and trauayled .iij. dayes iourney in the wyldernesse: Where the Nebuthees met them / and receaued them louyngly / and tolde thẽ euery thynge that had happened vnto their brethzen in Galaadithim / and how that many of them were beseged in Barasa / Bosor / Alimis / Casphor / Mageth and Carnaim (all these are stronge walled and myghtie greate cyties) and that they were kepte in other cytyes of Galaad also: & to morow they are apoynted to brynge their Host vnto these cyties / to take them & to wynne them in one daye.

So Judas and his host turned in all the haste in the wyldernesse towarde Bosor / and wanne the cytie / slewe all the males with ỹ swearde / toke all their goodes / and sett fyre vpon the cytie. And in the nyght they toke their iourneye from thence / and came to the castell. And by tymes in the mornynge when they loked vp / beholde / there was an innumerable people bearynge laders and other instrumẽtes of warre / to take the castell and to ouercome them.

When Judas sawe that the battayll beganne / and that the noyse therof wente vp & range in to the heauen / and that there was so greate a crye in the cytie: He sayd vnto his host: fyght this daye for youre brethzen. And so came behynde their enemyes in thzee companyes / and blewe vp the trompettes / and cryed in their prayer to God.

But as soone as Timothis host perceaued ỹ Machabeus was there / they fled from him / and the other slewe them downe ryght sore: so that there were killed of them ỹ same daye / almost eyght thousande men. Then departed Judas vnto Malpha / layed sege vnto it and wanne it / slewe all the males in it / spoyled it / and set fyre vpon it. From thence wente he and toke Casbon / Mageth / Bosor and the other cyties in Galaad.

Hoste / which pitched their tentes before Raphon beyonde the water. Judas sent to spye ỹ hoste / & they brought him worde agayne / sayinge /

agayne/sayenge:All the Heathen ꝯ be roũde aboute vs / are gathered vnto him / and the hoost is very greate:Yee they haue hyred the Arabiãs to helpe them/ & haue pitched their tentes beyonde the water / and are ready to come & fyght agaynst the. So Judas wente on to mete them.

And Timothy sayde vnto the captaynes of hys hoost: when Judas & hys hoost come nye ꝯ ryuer:yf he go ouer first/we shal not be able to withstande him:for why/he wil be to stroge for vs. But yf he darre not come ouer so that he pitch his tente beyonde the water: then will we go ouer/ for we shalbe stronge ynough agaynst him. Now as soone as Judas came to ꝯ ryuer/he appoynted certayne scrybes of the people/ & commannded them/ sayenge:se ꝯ ye leaue none behinde vpõ this syde of the ryuer/ but let euery man come to the battayl. So he wente first ouer vnto thẽ & his people after him.

And all the Heathen were dyscomfited before him/and lett their weapens fal/ & ranne in to the tẽple that was at Carnaim. Which cytye Judas wanne / and brent the temple wyth all that were in it: So was Carnaim subdued/and myght not withstãde Judas. Then Judas gathered all the Israelites that were in Galaadythym / from the leest vnto the most / wyth their wyues and their chyldren(a very greate hoost) for to come in to the lande of Israell.

So they came vnto Ephron / which was a myghtie/greate and stroge cytie/and laye in their waye. For they coulde not go by it/ nether of the ryght hande ner of the left/ but must goo thorow it. Neuertheless they that were in ꝯ cytie/wolde not let thẽ go thorow/ but walled vp the portes with stones. And Judas sent vnto thẽ w̃ peaceable wordes/ sayinge:Let vs passe thorow youre land/ ꝯ we maye goo in to oure awne countre:there shall no body do you harme/we wyll but only go thorow. But they wolde not lett thẽ in.

Wherfore Judas commaunded a proclamacyon to be made thorow oute the Hoste/ that euery man shulde kepe his ordre:and so they dyd their best lyke valeaunt men.

And Judas beleged the cytie all that daye and all that nyght / and so wanne it: where they slewe as many as were males / and destroyed the cytye/ and spoyled it / and wente thorow all the cytie ouer thẽ ꝯ were slayne. Then went they ouer Jordane in to ꝯ playne felde before Bethsan. And Judas helped thole forwarde that cam behynde/ and gaue the people good exortacyon all the waye thorow/ tyll they were come in to the lande of Juda. Thus they wente vp vnto ꝯ mount Sion/ where they offred w̃ myrth & thanckesgyuynge:because there were none of thẽ slayne/but came home agayne peaceably.

Now what tyme as Judas and Jonathas were in the lande of Galaad / and Symon their brother in Galilee before Ptolomays: Then Josephus the sonne of Zachary and Asaryah the captaynes / hearynge of the actes that were done and of the battels that were stroken / sayde: Lett vs get vs a name also/ and go fight agaynst the Heathen that are rounde aboute vs.

So they gaue their hoost a commaundement / and wente towarde Jamnyah. Then came Gorgyah & his men out of the cytie/to fyght agaynst them: Josephus also and Asaryah were chased vnto the borders of Jewry & there were slayne ꝯ daye of ꝯ people of Israel iij. M. men: so ꝯ there was a great misery amonge ꝯ people/ & al because they were not obedient vnto Judas and hys brethren / but thought they shulde quyte them selues manfully. Neuertheles they came not of the sede of these men/ by whõ Israell was helped. But the mẽ ꝯ were with Judas/ were greatly commended in the sight of all Israell and all Heathen /where so euer their name was herde vpon/ & the people came vnto thẽ byddynge them welcome.

After thys wente Judas forth wyth hys brethren/and fought agaynst the chyldrẽ of Esau/in the lande ꝯ lyeth towarde the south where he wanne the cytie of Hebron and the townes that lye beside it: & as for the walles and towres rounde aboute it/he brent them vp. Then remoued he to go in to the lande of the Philistines/and wente thorow Samaria. At ꝯ same tyme were there many prestes slayne in the battayll / whych wylfully and without aduysement wente out for to fyght to get them honoure. And when Judas cam to Azot in the Philistines lande / he brake downe their aultares / brent the ymages of their Idols/spoyled ꝯ cyties/ & came agayne in to the lande of Juda.

¶ The.vj. Chapter.

NOw when kynge Antyochus trauayled thorow the hye countrees/ he herde ꝯ Elymas in Persia was a noble & plenteous citie in syluer & gold/ & that there was in it a very riche tẽple: where as were clothes/cote armoures & shyldes of golde/whych Alexander the sonne of Philippe kyng of Macedonia had left behynde him. Moreouer there came one which brought hym tydynges in Perslyde/ that his hoostes which were in the lande of Juda / were dryuen awaye/ and how that Lisias went forth first wt̄ a greate power/ & was dryuen awaye of the Jewes: how that they had wonne the victory/ & gotten greate goodes out of the hoostes ꝑ perysshed: how they had brokē downe the abhomynacion/ which he set vp vpon the altare at Jerusalem/ and fenced the Sanctuary with hye walles/ like as it was afore: yee and Bethsura his cite also.

B So it chaunced/ that when the King had herde these wordes/ he was afrayed and greued very sore. Wherfore he layed him downe vpon his bed/ and fell sicke for very sorowe: and all because it had not happened as he had deuysed. And there contynued he longe/ for hys greefe was euer more and more/ so ꝑ he saw he must nedes dye. And beholde/ I must dye with greate sorow in a straūge lande. Then called he for one Philippe a frende of his/ whom he made ruler of al his realme/ & gaue him ꝑ crowne/ his roabe & his ryng: that he shulde take his sonne Antiochus vnto hym / & bryng hym vp/ tyll he myght raygne hymselfe. When Lysias knewe that the kynge was deed/ he ordened Antiochus hys sonne (whom he had brought vp) to raygne in hys fathers steade) & called hym Eupator. Now they that were in the castell (at Jerusalem) kepte in the Jewes round about the Sanctuary/ & sought euer styll to do them harme/ for the strengthenynge of the Heathen.

Wherfore Judas thought to destroye thē/ and called all the people together/ that they myght laye sege vnto them. So they came together in the. We haue euer bene mynded to do thy father seruyce/ to walke in his statutes/ and to obeye his commaundementes: Therfore oure people fel from vs/ & whersoeuer they founde any of vs/ they slewe thē: and they haue not only medled wyth vs/ but wyth all oure countrees: and beholde/ thys daye are they belegynge the castell at Jerusalem/ and haue made vp the strōge holde in Bethsura: And ꝑ thou doest not preuente them ryght soone / they wyll do more then these / and thou shalt not be able to ouercome them.

So the kynge arose before the daye/ and brought the power of his Host in to ꝑ waye to Bethzacaran/ where the Hostes made thē E to the battayll / blowynge the trompettes. And to prouoke the Elephantes for to fight/ they shewed them the sappe of reed grapes and molberies. And deuyded the Elephantes amonge the Hoste: so ꝑ by euery Elephante there stode a. As for the remnaunt of the horsmen / he sett them vpon both the sydes in two partes with trompettes/ to prouoke the Hoste / and to stere vp soch as were slowe in the armye. And when the sunne shone vpō their shildes of golde and stele/ the mountaynes glistered agayne at them / and were as bryght as the crestettes of fyre. And all they that dwelt in the lande / were affrayed at the noyse of their hoost / when the multytude wente forth / & when the weapēs smote together / for ỹ hoost was both great & mighty. Judas also & his hoost entred in to the battayll / & slew .vj.C. men of the kynges armye. Now whē Eleasar the sonne of Saura dyd se one of the Elephantes decked wt the kynges badge / and was a more goodly beest then the other: he thought the kynge shuld be vpon hym / & ieoparde him self to delyuer his people / and to get him a perpetuall name.

Wherfore he ranne with a corage vnto ỹ Elephante in the myddest of the hoost / smytynge them downe of both the sydes / & slewe many aboute him. So wente he to the Elephantes fete / & gat hym vnder hym / & slewe him: then fell the Elephant downe vpō him / & there he dyed. Judas also & his men seing ỹ power of the kyng & the myghtye vyolēce of his hoost / departed frō them. And the kinges armye wente vp agaynst thē towarde Jerusalem / & pitched their tētes in Jewry before mount Sion. Moreouer / the kynge toke truce with them that were in Bethsura.

But whē they came out of ỹ cyte (because they had no vytales within / & the lande laye vntylled) the kyng toke Bethsura / & set men to kepe it / & turned hys hoost to the place of the Sanctuary / & layed siege to it a greate whyle. Where he made al maner ordynaūce: handbowes / fyre dartes / rackettes to cast stones / scorpyōs to shute arowes / & slinges. The Jewes also made ordynaunce agaynst theirs / and fought a longe season.

But in the cyte there were no vytayles / for it was the seuenth yeare of the warres / & those Heathē that remayned in Jewry had eaten vp all their store. And in the Sanctuary were few men lefte / for ỹ hunger came so vpon thē / that they were scatered abroade euery man to his awne place.

So when Lysias hearde that Philippe
1. Mach. vi. b. (whom Antiochus the kynge whyle he was yet lyuynge / had ordened to bryng vp Antiochus his sonne / that he myght be kynge) was come agayne out of Perssia & Medea with the kinges hoost / & thought to optayne the kyngdome: He gat him to the kyng in all the haste / & to the captaynes of ỹ hoost / and sayde: we decrease dayly / & oure vytales are but small: Agayne / the place ỹ we laye sege vnto / is very strong / & it were oure parte to se for the realme. Let vs agree with these men and take truce with them / and with all their people / and graunte them to lyue after their lawe / as they dyd afore. For they be greued & do all these thinges agaynst vs / because we haue despyled their lawe. So the kyng and the princes were content / & sent vnto thē to make peace / & they receaued it. Now when the kyng & the princes had made an othe vnto them / they came out of the castell / and ỹ kynge wente vp to mount Syon. But whē he sawe that the place was well fenced / he brake the othe that he had made / & cōmaunded to destroye ỹ wall rounde aboute. Then departed he in all the haste / & returned vnto Antioche / where he foūde Philippe hauyng dominyon of ỹ cytie. So he fought agaynst him / & toke ỹ cytie agayne in to his handes.

¶ Demetrius raygneth after he had kylled Antiochus & Lysias. He troubleth the chyldrē of Israel thorow the counsell of certen wycked personnes. The prayer of the Prestes agaynst Nicanor. Judas kylleth Nicanor / after he had made his prayer.

¶ The .vij. Chapter.

IN the .Cli. yeare came Demetrius the sonne of Seleucus from the cytie of Rome wyth a small cōpany of men / vnto a cytye of the see coast / & there he bare rule. And it chaunced / that when he came to Antioch the citie of his Progenitours / hys hoost toke Antiochus & Lysias / to bryng thē vnto him. But whē it was tolde him / he sayde: lett me not se their faces. So the hoost put them to death: Now when Demetrius was set vpon the trone of his kyngdome / there came vnto him wycked and vngodly men of Israel: whose captayne was Alcimus / that wolde haue bene made hye prest: These men accused the people of Israel vnto the kynge / sayinge: Judas & his brethren haue slayne thy frendes / and dryuē vs out of oure awne lande. Wherfore sende now some man (to whom thou geuest credēce) that he maye go and se all the destruccyō / which he hath done vnto vs & to the kynges lande / and lett him be punished with all his frendes and fauourers.

Then the kynge chose Bachides a frende of his / which was a mā of greate power in the realme (beyonde the greate water) and faythfull vnto the kynge: and sent hym to se the destruccyon that Judas had done. And as for that wicked Alcimus / he made him hye prest / and commaunded hym to be auenged of the chyldren of Israell. So they stode by / and came with a greate hoost in to the lande of Juda / sendynge messaungers to Judas & his brethrē / & spekynge vnto thē wt peaceable wordes: but vnder disceate. Therfore Judas & his people beleued not their saying / for they sawe ỹ they were come wt a greate Hoost.

After this came the scribes together vnto Alcimus & Bachides / trustynge the best vnto thē. And fyrst ỹ Assideans requyred peace of them / sayinge: Alcimus the prest is come of the sede of Aarō / how can he disceaue vs?

So

So they gaue thē louynge wordes/ & swore vnto them/ & sayde: we wil do you no harme/ nether your frendes: & they beleued thē. But the very same daye toke they ix. men of them & slewe them according to ỹ wordes that are written: They haue cast the flesh of thy sanctes/ & shed their bloude rounde about Ieru-

C salem/ & there was noman that wolde bury them. So there came a greate feare & drede amonge the people/ sayenge: there is nether treuth nor ryghteousnesse in them/ for they haue broken the appoyntement & othe that they made. And Bachides remoued his hoost from Ierusalem/ and pytched hys tente at Bethzecha: where he sent forth/ & toke many of them that had forsaken hym: He slewe many of the people also/ and cast them into a greate pytt. Then commytted he the lande vnto Alcimus/ and left men of warre wyth hym to helpe him/ & Bachides hymself went vnto the kynge. And thus Alcimus defended his hye prestlode/ and all soch as vexed Israell/ resorted vnto hym: In so moch that they optayned the lande of Juda/ & dyd moch euell vnto the Israelites.

Now when Judas sawe all the myschefe that Alcimus and his company had done (yee more then the Heathen them selues) vnto the Israelites: He went forth rounde about al the borders of Jewry/ and punyshed those vnfaythfull rēnagates/ so that they came no more out in to the countre. So when Alcimus sawe/ that Judas and his people had gotten the vpperhande/ and that he was not able to abyde them: he went agayne to the kynge/ and sayde all the worst of them that he coulde. Then the kyng sent Nicanor/ one of his chefe prynces (whych bare euell wyll vnto Israel) and commaunded hym/ that he shulde vtterly destroye the people.

G.Mach.xv.a.

So Nicanor came to Ierusalem wyth a greate hoost/ and sent vnto Judas and hys brethren wyth frendly wordes (but vnder disceate) sayenge: there shall be no warre betwixte me and you: I will come wyth a few men/ to se how ye do/ with frendshipe. Upon thys he came vnto Judas/ and they saluted one another peaceably: but the enemyes were appoynted to take Judas by violence. Neuertheles it was tolde Judas/ that he came vnto hī but vnder disceate: wherfore he gat him awaye from him/ & wolde se his face no more. When Nicanor perceaued that hys councel was bewrayed/ he went out to fight agaynst Judas/ besyde Capharsalama: where there were slayne of Nicanors hoost/ v. M. men: the residue fled vnto the castell of Dauid.

After thys came Nicanor vp vnto mount Sion: and the prestes wyth the elders of the people wente forth to salute him peaceably & to shewe him the burnt sacrifices that were offered for the kyng. But he laughed them to scorne/ mocked them/ defiled their offeringes/ & spake disdanedly/ yee and swore in his wroth/ sayenge: If Judas and hys hoost be

When Nicanor was gone from Ierusalem he pitched his tente at Bethoron/ & there an hoost met him out of Syria. And Judas came to Adarsa with iij. M mē/ & made his prayer vnto God/ sayenge: O Lorde/ because the messaungers of kyng Senacherib Eccl.xxxvij.c.

And so the hoostes stroke the felde/ the thirtente daye of the moneth Adar: & Nicanors hoost was discomfited/ and he hymself was fyrst slayne in the battayll. When Ny- ij.Mach.xv.d.
canors men of warre sawe that he was kylled/ they cast awaye their weapens and fled: but the Jewes folowed vpon them an whole dayes iourney/ from Adazer vnto Gazara/ blowynge with the trompettes/ & makynge tokens after thē. So the Jewes came forth of all the townes there aboute/ & blewe out their hornes vpon them/ and turned agaynst them: Thus were they al slayne/ and not one of them lefte.

Then they toke their substaūce for a pray and smote of Nicanors heade and hys ryghte hande (whych he helde vp so proudly) and brought it with them/ and hanged it vp afore Ierusalem. Wherfore the people were exceadingly reioyced/ and passed ouer that daie in great gladnesse. And Judas ordened/ that the same daye (namely the .xiij. daye of the moneth Adar) shulde be kepte in myrth euery yeare. Thus the lande of Juda was in rest a litle whyle.

A 1.Mach.vij.c. Josephus.cap. xvij.lib.xij.

IN the meane season when Demetryus herde ꝑ Nycanor & hys hoost was slayne in the felde/he ꝓceded furher to sende Bachydes & Alcymus agayne in to Jewry / & those that were in the right winge of his hoost/with thē. So they wente forth by the waye that ledeth vnto Galgala / and pytched their tentes before Melaloth which is in Arbellis / & wanne ꝑ citie/& slewe moch people. In ꝑ first moneth of the cliij. yeare/they brought their hoost to Jerusalem/& rose vp & came to Berea/with xx.M. fote men/& ij.M. horsmen.

Now Judas had pitched his tente at Laisa / with thre thousande chosen men. And when they sawe the multytude of the other army that it was so greate/they were sore afrayed/& many conueyed them selues out of the hoost / In so moch that there abode no mo of them but viij. C. men. When Judas sawe that is hoost fayled him/and that he must nedes fight: it brake his hert/that he had no tyme to gather them together: wherfore the mā was in extreme trouble. Neuertheles he sayde vnto them / that remayned with hym: Up/let vs go agaynst oure enemyes/ peraduenture we shal be able to fight wyth them. But they wolde haue stopped hym/ sayenge: we shal not be able/therfore let vs now saue ourselues/ and turne agayne to our brethrē and then wyll we fight agaynst them/ for we are here but fewe. And Judas sayde: God B forbyd/that we shulde fle from them. Wherfore yf oure tyme be come / lett vs dye manfully for oure brethren/and let vs not stayne our honoure. Then the hoost remoued out of the tentes/ & stode agaynst them. The horsmē were deuyded in two partes: the slynge casters & the archers wente before the hoost/ & all the mightye men were formest in the felde. Bachides himself was in the right wyng of the battell/and the hoost drewe nye in two partes/and blewe the trompettes. They of Judas syde blewe the trompettes also/ & the earth shoke at the noyse of the hoostes / and they stroke a felde from the morow til nyght. And when Judas sawe that Bachides hoost was strongest of the right syde/he toke with hym all the hardy men / and brake the ryght wynge of their ordre / and folowed vpō them vnto the mount Azot.

Now when they whych were of the lefte wynge/sawe that the right side was discomfited / they persecuted Judas and them that were with hym. Then was there a sore battayll / for many were slayne and wounded of both the partyes / Judas also hymself was kylled/and the remnaūt fled. So Jonathas and Symon toke Judas their brother/ and buried him in his fathers sepulcre in the cytie of Modin. And all the people of Israell made great lamentacion for him/and mourned longe/sayenge: Alas / that thys worthy shulde be slayne/ which delyuered the people of Israel. As for other thinges pertenynge to the battayls of Judas/ the noble actes ꝑ he did & of his worthynesse: they are not written/for they were very many.

¶ And after the death of Judas/ wycked mē came vp in al the coastes of Israel/and there arose all such as worke vngodlynesse. In those dayes was there a greate dearth in the lande/and all the countre gaue ouer thē selues & theirs vnto Bachydes. So Bachydes chose wicked men/ and made them lordes in the lande. These sought out and made search for Judas frendes / and brought them vnto Bachides: which auenged him self vpō them with greate despite. And there came so great trouble in Israell/ as was not sens the tyme that no prophet was sene there. Joseph. cap.xij lib.xij. Antiq.

Then came all Judas frendes together/ & sayde vnto Jonathas: For so moch as thy brother Judas is deed / there is none lyke him to go forth agaynst our enemiȝ/agaynst Bachides / and such as are aduersaries vnto oure people. Wherfore thys daye we chose the for him/to be oure prynce and captayne to ordre oure battell. And Jonathas toke the gouernaunce vpon hym at the same tyme/ and ruled in steade of hys brother Judas. When Bachydes gatt knowlege therof / he sought for to sley hym: But Jonathas and Symon his brother/ perceauynge that/ fled in to ꝑ wildernesse of Thecua wyth all their company/ and pytched their tentes by ꝑ water pole of Asphar.

Which when Bachydes vnderstode / he came ouer Jordane wyth all hys hoost vpon the Sabbath daye. Now had Jonathas sent his brother Jhon (a captayne of the people) to praye his frendes the Nabuthites/ ꝑ they wolde lende them their ordynaunce/for they had moch. So the chyldren of Jambry came out of Madaba /and toke Jhon and all that he had/ and wente their waye wythal. Then D came worde vnto Jonathas and Symon hys brother / that the chyldren of Jambry made a greate maryage / and brought the bride from Madaba with greate pompe: for she was daughter to one of the noblest princes of Canaan. Wherfore they remembred the bloude of Jhon their brother / and wente vp/and hid them selues vnder the shadowe of the mountayne.

So they lift vp their eyes/and loked: and beholde/there was moch a do/and greate repayre: for the bryde grome came forth / & hys frendes & hys brethren met them with tympanys/instrumentes of muslick/ and many weapens. Then Jonathas and they that were with him/rose out of their lourkyng places agaynst them/ and slewe many of them. As for the remnaunt/they fled in the to moũtaynes / and they toke all their substaunce. Thus the mariage was turned to mornings/ and the noyse of their melody in to lamentacyon. And so when they had auenged the bloude of theyr brother/ they turned agayne vnto Jordane.

Bachides hearynge thys/ came vnto the very border of Jordane with a greate power vpon the Sabbath daye. And Jonathas sayde to his company: lett vs get vp/& fyght
C agaynst oure enemyes: for it standeth not wyth vs to daye/as in tymes past: Beholde/ our enemies are in oure waye / the water of Jordane vpon the one syde of vs / wyth bankes/ fennes & woddes of the other syde /so ỹ there is no place for vs to departe vnto.
§. Para. r. a. i. Mach. iiij. b Wherfore crie now vnto heauen / ỹ ye maye be delyuered from the power of youre enemyes. So they stroke the batell. And Jonathas stretched out his hande to smyte Bachides/but he fled backwarde. Then Jonathas & they ỹ were wyth hym leapte in to Jordane/ & swymmed ouer Jordane vnto hym / & there were slayne of Bachides syde that daye / a thousande men.

Therfore Bachides with his hoost turned agayn to Jerusalem/ & buylte vp the castels & stroge holdes that were in Jewry/ Jericho Emaus / Bethoron/ Bethell / Thamnata/ Phara & Topo/ wyth hye walles / wyth portes & wlockes: & lett men to kepe them/ that they might vse their malice vpon Israell. He wailed vp Bethsurah/ Gazarah & the castell at Jerusalem also / & prouyded them w̃ men & vitales: He toke also ỹ chefest mens sonns in the countre for pledges/ & put them in the castell at Jerusalem to be kepte.

After warde in the C. liij. yeare in the seconde moneth/ Alcimus cõmaunded/ that the walles of the ynnost Sanctuary shulde be destroyed/ & the buyldinges of the prophetes also. And when he beganne to destroye them the thinges ỹ he wente about/ were hyndered for he was smytten w̃ a palsey/ & hys mouth shut/ so that he coulde nomore speake ner cõmaunde eny of his house concerning his bu-
F syneße. Thus dyed Alcimus in great mysery at the same tyme. And whẽ Bachides sawe ỹ Alcymus was deed / he turned agayne to ỹ kinge/ & so the lande was in rest ij. yeares. Then all the vngodly men helde a councell/ sayenge: Beholde/ Jonathas & his company are at ease/ & dwell without care. Wherfore lett vs bringe Bachides hither/ & he shal take them al in one night.

So they wente and gaue Bachides thys coũcel/ which arose to come w̃ a great hoost/ & sent letters priuely to his adherẽtes which were in Jewry / to take Jonathas & those ỹ were wyth hym: but they myght not/ for the other had gotten knowlege of theyr deuyce. And Jonathas toke L. men of the countre/ (which were the ryngleaders of them) & slew them. Then Jonathas & Symon with their cõpany departed vnto the cytye Bethbessen which lyeth in the wyldernesse/ and repayred the decaye therof/ & made it stronge. When Bachydes knewe thys / he gathered all hys hoost/ & sent worde to them that were of Jewry. Thẽ came he & layed sege to Bethbessen & fought agaynst it a longe season / & made instrumentes of warre. Now Jonathas lefte his brother Symõ in the cytie/ and wente forth himself in to the countre/ & came wyth a certayne nombre/ and slewe Odares & his brethren and the childrẽ of Phaseron in their tentes: so that he beganne to be stronge/ and to increase in power. G

As for Symon & his company/ they wẽt out of the cytye/ and brent vp the instrumentes of warre/ and fought agaynst Bachides/ and discomfyted hym. And Bachydes was sore vexed/ because hys councell and trauayle was in vayne. Wherfore he was wroth at ỹ wicked men (that gaue hym councel to come in to their lande) and slew many of them. Then purposed he wyth hys company to go awaye in to his awne countre: wherof when Jonathas had knowlege / he sent embassytours vnto hym/ for to make peace with him & that he shulde deliuer hym his prisoners agayne. To the whych Bachydes consented gladly/ & dyd accordinge to his desyre: yee and made an othe / that he shulde neuer do hym harme all the dayes of hys life. So he restored vnto hym all the prisonners that he had taken out of the lande of Juda/ and then turned and wente hys waye in to hys awne lande / nether proceded he eny further to come vnto the borders of Juda. Thus Israell had moze warre. And Jonathas dwelt at Machmas / and beganne there to gouerne ỹ people / and destroyed the vngodly men out of Israell.

agaynst him to fight. Wherfore Demetrius sent letters vnto Jonathas w̄ louynge wordes / & prayed hym greatly. For he sayde: we wyll fyrst make peace wyth hym / before he bynde hym self with Alexander agaynst vs: els he shal remembre the euell that we haue done agaynst hym / his brother & his people. And so he gaue Jonathas leue togather an hoost / to make weapens / and to be confederate with him / & commaunded the pledges ꝑ were in the castel / to be delyuered vnto him.

Then came Jonathas to Jerusalem / and red the letters in the audyence of all the people / and of them that were in the castell. And therfore were they sore afrayed / because they herde / that the kynge had geuē him licence to gather an hoost. Thus were ꝑ pledges delyuered vnto Jonathas / which restored thē to their elders. Jonathas also dwelt at Jerusalem / & beganne to buylde vp and to repayre the cite: cōmaundyng the workmen / to wall it / and the mount Sion round aboute wyth fre stone / to be a stronge holde / and so they dyd. As for the Heathē that were in the castels which Bachides had made vp / they fled: so that euery man left the place / & wente into his awne coūtre. Only at Bethsura remayned certayne of ꝑ Jewes / which had forsakē the lawe & commaundementes of God / for Bethsura was their refuge.

Now when kynge Alexander herde of the promyses that Demetrius had made vnto Jonathas / and when it was tolde hym of the battels & noble actes / whych he and his brethren had done / and of the greate trauayles that they had taken: he sayde: where shall we fynde soch a man? well / we wyll make hym oure frende / & be cōfederate with him. Upō this he wrote a lettre vnto hym / wyth these wordes: kynge Alexander saluteth his brother Jonathas. We haue herde of the / that thou art a valeaunt man / and mete to be oure frēde: wherfore this daye we ordene the to be the hye Prest of thy people / and to be called the Kynges frende. (Upon thys / he sente hym a purple clothinge / & a crowne of golde) that thou mayest considre what is for oure profyt / & kepe frendshype towarde vs.

So in the .vij. moneth of the .C. lx. yeare Cvpō the solempne feast daye of the tabernacles / Jonathas put the holy rayment vpon him. Then gathered he an hoost / & made many weapēs. Which when Demetrius herde / he was maruelous sory / & sayde: Alas / what haue we done / that Alexander hath preuented vs in gettynge the frendshyppe of the Jewes / for his awne defence? Yet wyll I write louyngly vnto them also / yee & promyse thē dygnytyes & rewardes / that they maye be of my syde. Whervpon he wrote vnto thē these wordes: Kyng Demetrius sendeth gretinge vnto the people of the Jewes. Where as ye haue kepte your couenaūt toward vs / & cōtynued in our frendshype / not enclyning to oure enemyes we were glad / when we herde therof. Wherfore remayne styll & be faythfull to vs: & we shall well recōpense you for the thinges / ꝑ ye haue done on oure partye: we shall release you of many charges / and geue you rewardes. And now I dyscharge you & all ꝑ Jewes from tributes / I forgeue you the customes of salt / & release you of ꝑ crowne taxes / of the thirde parte of sede / and half of ꝑ frute of trees / which is myne awne dewty. These I leaue for you / from this daye forth: so that they shall not be taken of the lande of Juda ner of the thre cities which are added thervnto out of Samaria & Galilee / from this daye forth for euermore. Jerusalē also with all thinges belonging therto / shall be holy & fre / yee the tythes & tributes shall pertayne vnto it. As for the power of the castell which is at Jerusalē / I rempte & geue it vnto the hye prest / ꝑ he maye set in it soche men / as he shall chose to kepe it. I frely deliuer all the Jewes that are presoners thorow out all my realme: so that euery one of them shalbe fre from paying any trybute / yee euē of their catell.

All ꝑ solēpne feastes / Sabbathes / newmones / the dayes appoynted / the thre dayes before and after the feast shalbe fre for all ꝑ Jewes in my realme: so that in them no man shal haue power to do eny thing / or to moue any busynesse agaynst any of thē in any maner of cause. There shall. xxx. M. also of the Jewes be wrytten vp in the kinges host / and haue their wages payed / as all other men of warre of the kynges shulde haue: and of them shalbe ordened certayne / to kepe the kynges strong holdes: yee and some of them shalbe set ouer the kynges busynesse / ꝑ they maye faythfully deale wyth the same. The Jewes also shal haue princes of their awne / and walcke in their awne lawes / as ꝑ kyng hath commaunded in the lande of Juda.

And the thre cytyes that are fallen vnto Jewrye from the countre of Samaria and Galilee: shalbe taken as Jewry / and be vnder one: nether be subiecte to any straunge lorde / but to the hye prest. As for Ptolomais and the lande perteynynge therto / I geue it vnto the Sanctuary at Jerusalem / for the necessary expēces of the holy thinges. More ouer / I wyll geue euery yeare .xv. thousand Sycles of syluer out of the kynges cheker (whych pertayneth vnto me) to the worcke of the temple: yee and loke what remayneth (which they that had oure matters inhande in tymes past / haue not payed) ꝑ same shall they geue vnto them also. And besydes all thys / the .v. M. cycles whych they toke yearly of the rentes of the Sanctuary / shall belonge vnto the prestes that do seruice.

Item / whosoeuer they be that fle vnto ỹ temple at Jerusalem or within the liberties therof / where as they are fallen in to ỹ kynges daunger for eny maner of busynes / they shall be pardoned / and all the goodes that they haue in my realme / shalbe fre. For the buyldynge also & repayrynge of the worke of the Sanctuary / expenses shalbe geuen out of the kynges Checker: Yee and for the makinge of the walles rounde aboute Jerusalem / for the brea kynge downe of the olde / and for the settynge vp of the stronge holdes in Jewry / shal ỹ costes & charges be geuen out of the kinges Checker.

1.Mac.by.b. But when Jonathas and the people herde these wordes they gaue no credence vnto them / nether receaued them: for they remẽbred the greate wyckednesse that he had done vnto Israel / and how sore he had vexed thẽ. Wherfore they agreed vnto Alexander / for he was a prince that had dealte frendly wyth them / and so they stode by him allwaye. Thẽ gathered kynge Alexander a greate hoost / & brought hys armye agaynst Demetrius.

Josephus.cap. b.lib.xiij. So the two kynges stroke battayll together / but Demetrius hoost fled / and Alexander folowed after and fell vpõ them. A mighty sore felde was it / continuyng til the Sõne wente downe / and Demetrius was slayne the same daye.

F And Alexander sente embassitours vnto Ptolomy the kynge of Egypte wt these wordes / sayenge: For so moch as I am come agayne to my realme / and am set in the trone of my progenitours / and haue gotten ỹ dominyõ / ouer comed Demetrius / conquered the lande / and stryken a felde wyth hym / so that we haue discomfyted both hym and hys hoost / and syt in the trone of hys kyngdome: Let vs now make frendshipe together / geue me thy daughter to wyfe: so shall I be thy sonne in lawe / and both geue the rewardes / and her greate dignyte. Ptolomy the kynge gaue answere / sayenge: Happy be the daye wherin thou art come agayne to the lande of thy progenytours / and sett in the trone of their kingdome. As now wyll I fulfyll thy wrytynge: but mete me at Ptolomais / ỹ we maye se one another / and that I maye mary my daughter vnto the accordynge to thy desyre. So Ptolomy wẽte out of Egipte wyth his daughter Cleopatra / & came vnto Ptolomais in ỹ C.lxii. yeare: where kynge Alexander met him / and he gaue Alexander hys daughter Cleopatra / & maryed them at Ptolomays wyth greate worshype / lyke as the maner of kynges is to be. Then wrote kinge Alexander vnto Jonathas / that he shulde come and mete him. So he wente honorably vnto Ptolomays / and there he met the two kynges / and gaue them greate presentes of golde and syluer / and foũde fauoure in their syght. And there came together agaynst Jo- G nathas certayne wicked men & vngracyous personnes of Israell / makynge complayntes of hym / but the kinge regarded them not As for Jonathas / the kinge commaunded to take of hys garmentes / and to clothe hym in purple: and so they dyd. Then the kynge appoynted hym to sytt by hym / and sayde vnto hys princes: Go wyth hym in to the middest of the cytye / and make a proclamacion / that no man complayne agaynst him of eny matter / and that no man trouble him for eny maner of cause.

So it happened that when hys accusers sawe the worshype whych was proclamed of him / & that he was clothed in purple: they fled euerychone. And the kynge made moch of hym / wrote hym amonge hys cheke frendes / made hym a duke / and partaker of his dominyon. Thus Jonathas wente agayne to Jerusalem wyth peace and gladnesse. In Josephus.cap. b.lib.xiij.antiq the C.lxv. yeare came Demetrius the sonne of Demetrius from Creta in to hys fathers lande: wherof when Alexander herde tell / he 1.Mac.ij.k. was wyght sory / and returned vnto Antyoche. And Demetrius chose Appollonyus (which had the gouernaunce of Celosyria) to be hys captayne.

So he gathered a greate hoost and came vnto Jamnia / and sende worde vnto Jonathas the hye prest / sayeng: Darrest thou wstande vs thy self alone? As for me / I am but laughed to scorne and shamed / because thou prouedst thy strẽgth agaynst vs in the moũtaynes. Now therfore yf thou trustest in thyne awne strength / come downe to vs in to the playne felde / and there lett vs proue oure strength together: thou shalt fynde / ỹ I haue baleaunt men of warre with me: and shalt knowe whom I am / and the other that stande by my.

Which saye / that youre fote is not able to stande before oure face / for thy fathers haue bene twyse chaced in to their awne lande. And now / how wylt thou be able to abyde so greate an hoost of horsmen and fotemen in the felde / where as is nether rocke / stone ner place to fle vnto?

When Jonathas herde the wordes of Appollonius / he was moued in hys mynde: wherfore he chose .x. thousande men and wẽte out of Jerusalem / and Symon hys brother met hym for to helpe hym: And they pytched their tentes at Joppa / but ỹ cytye kepte him forth hym forth/ for Joppa was an holde of Appollonius. Then Jonathas layed syege to it/ and they that were in the cytie/ for very feare let him in: and so Jonathas wāne Joppa. Appollonius hearynge of thys / toke thre thousand horsemen / with a greate Host of fote/ & wēt as though he woldgo to Azotus/ and came immediatly in to the playne felde: because he had so many horsmen/ & put hys trust in them. So Jonathas folowed vpon him to Azotus/ and there they stroke ỹ battayll. Now had Appollonius lefte a thousand horsmen behinde thē pryuely in ỹ tētes. And when Jonathas knew that soch wayte was layed behynde them/ they went rounde aboute the enemyes host/ and shot dartes at the people from the morynng to ỹ euenyng. As for Jonathas people / they kepte their ordre as he had commaunded them / and the enemyes horses were euer labourynge.

¶ Then brought Symon forth his hoste / & set them agaynst the fote men. For the horsmen were wery allready. So he discomfyted them/ and they fled. And they that were scatred in the felde/ gat them to Azotus/ and came in to the temple of Dagon their Idol/ that they myght there saue their lyues. But Jonathas sett fyre vpon Azotus and all the cities rounde aboute it/ & toke their goodes/ and brent vp the temple of Dagon wyth all them that were fled in to it. & Mach. xi. d.

Thus were slayne and brent well nye. viij thousande men. So Jonathas remoued the hoste from thence / and brought them to Ascalon: where the men of the citie came forth/ and met hym with greate worshyppe. After this wente Jonathas and hys hoste agayne to Jerusalem / wyth greate substaunce of good. And when kyng Alexander herde these thynges / he thought to do Jonathas more worshype/ and sent him a colar of golde/ as the vse is to be geuen vnto soch as are of the kynges nexte bloude. He gaue hym also the cytie of Accaron (with the landes belonging therto) in possession.

¶ The dyssencyon betwirte Ptolomes & Alexaunder his sonne in lawe. The deeth of Alexaunder. Demetrius raygneth after the deeth of Ptolomeus. Syon is beseged of Jonathas. Demetrius seing that no mā resisted him/ sende his armye agayne. Tiphō moueth Antiochus agaynst Demetrius. Demetrius is delyuered by the succour of Jonathas. After his delyuerance he breaketh his couenaunt that he had made.

¶ The. xj. Chapter.

¶ And the kynge of Egypte gathered an hoste (lyke the sande that lyeth vpon the see shore) and many shippes: & wēt a boute thorow disceate to optayne the kyngdome of Alexander/ and to ioyne it vnto his awne realme. Vpon this he toke his iourneye in to Syria/ and was Iosep. Capit. vij. lib. xiij.

letten in to the cytyes / & men came forth to mete him: for kyng Alexander had cōmaunded them so to do/ because he was his father in lawe. Now when Ptolomy entred in to eny cytie/ he lefte men of warre to kepe it/ & this he dyd thorowe out all the cyties. And when he came to Azotus / they shewed hym the temple of Dagon and Azotus that was brent vp/ with the other thinges which were destroyed/ the deed bodyes cast abrode / & the graues that they had made by ỹ waye syde/ for soch as were slayne in the felde: And tolde the kynge that Jonathas had done all these thynges / to the intent they myght gett hym euell wyll. But the kyng sayde not a worde therto. And Jonathas met the kynge wyth great honoure at Joppa/ where they saluted one another/ & toke their rest. So when Jonathas had gone with the kyng/ vnto ỹ water that was called Eleutherus / he turned agayne to Jerusalem. Now Ptolomy had gotten the dominion of the cyties vnto Seleucia vpon the see coast/ ymagyninge wicked councels agaynst Alexander/ & sent embassitours vnto Demetrius/ saying: Come/ let vs make a bonde betwyxte vs / so shall I geue the my daughter that Alexander hath/ and thou shalt raygne in thy fathers kyngdome. I repente that I gaue Alexander my daughter / for he goeth aboute to sley me. And thus he sclaundred Alexander/ because he wolde haue had his realme. B

Thus he toke his daughter from him/ gaue her vnto Demetrius/ and forsoke Alexāder/ so that his malyce was openly knowen. And Ptolomy cam to Antioche/ where he set two crownes vpō his awne head: ỹ crowne of Egypte and of Asia. In the meane season was kynge Alexander in Cilicia/ for they ỹ dwelt in those places / had rebelled agaynst hym. But when Alexander herde of thys/ he came to warre agaynst him. So kyng Ptolomy brought forth his host & met him wyth a myghtye power / and chased hym awaye. Then fled Alexander in to Araby/ there to be defended/ & kyng Ptolomys honoure increased. And Zabdiel the Arabian smote of Alexanders head/ & sent it vnto Ptolomy. But the thyrde daye after / dyed kynge Ptolomy hym selfe: and they whom he had sett in the stronge holdes/ were slayne of those ỹ were within the cytyes. And Demetrius raygned in the hundreth and seuen and syxtye yeare. ¶

At the same tyme gathered Jonathas them that were in Jewry to laye syege vnto the castell which was at Jerusalem / and so they made many instrumentes of warre agaynst it. Then wente there certayne vngodly persones (whych hated their awne people) vnto kyng Demetrius / and tolde hym/that Jonathas beleged the castel. So whē he herde it, he was angrie/ & Immediatly came vnto Ptolomais/ & wrote vnto Jonathas/ ꝙ he shulde not laye lege to ꝙ castel/ but come & speake with hym in all the haste. Neuertheles when Jonathas herde this he cōmaūded to belege it. He chose also certayne of the elders & prestes of Israell/ & put him self in the parell/ & toke with him golde/ siluer/ clothing & diuerse presentes: & wente to Ptolomais vnto the kinge/ & foūde him gracious.

And though certayne vngodly mē of hys awne people made cōplayntes vpon him/ yet the kynge intreated him / lyke as hys predecessours had done before: & promoted hym in the sight of all his frendes/ confirmed him in the hye presthode with all the worshipe ꝙ he had afore/ & made him his chefe frende. Jonathas also desyred the kynge that he wolde make Jewry fre/ with the thre head cyties of Samaria & the landes pertaynynge therto: vpon this dyd Jonathas promise him thre C. talentes. Where vnto the kynge consented/ & gaue Jonathas writinge of the same / conteynynge these wordes. Kynge Demetrius sendeth gretinge vnto his brother Jonathas & to the people of the Jewes. We sende you here a copy of the lettre which we dyd write vnto oure elder Lasthenus/ concerning you that ye shulde knowe it.

D Lasthenus his elder. For the kaythfulnes ꝙ oure frendes the people of the Jewes kepe vnto vs / & for the louynge kyndnesse which they beare toward vs: we are determed to do them good. Wherfore we ordene all the coastes of Jeurye wyth. iij. cytyes/ Lyda and Ramatha (which are added vnto Jewry frō Samaria) & all the landes pertaninge there vnto/ to be frely separated for soch as do sacrifice in Jerusalem: both concernynge the paymētes which the kyng toke yearly afore tyme/ & the frutes also of the earth & trees. As for other tithes & tributes that belonged vnto vs/ we discharge them therof from this tyme forth. In lyke maner we graunte vnto them al the customes of salt & crowne taxes which were brought vnto vs. And this fredome shall they haue firme & stedfast / from this tyme forth for euermore. Therfore se ꝙ ye make a copy of these our letters/ & deliuer it vnto Jonathas: ꝙ it maye be kepte vpon ꝙ holy mount in a conuenient place.

E After thys/ when Demetrius the kynge sawe that his lande was in rest/ & that no resistaunce was made hym: he sent awaye all his hoost euery man to hys awne place/ excepte an armye of straungers / whom he brought from the Iles of the Heathen/ wher
1. Mach. xij. e. fore al his fathers hoost had euel wil at him.

Now was there one Triphon (that had bene of Alexanders parte afore) which when he sawe that all the hoost murmured agaynst Demetrius: he wente to Emalcuel the Arabian (that brought vp Antyochus the sonne of Alexander) & laye sore vpon him/ to deliuer him this yōg Antiochus: that he might raygne in his fathers steade. He tolde hym also what greate euell Demetrius had done/ and how his men of warre loued him not: & so remayned there a longe season.

And Jonathas sent vnto kinge Demetrius/ to dryue them out which were in the castel at Jerusalem & in the other refuges for they dyd Israell greate harme. So Demetrius sent worde vnto Jonathas/ sayenge: I wil not only do these thinges for the and thy people/ but at tyme conueniēt I will do both the & thy people greate worshype. But now F thou shalt do me a pleasure/ yf thou wilt send me men to helpe me: for all myne armye is gone fro me. So Jonathas sent hym. iij. M. stronge men vnto Antyoche) and they came vnto the kinge/ wherfore the kynge was very glad at their cōmynge. But they that were of the citie (euen an. Cxx. thousande men) gathered them together/ & wolde haue slayne the kynge/ which fled in to hys courte: and the citesyns kepte the stretes of the citie/ and beganne to fyght.

Then the kynge called for the Jewes helpe/ which came vnto hym al together/ & wēte abrode thorow the cytye/ & slewe the same daye an C. M. men: set fyre vpō the citie/ gat many spoyles in that daye / & delyuered the kinge. So when the cytesyns sawe that the Jewes had gotten their wil of the cytye/ and they them selues dispoynted of their purpose they made their supplicacion vnto the kinge sayenge/ Graunte vs peace/ and lett the Jewes ceasse from troublinge vs and the cytie/ & vpon thys they cast awaye their weapens. Thus they made peace / and the Jewes gatt greate worshipe in the syght of the kynge / & in the sight of all that were in hys realme / & were spoken of thorow out the kyngdome: and so they came agayne to Jerusalem with greate goodes.

So the kinge Demetrius sat in the trone G of hys kingdome/ and had peace in his lande. Neuertheles he dyssembled in all that euer he spake / & with drewe him self from Jonathas/ nether rewarded him accordyng to the benefytes which he had done for hym/ but troubled him very sore. After this came Tryphon agayne with yonge Antiochus/ which raygned & was crowned kynge. Then there gathered vnto him al the men of warre/ whō Demetrius had put awaye: these fought agaynst Demetrius/ which fled & turned hys

backe. So Triphon toke the Elephantes / & wanne Antioche. And yong Antiochus wrote vnto Jonathas / sayenge: I confyrme the in thy prestode / & make the ruler of .iiij. countrees / ỹ thou mayest be a frende of ỹ kinges.

Upon this he sent him golden vessels to be serued in / & gaue him leue to drinke in golde to be clothed in purple / and to were a colar of golde / He made hys brother Symon also captayne / from the coostes of Tyrus vnto ỹ borders of Egypte. Then Jonathas toke hys journey / & wente thorow the cityes beyonde the water (of Jordane) & all the men of warre of Syrya gathered them vnto hym for to helpe hym. So he came vnto Ascalon / and they of the cytye receaued hym honorably: & from thence wente he vnto Gaza / but they wolde not lett him in: wherfore he layed syege vnto it burnynge vp and spoylynge the places that were aboute the cytie.

¶ And the cytesins of Gaza submytted them selues vnto Jonathas / whych made peace w thē / but toke of their sonnes to pleage / sent them to Jerusalem / and wente thorow the countre vnto Damascus. Now when Jonathas herde that Demetrius prynces were come in to Cades (which is in Galilee) with a great hoost / purposing to put Demetrius out from medlynge in the realme: he came agaynst them / and lefte Symon his brother in the lande: whych came to Bethsura / and layed syege to it a longe season / and discomfited thē. So they desyred to haue peace with him / which he graunted them / & afterwarde put thē out frō thence / toke ỹ cite / & set men to kepe it. And Jonathas w his hoost came to ỹ water of Genesar / & bytymes in ỹ morenyng gat thē to the playne felde of Azor.

And beholde / the hoostes of the Heathen met thē in the felde / & layed watch for thē in the mountaynes: so ỹ when Jonathas came agaynst thē / the other (which were layed to watch) rose out of their places / & fought / & they that were of Jonathas syde / fled euery man: & there was not one of thē left / excepte Mathathias the sonne of Absalomus / and Judas the sonne of Calphi the captayne of the hoost. Then Jonathas rente his clothes / layed earth vpō his head / made hys prayer / & turned agayne to thē in ỹ felde: where they fought together / and he put them to flyght. Now when his awne men ỹ were fled / saw this: they turned agayne vnto him / & helped him to folowe vpon all their enemyes vnto their tentes at Cades. So there were slayne of the Heathen the same daye .iij. M. men / & Jonathas turned agayne to Jerusalem.

¶ Jonathas sendeth Embassitoures to Rome & to the people of Sparta to renue their couenaunt of frendship. Jonathas putteth to flyght the Prynces of Demetrius. Triphon taketh Jonathas by deceate.

¶ The .xij. Chapter.

Jonathas seinge that ỹ tyme was mete for him / chose certayne men & sent them vnto Rome for to stablysh & to renue the frendshippe with them. He sent lettres also vnto Sparta / & to other places in lyke maner. So they wente vnto Rome / & entred into the counsell / & sayde: Jonathas the hye prest & the people of the Jewes sent vs vnto you / for to renue the olde frendshyp & bonde of loue. Upō this the Romaynes gaue them fre passportes / ỹ men shulde lede them home into the lande of Juda peaceably. And this is the copy of the letters ỹ Jonathas wrote vnto ỹ Sparciās: 1. Mach. viij. d

Jonathas the hye prest with ỹ elders / prestes / & the other people of the Jewes / sende gretinge vnto the Sparcyās their brethren. There were lettres sente longe agoo vnto Onias the hye prest / frō Arius / which than raigned amōge you: ỹ ye are oure brethren / as the writinge made therupon / specifieth. And Onias entreated the embassitoure that was sent / honorably / & receaued the letters: wherein there was mencyō made of ỹ bonde of loue & frendshyp. But as for vs / we nede no soch wrytinges: for why / we haue ỹ holy B bokes of scripture in oure handes to our cōforte. Neuerthelcs we had rather sende vnto you / for the renuyng of the brotherhode and frendshyppe: lest we shulde be straunge vnto you / for it is longe / sens the tyme ỹ ye sent wordes vnto vs. Wherfore in ỹ sacrifices ỹ we offre & other ceremonies vpō the hye solempne dayes and other / we alwaye remembre you without ceassyng (like as reason is / & as it becōmeth vs to thynche vpō our brethren) yee and are ryght glad of youre prosperous honoure.

And though we haue had greate troubles and warres / so that the kynges aboute vs haue foughten agaynst vs: yet wolde we not be greuous vnto you ner to other of our louers and frendes in these warres. For we haue had helpe from heauen / so that we are delyuered / & oure enemyes subdued. Wherfore we chose Numenius the sonne of Antiochus and Antipater the sonne of Jason / and sent them vnto the Romaynes / for to renue the olde bonde of frendshyp and loue wyth them. We commaunded them also to come vnto you / to salute you / and to delyuer you oure lettres / concernyng the renouacyon of oure brotherhode. And now ye shall do right well / to geue vs an answere there vnto.

And this is the copy of the wrytynge / C which Arius the kynge of Sparta sent vnto Onias: Arius kyng of ỹ Sparcians sendeth gretynge vnto Onias the hye prest. It is founde in wrytynge / that the Sparcians and Jewes are brethrē / and come out of the generacyō of Abrahā. And now for so moch as this is come to oure knowledg / ye shal do well / to write vnto vs of youre prosperitye. As for vs / we haue wrytte oure mynde vnto you: Oure catell and goodes are yours / and yours ours. These thynges haue we commaunded to be shewed vnto you.

When Jonathas herde / that Demetrius princes were come forth to fyght agaynst hym / with a greater hoost then afore / he mēt from Jerusalem / & met them in the lande of Hemath / for he gaue thē not space to come into his awne coūtre. And he sent spyes vnto their tentes / which came agayne & tolde hym / that they were appoynted to come vpō him in the nyght season. Wherfore when the sunne was gone downe / Jonathas cōmaunded his men to watch all the nyght / & to be ready wt weapens for to fyght: & set watchmen rounde aboute the hoost. But when the aduersaries herde that Jonathas was ready with his men to the battayll / they feared / & were afrayed in their hertes / and kyndled fyres in their tentes / brake vp / and gat thē awaye. Neuertheles Jonathas and his company knew it not tyll the mornyng / for they sawe the fyres burnynge.

Then Jonathas folowed vpon them / but he myght not ouertake them / for they were gone ouer the water Eleutherus. So Jonathas departed vnto the Arabiās (which were called Zabadei) slew them / & toke their goodes. He proceded further also / and came vnto Damascus / & wente thorow all that coūtre. But Simō his brother toke his iourney and came to Ascalon & to the nexte stronge holdes: departynge vnto Joppa / and wanne it. For he herde that they wold stande of Demetrius partye: wherfore he sent men of warre in the cyte / to kepe it. After this came Jonathas home agayne / & called the elders of the people together: and deuyled with thē for to buylde vp the stronge holdes in Jewry / and the walles of Jerusalem / to set vp an hye wall betwixt the castell and the cite / for to separate it from the cite / that it myght be alone / and that men shulde nether bye nor sell in it.

Upon this they came together for to buylde vp the citie: & for moch as the wall vpon ẏ broke of ẏ west syd (called Caphethetah) was fallen downe, they repayred it. And Symon set vp Iddiadah in Sephelah / & made it strōg setting portes & lockes vpon it. Now when Tryphon purposed to raygne in Asya / to be crowned / & to slaye the kynge Antiochus: he was afrayed ẏ Jonathas wolde not suffre him / but fight against him. Wherfore he wēte about to take Jonathas / & to kill him.

Math. xi. c. Iosep. cap. xix. lib. xiij.

So he departed / & came vnto Bethsan. Then wente Jonathas forth agaynst him to the battayll with fourtye thousande chosen men / & came vnto Bethsan also. But when Tryphon sawe that Jonathas came wyth so greate an Hoste to destroye hym / he was afrayed: and therfore he receaued him honorably cōmended him vnto all his frendes / & gaue hym rewardes: / and commaunded hys men of warre to be as obedient vnto him as to hym selfe.

And sayde vnto Jonathas: why hast thou caused thys people to take soch trauayle / seyng there is no warre betwyxte vs? Therfore sende them home agayne / & chose certayne men to wayte vpō the / & come thou wt me to Ptolomais: for I wyll geue it ẏ / with ẏ other stronge holdes / men of warre & their officers: As for me / I must departe / thys is only the cause of my cōmyng. Jonathas beleued him / and dyd as he sayde / puttynge awaye his host / which wente in to the land of Juda. He kepte but .iij. M. by him / wherof he sent .ij. M. in to Galilee / and one .M. wente with him selfe.

Now as soone as Jonathas entred in to Ptolomais / the cytesyns sparred the gates of the cytie / and toke him / and slewe all thē with the swerde / ẏ came in with him. Then sent Tryphon an Host of fote men and horsmen in to Galilee and in to the great playne felde / to destroye all Jonathas cōpany. But when they knew that Jonathas was takē / & all they slayne that wayted vpon him: they toke councell together / & came forth ready to ẏ battayll. So when they which folowed vpon thē / sawe that it was a matter of lyfe / they turned backe agayne. As for the other / they wente in to the lande of Juda peaceably / and bewayled Jonathas / & them that were with hym ryght sore. And Israel made great lamentacyon. Then all the Heathen ẏ were rounde aboute them / sought to destroye thē For they sayde: now haue they no captayne / nor eny man to helpe them. Therfore lett vs ouercome them / and rote out their name frō amonge men.

¶ After Jonathas was taken Symon is chosen captayne / of whom Tryphon takyng his childrē & money for the redempcyon of Jonathas / kylleth hym and his chyldren. The graue of Jonathas. Tryphon kylleth Antiochus / & possesseth the realme. Demetrius taketh truce with Simon. Simon winneth Gaza. He possesseth the tower of Sion. He maketh his sonne John Captayne.

¶ The .xiij. Chapter.

Now whē Symō herde that Tryphon gathered a greate Hoste / to come in to the lande of Juda / and to destroye it: & sawe ẏ the people was in greate fearfulnesse & care: He came vp to vp to Jerusalem/and gathered ỹ people together/and gaue them exortacyon/ sayinge: Ye knowe what greate battayls I and my brethren & my fathers house haue strikē for the lawe & the Sanctuary/ & what maner of troubles we haue sene: thorowe occasyon wherof/all my brethrē are slayne for Israels sake/and I am left alone. And now lett not me spare myne awne lyfe in eny maner of trouble/for I am no better then my brethrē: but wyll auenge my people & the Sanctuary/oure chyldren and oure wyues:for all the Heathen are gathered together / to destroye vs of very malyce.

1.Mach.vi.e.ix.b xiij.b

At these wordes the hertes of the people were kyndled together / so that they cryed w a loude voyce / sayinge: Thou shalt be oure captayne in steade of Judas and Jonathas thy brethrē/order thou oure battell/& whatsoeuer thou commaundest vs / we shall do it. So he gathered all ỹ men of warre making haste to kynish all the walles of Jerusalem/ which he made strōge rounde aboute. Then B sent he Jonathas the sonne of Absalomus with a fresh hoste vnto Joppa/which droue thē out ỹ were in the castell/and remayned there him selfe. Triphon also remoued from Ptolomais with a greate armye/to come in to the lande of Juda / and Jonathas w̄ hym in warde. And Simon pytched his tentes at Addus before the playne felde.

But when Triphon knewe that Symon stode vp in steade of hys brother Jonathas/ & that he wolde warre agaynst hym: he sent messaungers vnto him/saying: Where as we haue kepte Jonathas thy brother / it is for money that he is awynge in the kynges accompte/concernynge the busynesse ỹ he had in hande. Wherfore sende now an. C. talētes of syluer and hys two sonnes for suertye/ that when he is letten forth he shall not forsake vs: and we shall sende him agayne. Neuertheles Symon knewe / that he dyssembled in his wordes: yet commaunded he the money & chyldren to be delyuered vnto hym: lest he shuld be the greater enemye agaynst the people of Israel/& saye: because he sent him not the money and the chyldren/therfore is Jonathas deed.

C So Symon sent him the chyldrē and an hundreth talētes/but he dissembled/& wolde not let Jonathas go. Afterwarde came Triphon in to the lande/to destroye it/and went rounde aboute by the waye / that ledeth vnto Ador. But where soeuer they wente/thyther wente Symon and his hoste also. Now they that were in the castell / sent messaungers vnto Triphon/ ỹ he shulde make haste to come by the wyldernesse/ and to sende thē vytales: And Triphon made ready all hys horsmen to come that same night. Neuerthelesse it was a very greate snowe / so that he came not in Galaadithim And when he drewe nye Baschama / he slewe Jonathas and his sonnes there/and then turned for to goo home in to his awne lande.

Then sent Symon for to fet his brothers deed coarse/ and buried it in Modin his fathers cytie. So all Israel bewayled hym w̄ greate lamentacyon / and mourned for hym very longe. And Symon made vpon the sepulcre of his father and hys brethrē a buyldynge hye to loke vnto of fre stone behynde & before: and set vp seuē pylers/one agaynst another (for his father / hys mother & foure brethren) & set greate pilers rounde aboute/ with armes vpon them for a perpetuall memory/and carued shippes belyde the armes: that they might be sene of men saylynge in the see. This sepulcre which he made at Modin/standeth yet vnto this daye.

Now as Triphon went forth to walke w̄ D ỹ yonge kyng Antiochus/ he slew him trayterously/and raigned in his steade/crowned him self kyng of Asia/and dyd moch euell in the lande. Symon also buylte vp the castels in Jewry/makynge them stronge wyth hye towres/greate walles/portes and lockes/& layed vp vytales in the stronge holdes. And Symon chose certayne men / and sent them to kynge Demetrius: to desyre him / that he wolde discharge the land from all bondage/ for Triphon had spoyled it very sore. Where vpon Demetrius the kynge answered hym/ and wrote vnto him after this maner. Josephus capt. xx. libr. xiij.

Demetrius the kynge sendeth gretynge vnto Symon the hye preest his frende/ wyth the elders & people of the Jewes. The goldē crowne and precious stone that ye sent vnto vs/haue we receaued: and are ready to make a stedfast peace with you/yee & to wryte vnto oure officers/for to release you / concernynge the thynges wherin we made you fre: & the appoyntment that we make with you/ shalbe fyrme and stable. The stronge holdes which ye haue buylded/ shal be youre awne. As for eny ouer syght or fawte commytted vnto this daye/we forgeue it/ & the crowne tare ỹ ye ought vs also. And where as was eny other trybute in Jerusalē/it shal now be no trybute: and loke who are mete amonge you to be in oure courte/let them be wrytten vp/that there maye be peace betwyxte vs.

Thus the yock of the Heathen was taken C from Israell / in the hundreth and seuentye yeare. And the people of the Jewes beganne to wryte in their lettres & actes on this maner. In ỹ fyrst yeare of Symon ỹ hye preest/ and prynce of the Jewes. 1.Mach.xiij

In those dayes went Symō vnto Gaza/ and and beseged it rounde aboute/ where he lett vp ordinaunce of warre. And wanne a towre whych he toke. So they that gatt in to the towre leapte in the cytye / whych was in a greate feare: In so moch that the people of the citie rente their clothes/ and clymmed vp vpon the walles with their wyues & chyldre besechynge Symon to be at one wyth the: sayenge.

Dewarde vs not after oure wickednes/ but be gracious vnto vs/ and we shall do ye F seruyce. Then Symon for very pyte/ wolde fight nomore agaynst them/ but put the out of the cytie/ and cansed the houses (wherin ye Images were) to be clensed: and so entred the cytye wyth Psalmes of prayse / geuynge thackes vnto the Lorde. So whe he had cast all abhominacyons out of the cytie / he lett soch men in it as kepte the law of God / and made the cytie stronge / and buylded a dwellynge place for hym selfe.

Now when they in the castell at Jerusalem were kepte so streatly/ that they coulde not come forth ner in to ye countre/ & myght nether bye ner sell: they were very hungrye/ and many of them famyched to death: In so moch that they besought Symō to be at one with them / whych he graunted them. So he put them out from thence / and clensed the castell from fylthynesse. And vpon the. xriij. daye of the seconde moneth in the. C. lxxj. yeare they entred in to it wyth thankesgeuyng and braunches of palme trees/ with harpes / crowdes / cymbals/ and lutes / syngynge psalmes / and songes of prayse vnto God/ for that the great enemy of Israel was ouercome.

And Symon ordened that the same daye shuld be kepte euery yeare in gladnesse/ and made stroge the hyll of the temple that was besyde the castell / where he dwelt hym selfe with his cōpany. Symon also perceauynge that Jhon his sonne was a myghtie man of armes/ made him captayne of all the hostes/ and caused him to dwell at Gaza.

¶ Demetrius is ouercome of Arsaces. Symon being captayne there is greate quyetnes in Israel. The couenaunt of frendshyp with the Romanes & with the people of Sparta is renued.

¶ The. xriij. Chapter.

A IN the. Clxrij. yeare gathered kyng Demetrius his host/ and departed vnto Media/ to gett him helpe for to fyght agaynst Triphon. Now when Arsaces the kyng of Perlia & Media herde/ ye Demetrius was entred within his borders: he sent one of his prynces to take hym alyue / & to bringe hym vnto hym. So he wente and slewe Demetrius hoste/ toke hym selfe/ brought hym to Arsaces/ which kepte hym inwarde. And all the lande of Juda was in rest/ so longe as Symon liued for he sought the wealth of hys people/ therfore were they glad to haue him for their ruler/ & to do him worshype allwaye.

Symon wāne the citie of Joppa also for an hauen towne / & made it an intraunce in to the Iles of ye see. He enlarged the borders of his people/ & conquered them more lande: He gathered vp many of their people that were prysoners: he had the dompnion of Gaza/ Bethsura and the castell/ whych he clensed from fylthynes / and there was no man that resisted hym: So that euery man tylled hys grounde in peace/ the lande of Juda and the trees gaue their frute and encreace. The B elders satt all in iudgement/ & toke their deuyce for the wealth of the lande: the yonge men put on worshype and harnesse vpon the. He prouyded vytalles for the cytyes / and made goodly stronge holdes of them: so that the fame of hys worshipe was spoken of vnto the ende of the worlde. For he made peace thorow out the lande / and Israell was full of myrth and ioye. Leui. xxvi. a. 1ḡ. Reg. iiij. b

Euery mā sat vnder his vyne & fyge trees and there was no man to fraye the awaye. There was none in ye lande to fyght agaynst them/ for then ye kynges were ouercome. He helped those that were in aduersyte amonge his people/ he was diligēt to se ye lawe kepte: as for soch as were vngodly and wycked he toke the awaye. He set vp the Sanctuary/ & encreased the holy vessels of the temple.

When the Romaynes and Sparcians had gotten worde/ that Jonathas was deed/ they were ryght sory. But when they herde that Symō his brother was made hye prest in his steade/ and how he had wonne ye lande agayne with the cyties in it: they wrote vnto hym in tables of latyn / to renue the frendshype/ & bonde of loue/ which they had made afore with Judas & Jonathas his brethren. Which wrytynges were red before the congregacyon at Jerusalem. 1. Ma. viij. c. and. xij. a.

And thys is the copy of the lettres / that C the Sparcians sent: The Senatous and cytesyns of Sparta sende greting vnto Simō ye great prest wt the elders/ prestes/ & ye other people of the Jewes their brethren: when youre embassytours ye were sent vnto oure people/ certifyed vs of youre worshippe/ honoure & prosperous wealth: we were glad of their cōmyng/ & haue wrytte the earande which they spake before ye counsell of ye people: namely/ that Numenius ye sonne of Antiochus/ And Antipater ye sonne of Jason the Jewes embassitours are come vnto vs/ for to renue ye olde frendshipe with vs. Upon this ye people consented/ that ye men shulde be honorably noꝛably intreated/ and that the copy of their earande ſhulde be wꝛyttē in the ſpecyall bokes of the people/foꝛ a perpetuall memoꝛy vnto the Sparcians:yee and that we ſhulde ſende a copy of the ſame vnto Symō ꝑ great Pꝛeſte.

D After this dyd Symon ſende Numenius vnto Rome/with a golden ſhylde of a thou-ſaund pounde weight to cōfirme the frend-ſhippe with them:which when the Romay-nes vnderſtode / they ſayde: what thanckes ſhall we recompence agayne vnto Symon & his chyldꝛē? Foꝛ he hath ſtabliſhed his bꝛe-thꝛen/& ouercome the enemyes of Iſraell. Wherfoꝛe they graunted him to be fꝛe. And all this wꝛote the Iewes in tables of latyn/ and naled it vnto the pylers vpō the mounte Sion. The copy of the wꝛytynge is this:

The.xviij.daye of the moneth Elul in ꝑ Clxxij. yeare in the thirde yeare of Symon the hye pꝛeſt/in the greate congregacyon of the pꝛeſtes/rulers of the people/and elders of ꝑ coūtre at Iſarame / were theſe woꝛdes openly declared:

C Foꝛ ſo moch as there was moch warre in oure land/therfoꝛe Symon ꝑ ſonne of Mathathiah(come of the chyldꝛen of Iareb) and his bꝛethꝛen/put them ſelues in parell/and reſyſted the enemyes of their people: ꝑ their Sanctuary and lawe might be manteyned/ and dyd their people greate woꝛſhipe. Jonathas in lyke maner/after that he had go-uerned his people and bene their hye pꝛeſte: dyed/and lyeth buried beſyde his elders.

After ꝑ wolde their enemyes haue troddē their holy thinges vnder fote/deſtroyed their lande/and vtterly waiſted their Sanctua-ry. Then Symon withſtode them/ & fought foꝛ his people/ſpent moch of his awne mo-ney/weapened the valeaunt men of his peo-ple/gaue thē wages/made ſtronge ꝑ cyties of Juda/with Bethſurah that lyeth vpon ꝑ boꝛders of Jewry(where the oꝛdynaunce of their enemyes laye ſomtyme)and ſet Jewes there foꝛ to kepe it.

F He made faſt Joppa alſo/which lyeth vpō the ſee / and Gaza that boꝛdꝛeth vpon Azo-tus(where the enemyes dwelt afoꝛe) & there he ſett Jewes to kepe it: & whatſoeuer was mete foꝛ the ſubduynge of the aduerſaryes/ that layed he therin. Now when the people ſawe the noble actes of Symon / and what woꝛſhype he purpoſed to do foꝛ thē/his god-ly behauoure / and faythfulneſſe whych he kepte vnto them / and how he ſought by all wayes the wealth of his people/becauſe he dyd all thys / therfoꝛe they choſe hym to be their pꝛynce and hye pꝛeſt. And in his tyme they pꝛoſpered well by him/ſo that the Hea-then were takē out of their land: & they alſo which were in the cytie of Dauid at Jeruſa-lem in the caſtel(where they wēt out & defy-led all thynges that were aboute the San-ctuary / and dyd greate harme vnto cleny-nes)and Symon put mē of the Jewes in it/ foꝛ the defence of the lande and the cytie / & ſet vp the walles of Jeruſalem.

And kynge Demetrius confirmed him in G his hye pꝛeſthode/made him his frende / and dyd him greate woꝛſhipe. Foꝛ he herde that the Romayns called the Jewes their frendꝛ/ louers and bꝛethꝛen:how honoꝛably they re ceaued Simons embaſſytours:how the Je-wes and pꝛeſtes conſented that he ſhulde be their pꝛynce and hye pꝛeſt perpetually (tyll God rayſed vp the true pꝛophet) and that he ſhuld be their captayne/to care foꝛ ꝑ San-ctuary/and to ſett officers vpon the woꝛckes therof/ouer the land/ouer the weapēs/ouer the houſes of defence/to make pꝛouiſion foꝛ the holy thynges/ and to be obeyed of euery man / & all the wꝛytynges of the lande to be made in his name: that he ſhulde be clothed in purple and golde/ & that it ſhulde be lau-full foꝛ none of ꝑ people noꝛ pꝛeſtes to bꝛea-ke eny of theſe thynges / to wythſtande hys woꝛdes/ner to call eny congregacyon in the lande without him: ꝑ he ſhulde be clothed in purple/& weare a colar of gold: And yf there were eny whych diſobeyed oꝛ bꝛake this oꝛdi-naunce/that he ſhulde be puniſhed.

So all the people cōſented to alowe Si-mon/and to do accoꝛdynge to theſe woꝛdes. Symon alſo him ſelfe toke it vpon hym / & was contente to be ꝑ hye pꝛeſt/the captayne and pꝛynce of the Jewes and pꝛeſtes/and to gouerne them all. And they commaunded to make this wꝛytynge in tables of latyn/ and faſten it vnto the compaſſe of the Sanctua-ry in an open place:and to laye vp a copy of the ſame in the treaſury/that Symon & hys poſterite might haue it.

Antiochus maketh a couenaunt of frendſhip with Symon/and Triphon is perſequuted. The Romay-nes wꝛyte lettres vnto kynges and nacyons in the de fence of the Jewes. Antiochus refuſynge the helpe that Symon ſent him/breaketh his couenaunt.

The.xv.Chapter.

MOꝛouer/kyng Antiochus ꝑ ſonne of Demetrius ſente lettres from A the Ies of the ſee/ vnto Symon the hye pꝛeſt and pꝛynce of ꝑ Je-wes/and to all the people/conteynyng theſe woꝛdes: Antiochus the kynge ſendeth gre-tynge vnto Symon the hye pꝛeſte and to the people of ꝑ Jewes. Foꝛ ſo moch as certayne wycked men haue gotten the kyngdome of oure pꝛogenytours / I am purpoſed to cha-lenge the realme agayne/and to reſtoꝛe it to the olde eſtate.

Wher-

Wherfore I haue gathered a greate hoste & made shyppes of warre: that I maye goo thorowe the countre/ and be auenged of thē which haue destroyed oure lande / and wasted many cities in my realme. And therfore now I make the fre also from all the trybutes/wherof all kinges my progenitours haue discharged the/ and from other customes (wher from they haue released the) whatsoeuer they be: Yee I geue the leaue to smyte money of thyne awne within thy lande. As for Jerusalem/I will that it be holy and fre: and all the weapens and houses of defence
B which thou hast buylded & kepest in thyne handes/shall be thyne. Where as eny thyng is or shall be awynge vnto the kynge. I forgeue it the/frō this tyme forth for euermore And when we haue optayned our kyngdom/ we shall do the / thy people and the temple greate worshyppe: so ꝑ youre honoure shall be knowen thorow out the whole worlde.

In the. CIxxiiij. yeare wente Antiochus in to his fathers lande/& al the mē of warre came together vnto him / so that fewe were left with Triphon. So the kyng Antiochus folowed vpon him/ but he fled vnto Dora/ whych lyeth by the see syde: for he sawe that there was myschefe commynge vnto hym/ & that his host had forsaken him. Then cam Antiochus vnto Dora with an hundreth and twentye thousande men of armes vpō fote/ & eyght thousande horsmen. So he cōpased the cytie rounde aboute/& the shyppes came by the see. Thus they vexed the cytie by land and by water / in so moch that they suffred no man to go in nor out.

In the meane season came Numenius (& 1. Mach. xiij. d. they that had bene with him) from the cytye of Rome / hauynge lettres written vnto the kynges & prouyncies/ wherin were conteyned these wordes: Lucius the Mayre of Rome sendeth gretyng vnto Ptolomy the kyng. The embassitours of the Jewes oure frendes beynge sent from Symon the hye prest and from ꝑ people of the Jewes / came vnto vs/ for to renue the olde frendshippe/ and bonde of loue/ & brought a shylde of golde weyeng a thousand pounde / which we were cōtente to receaue of them. Wherfore we thought it good to wryte vnto the kynges and prouincies/ to do them no harme/ nor to take parte agaynst them/ their cyties ner countrees nether to mayntene their enemies agaynst thē. If there be eny wycked personnes therfore fled from their countre vnto you/ delyuer thē vnto Symon the hye prest/ that he maye punysh them accordynge to their awne lawe.

The same wordes wrote the Romaynes also vnto Demetrius the kyng/ to Attalus/ Iraba/ Arsaces & to all regions: as Samsanes/ to thē of Sparta/ Delo/ Mydo/ Sydon/ Caria/ Samos Pamphylia/ Lycia/ Halicarnassum/ & to the Rhodes / to Phaselis/ Coo/ Sida/ Arado/ Gortina/ Gnydum / to Cypres & to Cyren. And of euery lettre they sent a copy to Symon the hye prest & to the D people of the Jewes. So Antiochus ꝑ kyng brought his host vnto Dora ꝑ secōde tyme/ to take it: where he made diuerse ordinaunce of warre/ & kepte Triphon in / ꝑ he shuld not come forth. Then sent Symon Antiochus two thousande chosen mē to helpe hym with gold/ syluer and other plenteous geer: Neuertheles he wolde not receaue them/ but brake all ꝑ couenaūt which he made wt Symō afore/ & withdrewe him selfe frō him.

He sent Athenobius also a frende of hys vnto Symon/ for to reason with him sayīg: Ye witholde fro me Joppa & Gaza (with the castell that is at Jerusalē) which are cyties of my realme / whose borders ye haue destroyed/ & done greate euell in the land / hauyng the dominacion in many other places of my kyngdome. Wherfore delyuer now ꝑ E cyties which ye haue takē with the tributes of the places ꝑ ye haue rule vpō without ꝑ borders of Jewry: Or els geue me fyue hundreth talentes of syluer/ yee & for the harme ꝑ ye haue done in the cyties & for the tributes of the same/ other fyue hundreth talētes. If no / we shall come & fyght agaynst you.

So Athenobius the kynges frende came to Jerusalem/ & when he sawe ꝑ greate worshipe & honoure of Symon in golde/ syluer and so great plenty of ornamentes: he marueled/ and tolde Symon as the kyng commaunded him. Then answered Symon and sayd vnto him: As for vs/ we haue nether taken other mens land / ner witholdē thē / but only oure fathers heretage/ which oure enemyes had vnrightuously in possesyon a certayne tyme. This heretage of oure fathers haue we chalenged in processe of tyme. And where as thou cōplaynest concernyng Joppa and Gaza/ they dyd greate harme to oure people and in oure lande / yet wyll we geue an. C. talentes for them. Judith. xi. c. d.

Neuertheles Athenobius answered hym not one worde/ but turned agayne wrothfully vnto ꝑ kyng/ & tolde him all these wordes/ and the greate dignyte of Symon wyth all that he had sene / and the kynge was very angrie. In the meane tyme fled Triphon by shyppe vnto Orthosaida. Then the kynge made Cendebeus captaine of the see coost/ & gaue him an host of fote men & horsmen/ cōmaundinge him to remoue the host towarde Jewry/ & to buylde vp the cytye of Cedron/ to make vp the portes/ & to warre agaynst ꝑ people of the Jewes. As for the kynge hym selfe/kelke/he kolowed vpon Triphon. So Cendebeus came vnto Jamnia/ & beganne to vexe the people/to treade downe Jewry/ to take the people prysoners/to slaye thē & to buyld vp Cedron: where he sett horsmen and other men of warre/that they myght come forth & go thorow the stretes of Jewry/ lyke as the kynge had commaunded him.

¶ Cendebeus the captayne of Antiochus hoste is put to flyght of the sonnes of Symon. Ptolomeus sonne of Abobus killeth Symon & his ij. sonnes at a bāket: John killeth them that lye in wayte for his life.

¶ The .xvj. Chapter.

A THen came Jhon vp from Gaza/ & tolde Symō his father/what Cendebeus had done amōge their people. Upon this called Symon two of his eldest sonnes/Judas & Jhon/ & sayde vnto them: I and my brethren & my fathers house/ haue euer from oure youth vp vnto this daye/ foughten agaynst the enemyes of Israel/ & God gaue vs good fortune to delyuer Israel oft tymes. And now for so moch as I am olde/be ye in steade of me & my brother/to go forth and fyght for oure people/ & ỹ helpe of God be with you. So he chose .xx. M. fyghtynge men of the countre/ with horsmen also/ which wente forth agaynst Cendebeus and rested at Modin.

In the morynge they arose/and went into the playne felde: and beholde/ a myghtye greate host came agaynst them/both of fote men and horsmen. Now was there a water broke betwyxte them/and Jhon remoued ỹ host towarde them. And when he sawe that the people was afrayed to goo ouer the wa-
B terbroke/he wente ouer fyrst him selfe: and the men seynge this/folowed him.

Then Jhon set his horsmen & fote men in order/the one by the other/for their enemies horsmen were very many. But when they blewe vp ỹ pryestes trompettes/Cendebeus fled wyth hys Hoste/ wherof many were slayne/ and the remnaunt gat them to their stronge holde. Judas also Jhons brother was wounded at the same tyme. And Jhon folowed styll vpon the enemyes/ tyll he cam to Cedron which he buylded. The enemyes fled also vnto the towres that were in the feldes of Azotus/and those dyd Jhon burne vp. Thus there were slayne .ij. M. men of them/and Jhon turned agayne paceably into Jewry.

And in the felde of Jericho was Ptolomy the sonne of Abobus made captayne: which because he had aboundaunce of syluer and golde) for he had maryed ỹ daughter of Symon ỹ hye pryest) waxed proude in his minde/ and thought to conquere the lande/ ymage-
C ning falsched agaynst Symon & his sonnes/ to destroye them. Now as Symon was goyng aboute thorow the cyties/ that were in the countre of Jewry/and caryng for thē: he came downe to Jericho/ with Matathias and Judas his sonnes/in the .clxxvij. yeare in the .xj. moneth called Sabat. Then Ptolomy the sonne of Abobus receaued thē (but with dysceate) in to a stronge house of hys called Doch/ which he had buylded/ where he made them a banket.

So when Symon and hys sonnes were mery and had dronken well/Ptolomy stode vp with his men (whom he had hyd there) and toke their weapens/entred in to the banket house/& slewe Symō with his two sonnes/ and certayne of his seruauntes. Soch great vnfaythfulnesse dyd Ptolomy in Israel/and recōpensed euell for good. Then wrote thys Ptolomy the same vnto kynge Antiochus/ requyringe him that he shulde sende hym an host to helpe him: & so shulde he delyuer him the lande/ with the cyties and trybutes of ỹ same. He sent other men also vnto Gaza/ for to take Jhon: and wrote vnto the captaynes to come to him/ and he shuld geue them syluer/ golde and rewardes. And to Jerusalem he sent other/to take it and the Sanctuary.

Then rāne there one before/& tolde Jhon in Gaza/ that is father & his brethren were slayne/ and how that Ptolomy had sent to slaye him also. When Jhon herde this/he was sore abasshed/ and layed hādes of them that were come to destroye him/ and slewe them: for he knewe/that they went aboute to kyll hym.

As for other thynges concernynge Jhon: of his warres/of his noble actes (wherin he behaued him selfe manfully) of the buylding of walles whych he made/ and other of hys dedes: They are wrytten in the cronycles of hys prestlhode/ from the tyme forth that he was made hye prest after his father.

¶ The ende of the fyrste boke of the Machabees.

The seconde boke of the Machabees.

¶ An Epistle of the Jewes that dwelt at Jerusalem sent vnto them which dwelt in Egypte/wherin they exhorte them to geue thackes for the deeth of Antiochus. Of the fyre þ was hydde in the pyt. The prayer of Nehemiah.

¶ The fyrst Chapter.

THe brethren of the Jewes which be at Jerusalem & in the lande of Jewry / wish vnto those brethrē of þ Jewes that are thorow out Egypte: good fortune/ health & peace.

God the Lord be gracious vnto you/ and thincke vpō his couenaunt þ he made with Abraham/ Isaac & Jacob his faythfull seruauntes: and geue you all soch an hert / that ye maye loue and serue him / yee & perfourme hys wyll wyth an whole herte and of a willyng mynde: he open youre hertes in his lawe and in hys commaundementes / sende you peace: heare youre prayers/ be at one wt you/ and neuer forsake you in tyme of trouble. This is here oure prayer for you.

What tyme as Demetrius raigned/ in the Clxix. yeare/ we Jewes wrote vnto you in þ trouble and violence that came vnto vs. In those yeares after that Jason departed oute of the holy lande and kyngdome/ they brent vp the portes/ & shed innocent bloude. Then made we oure prayer vnto the Lorde/ and
B were hearde: we offred/ & lyghted the cādels/ lettyng forth cakes and bred. And now come ye vnto the feaste of tabernacles in the moneth Casleu.

In the Clxxviij. yeare the people þ was was at Jerusalem & in Jewry / the councell and Judas him self/ sent this wholsome salutacyon vnto Aristobolus kynge Ptolomys master/ which came of the generacion of the anoynted prestes: and to the Jewes þ were in Egypte: In so moch as God hath delyuered vs from greate perels/ we thancke hym hylie. In that we resisted so mightie a kyng. And why: he brought men out of Perlis by heapes to fyght agaynst vs & the holy cytie. For as he was in Perlis (namely / the Captayne with the great host) he perysshed in the tēple of Naneas / beynge disceaued thorow the deuyce of Naneas prestes. For as he was purposed to haue dwelt there / Antiochus and hys frendes came thyther / to receaue moch moneye for a dowry. So when Naneas prestes had layed forth the moneye/ he entred wt a small cōpany in to the cōpasse of the temple and so they shut the temple.

Now when Antiochus entred by opening
C the preuye intraūce of the tēple/ the prestes stoned the captayne to death/ hewed them in peces that were wyth hym / smote of their heades/ and threwe them out in all thynges. God be praysed / whych hath delyuered the wicked in to oure handes.

Where as we now are purposed to kepe þ purifycacion of the tēple vpon the .xxv. daye of the moneth Casleu / we thought necessary to certifye you therof: that ye also myght kepe the tabernacles feast daye / & the daye of the fyre / whych was geuen vs when Nehemiah offred/ after that he had set vp þ temple and the aulter. For what tyme as oure fathers were led awaye vnto Perlis/ þ prestes (whych then sought þ honoure of God) toke the fyre preuely from the aulter / and hyd it in a valley/ where as was a depe dreye pyt: & therin they kepte it/ because the place was vnknowen to euery man. Now after many yeares when it pleased God / þ Nehemiah shulde be sent frō the kynge of Perlia: he sent the chylders chyldren of those prestes (which had hyd þ fyre) to seke it. And as they tolde vs/ they founde no fyre/ but thicke water. Then cōmaunded he thē to drawe it vp/ & to bringe it him/ and þ offrynges wythall. D Now whē the sacrifices were layed on & ordred/ the prest Nehemiah commaunded to sprincle them & the wod wt the water. Whē this was done/ & the tyme come þ the Sunne shone/ which afore was hyd in þ cloude: there was a greate fyre kyndled. In so moch that euery man marueled. Now all þ prestes prayed/ whyle the sacrifyce was a makyng. Jonathas prayed first/ and the other gaue answere.

And Nehemias prayer was after this maner: O Lorde God maker of all thynges/ thou fearfull & stronge / thou ryghtuous & mercyfull / thou that art onely a gracyous kynge/ onely lyberall/ onely iust/ Almightie & euerlastynge/ thou that delyuerest Israel frō all trouble/ thou that hast chosen the fathers and halowed them: receaynge the offerynge for the whole people of Israel/ preserue thyne awne porcyon/ & halowe it. Gather those together / that are scatred abrode from vs: delyuer them that are vnder þ Heathens bondage / loke vpon them whych are despysed & abhorred / that the Heathē maye knowe and se / how that thou art oure God: Punisshe thē that oppresse/ & proudly put vs to dishonoure. Set thy people agayne in thy holy place/ like as Moses hath spokē.

Deut. xxx. a

And the prestes longe Psalmes of thanckesgeuynge/ so longe as þ sacrifice endured. E Now when the sacrifyce was brent / Nehemiah commaunded the greate stones to be sprinckled wt the residue of þ water. Which whē it was done/ there was kyndled a flāme

of them also: but it was consumed thorowe the lyght/that shyned from the aulter. So when this matter was knowen/it was tolde the kynge of Persia/that in the place where the prestes/which were led awaye/ had hyd fyre/there apeared water in steade of fyre/ & that Nehemias & his company had purified the sacrifyces withall. Then the kynge consyderynge & ponderynge the matter dyligētly/made him a temple to proue the thynge that was done. And when he founde it so in dede/he gaue the prestes many gyftes & dyuerse rewardes: yee he toke them wyth hys awne hand/and gaue them. And Nehemias called the same place Nephthar/which is as moch to saye as a clensynge: but many men call it Nepht.

¶ How Jeremy hydde the tabernacle/the Arcke/ and the aultare in the hyll. Of the. v. bokes of Jason contayned in one.

A 2. Mach. i. c. Jere. xxix. b Baruc. vi. a

IT is founde also in the writinges of Jeremy the prophet/that he cōmaunded them which were caried awaye to take fyre/as it is sayde afore. He commaunded them also/ that they shulde not forget the lawe and commaundementes of the Lorde / and that they shulde not erre in their myndes/ when they se Images of syluer and golde with their ornamentes. These and soch other thynges commaūded he them/& exhorted them/that they shulde not lett the lawe of God go out of their hertes.

Deut. xxvij. a

It is wrytten also/how the prophet(at the commaundement of God)charged them / to take the tabernacle & the arcke with them: & he wente forth vnto the mountayne / where Moses clymmed vp/& sawe the heretage of God. And whē Jeremy came there/he founde an open caue/wherin he layed ỹ tabernacle/ ỹ arcke & the aulter of incense/ & so stopped the hole. There came certayne men together also folowyng him/to marck the place/ but B they coulde not fynde it. Which when Jeremy perceaued/he reproued them sayng: As for that place /it shalbe vnknowne/ vntyll ỹ tyme ỹ God gather his people together agayne/ & receaue thē vnto mercy. Then shal God shew them these thynges/ & the maiesty of ỹ Lorde shall appeare/ & the cloude also/ like as it was shewed vnto Moses: & lyke as when Salomon desyred ỹ the place myght be sanctifyed/ & it was shewed him.

Exodi. xl. d iij. Reg. viij. b.

For he beyng a wyse man/handled honorably and wysely offeringe vnto God in the halowinge of the temple/when it was finisshed. And lyke as when Moses prayed vnto the Lorde / the fyre came downe from heauē/ and consumed the burnt offerynge: Euen so prayed Salomon also / and the fyre came downe from heauen/and consumed ỹ burntofferinge. And Moses sayde: because the sinofferinge was not eaten / therfore it is consumed. In lyke maner Salomon kepte the dedycacion(or halowinge)eight dayes.

Leui. ix. d

ij. Para. vij. d

In the Annotacyōs & writynges of *Jeremy/ were these thinges put also: & how he made a lybrary/& how he gathered out of all countrees the bokes of the prophetes / of Dauid/the epistles of the kynges/and of the presentes. Euen so Judas also/loke what he lerned by experyēce of warre/ & soch thynges as hath happened vnto vs/ he gathered them all together / and so we haue them by vs. If ye now desyre to haue the same / sende some body to fetch them vnto you. Where as we then are aboute to celebrate the puryfycacyon / we haue written vnto you. Therfore ye shall do well / yf ye kepe the same dayes. We hope also/that the God(which delyuered his people / and gaue them all the heritage/ kyngdome/ presthode & Sanctuary that he promised them in the lawe) shal shortly haue mercy vpon vs/and gather vs together from vnder the heauen in to his holy place: for he hath saued vs from greate perels / and hath clensed the place.

¶ The. C. *Some reade: Nehemias.

Deut. xxx. a

As concernynge Judas Machabeus and his brethren/the purifycacyon of the greate temple/the dedicacion of the aulter/ yee & of the warres that cōcerne noble Antiochus & Eupator his sonne/of the sygnynges ỹ cam down from heauen vpon those / which mānfully defended the Jewes. For though they were but fewe / yet defended they the whole lande/droue awaye the enemyes host / recouered agayne the temple / that was spoken of thorowe out all the worlde / delyuered the citie/ doynge their best that the lawe of the Lord which was put downe/might with all trāquilyte be restored agayne vnto ỹ Lord/ ỹ was so mercifull vnto them. As touchyng Jason also of Cyren/ we haue vnder take cōpendiously to bringe in to one boke/ ỹ thyngs that were comprehended of him in fyue. For we cōsyderynge the multitude of the bokes/ and how harde it shulde be for them ỹ wolde medle with storyes and actes(& that because of so diuerse matters)haue vnder taken so to comprehende the storyes: that soch as are disposed to reade/myght haue pleasure and pastyme therin: & that they which are dilygent in soch thinges/myght the better thinke vpō thē: yee and that whosoeuer read thē/ mighe haue profit therby.

1. Mach. vi. a.

Neuertheles we oure selues that haue medled with this matter for the shortenynge of it/haue taken no smal labour/but great diligence/ watchynges and trauayle. Lyke as they that make a feast / wolde fayne do other men pleasure: Euē so we also (for many mens sakes) are very well contēt to take the laboure / where as we maye shortly comprehende / the thynges that other men haue truly wrytten.

For he ỹ buyldeth an house anew / must prouyde for many thinges / to ỹ whole buyldynge: but he that paynteth it afterwarde / seketh but only what is comly / mete & conuenient to garnysh it withall. Euen so do we also in lyke maner. And why? He that beginneth to wryte a story for the fyrst / must with his vnderstandynge gather the matter together / set hys wordes in ordre / and diligently seke out of euery parte: But he ỹ afterwarde wyll shorten it / vseth few wordes / and toucheth not the matter at the largiest. Let thys be sufficient for a Prologe / now will we begynne to shewe the matter: for it is but a folysh thinge to make a longe Prologe / and to be shorte in the story it selfe.

¶ Of the honour done vnto the temple by the kynges of the Gentyles. Symon vttereth what treasure is in the temple. Heliodorus is sent to take thē awaye. He is strycken of God & healed at the prayer of Onias.

¶ The.iij. Chapter.

WHat tyme as the holy cyte was inhabyted in all peace & wealth / & whē the lawes were yet very well kepte. (For so was it ordened by Onias the hye prest & other godly men / that were enemyes to wickednesse) It came therij. Mach. i. c. to / that euen the kinges & princes thē selues dyd the place greate worshippe / & garnished the temple with greate gyftes: In so moch ỹ ij. Mach. iiij. a. Seleucus kynge of Asia of his awne rētes bare all the costes belongyng to the seruyce of the offringes. Then Symon of the tribe of Benjamin / a ruler of the temple / laboured to worcke some mischefe in the cite: but the hye prest resisted him.

Nevertheless when he myght not ouercome Onias / he gat him to Appolonius the ij. Mach. iij. b. sonne of Therla (which then was chefe lorde in Celosyria and Phenices) & tolde him / that the treasury in Jerusalem was full of innumerable money / and how that the comons goodes (wich belonged not vnto the offerinages) were exceadinge greate also: yee & how it were possyble / that all these myght come vnder the kynges power.

Now when Appolonius had shewed the B kynge of the moneye / as it was tolde hym: the kinge called for Heliodorus his stewarde / & sent him with a cōmaundement / to bringe him ỹ same money. Immediatly Heliodorus toke hys iourney / but vnder a coloure / as though he wolde go thorow Celosyria & Phenices to viset the cities / but his purpose was to fulfyll the kynges pleasure. So when he came to Jerusalem / & was louyngly receaued of the hye prest into ỹ cyte: he tolde what was determed concernynge the moneye / and shewed the cause of his cōmyng: he asked also / yf it were so in dede. Then ỹ hye prest tolde him / that there was soch money layed vp for the vpholdynge of weddowes and fatherlesse chyldren / & how that a certayne of it belonged vnto Hyrcanus Tobias a noble man: & that of all the moneye (which that wycked Symon had bewrayed) there were .iiij. hundreth talentes of syluer / and .ij. hundreth of golde: yee & that it were vnpossible for those mens meanynge to be dysceaued / ỹ had layed vp their money in the place and tēple (which is had in worshype thorow the whole world) for the mayntenaunce and honoure of the same. Whervnto Heliodorus answered / that the kynge had cōmaunded him in any wyse / to bringe hym in the moneye.

So at the daye appoynted / Heliodorus C entred in to the temple to ordre thys matter. But there was no small feare thorowout ỹ whole cytye. The Prestes fell downe before the aulter in their vestymentes / and called vnto heauen vpon hym / whych had made a lawe concernynge stuffe geuen to kepe / that Exod. xxij. b. they shulde be safely preserued / for soch as committe them vnto keppynge. Then who so had loked the hye prest in the face / it wolde haue greued his herte: For his countenaūce and the chaunginge of his coloure / declared the inwarde sorowe of hys mynde. The man was all in heuynesse / and hys body in feare: wherby they that loked vpō him / myght perceaue the greke of hys herte. The other people also came out of their houses by heapes vnto the comō prayer / because the place was lyke to come in to confusyon. The wemen came together thorow ỹ stretes / with hearrie clothes aboute their brestes.

The virgyns also that were kepte in / rāne D to Onias / some to ỹ walles / other some looked out of the wyndowes: yee they all helde vp their handes towarde heauē / and prayed. A mysserable thinge was it / to loke vpon the comen people / & the hye prest beinge in soch trouble. But they besought almyghty God / that the goodes which were committed vnto them / myght be kepte whole / for those that had delyuered them vnto their keppynge. Neuertheles the thynge that Heliodorus was determed to do / that perfourmed he in the same place / he hym selfe personally beinge about the treasury wyth his men of warre. But the spyrete of almyghty God shewed him selfe openly / so ỹ all they which presumed to

obeye Heliodorus/kell thorow the power of God into a greate fearfulnesse & drede. For 2.Mach.x.c. and.xi.b there apeared vnto thē an horse/ with a terrible man sitting vpon him/decke in goodly araye/ and the horse smote at Heliodorus with his fore fete. Now he that sat vpon the horse/had harnesse of golde vpon him.

Moreouer there appeared.ij.fayre & beautyfull yōg men in goodly araye/which stode by him/scourged hym of both the sydes/ and gaue hym many stripes without ceassynge.
2.Mach.v.c. With that fell Heliodorus sodenly vnto the grounde. So they toke him vp (beinge compased aboute with greate darcknesse) & bare
C hym out vpon a beare. Thus he that came with so many runners and men of warre in to the sayde treasury was borne out/ where as no man myght helpe hym: & so the power of God was manyfest and knowne. He laye still domme also by the power of God/destitute of all hope and lyfe. And they prayed ỹ Lord/that he had shewed his power vpō his place and tēple/which a lytle afore was full of feare & trouble: and that thorow the reuelacyon of the almyghtye Lorde it was fylled with ioye and gladnesse.

Then certayne of Heliodorꝰ frēdes prayed Onias / that in all haste he wolde call vpon God/to graūte him his lyfe/ which was geuynge vp the goost. So the hye prest consydered the matter/and lest the kinge shuld suspecte that the Jewes had done Heliodorus some euell: he offred an healthofferynge for him. Now when the hye Prest had opteyned his peticion/ the same yonge men in ỹ same clothinge appeared/ & stode besyde Heliodorus/sayinge: Thancke Onias the hye prest/
Actu.xxvij.c. F for for his sake hath ỹ Lorde graunted ỹ thy lyfe: therfore seing ỹ God hath scourged the/ geue him prayse & thanckes/ & shewe euery man his myght & power. And when they had spoken these wordes they appeared nomore.

So Heliodorus offered vnto God / made greate vowes vnto him/ which had graūted him his lyfe/thācked Onias/toke his hoost/ & wente agayne to the kynge. Then testified he vnto euery man of the greate workes of God/ ỹ he had sene with his eyes. And when the kynge asked Heliodorus who were mete to be sent yet once agayne to Jerusalem/ he sayde: yf thou hast any enemy or aduersary vnto thy realme/sende him thyther/ and thou shalt haue hym punysshed/ yf he escape with his lyfe: for in that place (no doute) there is a specyall power & worckinge of God. For he ỹ dwelleth in heauē/ bysyeth & defendeth that place: and al that come to do it harme/ he punysheth & plageth thē. This is now the matter concernyng Heliodorus/ & the kepyng of the treasury at Jerusalem.

C Simon reporteth euell of Onias. Jason desyrynge the office of the hye Prest corrupteth the kynge with rewardes. The wycked intent of Jason.

C The.iiij.Chapter.

THis Simon now (of whō we spake afore) beinge a bewrayer of ỹ money & of his awne naturall contre/ ỹ.Ma.iij.a. reported the worst of Onias: as though he had moued Heliodorus vnto this/ & as though he had bene a brīger vp of euel. Thus was he not ashamed to call hym an enemye of the realme/ that was so faythfull an ouerseer & defender of ỹ cite & of his people: yee & so feruent in the lawe of God. But whē the malice of Symō increased so farre/ that thorow his frendes there were certayne manslaughters cōmitted: Onias considered the parell ỹ might come thorow this stryfe/ & how that Appolonius (namely ỹ chefe lorde in Celosyria and Phenices) was all set vpon tyrranny/ and Symons malyce increased ỹ same: He gat hym to the kinge/ not as an accuser of the cytezins/ but as one that by hym self intended the comon wealth of the whole multitude. For he sawe it was not possible to lyue in peace/ nether Symon to leaue of frō his folysshnesse/ except ỹ kynge dyd loke therto. But after the deeth of Seleucus/ when B Antiochus (which is called the noble) toke ỹ kingdome: Jason the brother of Onias laboured to be hye prest: For he came vnto the kynge/ and promised hym thre hundreth & .lx talentes of syluer/ & of the other rentes .lxxx. talentes. Besides this he promysed hym yet an. C. & .L. yf he myght haue the scole of the chyldren/ & that he myght call them of Jerusalem Antiochians. Which when the kynge had graunted/ & he had gotte the superiorite/ he begāne immediatly to drawe his kynsmen to the custome of the Heathen/ put downe ỹ thynges that the Jewes had set vp of loue/ by John the father of Eupolemius/ whych was sent embassytoure vnto Rome / for to make the bonde of frendshyppe and loue. He put downe all the Jewes & Lyberties of the Jewes/ and set vp the wycked statutes. He durst make a fyghtynge scole vnder the castell/ and set fayre yōge men to lerne the maners of whores and brodels. C

This was now the begynnyng of ỹ Heathenysh & straunge conuersacyō/ brought in thorow the vngracyous & vnherde wyckednesse of Jason/ which shulde not be called a Prest/ but an vngodly personne. In so moch that the prestes were now nomore occupyde about the seruyce of the aulter/ but despysed the temple / regarded not the offrynges: yee gaue their dylygence to lerne to fyght / to wrastle/ to leape/ to daunce/ & to put at the stone: not settynge by the honour of the fathers/but liked the glory of the Grekes best of all: for the which they stroue perlously/ & were gredy to folowe their statutes/yee their lust was in all thinges to be lyke thē/which afore were their enemyes & destroyers. How be it to do wyckedly agaynst ỹ law of God/ shall not escape vnpunyshed: but of thys we shall speake here after.

* These were kepte euery fyfty peare.

What tyme as the* Olympiades sportes were played at Tyrus (the kynge him selfe beinge present) this vngracyous Jason sent wicked men/bearyng from them of Jerusalem (whych now were called Antiochyans) iij.C. drachmas of syluer for an offerynge to Hercules. These had they that caryed them/ desyred vnder soch a fashion / as though they shulde not haue bene offred/but bestowed to other vses. Neuertheles he that sent them/ sent them to the intent that they shulde be offred vnto Hercules. But because of those that were present/they were geuen as to the makynge of shyppes. And Appolonius the sonne of Nesteus was sent in to Egypte/because of the noble men of Kynge Ptolomy Philometor. Now when Antiochus perceaued ỹ he was put out from medlynge in the realme/he sought his awne profyt/departed from thence/came to Joppa/ & then to Jerusalem: where he was honorably receaued of Jason & the cite/ & was brought in wt torche lyght and with greate prayse: and so he turned his hoost vnto Phenices.

ỹ. Mach. iiij. b

After iij. yeare Jason sent Menelaus/the forsayde Symons brother/ to beare ỹ money vnto ỹ kyng/ & to bringe him answere of other necessary matters. But he (when he was prayed of the kinge for magnyfying of his power) turned ỹ prestlhode vnto him self/ layinge vp. iij. C. talentes of syluer for Jason. So whē he had gotten cōmaundemētes frō the kynge/he came hauinge nothinge ỹ becōmeth a prest/but bearinge ỹ stomack of a cruell tyraunt/ & ỹ wrath of a wylde brute beest. Then Jason (which had dysceaued his awne brother) seinge that he him selfe was begyled also/was fayne to fle into the lande of the Ammonites/ & Menelaus gat the domynyon. But as for the money ỹ he had promysed vnto ỹ kynge/he dyd nothinge therin/ when Sostratus the ruler of the castell requyred it of him. For Sostratus was ỹ man that gathered the customes: wherfore they were both called before the king. Thus was Menelaus put out of the prestlhode/ & Lysimachus his brother came in his steade. Sostratus also was made lorde of the Cyprias.

F

It happened in the meane season / ỹ the Tharsians & Mallocias made insurrecciō/ because they were geuen for a present vnto kynge Antiochus concubyne. Then came ỹ kinge in all the haste/to styll them agayne/ & to pacyfye the matter/ leauing Andronicus there to be his debyte/as one mete therfore. Now Menelaus supposing ỹ he had gotten a ryght conuenient tyme/ stole certayne vessels of golde out of the temple/ & gaue them to Andronicus for a present: & some he solde at Tyrus and in the cytyes therby.

Which when Onias knewe of a suertye/ he reproued him: but he kepte him in a Sanctuary besyde Daphnis/ that lyeth by Antioche. Wherfore Menelaus gat hym to Andronicus/ & prayed hym that he wolde slaye Onias. So whē he came to Onias/ he counceled him craftely to come out of the Sanctuary/geuynge him his hande with an othe (how be it he suspecte him) and then he slew Onias/without any regarde of rightuousnesse. For the which cause not only ỹ Jewes/ but othernacyons also toke indygnacyon/ & were displeased for the vnrightuous death of so godly a man.

G

And when the kynge was come agayne from Cilicia/ the Jewes and certayne of the Grekes wente vnto him/ complayninge for the vnrightuous death of Onias. Yee Antiochus hī self was sory in his mynde for Onias/ so that it pitied him/ & he wepte/ remembringe his soberneſſe & manerly behauoure. Wherfore he was so kyndled in his mynde/ ỹ he cōmaunded Andronicus to be stryped out of his purple clothinge/ & so to be led thorow out all the cite: yee & the vngracyous man to be slayne in the same place/ where he cōmytted hys wyckednes vpon Onias. Thus the Lorde rewarded him his punyshment/as he had deserued. Now when Lysimachus had done many wicked dedes in the tēple thorow the coūcell of Menelaus/ & the voyce came abrode: the multytude gathered them together agaynst Lisimachus / for he had caryed out now moch golde.

So when the people arose/and were full of dyspleasure / Lysimachus armed. iij. M. vnthryftes to defende him: a certayne tyraūte beinge their captayne / which was growen both in age & woodnesse. But whē the people vnderstode the purpose of Lysimachus/ some gat stones/some good strōge clubbes/ & some cast asshes vpon Lysimachus. Thus there were many of thē wounded/some being slayne/ & all the other chaced awaye. But as for the wycked churchrobber hym self / they kylled hym besyde ỹ treasury. Of these matters therfore there was kepte a courte a- H gaynst Menelaus. Now when the kynge came to Tyrus/they made a complaynte vnto him of Menelaus/concernyng this busynesse/and the embassytours were thre. But Menelaꝰ wēt & promesed Ptolomy to geue

him moch money/yt he wolde persuad ỹ king. So Ptolomy wēt to the kyng in to a courte/ (where as he was sett to coole him) & broght him out of that mynde. In so moch that he discharged Menelaus from the accusacyons/ that not withstandynge was cause of al myscheke: and those poore men / whych yt they had tolde theyr cause / yee before the Scythiās/ they shulde haue bene iudged innocēt/ them he condemned to death.

Thus were they soone punysshed / whych folowed vpon the matter for ỹ cytye / for the people / and for the holy vessell. Wherfore they of Tyrus toke indygnacyon / and buryed them honorably. And so thorow the couetousnesse of them that were in power/ Menelaus remayned styll in authorite / increasynge in malyce / to the hurte of the cytesyns.

¶ Of the sygnes and tokens sene in Jerusalem. Of the ende and offence of Jason. The pursute of Antiochus agaynst the Jewes. The spoylinge of the temple.

¶ The.v. Chapter.

ABout the same tyme Antyochus made hym ready to go agayne in to Egypte. Then were there sene at Jerusalem / xl. days longe / horsmen runnynge to and fro in the ayre / whych had rayment of golde / and speares. There were sene also whole hoostes of men weapened / & horses runnynge in an ordre / how they came together / how they held forth theyr shildes / how the harnessed men drew out their swerdes / and shott their dartes.

The shyne of the golden weapens was sene / and of all maner of armure. Wherfore euery man prayed / that those tokens myght turne to good. Now when there was gone forth a false rumour / as though Antyochus had bene deed: Jason toke a. M. men / and came sodenly vpon the cytye. The cytesyns ranne vnto the walles / at the last was the cytye taken / & Menelaus fled in to the castell.

B As for Jason / he spared not his awne citesyns in the slaughter / nether considered he what greate euell it were / to destroye ỹ prosperite of hys awne kynsmen: but dyd as one that had gotten the victory of hys enemyes / and not of hys frendes. For all thys gatt he
1. Mach. iiii. c. not the superiorite / but at the last receaued confucyon for hys malyce / and fled agayne lyke a vagabunde in to the lande of the Ammonytes.

Fynally / for a rewarde of his wickednesse / he was accused before Aretha the kynge of the Arabians: In so moch that he was fayne to flee from cytye to cytie / beynge despysed of euery man as a forsaker of the lawes / and an abhominable personne. And at the last (as an open enemy of his awne natural countre and of the cytesyns) he was dryuen in to Egypte.

Thus he that afore put many out of their awne natyue land / perished from home himselfe. He wēt to Lacedemō / thynckinge there to haue gotten succoure by reason of kynrede. And he that afore had casten many one out vnburyed / was throwen out hym selfe / no man mournynge for hym / ner puttynge him in his graue: so that he nether enioyed ỹ burial of a straunger / nether was he partaker of his fathers sepulcre.

Now when this was done the kynge sulpecte / that the Jewes wolde haue fallē from hym: wherfore he came in a greate displeasure out of Egypte / and toke the cytie by violence. He commaunded hys mē of warre also / that they shulde kyl & not spare / but slaye downe soch as withstode them / or clymmed vp vpon the houses. C 1. Mach. i. c.

Thus was there a greate slaughter of yonge men / olde men / wemen / chyldren and virgines. In. iiij. dayes were there slayne lxxx. M. fourty thousande put in prison / and no lesse solde. Yet was he not content with this / but durst go in to the most holy temple (Menelaus that traytoure to the lawes and to his awne naturall countre / beyng his gyde) and with his wicked handes toke the holy vessel / which other kynges & cyties had geuen thyther for the garnysshinge & honour of the place: them toke he in hys handes vnworthely / & defyled them.

So madd was Antiochus / that he consydered not / how that God was a lytle wroth D for the synnes of them that dwelt in the citie / for the which soch confucyō came vpon that place. And why? yf it had not happened them to haue bene lapped in many synnes / thys Antiochus (as soone as he had come) had sodenly bene punysshed / and shott out for hys Judit. v. d presumpcyon / lyke as Helyodorus was / whō Seleucus the kyng sente to robbe the ii. Mach. iii. d. treasury. Neuertheles God hath not chosen the people for the places sake / but the place for the peoples sake: and therfore is the place become partaker of the peoples trouble / but afterwarde shall it enioye the wealth of them. And lyke as it is now forsaken in the wrath of Allmyghty God / so when the greate God is reconcyled / it shall be set vp in hys worshippe agayne.

So when Antiochus had taken a M. and E viij. C. talentes out of the temple / he gat him to Antioche in all the haste / thinckīng in his pryde / that he myght make men sayle vpon ỹ dry land / and to go vpon the see / soch an hye mynde had he. He lefte debytes there to vexe the people: At Jerusalem left he Philyppe a

Phrigian/in maners more cruell thē him self ȳ set him there: At Garysim he left Andronycus and Menelaus / whych were more greuous to ȳ citezins then other. Now as he was thus set in malice agaynst ȳ Jewes / he sent Appollonius an hated prynce / wt iij. M. cō maūding him to slaye all those ȳ were of perfect age / & to sell ȳ wemē / maydes & childrē. Whē he cam now to Jerusalē / he fained peace / & kepte hī stil vntil ȳ Sabboth daye. And then he cōmaūded his mē to take thē to their weapēs (for ȳ Jewes kepte holy daye) & so he slew al thē ȳ were gone forth to ȳ opē playe / rūning here & there thorow ȳ citie wt his mē weapened / & murthured a great nōbre. But Judas Machabey whych was the tenth / fled into ȳ wilderneſſe / ledhis life there wt his cōpany amōge ȳ wilde beastes & vpon ȳ mountaynes / dwellynge there / and eatinge grasse / lest they shuld be partakers of ȳ fylthynesse.

¶ The Jewes are compelled to leaue the law of God. The temple is defyled. The readers are monyshed that they shal not abhorre the aduersytie wherwyth ȳ Lord afflicteth thē. The greuous payne of Eleazarus.

¶ The. vj. Chapter.

A NOt longe after this / sent ȳ king a messaūger of Antioche / for to cōpel ȳ Jewes to altre ȳ ordinaūces of ȳ fathers & ȳ law of God / to defile ȳ tēple ȳ was at Jerusalē / & to cal it ȳ tēple of Jupiter Olimpius: & ȳ they shulde be in Gazarim / as those which dwell at ȳ place of Jupiter ȳ herberous. Thys wycked sedicīō of ȳ vngodly was heuy vpō al ȳ people: for ȳ tēple was ful of voluptuousnes / bibbinge & bolling of ȳ Heathē / of ribaudy & harlotry togeather. The wemē wēt into ȳ holy place / & bare in that was not laufull. The auiter also was full of vnlauful thingy which ȳ law forbydeth to laye vpō it. The Sabbothes were not kepte / ȳ other solēpne feastes of ȳ lāde were not regarded. To be playne / there durst nomā be a knowne ȳ he was a Jewe. In ȳ daye of ȳ kingy byrth they were cōpelled parforce to offre: & whē ȳ feast of Bachy was kepte / they were cōstrayned to weere garlādes of yuye / B & so to go aboute for ȳ honoure of Bachus.

Moreouer thorow ȳ coūcell of Ptolomy / there went out a cōmaundmēt in ȳ nexte cityes of ȳ Heathē / ȳ they shuld intreate ȳ Jewes in like maner: namely / to cōpell thē for to do sacrifyce after ȳ lawes of ȳ Gētiles: & who so wolde not / to put them to death. A pyteous thynge was it to se. There were. ij. wemen accused to haue circūcided their sonny / whō when they had led roūde aboute ȳ cytie (the babes hāgyng at their brestes) they cast thē downe headlyngy ouer ȳ walles. Some ȳ were crepte in to denny & had kepte ȳ Sabboth / were accused vnto Philippe / & brent in ȳ fyre: because ȳ for ȳ feare of God they kepte ȳ cōmaundmēt so stidly / & wolde not defende thē selfy. Now J beseche all those which reade this boke / ȳ they refuse it not for these fallyz of aduersite: & iudge ȳ thinges (ȳ are happened) for no destruccyō / but for a chastenyng of oure people. And why? Whē God suffreth not sinners lōge to folow their awne mynde / but shorthly punisheth thē / it is a tokē of his greate louyng kyndnes. For this grace haue we of God more then other people / ȳ he suffreth not vs longe to synne vnpunished lyke other nacyons / that when ȳ daye of iudment cōmeth / he maye punish thē in the fulnes of their synnes. If we synne / he correcketh vs / but he neuer withdrayeth his mercy frō vs: & though he punish wt aduersyte / yet doth he neuer forsake his people. But lett this ȳ we haue spokē now wt few wordy / be for a warning & exhortaciō of ȳ Heathē. Now will we come to ȳ declaryng of ȳ matter. Eleazar one of the principall Scribes / an aged mā & of a welfauored coūtenaūce / was cōstrayned to gape wt opē mouth & to eate swyny flesh. But Leui xi.a he delyzyng rather to dye glorioufly then to lyue wt shame) offred him self willingly to ȳ martyrdome. Now whē he saw ȳ he must nedy go to it / he toke it pacyently: for he was at a poynte wt hī self / ȳ he wold cōsente to no vnlaufull thing for eny pleasure of life. They ȳ stode by being moued wt pite (but not aright) for ȳ olde frēdshype of ȳ mā / toke him asyde D. pryuely / & prayed him ȳ he wold let soch flesh be brought him as were laufull to eate / & thē to make a coūtenaūce as though he had eatē of ȳ flesh of ȳ sacrifice like as ȳ king commaunded / for so he might be deliuered from death: & so for ȳ olde frendshipe of ȳ mā / they shewed him this kyndnes. But he begāne to cōsidre his discret & honorable age / his noble & worshipful stoke / & how ȳ frō his youth vp he had bene of an honest & good cōuersacyō: yee & how cōstantly he had kepte ȳ ordinaūces & lawes cōmaūded by God / wherfore he gaue thē this answere / & sayde: Yet had J rather first be laied in my graue. For it becom- i. Thes.v.e meth not myne age (sayde he) in eny wyse to dissēble / wherby many yōg personnes might thincke / ȳ Eleazar being lxxx. yeare olde & .x. were now gone to a straūge like: also thorow myne ypocrisy (for a lytle tyme of a trāsitory life) they might be disceaued: by this meanes also shuld J defile myne age / & make it abhominable. For though J were now delyuered frō ȳ tormētz of men / yet shuld J not escape ȳ hād of almighty God / nether alyue ner deed. Wherfore J will dye mākully / & do as it becō E meth mine age: Wherby J may peraduēture leaue an exāple of stedfastnes for soch as be yōge / yf J wt a ready mynde & mākully dye an honest death / for ȳ most worthy & holy lawz.

When

When he had layde these wordes / immediatly he was drawen to the tormente. Now they that ledhym & were mylde a litle afore / beganne to take displeasure because of the words that he layde: for they thought he had spoken them of an hye mynde. But when he was in his martirdome / he mourned and layde: Thou (O Lord) which hast ỹ holy knowlege / knowest openly: that where as I might be delyuered from death / I suffre these sore paynes of my body: but in my mynde I am wel content to suffre them / because I feare the. Thus thys man dyed / leauynge the memorial of his death for an example / not only vnto yonge men / but vnto all the people / to be stedfast and manly.

Gen.xli.a

IT happened also ỹ there were vij. brethrē (with their mother) takē) & cōpelled by the kinge agaynst ỹ law / to eate swynes flesh: namely with scourges & lethren whippes. And one of them which was the chefe / layde: What seekest thou / & what requyrest thou of vs? As for vs / we are ready rather to suffre death / then to offende the lawes of God and the fathers. Then was the kinge angrye / and bad heate cauldrons and brasen pottes. Which when they were made hote / immedyatly he commaūded the tonge of him that spake first to be cut out / to pul the skynne ouer his heade / to pare of the edges of his handes & fete: yee and that in the syght of hys mother and the other of hys brethren. Now when he was cleane marred / he commaunded a fyre to be made / and so (whyle there was eny breath in him) to be fryed in the caudron / In the which when he had bene longe payned / the other brethren wyth theyr mother exorted hym to dye manfully / sayenge: The Lorde God shall regarde the treuth / and comforte vs / lyke as Deut.xxxij.c. Moses testifieth and declareth in his longe / sayenge: and he will haue compassyon on his seruauntes.

B So when the fyrst was deed after this maner / they brought the seconde to haue him in derysyon / pulled the skynne with the hearre ouer his heade / & asked him / yf he wolde eate swynes flesh / or he were payned in the other membres also thorow out hys body. But he answered boldly / and sayde: I wyll not do it. And so was he tormented lyke as the first / & when he was euen at the geuyng vp ỹ goost he sayde: Thou most vngracyous personne puttest vs now to death / but the kyng of the worlde shall rayse vs vp (whych dye for hys lawes) in ỹ resurrection of euerlastinge life.

After hym / was the thyrde had in derysion: and when he was requyred / he putt out hys tonge / and that ryght soone / holdynge forth his handes manfully / and spake wyth a stedfast faith: These haue I of heauen / but now for the lawe of God I despyse them / for my trust is / that I shall receaue them of him agayne. In so moch that the kynge and they which were with hym / marueled at the yonge mans boldnesse / that he nothynge regarded the paynes. C

Now when he was deed also / they vexed the fourth with tormētes in lyke maner. So when he was now at his death / he sayde: It is better that we beynge put to death of mē / haue oure hope and trust in God / for he shal rayse vs vp agayne. As for the / thou shalt haue no resurrection to lyfe. Joh.v.b.

And when they had spoken to the fyfth / they tormented him. Then loked he vnto the kinge / & sayde: thou hast power amonge mē / for thou art a mortall man also thyself / to do what thou wilt / but thinke not / that God hath forsaken oure generacyon. Abyde the / tary still a whyle / and thou shalt se the great power of God / how he wyll punysh the & thy sede. After hym they brought ỹ syxte / whych beinge at the poynte of death / sayde: Be not disceaued (O kinge) for this we suffre for our owne sakes / because we haue offended oure God / & therfore maruelous thynges are shewed vpon vs. But thynke not thou / whych takest in hande to stryue agaynst God / that thou shalt escape vnpunysshed.

This excellent mother (worthy to be well D reported of / and had in remembrance) sawe her seuen sonnes dye in one daye / and suffred it paciently / because of the hope that she had in God: yee she exorted euery one of them in especyall / and that boldly and stedfastly wt parfyte wysdome / wakynge vp her wyuysh thought with a manly stomacke / and sayde vnto them: I can not tell how ye came in my wombe / for I nether gaue you breth ner soule / no ner lyfe. It is not I ỹ ioyned ỹ mēbres of your bodies together / but the maker of ỹ worlde / which fashioned ỹ byrth of man / & begāne al thinges. Euen he also of his awne mercy shal geue you breath and life agayne like as ye now regarde not oure awne selues for his lawes sake.

Now thought Antyochus that she had despised him / therfore he lett her go wyth her reproues / and beganne to exorte the yongest sonne (which yet was left) not only wt wordes but swore vnto him wt an ooth / ỹ he shulde make hym a rich & welthy man (yf he wolde forsake ỹ lawes of his fathers) yee and ỹ he shulde geue him / what so euer were necessary for him. But when ỹ yōge mā wolde not be moued / for all these thinges / he called his E mother / and coūceled her to saue her sonnes lyke. And whē he had exhorted her wyth many wordes/she promesed him that she shulde speake vnto her sonne. So she turned her vnto hym(laughynge the cruell tyraunte to scorne)and spake with a bolde voyce: O my sonne/haue pitie vpon me/ that bayre ỹ ix. monethes in my wōbe/that gaue the sucke/ norished the & brought the vp vnto this age.

I beseche the(my sonne)loke vpon heauē and earth and all that is therin / and consydre/that God made them and mans generacyon of nought: so shalt thou not feare thys hangman / but suffre death stedfastly / lyke as thy brethren haue done: that I maye receaue the agayne in the same mercy with thy brethren.

Whyle she was yet speakynge these wordes/the yonge mā sayde:Whom loke ye for? Wherfore do ye tary? I wyll not obeye the kynges commaundement/but the lawe that God gaue vs by Moses. As for the that ymagynest all myschefe agaynst the Iewes/ thou shalt not escape the hande of God/ for we suffre these thinges/because of our sinne.

Leui.xi.a. Deut.xxv.a.

And though God be angrye wyth vs a lytle whyle(for our chastenynge and reformacyon)yet shall he be at one agayne wyth hys seruauntes. But thou.(O shamefull and most abhominable personne.)Pryde not thy selfe thorow vayne hope / in beynge so malycious vpon the seruauntes of God: for thou hast not yet escaped the iudgment of the God whych is allmyghty/ and seyth all thynges. My brethren that haue suffred a lytle payne are now vnder the couenaunt of euerlastyng lyfe:but thorow the iudgment of God / thou shalt be punyshed ryghteously for thy pryde.

As for me(like as my brethren haue done) I offre my soule and my body for the lawes of our fathers / callynge vpon God/ that he wyll soone be mercyful vnto our people: yee and wyth payne and punyshement to make the graunte/that he only is God.In me now and in my brethren the wrath of allmyghty God is at an ende/ whych ryghteously is fallen vpon all our people.

ij.Macha.ij.c.

Then the kynge beynge kyndled in anger was more cruell vpon hym then vpon al the other/and toke indygnacion/that he was so lyghtly regarded. So thys yonge man dyed vndefyled/& put hys trust styll in the Lorde. Last of all after the sonnes/was the mother put to death also. Lett thys now be ynough spoken/concernynge the offrynges / and extreme cruelnesse.

Judas gathereth together hys hoost. Nicanor is sent agaynst Judas. Judas exhorteth his soudyars to constantnes Nicanor is ouercome. The Iewes geue thākes after they haue put their enemyes to flyght/dyuidyng the spoyles vnto the fatherles and vnto the wydowes. Nicanor flyeth vnto Antiochus.

¶ The.viij. Chapter.

When Judas Machabeus and they A that were with hym/ wente pryuely in to the townes / called theyr kynsfolkes and frendes together / toke vnto them all soch as contynued yet in the fayth and lawe of the Iewes / & brought forth vj.M.men.

So they called vpon the Lorde / that he wolde haue an eye vnto hys people / whych was trodden downe of euery man:to be gracyous vnto the temple / that was defyled of the vngodly:to haue compassion vpon the destruccyon of the cytye / whych was shortly lyke to be layed waste / to heare the voyce of the bloude that cryed vnto hym:to remembre the most vnryghteous deathes of yonge innocent thyldren/the blasphemyes also done vnto hys name/and to punysh them. i.Macha.ij.a

Now when Machabeus had gathered thys multytude together / he was to myghtye for he Heathen (for the wrath of the Lorde was turned in to mercy) he fell vpon the townes and cytyes vnwarres / brent them toke the most commodyous places / and slewe many of the enemyes. But specyally he made soch chases by nyght / in so moch that hys manlynesse was spoken of euery were.

So when Philippe sawe that the man B increased by litle and litle/ and that the matter prospered wyth hym for the most parte: he wrote vnto Ptolomy(whych was a captayne in Celosyria & Phenyces)to helpe him in the kynges busynes.Then sent he Necanor Patrocly(a specyall frende of hys) in all the haste / and gaue hym of the comen sorte of the Heathen no lesse then xx. M. harnessed men / to rote out the whole generacyon of the Iewes / hauynge to helpe hym one Gorgias a man of warre/ which in matters concernynge battayls had great experience. Nycanor ordened also ỹ trybute (whych the Romaynes shulde haue had)to be geuen vnto the kynge/out of the captyuite of the Iewes / namely ij. M.talentes. And immediatly he sent to the cyties of the see coost/requyrynge them for to bye Iewes to be their seruauntes & bonde men/promisynge to sell thē lxxx.and ten for one talente: but he consydered not the wrath of allmyghty God/ ỹ was to come vpon hym.

When Judas knewe of thys / he tolde the C Iewes that were wyth hym of Nicanors commynge. Now were there some of them fearfull/not trustynge vnto the ryghtuousnes of God and fled their waye.

But the other that remayned / came togethet and besought the Lorde / to delyuer them from that wycked Nicanor/whych had solde had solde them or euer he came nye them: & though he wolde not do it for their sakes/ yet for the couenaunt that he made wyth theyr fathers/ & because they called vpon hys holy & glorious name. And so Machabeus called his men together/ namely aboute vj. M. exorting them not to agree vnto their enemies nether to be afraied for ỹ multitude of their aduersaries cõminge agaynst them vnrighteously: but to fight manly/ consideringe the reproke that they had done to the holy place without cause / how they had despysed and oppressed the cytie/ yee & destroyed the lawes of the fathers. For they (sayde he) trust in their weapens and boldnesse / but oure confidence is in the allmyghty Lorde / whych in the twynclynge of an eye maye both destroye them that come agaynst vs / and all the worlde.

Psal.xx.b.

He exorted them also to cal to remẽbraunce the helpe / that God shewed vnto their fathers: as when there perished an C. & lxxxv. M. of Sẽnacheribs people: And of ỹ batail ỹ they had in Babilõ against ỹ Gallacyans: how ỹ all the Macedonyãs ỹ came to helpe thẽ/ stode in feare: & how they being but only vj. M. slewe an C. & xx. M. thorow the helpe that was geuen them from heauen/ wherby they also had receaued many benefites.

Thorow these wordes the men toke good hertes vnto them/ ready to dye for the lawe & the coũtre. So he sett vpon euery company a captaine/ one of his awne brethrẽ: Simõ/ Joseph & Jonathas: geuynge ech one xv. C. men. He caused Eldras also to reade the holy boke vnto them/ and to geue them a token of the helpe of God.

1.Mac.iij.b

Then he himself beinge captayne in ỹ fore front of the battayll/ buckled wyth Nicanor And God was their helpe / in so moch that they slewe aboue ix. M. men & compelled ỹ more parte of Nicanors hoost to flie/ they were so wounded & feable. Thus they toke the money from those that came to bye them / & followed vpon them on euery syde. But whẽ the tyme came vpon them/ they returned/ for it was the Sabbath/ and therfore they followed nomore vpon them. So they toke their weapens & spoyles & kepte the Sabbath/ geuynge thankes vnto the Lord/ whych had delyuered them that daye / and shewed them his mercy. After the Sabbath they distributed the spoyles to the sicke/ to the fatherlesse and to wyddowes / and the residue had they them selues wyth theirs. When this was done/ and they all had made a generall prayer: they besought the mercyfull Lorde to be at one with his seruauntes.

Of those also that were with Timotheus and Bachides/ which fought agaynst them/ they slewe xx. M. wanne hye and stronge holdes/ and deuided moo spoyles: euer geuynge an equal porcion vnto ỹ sicke/ to ỹ fatherless to wyddowes & to aged persons. And when ỹ they had dylygently gathered their weapens together/ they layed them all in conueniente places/ & the remnaunt of ỹ spoyles brought they to Jerusalem. They slewe Phylarches that wicked personne/ which was wyth Tymotheus / and had vexed many Jewes. And when they helde the thãkesgeuinge at Jerusalẽ for the victory/ they brent those that had sett fyre on the portes of the temple: namely Callisthenes/ which was fled in to an house: and so they gatt a worthy reward for their wyckednesse. As for that most vngracyous Nicanor/ wich had brought a thousande marchauntes/ to bye the Jewes/ he was thorow the helpe of the Lorde brought downe euen of them whom he regarded not: in so moch ỹ he put of hys gloryous rayment/ fled by see/ and came alone to Antyoche / wyth greate shame and dishonour/ which he gatt thorow the destruccyon of hys hoost. Thus he ỹ promysed the Romaynes to paye them their tribute/ when he toke Jerusalem: begãne now to saye planely / that God was the defender of the Jewes/ & therfore not possible to woũd them/ because they folowed the lawes which God had made.

Antiochus willing to spoyle Persepolis is dryuen to flyght. As he persecuteth the Jewes / he is strycken of the Lorde. The fayned repentaunce of Antiochus. He dyeth.

The.ix. Chapter.

1 Mach.vi.

AT the same tyme came Antiochus agayne wt dyshonoure out of Persis. For when he came to Perlepolis / and vnder toke to robbe the tẽple and to subdue the citie/ the people ranne together and defended thẽselues/ in so moch that he and his were fayne to flie with shame. And so after that flyght / it happened / that Antiochus came agayne wyth dyshonoure. But when he came to Egbathana / he gatt knowlege what was happened vnto Nycanor & Tymotheus. Now as he was auauncynge hymself in hys wrath / he thought he was able to avenge the iniury that was done to them / vpon the Jewes: and therfore commaunded to make ready hys charet / haystynge on hys iourney wythout ceassynge / the iudgement of God prouokinge him/ because he had spoken so proudly/ that he wolde come to Jerusalem / and make it a graue of the Jewes. But the Lorde God of Israell / that seyth all thynges / smote hym wyth an inuysyble plage / whych no man coulde heale.

For as soone as he had spoken these wor-
B des/there came vpon hym an horrible payne of hys bowles / and a sore grefe of the tharmes. And that was but right: for he had martyred other mens bowels with dyuerse and straunge tormentes / how be it he wolde in no wyse ceasse from his malyce. Yee he was yet the prouder and more malycious against the Iewes: But whyle he was commaundynge to make haste in the matter/it happened that he fell downe violently from the charet/so that it broled hys body / and dyd hym greate payne.

And so he that thought he myght commaunde the floudes of the see (so proude was he beyonde the condicyon of mã) and to weye the hye mountaynes in a payre of scoales / was now brought downe to the grounde / & caried vpon an horslytter / knowlegynge the manyfeste power of God vpon hym: so that the wicked body of hys was ful of wormes/ whych in hys payne fell quyck out of hys Act.xij.d. flesh: In so moch that hys hoost was greued with the smell and stynche of hym. Thus he that a lytle a fore thought he myght reach to the starres of heauen / hym myght no man now abyde ner beare / for the behemence of C stynche.

Therfore he beynge brought from hys greate pryde/beganne for to come to ỹ knowlege of hym selfe: for the punyshment of God warned hym /and hys payne increased euer more and more. And when he hym selfe might not abyde hys awne stynche / he sayde these wordes: It is reason to be obedient vnto God and that a man desyre not to be lyke vnto hym. Thys wycked personne prayed also vnto the Lorde / of whom he shulde haue optayned no mercy. And as for the cytie that he came vnto so hastely/to bryng it downe to the grounde/and to make it a graue for deed mẽ: now he desyreth to delyuer it fre.

And as touchinge the Iewes/whom he had iudged not worthy to be buryed / but wolde haue cast thẽ out for to be deuoured of ỹ foul & wilde beastes/sayenge/that he wolde haue destroyed both olde and yonge: Now he promyseth / to make them lyke the cytesyns of Athens. And where as he had spoyled the holy temple afore / now he maketh promyse to garnish it with greate giftes/to increase the holy ornamentes / and of hys awne rentes to beare the costes / and charges belonginge to the offeringes: yee and that he wolde also become a Iewe hym selfe / to go thorow euery place of the worlde / and to preach the power D of God.

But when hys paynes wolde not ceasse/ (for the ryghteous iudgmẽt of God was come vpon hym) out of a very despayre he wrote vnto the Iewes a lettre of intercession/cõteynynge these wordes: The kynge and prince Antiochus wysheth vnto the vertuous citesyns of the Iewes / moch health and good prosperite.

If ye and youre children fare well / and yf all thinges go after youre mynde: we geue greate thankes. In my sickneſſe also do I remembre you louyngly: for as I came out of Persya/ and was taken with sore dysease: I thought it necessary to care for ỹ comen wealth. Nether despare I in my self/ but haue a good hope to escape this sickness.

But consyderynge that my father led an hoost sometyme in the hyer places/ and shewed who shulde raygne after hym / that (yf there happened any cõtrouersy/or eny harde thyng were declared) they in the lande might knowe their chefe lorde/ that there shulde be E no insurrection: Agayne/ when I pondre by my self / how that all the myghtye men and neghbours rounde aboute/are layenge wayte/and loke but for oportunyte to do harme: I haue ordened that my sonne Antyochus shall raygne after me/whom I oft commended to many of you / when I was in the hyer kyngdomes/ and haue wrytten vnto hym as it foloweth herafter. Therfore I praye you & requyre you / to remembre the benefytes that I haue done vnto you generally and in especyall. For I hope that he shal be of sober & louynge behauoure/& yf he folowe myne aduyce/he shall be indyfferent vnto you. Dante.bij.c

Thus that murthurer and blasphemare of God was sore smytten: & lyke as he had intreated other men / so he dyed a myserable death in a straunge countre vpon a mountayne. And his body dyd Philyppe (that went wyth hym) cary awaye: whych fearynge the sonne of Antyochus / wente into Egypte to Ptolomy Philometor.

enymoze agaynſt him / he him ſelf to chaſtē them wyth mercy / and not to come in the hādes of thoſe aleauntes and blaſphemous men.

Now vpon the ſame daye that ỹ ſtraungers poluted the temple / it happened that on the very ſame daye it was clenſed agayne: namely / the .xxiij. daye of the moneth called Calleu. They kepte .viij. dayes in gladneſſe / lyke as in ỹ feaſt of the tabernacles: remembryng that not longe afoze / they helde the feaſt of the tabernacles vpon the mountaynes and in dennes lyke beaſtes. And to the ſame token they bare grene bowes / braunches and palmes befoze him that had geuen them good foztune to clenſe his place. They agreed alſo together / and made a ſtatute / ỹ euery yeare thoſe dayes ſhulde be ſolemply kepte of all the people of the Jewes. 1. Mach. iiij. k. B

How Antiochus then (that was called the noble) dyed / it is ſufficiently tolde. Now will we ſpeake of Nicanoz the ſonne of that wicked Antiochus / how it happened wyth him: and ſo with few wozdes to comprehende the aduerſyte that chaunſed in ỹ warres. When he had takē in the kyngdome / he made one Lyſias (which had bene captayne of the hoſt in Phenices and Siria) ruler ouer the matters of the realme. Foz Ptolomy that was called Macron / beynge a ruler foz the Jewes (and ſpecially / to ſyt in iudgment foz ſoch wzonge as was done vnto them) vnder toke to deale peaceably wyth them. Foz the which cauſe he was accuſed of the frendes befoze Eupatoz: and when he was ſuſpecte to be a traytoure (becauſe he had left Cyprꝛes C that Philometoz had committed vnto hym: and becauſe he departed from noble Antiochus / that he was come vnto) he poyſoned him ſelfe / and dyed.

Now when Gozgias was gouernoure of the ſame places / he toke ſtraungers and vnder toke of tymes to warre wyth the Jewes. 1. Mac. v. a. Moreouer the Idumeans that helde ỹ ſtrōge holdes / receaued thoſe that were dzyuen from Jeruſalem / and toke in hande to warre alſo. But they that were with Machabeus beſought and prayed vnto the Lozde / that he wolde be their helper: and ſo they fell in to the ſtronge holdes of the Idumeans / and wanne many places by ſtrength: Soch as came agaynſt them they ſlew / and kylled no leſſe (of all together) then twentye thouſande. Neuertheleſſe ſome / no leſſe then nyne thouſande / were fled in to two ſtronge towzes / hauynge all maner of ozdynaunce to withſtande them.

Then Machabeus leauing Symon / Joſephus / Zachaus and thoſe that were wyth them (which were very many) wente to beſege them / and to fyght where moſt nede was. Now they that were wyth Symon beynge led wyth couetounelle / were intreated foz money / thozow certayne of thoſe that laye in ỹ towzes: toke .lxx. M. Dzachmas / & let ſome of them eſcape. But when it was tolde Machabeus what had happened / he called the captaynes of the people together / accuſynge thoſe perſonnes / ỹ they had ſolde the bzethzen foz money / and lett their enemyes go. So he ſlewe thoſe traytours / and immediatly wente in hande wyth the .ij. towers. And whē they had ozdzed them ſelues manly with their weapens and handes, they ſlewe in the two caſtels moo then twentye thouſande.

Now Timotheus whom the Jewes had 1. Mac. v. f. ouercome afoze / gathered a multytude of v. Mac. viij. c ſtraunge people / bzought an hoſte alſo of hozſmen of the Alians / to wynne Jewzy by ſtrength. But when he dzewe nye / Macha- E beus & they that were with hym fell to their v. Mach. xi. b. prayer / ſprenckled aſſhes vpō their heades / beyng gyrded with hearrie cloth about their loynes / fell downe befoze the aulter / and beſought the Lozde that he wolde be mercyfull to them / but an enemye vnto their enemyes / and to take parte agaynſt their aduerſaries / accozdynge as it is promyſed in ỹ lawe. So after the prayer / they wente on further from the cytie: and when they came nye the enemyes / they prepared them ſelues agaynſt them. Jere. xvij. d

And by tymes in the moznynge at ỹ breake of the daye / both the hooſtes buckled together. The one parte had the Lozde foz their refuge / whych is the geuer of proſpꝛyte / ſtrength and byctozy. The other had a manly ſtomack / whych is a captayne of warre.

The battayll now beynge greate / there iiij. reg. vi. a apeared vnto the enemyes from heauen. vi. i. Mac. iij. d. men vpō hozſbacks wyth bzydels of golde / and. xi. b. ledinge the Jewes / and two of them hauyng Machabeus betwixte them / that kepte him ſafe on euery ſyde wyth theyr weapens / but ſhot dartes and lightenynges vpon the enemyes: where thozow they were confounded with blyndneſſe & ſo ſoze afrayed / that they fell downe. There were ſlayne of fote men twentie thouſande and fyue hundzeth / and F fyxe hundzeth hozſmen. As foz Timotheus him ſelfe / he fled vnto Gazar a very ſtronge holde / wherin Cereas was captayne. But Machabeus and his company layed ſege to it chearfully .iiij. dayes.

Now they that were wythin truſtynge to the ſtrength of the place / curſed and banned exceadyngly / and made greate crakynge wyth wycked wozdes. Neuertheleſſe vpon the xxth daye in ỹ mornynge. xx. yong men of Machabeus company / beynge / sett on fyre in their myndes because of the blasphemy: came manfully vnto the wall / and with bolde stomackes they and their other companyons clymmed vp vpon the towres / vndertakynge to set fyre vpon the portes / & to burne those blasphemous personnȝ quicke. Two dayes were they destroying the castell / whych when they founde Timotheus (that was crepte in to a corner) they kylled him / & slewe Cereas his brother in lyke maner with Appollophanes. When this was done / they sunge Psalmes / wyth prayses & thanckesgeuynges vnto the Lorde / which had done so greate thynges for Israel / and geuen them the victory.

B So he came in to Jewry & then to Bethsura (a castell of defence lyinge in a narow place. v. furlonges from Jerusalem) & wāne it. Now when Machabeus and his cōpany knewe that the stronge holdes were taken / they fell to their prayers with weppynge and teares before the Lorde: and all the people in lyke maner besought him / that he wolde sende a good angell to delyuer Israel. Machabeus hym selfe was the fyrst that made him ready to ỹ battayll / exortyng the other that were with him / to ieoperde them selues and to helpe their brethren. Thus they wente on willyngly hauynge an helper from heauen / and the Lorde mercyfull vnto them. They fell myghtely vpon their enemyes lyke lyōs / brought downe. xj. M. fote men. xvj. Neuertheles the mā was not wyth out vnderstandynge / but consydered by hym selfe that his power was mynished and pondred how the Jewes beynge defended by the helpe of Almighty God / were not able to be ouercome: wherfore he sent thē worde / and promysed / ỹ he wolde cōsente to all thynges which were reasonable / and to make ỹ kyng their frende. To the which prayer of Lysias Machabeus agreed sekynge in all thynges the comen wealth: and whatsoeuer Machabeus wrote vnto Lysias concernynge the Jewes / the kyng graūted it. For there were lettres wrytte vnto the Jewes from Lysias cōteynynge these wordes.

Lysias sendeth gretynge to the people of the Jewes. Jhon and Absalon whych were sent from you / delyuered me wrytynges / & requyred me to fulfyll the thynges concernynge their earande. Therfore loke what might be graunted / I certifyed ỹ kyng therof: & whatsoeuer was conuenient. I agreed therto. If ye now wyll be faythfull in ỹ matters / I shal endeuer my selfe hereafter also to do you good. As concernynge other thynges by euery artycle therof: I haue cōmytted thē to youre messaungers / and to those whom I sent vnto you / to comen with you of ỹ same / fare ye well / In the hundreth & xlviij. yeare / ỹ. xxiiij. daye of ỹ moneth Dioscorinthius.

D Now the kynges lettre conteyned these wordes. Kynge Antiochus sendeth gretinge vnto his brother Lisias. For so moch as oure father is now deed / oure wyll is / that they which are in oure realme / lyue without eny insurrecc̄yon / and euery man to be dyligent in his awne matters. We vnderstande also / that the Jewes wolde not consent to oure father / for to be brought vnto the custome of the Gentyles / but stykly to kepe their awne statutes: for the which cause they requyre of vs also / to lett them remayne styll by their awne lawes.

E Wherfore oure minde is / that this people shalbe in rest: we haue concluded and determed also / to restore thē their temple agayne: that they maye lyue accordynge to the vse & custome of their fore fathers. Thou shalt do vs a pleasure therfore / yt thou sende vnto them and agre with them: that whē they are certicertified of oure minde/they maye be of good chere/and loke to their awne wealth.

And this was the lettre / that the kynge wrote vnto the Jewes: Kyng Antiochus sendeth gretynge vnto the councell and ỹ other people of ỹ Jewes. If ye fare well/ we haue oure desyre: as for vs/we are in good health. Menelaus came and tolde vs/how ỹ youre desyre was to come downe to youre people/ which are with vs.

Wherfore those that wyll come/ we geue them fre lyberte / vnto the. xxx. daye of the moneth of Aprill/that they maye vse ỹ meates of the Jewes and their awne lawes/lyke as afore: and none of them by eny maner of wayes to haue harme / for thynges done in ignorannce. Menelaus whom we haue sent vnto you/ shall cõme with you at large / fare ye well. In the. Cxlviij. yeare/the. xv. daye of the moneth of April.

The Romaynes also sent a lettre/ conteynynge these wordes: Quintus Mennius & Titus Manilius embassitours of the Romaynes / sende gretynge vnto the people of the Jewes. Loke what Lysias the kynges kynsman hath graunted you / we graunte you the same also. And therfore wryte shortly agayne/ ỹ we maye know youre mynde Fare well. In ỹ hũdreth. xlviij. yeare/ the. xv. daye of the moneth of April.

¶ The. xij. Chapter.

When these couenauntes were made Lysias wente vnto the kyng/ & the Jewes tylled their grounde. But Timotheus/ Appollonius ỹ sonne of Gemei/ Jerome and Demophon ỹ proude/ Nicanor the captayne of Cypers/ & they that laye in those places: wolde not lett them lyue in rest and peace. They of Joppa also dyd euen soch a shamefull dede. They prayed the Jewes that dwelt amonge them/ to go with their wyues and chyldren in to ỹ shyppes which they had prepared / and dyd wyth them/ as though they had ought thẽ no euell wyll. For so moch then as there was gone forth a generall proclamacion thorow ỹ cytie because of peace/ they cõsented therto/ & suspecte nothynge: but when they were gone forth in to the depe / they drowned no lesse then. ij. C. of them.

When Judas knew of this cruelte shewed vnto his people / he commaunded those that were with him to make thẽ ready/ exhortyng them to call vpon God the ryghtuous iudge: went forth agaynst those murthurers of his brethren/ set fyre in the hauẽ by nyght/ brẽt vp the shyppes / and those that escaped from the fyre/ he slewe with the swearde. And whẽ ỹ he had done thys / he departed as though he wolde come agayne/ and rote out all them of Joppa. But when he had gotten worde that the Jamnites were mynded to do in lyke maner vnto the Jewes which dwelt amõge thẽ/ he came vpon the Jamnites by nyght/ & sett fyre in the hauen with the shyppes: so that the lyght of the fyre was sene at Jerusalem/ vpon a. ij. C. and. xl. furlonges.

Now when they were gone from thence ix. furlonges / in their iourney towarde Timotheus. v. thousande men of fote and. v. hundreth horsmen of the Arabians fought with hym. So whẽ the battell was earnest/ and prospered with Judas thorow the helpe of God: the residue of the Arabyans beinge ouercome / besought Judas to be at one w them/ & promysed to geue hym certayne pastures/ and to do hym good in other thynges. Judas thynckynge that they shulde in dede be profytable concernynge many thynges/ promysed them peace: wherupon they shoke handes/ and so they departed to their tentes. Judas wente also vnto a cytye/ whych was very faste kepte with brydges/ fensed round aboute wyth walles/ and dyuerse kyndes of people dwellynge therin/ called Calpin.

They that were within it/ put soch trust in the strẽgth of the walles/ & in their store of bytales: that they were the slacker in their doynges / cursynge and reuylynge Judas w blasphemyes / and speakynge soch wordes as it becommeth not. But Machabeus callynge vpon the greate Prynce of the worlde (whych wythout any battayll rammes or ordynaunce of warre / dyd cast downe the walles of Jericho/ in the tyme of Josue) fell manfully vpon the walles / toke the cyte/ & (thorow the helpe of the Lorde) made an exceadynge greate slaughter: In so moch that a lake of two fourlonges brode whych laye therby / semed to flowe wyth the bloude of the slayne. Josue. vi. C

Then departed they from thence. vij. C. & L. furlonges / and came to Caraca vnto the Jewes that are called Cubianei. But as for Timothes / they coulde not get him there: for (not one matter dyspatched) he was departed from thence / and had lefte certayne

D When Timotheus had knowledge of Judas commynge / he sent the women / chyldren and the other baggage vnto a castell called Carnion. (For it coulde not be wõne / & was harde to come vnto / the wayes of the same places were so narow) and whẽ Judas company came fyrst in syght / the enemyes were smytten with feare / thorow the presence of God / which seyth all thynges: In so moch ỹ they fleynge one here / another there / were rather discomfited of their awne people / and wounded wt ỹ strokes of their awne sweardes. Judas also was very earnest in folowynge vpon them punishynge those vngodly / and slewe. xxx. M. men of them. Timotheus also him selfe fell in to the handes of Dositheus and Sosipater / whom he besought wt many prayers / to let him go with his lyfe: because he had many of the Jewes fathers & brethrẽ in prison / which (yf they put hym to death) myght be disapoynted. So whẽ he had promysed faythfully to delyuer thẽ agayne accordyng to the condicyon made / they let him go without harme / for the health of the brethren. And when Judas had slayne. xxb. Now after ỹ he had chased awaye & slayne E his enemyes / he remoued the hoste towarde Ephron a stronge cytie / wherin dwelt many dyuerse people of the Heathen / & the stronge yonge men kepte the walles / defendyng thẽ myghtely. In this cytie was moch ordinaũce / and prouysion of dartes. But when Judas and hys company had called vpon Almighty God (which wt hys power breaketh the strength of the enemyes) they wanne the cytie / and slewe. xxb. M. of them / that were within. From thence wente they to the cytye of the Scythians / whych lyeth. vi. C. furlonges from Jerusalem. But whẽ ỹ Jewes which were in the cytie testifyed / that ỹ citesyns dealte louyngly with them / yee and intreated them kyndly in the tyme of their aduersite / Judas and his company gaue them thanckes / desyrynge them to be frendly still vnto them: and so they came to Jerusalem the hye feast of the wekes beynge at hande. And after the feast they went forth agaynst Gorgias the gouernoure of Idumea / wyth iij. M. men of fote & iiij. C. horsmen. Which when they met together / it chaunced a fewe of the Jewes to be slayne. And Dositheus & one of the Bachenors a mighty horsmã toke holde of Gorgias / and wolde haue takẽ him quycke. But an horsmã of Thracia fell vpõ him / and smote of his arme / so that Gorgias escaped & fled in to Moresa. When they now ỹ were of Gorgias syde / had foughtẽ longe & were weary: Judas called vpon the Lorde that he wolde be their helper / & captayne of the felde: and with that / he beganne wyth a manly voyce to take vp a songe of prayse / & a crye: In so moch that he made the enemies afrayed / and Gorgias men of warre toke their flyght. So Judas gathered his hoste / & came in to the cytie of Odolla. And when the seuenth daye came vpõ them / they clensed them selues (as ỹ custome was) & kepte the Sabboth in the same place. And vpon ỹ daye folowynge / Judas & his company cam to take vp the bodies of thẽ that were slayne / and to bury thẽ in the fathers graues. Now vnder the cotes of certayne Jewes whych were slayne / they founde Jewels that they had takẽ out of the temple & from the Idols of the Jamniters: which thynge is forbyddẽ the Jewes by the lawe. Then euery mã saw that this was the cause / wherfore they were slayne.

And so euery man gaue thanckes vnto ỹ G Lorde for his ryghtuous iudgment / whych had opened the thynge that was hyd. They fell downe also vnto their prayers / and besought God / ỹ the fawte which was made / might be put out of remembraũce. Besydes that / Judas exorted the people earnestly / to kepe thẽ selues from soch synne: for so moch as they sawe before their eyes / ỹ these men were slayne for the same offence. So he gathered of euery one a certayne / in so moch ỹ he brought together two thousande drachmas of syluer / which he sent vnto Jerusalẽ / that there myght a sacrifyce be offred for the mysdede. In the which place he dyd well and ryght: for he had some consyderacyon & pondryng of the lyfe that is after this tyme. For yf he had not thought that they / which were slayne / dyd yet lyue / it had bene superfluous and vayne / to make eny bowe or sacrifyce / *for thẽ / that were deed. But for so moch as he sawe / that they which dye in the fauoure & beleue of God / are in good rest and ioye / he thought it to be good & honorable for a recõcylynge / to do ỹ same for those whych were slayne / ỹ the offence myght be forgeuen.

* Judge vpon this place whether the opinion hath bene to prayse for the deed / as to be baptised for thẽ i. Furthermore: This hole boke of the Machabees / and specially thys second / is not of sufficient authoritie to make an artycle of our faith: as it is before sufficiẽtly proued by the authoritye of S. But the kynge was woode in his mynde and came to shewe hym self more cruell vnto the Jewes / then hys father was. Which when Judas perceaued / he commaunded the people to call vpon the Lorde nyght and daye: that he wolde now helpe them also / lyke as he had done allwaye: For they were afrayed to be put from their lawe/from their naturall countre and from the holy temple: and not to suffre the people (whych a lytle whyle afore beganne to recouer) to be subdued agayne of ỹ blasphemous nacions.

So when they had done thys together /
¶ and besought the Lord for mercy/ with wepynge and fastynge thre dayes longe / flatt vpon the grounde: Judas exhorted them / to make them selues ready. But he and the elders together deuysed / to go forth first wyth their people / afore the kynge brought hys hoost in to Jewry / and afore he beleged the citye / & so to commytte the matter vnto God.

Wherfore he alcrybed the power of all thynges vnto God the maker of the worlde/ exhortynge hys people to fyght manfully/ (yee euen vnto death) for the lawes/ the temple/ the cytye / their awne natyue countre/ and to defende the cytesyns: and set his hoost before Modyn. Now when the kynge perceaued the manlynesse of the Jewes / he wente aboute to the take the stronge places by craft / and remoued hys hoost vnto Bethsura / whych was a well kepte house of defence of the Jewes: but they were chaced awaye / hurte and discomfyted.

And Judas sent vnto them that were in it / soch thynges as were necessary. In the Jewes hoost also there was one Rhodocus/ whych tolde the enemyes their secretes: but they sought him out / and when they had gotten hym / they put hym in prison. After thys dyd the kynge comen wyth them that were in Bethsura / toke truce wyth them / departed / and stroke a battayl wyth Judas / which ouercame him.

But when he vnderstode / that Physippe (whō he had left to be ouerseer of hys busines E sines at Antioche) begāne to rebel agaīnst hym / he was astonnyed in hys mynde: so that he yelded hym self to the Jewes / and made thē an othe / to do whatsoeuer they thought ryght.

Now when he was reconcyled wyth them / he offred / made moch of the temple / gaue greate gyftes vnto it / enbraced Machabeus / makynge hym captayne and gouernour frō Ptolomays vnto the Gerrenes.

Neuertheles when he came to Ptolomays / the people of the cytye were not content wyth that bonde of frendshype: for they were afrayed / that he wolde breake the couenaunt. Then wente Lysyas vp in to the seate / and enfourmed the people / shewed thē the cause why / and pacifyed them. So he came agayne to Antyoche. ¶ The.xiiij. Chapter.

After

A Fter thze yeares was Judas informed/how that Demetrius the sonne of Seleucus was come vp with a greate power and shyppes/ thorow the hauen of Tripolis/to take certayne commodyous places and countrees/ agaynst Antiochus & his captayne Lysias. Now Alcimus(which had bene hye Prest/ & wylfully defyled hym selfe/in the tyme of the myrtynge)seing/ ỹ by no meanes he coulde be helped/ner haue any more intraunce to the aultare:he came to kynge Demetrius in the hundreth and one & fyfftye yeare/ presentynge vnto him a crowne of golde/a palme & an olyue tree: which(as men thought)belonged to the temple/ & that daye he held his tonge. But whē he had gottē oportunyte for his madnesse/Demetrius called hym to counsell/ and asked hym/what thinges or councels the Jewes leaned vnto? He answered: The Jewes that be called Assidei(whose captayne is Judas Machabeus)maynteyne warres/make insurrecctyons/ and wyll not let the realme be in peace.

B For I beynge depryued of my fathers honoure(I meane the hye presthode) am come hyther:partly because I was faythfull vnto the kynge/and partly because I sought the profyt of ỹ cytesins. And why? all oure people/thorow the wickednesse of them/are not a lytle troubled. Wherfore I beseche the(O kynge)consyder all these thynges dilygently/ and then make some prouisyon for the lande and the people/accordynge to ỹ kyndnesse that thou hast offred vnto them. For as longe as Judas hath the vpperhāde/it is not possible that men can lyue in peace.

When he had spoken these wordes/ other frendes also haunynge euell wyll at Judas/ sett the kynge Demetrius on fyre agaynst him. Which immediatly sent Nicanor (ruler of the Elephantes) a captayne/ into Jewry:cōmaundynge him/ to take Judas him selfe alyue/but to slaye them that were with him/and to make Alcimus hye preste of the temple.

Then the Heathen whych fled oute of Je- C wry from Judas/ came to Nicanor by flockes/thynckynge the harme and decaye of ỹ Jewes to be their welfare. Now when the Jewes herde of Nicanors commynge/ and the gatheryng together of the Heathen:they sprēckled thē selues with earth/ & besought hym/which made them hys people/ & euer defended his awne porcion with euydent tokens/that he wolde preserue them styll. So as the commaundemēt of the captayne/ they remoued from thence/ and came to a towne called Dessalan. And Symon Judas brother fell in hande with Nicanor/but thorow the sodane commyng of the enemyes/he was afrayed.

Neuertheles Nicanor hearinge the manlynes of them that were with Judas/ & the bolde stomackes that they had to fyght for their naturall countre/durst not proue the matter wyth bloudsheddynge. Wherfore he sent Possidonius/Theodocius & Mathias before/to geue and to take peace. So when they had taken longe aduysement there vpō/ and the captayne shewed it vnto the multytude:they were agreed in one minde/to haue peace. And they appoynted a daye to syt vpō these matters quyetly amonge them selues/ the stoles also were brought and set forth. Neuertheless Judas commaunded certayne men of armes to wayte in conuenient places/ lest there shulde sodenly aryse any euell thorow the enemyes. And so they commoned reasonably together.

Nicanor/ whyle he abode at Jerusalem/ D ordred him selfe not vnreasonbly/ but sent awaye the people that were gathered together. He loued Judas euer with his hert/and fauoured him. He prayed him also to take a wyfe/and to brynge forth chyldren. So he maryed/lyued in rest/ and they led a comen lyfe. But Alcimus perceaunynge the loue ỹ was betwyxte them/ and how they were agreed together/came to Demetrius/ & tolde him that Nicanor had taken straunge matters in hande/and ordened Judas(an enemy of the realme)to be the kynges successoure. Then the kynge was sore displeased/ & thorow ỹ wycked accusacyōs whych Alcimus made of Nicanor/he was so prouoked/ that he wrote vnto Nicanor/saying: that he was very angrie for ỹ frendshippe and agremēt/ which he had made wyth Machabeus. Neuertheles he commaunded him in all ỹ haste/ that he shulde take Machabeus preseoner/ and sende him to Antioche.

Whych lettres when Nicanor had sene/ E he was at his wyttes ende/and sore greued/ that he shulde breake the thynges wheryn they had agreed:specially/ sayenge Machabeus was the man/that neuer dyd hym harme. But because he myght not wyth stande the kynge/he sought oportunite to fulfil his commaundement. Not wythstanding when Machabeus sawe that Nicanor beganne to be churlysh vnto hym/ and that he intreated him more rughly then he was wonte/he perceaued ỹ soch vnkyndnes came not of good/ and therfore he gathered a few of his men/ & withdrewe him selfe from Nicanor. Which when he knewe that Machabeus had mankfully preuented him/he came in to the great and most holy temple:and commaunded the prestes(which were doynge their vsuall of-kringes)to delyuer hym the man. And when they ſware that they coulde not tell where the man was whom he ſought / he ſtretched out his hande / & made an othe / ſayinge: If ye wyll not delyuer me Judas captyue / I ſhall remoue this tēple of God into ỹ playne felde / I ſhall breake downe the aulter / and conſecrate this temple vnto Bachus. After theſe wordes he departed. 1. Mach. vij. c

F Then the prieſtes lyft vp their handes towarde heauen / and beſought hym that was euer the defender of their people / ſayinge: Thou O Lorde of all / which haſt nede of nothynge / woldeſt that the temple of thy habytacyon ſhulde be amonge vs. Therfore now O mooſt holy Lorde / kepe thys houſe euer vndefyled / whych lately was clenſed. Now was there accuſed vnto Nicanor / one Razis an Alderman of Jeruſalem / a louer of the whole cyte / and a mā of good reporte: which for the kynde herte that he bare vnto the people / was called a father of the Jewes. Thys man oft tymes / when the Jewes were mynded to kepe thē ſelues vndefyled / defended & delyuered them / beinge content ſtedfaſtly to ſpende his body and his lyfe for his people. 1. Mach. iiij. c. v. Mach. x. a.

G So Nicanor wyllynge to declare ỹ hate / that he bare to the Jewes / ſent fiue hundreth men to take hym: for he thought / yf he gat him / he ſhulde bringe the Jewes in great decaye. Now when the people begāne to ruſhe in at hys houſe / to breake the dores / & to ſet fyre on it: he beinge now taken / wolde haue defended himſelf with his ſwearde: choſynge rather to dye manfully / then to yelde hymſelf to thoſe wicked doers: & becauſe of his noble ſtocke / he had rather haue bene put to extreme cruelte. Notwithſtandyng what tyme as he miſſed of hys ſtroke for haſte / & ỹ multitude fell in byolētly betwixte the dores: he rāne boldly to the wal / & caſt himſelf downe manfully amonge the heape of thē / which gaue ſoone place to his fall / ſo that he fel vpon his bely. Neuertheleſſe whyle there was yet breath wythin hym / he was kyndled in hys mynde / and whyle hys bloude guſhed out exceadingly (for he was very ſore wounded) he ranne thorow the myddeſt of the people / and gat hym to the toppe of a rocke. So whē hys bloude was now gone / he toke out hys awne bowels with both his handes / & threw them vpon the people: callynge vpon ỹ Lord of lyfe & ſpyrete / to reward him this agayne / and ſo he dyed.

¶ Nicanor goeth aboute to come vpon Judas on the Sabboth daye. The blaſphemye of Nicanor. Machabeus expoundynge vnto the Jewes the vyſyon / boldeneth their hertes. The prayer of Machabeus. After the hoſte of Nicanor is ones ouercome / Machabeus commaundeth his heed and hys handes to be cut of / & his tonge to be geuen vnto fowles.

¶ The.xv. Chapter.

NOw when Nicanor knewe that Judas was in the countre of Samaria / he thought wyth all hys power to ſtryke a felde wyth hym vpon a Saboth daye. Neuertheleſſe the Jewes that were compelled to go wyth hym / ſayde: O do not ſo cruelly and vnkyndly / but halowe the Sabboth daye / and worſchyppe hym that ſeyth all thinges. For all thys / yet ſayde the vngracyous perſonne: Is there a myghtye one in heauen / that cōmaunded the Sabboth daye to be kepte? And when they ſayde: yee the lyuynge God / the myghtye Lorde in heauen commannded the ſeuenth daye to be kepte / he ſayde: And I am myghty vpon earth / to commaunde them for to arme them ſelues / and to perfourme the kynges buſyneſſe. Notwithſtandynge he myght not haue his purpoſe. 1. Mach. viij. d. 1. Reg. xx. c. Exo. xx. d

A Nicanor had deuyſed wyth greate pryde to ouercome Judas / and to bryngе awaye the victory. But Machabeus had euer a faſt confydence and a parfecte hope in God that he wolde helpe him / and exhorted his people / not to be afrayed at the cōmynge of the Heathen: but alwaye to remembre the helpe that had bene ſhewed vnto them from heauen / yee and to be ſure now alſo / that almyghtye God wolde geue them the victory. He ſpake vnto them out of the lawe and prophetes / putting thē in remembraūce of ỹ battayls / that they had ſtrycken afore / and made them to be of a good corage. B

So when their hartes were plucte vp / he ſhewed them alſo the diſceatfulneſſe of the Heathen / and how they wolde kepe no couenaunt nor othe. Thus he weapened thē not with the armoure of ſhylde and ſpeare / but with wholſome wordes and exhortacyōs. He ſhewed them a dreame alſo / wherthorow he made thē al glad / which was this: he thought that he ſawe Onias (whych had bene hye preſt / a bertuous and louynge man / ſad and of honeſt conuerſacyon / well ſpoken / & one that had bene exercyſed in Godlynes from a chylde) holdyng vp his handes towarde heauen / and prayenge for his people. After this there apeared vnto hym another mā / whych was aged / honorable and glorious. And Onias ſayde: This is a louer of the brethren / and of the people of Iſraell. This is he that prayeth moch for the people / and for all the holy cytie: Jeremy the prophete of God. He thought alſo ỹ Jeremy helde out hys ryght hande / and gaue hym (namely vnto Judas) a ſwearde of golde / ſayenge: Take this holy ſwearde / a gyfte from God / wherwith thou ſhalt ſmyte downe the enemyes of the people of Iſrael. C

And so they were well comforted thorow the wordes of Judas / and toke corage vnto them / so that the yonge men were determed in their myndes to fyght / and to byde stifly at it: In so moch that in the thynges whych they toke in hande / their boldnesse shewed ỹ same / because the holy cytie and the temple were in parell: for the which they toke more care / then for their wyues / chyldren / brethrē and kynsfolckes. Agayne / they that were in the cytye / were most carefull for those which were to fyght. Now when they were all in a hope that the iudgment of ỹ matter was at hand / and the enemyes drew nye / the host beynge set in araye / the Elephantes and horsmen euery one standynge in hys place: Machabeus consydered the commyng of ỹ multytude / the ordynaunce of dyuerse weapens / the crueltes of the beestes / & helde vp his handes towarde heauē / callyng vpō the Lorde that doth wonders / which geueth not the victory after the multytude of weapens and power of the host (but to them that please hym) accordynge to hys awne wyll. Therfore in his prayer he sayd these wordes.

ij. para. xiij. c
Judic. vij. b

O Lorde / thou that dyddest sende thyne Angell in the tyme of Ezechiah kyng of Juda / and in the hoste of Sennaherib slewest an hundreth and fyue and foure score thousand: sende now also thy good angell before vs (O Lorde of heauens) in the fearfulnesse and drede of thy myghtye arme / that they which come agaynst thy holy people to blaspheme thē / maye be afrayed. And so he made an ende of his wordes. Then Nicanor & they ỹ were with hym / drewe nye with shawmes and songes: but Judas & his company wyth prayer and callinge vpon God.

Wyth their handes they smote / but wyth their hertes they prayed vnto the Lorde / and slew no lesse then .xxxv. M. men: For thorow ỹ present helpe of God they were gloriously comforted.

Now when they left of / & were turnynge agayne with ioye / they vnderstode that Nicanor hym selfe was slayne wyth the other. Then they gaue a greate shoute and a crye / prayesynge the Almighty Lord with a loude voyce. And Judas (which was euer ready to spende his body and lyfe for his citesyns) cōmaunded to smyte of Nicanors head / wyth hys arme & hande / & to be brought to Ierusalem. When he came there / he called all the people / and the prestes at the aulter wyth those that were in the castell / and shewed thē Nicanors head / and his wycked hāde / which he had presumptuously holden vp agaynst ỹ temple of God. He caused the tonge also of ỹ vngodly Nicanor to be cut in lytle peces / & to be cast to the fowles / and the cruell mās hande to be hanged vp before the temple.

So euery man gaue thanckes vnto the Lorde / sayinge: blessed be he / that hath kepte hys place vndefyled.

As for Nicanors head / he hanged it vp vpon the hye castell / for an euydent & playne tokē of the helpe of God. And so they agreed all together / to kepe that daye holy / namely the .xiij. daye of the moneth Adar / which in the Syrians language is called the nexte daye before Mardocheus daye. Thus was Nicanor slayne / & from that tyme forth the Jewes had the cytie in possession: And here wyll I now make an ende.

¶ The. ij. Chapter.

WHen Jesus was borne at Bethleem in Jury/ in the tyme of Herode the kynge. Beholde ther came a* wyse men from the East to Jerusalem a *There were nother kynges nor princes/ but as Strabo saith (whych was in their tyme) sage men amonges Perciens as Moses was amonge the Hebrues/ he sayth also ye they were the prestes of ye Perciens.

sayinge: where is he that is borne kynge of Jewes? We haue sene hys starre in the East/ and are come to worshyp him.

When Herode the kynge had hearde this/ he was troubled/ & all Jerusalem with hym/ & he gathered all ye chefe Prestes & Scribes of the people/ & asked of them where Christ shulde be borne. And they sayde vnto hym: at Bethleem in Jewry. For thus it is wrytten by the Prophet. And thou Bethleem in the lande of Jewry/ art not the b* leest concernynge the Pynces of Juda. For out of the shal come the captayne/ that shall c* gouern my people Israel.

b *Understãde because Christ was born there Bethleem beto weneth ỹ Christe: which in the eyes of the worlde is lytell & vyle: but in̄ eyes of god is great & precious.

c *To gouerne is/ to order and rule the people by lernyng and example. Act. xx.f.a: Timot. v.a. where he speaketh of wedowes.

Then Herode preuely called the wyse mẽ B and dylygently enquyred of them/ the tyme of the starre that appered/ and sent them to Bethleem sayinge: Go and searche dylygẽtly for the chylde. And whẽ ye haue founde hym/ bringe me worde/ that I maye come and worshyppe hym also.

d *The Hebrues do ofte vse this worde worshippe for doyng reuerence wyth inclynacyon and bowyng of the bodye/ as ye haue. Ge. xxxiij. a & i. Reg. xx. g. &c

When they had heard the kynge/ they departed: and lo the starre whych they sawe in the Este wẽt before thẽ/ tyll it came & stode ouer the place where the chylde was. When they sawe the starre/ they were maruelously glad: and went into the house/ and found the chylde with Mary his mother/ & kneled doune and d* worshypped hym/ and opened their treasures/ and offered vnto hym gyftes/ gold franckynsence & myrre. And after they were warned of God in a dreame/ that they shuld not go agayne to Herode/ they returned into their awne countre another waye. ✠

When they were departed: behold the angell of ỹ Lord appered to Joseph in a dreame sayinge: aryse and take the chylde and hys mother/ and flye into Egypte/ & abyde there tyll I bringe the worde. For Herode wyll seke ỹ chylde to destroye hym. Then he arose and toke the chylde and hys mother by nyght and departed in to Egypte/ and was there vnto the deeth of Herod to fulfyll that which was spoken of the Lorde by the Prophet whych sayeth/ out of Egypte haue I called my sonne.

e *Of this is also mencion made in Macrobius/ in the seconde boke & fourt Chapt. of his saturnalies how Augustus Cesar/ hearing that Herode had lyke wise killed his awne sonne sayde: It is better to be Herodes swyne thã his sonne.

Then Herode perceauynge ỹ he was mocked of the wyse men was exceadinge wroth & sent forth and e* slue all the chyldren ỹ were in Bethleem/ and in all the costes there of/ as many as were two yere olde & vnder/ accordynge to the tyme which he had diligently searched oute of the wyse men.

f *That is because they were all put to death and remayned not vnto hir.

Then was fulfylled that whych was spoken by the Prophet Jeremy sayinge: On the hylles was a voyce hearde/ mourninge/ wepinge/ and greate lamentacyon: Rachel wepynge for her chyldren/ and wolde not be cõforted/ because they f* were not. ✠

D ✠ When Herode was deed: behold/ an angell of the Lorde appered in a dreame to Joseph in Egypte sayinge: aryse and take the chylde and his mother/ and go into the lande of Israel. For they are deed which sought the chyldes lyfe. Then he arose vp/ and toke the chylde and hys mother/ and came into the lande of Israel. But when he hearde that Archelaus dyd raygne in Jewry/ in the rowme of hys father Herode/ he was afrayde to go thither. Notwithstandynge after he was warned of God in a dreame he turned a syde into the parties of Galile/ and went & dwelt in a citie called Nazareth/ to fulfyll ỹ which was spoken by the Prophetes: he shalbe called a * Nazarite. ✠ Judi. xiij. a.

¶ Chryst fasteth and is tempted: he calleth Peter/ Andrew/ James/ and Jhon/ and healeth all the sycke.

¶ The.iiij. Chapter. ✠

A Jesus fasteth.

THen was Jesus led awaye of ỹ spirite into wyldernes/ to be tẽpted of the deuyll. And when he had fasted fourty dayes & fourty nyghtes/ he was afterward an hũgred. Then came to hĩ ỹ tẽpter/ & sayde: yf thou be the sonne of God commaunde ỹ these stones be made bred. He answered and sayde: it is wrytten/ man shall not lyue by bred onlye/ but by euery worde ỹ proceadeth out of the mouth of God.

Then the deuyll toke him vp into the holy citie/ & set him on a pinacle of the tẽple/ and sayde vnto hym: yf thou be the sonne of God/ cast thy selfe doune. For it is wrytte̅: he shall geue his angels charge ouer ỹ/ & wyth their handes they shall holde ỹ vp/ that thou dashe
B not thy fote agaynst a stone. And Jesus sayde
Deut.vi.c. to hym/ it is wrytten also: *Thou shalt not tempte thy Lorde God.

The deuyll toke hym vp agayne and ledde him in to an exceadynge hye mountayne/ and shewed him all the kingdomes of ỹ worlde/ & all the glorye of them/ and sayde to hym: all these wyll I geue the/ yf thou wilt fall doune
Dut.vi.c.x.f.d and worshipe me. Then sayde Jesus vnto him Auoyde Satan. For it is wrytte̅/ *thou shalt worshyp the Lorde thy God/ and hym only shalt thou serue.

Then the deuyll left hym/ and beholde/ the angels came and ministred vnto hym. ✠

✠ When Jesus had hearde that John was take̅/ he departed into Galile and left Nazareth/ & went & dwelt in Capernaum/ whych is a citie by̅ the see/ in the coostes of zabulo̅ & Nephtalim/ to fulfill ỹ which was spoken

From that tyme Jesus begãne to preache/ and to saye: a * repent/ for the kyngdome of heauen is at hande. ✠ a * To repent/ is/ to forthynck and to leue and chaunge their euell lyfe/ for ỹ loue of vertue & hate of synne. as in. Marc.i.b Actes.iij.d.

✠ As Jesus walked by the see of Galile he sawe two brethren: Simon whych was called Peter/ & Andrew his brother/ castinge a neet into the see/ for they were fischers/ and he sayde vnto the̅/ folowe me/ & I wyll make you fyschers of men. And they streyght waye lefte their nettes/ and folowed hym.

D And he went forth from thence/ and sawe other two brethren/ James the sonne of Zebede/ & John his brother/ in the shyppe wyth Zebede their father/ mẽdinge their nettes/ & called them. And they without taryinge lefte the shyp and their father and folowed him. ✠

✠ And Jesus went aboute all Galile/ teachyng in their synagoges/ & preachynge the b * gospell of ỹ kyngdome/ & healed all maner of sycknes/ and all maner dyseases amõge ỹ people. And his fame spreed abroode throughout all Syria. And they brought vnto him al sycke people that were take̅ with diuers dyseases and gripinges/ & them that were possessed with deuyls/ & those which were lunatyke/ & those that had the palsye: & he healed them. And ther folowed him a greate nõbre of people/ from Galile/ & from the ten cities and from Jerusale̅/ and from Jewry/ & from the regions that lye beyonde Jordan.

b * The gospel is an open shewyng and preachyng of ỹ grace and redempcio̅ obtayned & geuen thorow Chryst.

C Of Almes/prayer & fastynge. He forbyddeth the carefull seking of worldly thynges.

C The.vi. Chapter. ✠

Take hede to youre almes. That ye geue it not in the syght of men/ to the intent that ye wolde be sene of them. Or els ye get no rewarde of youre father which is in heauẽ. Whẽ soeuer therfore thou geuest thyne almes/ thou shalt not make a trõpet to be blowẽ before the as the ypocrites do in the synagoges & in the stretis/ for to be praysed of mẽ. Verely I say vnto you/ they haue their rewarde. But whẽ thou doest thine almes/ l* let not thy lyft hãd knowe what thy righte hand doth/ that thyne almes may be secret: and thy father whych seyth in secret/ shall rewarde the openly. ✠ a* By this sheweth oure sauiour Christ/ that he wylleth not vs to be esteamed or honoured of men for the gyfte: but yf it shulde suffyce vs that we be alowed of God.

b* Thãbre here signifieth a secret place separate from all worldly noyse/ where we go about soche thinges as we wold noman shulde know of/ as it is sayde Esay. xxvi. d. Soche a chambre mayst thou make of thyne awne hert/ ay there praye.

And when thou prayest/ thou shalt not be as the ypocrytes are. For they loue to stande & praye in the synagoges/ and in the corners of the stretes/ because they wold be sene of mẽ. Verely I saye vnto you/ they haue their rewarde. But whẽ thou prayest/ entre into thy b* chamber/ & shut thy dore to the/ & praye to thy father whych is in secrete: and thy father whych seyth in secret/ shall rewarde the openly.

And when

And when ye praye/ bable not moche/ as ỹ hethen do: for they thincke that they shalbe heard/ for their moche bablynges sake. Be ye not lyke them therfore. For youre father knoweth wherof ye haue neade before ye aske of hī. After this maner therfore praye ye.

O oure father which arte in heuen/ halowed be thy name. * That is that we which before haue serued the worlde/ here after may come vnder the dompynon and kyngdome of Christ/ as he promeseth Mathew. xxv. c. * Let thy kingdome come. Thy will be fulfylled/ as well in erth/ as it is in heuen. Geue vs this daye oure dayly bred. And forgeue vs oure treaspases/ euen as we forgeue oure trespacers. And leade vs not in to temptacion: but delyuer vs frō euyll. For thyne is the kyngedome & the power/ and the glorye for euer. Amen. For & yf ye shall forgeue other men their trespases/ youre heuēly father shall also forgeue you. But & ye wyll not forgeue mē their trespases/ no more shal youre father forgeue you youre trespases.

d. * By thys it appereth that the true fast is to put awaye attonce all wanton desyres and lustes. & ce. and to rule the bodye by coueniēt chastices mortifying/ as it is sayde in ỹ .xxviij. psal. xxxiij. c. & Esa. lviij. a.

† Moreouer when ye faste/ d * be not sad as the ypocrites are. For they disfigure their faces/ ỹ they myght belene of men how they faste. Verely I say vnto you/ they haue their rewarde. But thou/ when thou fastest/ annoynte thyne heed/ and washe thy face/ that it appere not vnto men howe ỹ thou fastest: but vnto thy father whych is in secrete: and thy father whych seyth in secrete/ shall rewarde the openly.

Treasure. Se that ye geather you not treasure vpon the erth/ where rust & moulthes corrupte/ & where theues breake through & steale. But geather ye treasures to gether in heuē where nether rust nor moulthes corrupte/ & where theues nether breake vp nor yet steale. For where soeuer youre treasure is/ there wyll youre hertes be also. ¶

e * The bodye here signifyeth the lyfe with ỹ workes/ & the eye sygnyfyeth the thought & entent. The light of the e * body is thyne eye. Two maisters. ¶ No man can serue two maisters. For either he shall hate ỹ one & loue ỹ other: or els he shall leane to the one & despise ỹ other: ye cannot serue God & Mammon. Therfore I saye vnto you/ be not carefull for youre lyfe/ what ye shall eate/ or what ye shall drincke/ nor yet for youre body/ what ye shall put on. Is not the lyfe more worth then meat/ & the body more of value then rayment? Beholde Foules. the foules of the ayer: for they sowe not/ nether reepe/ nor yet cary into the barnes: and yet youre heuenly father fedeth them. Are ye not moche better then they.

Which of you (though he toke thought therfore) coulde put one cubit vnto hys stature? And why care ye then for raymēt? Con-

Lylyes. syder the lylies of the felde/ how they growe. They labour not nether spynne. And yet for all that I saye vnto you/ that euen Salomō in all hys royalte was not arayed lyke vnto one of these. Wherfore yf God so clothe the grasse/ which is to daye in the felde/ & tomorowe shalbe caste into the fournace/ shall he not moche more do the same vnto you/ O ye of lytle fayth?

f * It is cōmaunded vs the swet of oure face to winne our bred/ that trauayle must we dayly/ dilygently & cr-nestly do: but not be carefull what proffet shall come vnto vs therof/ for that were to care for to morow: we must therfore cōmyt that to God/ which is readye to prospere oure laboures wyth his blessyng/ and that aboundauntly/ so that most shall we proffet when we are lest carefull.

Therfore take no thought sayinge: what shall we eate/ or what shall we drincke/ or wherwith shall we be clothed? After all these thinges seke ỹ gentyls. For youre heuēly father knoweth that ye haue neade of all these thinges. But rather seke ye fyrst ỹ kingdome of heuen & the rightwisnes therof/ & all these thinges shalbe mynistred vnto you ¶

f * Care not then for the morow/ but let the morow care for it selfe: for the daye present hath euer ynough of his awne trauayle.

The forbiddeth foolysh & temerarious iudgement/ reproueth ypocrysye/ exhorteth vnto prayer/ warneth to beware of false prophetes/ & so concludeth his sermon.

The .vij. Chapter.

Iudge not/ ỹ ye be not iudged. For as ye iudge so shall ye be iudged. And with what mesure ye mete/ it the same shall it be mesured to you agayne. Why seyst thou a moote in thy brothers eye/ & perceauest not ỹ beame that is in thyne awne eye. Or why sayest thou to thy brother: suffre me to plucke oute the moote oute of thyne eye/ & beholde a beame is in thyne awne eye. Ypocryte/ fyrst caste oute ỹ beame oute of thyne awne eye/ & then shalt thou se clearly to plucke oute ỹ moote out of thy brothers eye.

Aske and it shalbe geuen you. Seke & ye shall fynd. Knocke and it shalbe opened vnto you. For whosoeuer asketh receaueth/ & he that seketh findeth and to him that knocketh it shalbe opened. Is there any mā amōge you which yf his sonne asked him bred/ wolde offer him a stone? Or yf he asked fysshe/ wolde he proffer hym a serpent? If ye then whych are euyll can geue to youre chyldren good gyftes how moche more shall youre father whych is in heuen geue good thynges to thē that aske hym?

Verely I saye vnto you/ỹ many pzophetes/and perfayt men haue desyzed to se those thynges which ye se/ & haue not sene thē: & to heare those thynges which ye heare/& haue not herde thē. Heare ye therfoze the symlitude of ỹ sower. Whosoeuer heareth the wozde of the b * kyngdom & vnderstandeth it not/ther cometh ỹ euyll man & catcheth awaye ỹ whych was sowne in his hert. And this is he which was sowne by the waye syde. But he that was sowne in the stony grounde/is he whych heareth the wozde of God/and anone wyth ioye receaueth it/yet hath he no rotes in him selfe/and therfoze dureth but a season: foz as sone as trybulacyon oz persecucion aryseth because of the wozde/by & by he falleth. He that was sowne amonge thoznes/is he that heareth ỹ wozde of God: but the care of this wozlde/& the dissaytfulnes of ryches choke the wozde/ and so is he made vnfrutefull. He whych is sowne in the good grounde is he that heareth the wozde and vnderstandeth it: whych also bereth frute and bzyngeth fozth/some an hundzed folde/some syrtye folde/and some thirtye folde.

b * Kyngedom signyfieth here the gospell: by whych God raigneth in the hertes of the faythfull: & the same signifieth Christ whych is oure kynge & oure kyngdō/ raigning in vs/ and in whome we raygne as we pzaye. Mat. vi. b.

Another symilitude put he fozth vnto thē sayinge: ✠ The kyngdome of heauen is lyke vnto a mā which sowed good seed in his feld. D But whyll men c * slept there came hys foo & sowed tares amonge the wheate/& went hys waye. When the blade was spzonge vp and had bzought fozth frute/then appered the tares also. Then came the seruauntes to the housholder/and sayde vnto him: Syz sowedest not thou good seed in thy closse/frō whēce then hath it tares? He sayde to thē: the enuious mā hath done this. Then the seruaūtes sayde vnto him: wylt thou then that we go & wede them oute? But he sayd/nay/lest whill ye go aboute to wede out ỹ tares/ye plucke vppe also with them the wheate by ỹ rottes: let bothe growe to gether tyll haruest come/ and in tyme of haruest/I wyll saye to the repers/gather ye fyzst the tares/and bynde thē in sheues to be bzent: but gather the wheete into my barne. ✠

c * This slepe signifieth/the negligence and ignozance that men haue of God/whych cōmeth by the carefulnes of ryches & pleasures of thys wozlde.

✠ Another parable he put fozth vnto them sayinge: The kyngdome of heauē is lyke vnto a grayne of mustard seed/which a man taketh and soweth in his felde/which is ỹ leest of all seedes. But when it is growne/it is ỹ greatest amonge yerbes/and it is a tree: so ỹ the bzyddes of the ayer come and bylde in the bzaunches of it. Marci.iiij.d.

Another symylitude sayde he to them. The E kyngdome of heauē is lyke vnto leuē which a woman taketh and hydeth in.iij. peckes of of meele/tyll all be leuended.

All these thinges spake Jesus vnto ỹ people by symilitudes/& with oute similitudes spake he nothynge to thē/to fulfyll ỹ which was spoken by the Pzophet saying: * I wyll open my mouth in symilitudz/& wyll speake fozth thynges which haue bene kepte secrete from the begynnynge of the wozlde. ✠ Marci.iiij.c. Psal.lxxviij.a

✠ Then sent Jesus the people awaye/& came home. And hys dyscyples came vnto hym/sayinge: declare vnto vs the symilitude of the tares of the felde. Then answered he & sayd to them. He that soweth the good seed is the sonne of mā. And the felde is ỹ wozlde. Tares are expounded.

And

And the chyldren of the kyngdome / they are the good seed. And the tares are the chyldren of the wycked. And the enemye that soweth them / is the deuyll. The haruest is the ende of the worlde. And the repers be the Angels. For euen as the tares are gathered & brent in the fyre: so shall it be in the ende of thys worlde. *The sonne of man shall sende forth Apoca. xiiij. c. his Angels / and they shall gather out of his kyngdome all thynges that offende / and thē which do iniquite / and shall cast them into a furnes of fyre. There shalbe waylinge and Sapien. iiij. gnasshyng of teth. *Then shall the iuste men shine as bryght as the sonne in the kyngdom of their father. Whosoeuer hath eares to hear re / let him heare. ✠ ✠ Agayne the kyngdom of heauen is lyke vnto treasure hydde in the felde / the whych a man fyndeth and hydeth: and for ioye therof goeth & selleth all ỹ he hath / & byeth ỹ felde.

Agayne the kyngdome of heauē is lyke to a marchaūt that seketh good pearles / which whē he had founde one precious pearle / wēt and solde all that he had / and bought it.

Agayne the kyngdom of heauē is lyke vnto a neet cast in to the see / ỹ geathereth of all kyndes of fysshes: which when it is full / men drawe to lande / & sytte & geather ỹ good in G to vessels / & cast the bad awaye. So shall it be at the ende of ỹ worlde. The Angels shall come oute & seuer the bad from the good / & shall cast thē into a furnes of fyre: there shal be waylinge and gnasshinge of teth.

Jesus sayde vnto them. Understāde ye all these thynges? They sayde: ye Lorde. Then sayde he vnto them: Therfore euery d* Scribe which is taught vnto the kyngedome of heauen is lyke an housholder / which bryngeth forth / out of his treasure / thinges bothe new and olde. ✠

And it came to passe whē Jesus had fynished these similitudes / ỹ he departed thence / & came in to his awne countre / & taught thē in their synagoges / in so moche ỹ they were astonyed and sayde: whence cometh all thys wysdome & power vnto him? Is not this the Carpenters sonne? Is not his mother called Mary? and hys brethren be called James & Joses and Simon and Judas? And are not his systers all herewith vs? Whence hath he all these thynges. And they were offended by hym. Then Jesus sayde to them / a Prophete is not wythout honoure / saue in hys awne countre / and amonge hys awne kynne. Luke.xix.g. And as he sat vpō the moūt Oliuete/hys disciples came vnto him secretly sayīg. Tell vs when these thynges shalbe: & what sygne shalbe of thy cōmyng & of ỹ ende of ỹ worlde? Ephe.v.b And Iesus answered & sayd vnto thē: *take hede ỹ no man deceaue you. For many shall come in my name sayinge: I am Christ: and shall deceaue many. Ye shall heare of warrs/ & of the fame of warres: but se that ye be not troubled. For all these thynges must come to passe/but the ende is not yet. For nacīō shall ryse agaynst nacyō/and realme agaynst realme: and ther shalbe pestilence/honger and erthquakes in all quarters. All these are the begynnynge of sorowes.

Then shall they put you to trouble/ & shall kyll you: & ye shalbe hated of all nacions for my names sake. And then shall many be offended/ & shall betraye one another/ & shall hate one ỹ other. And many false prophetes shall aryse/and shall deceaue many. And because iniquite shall haue the vpper hand/ ỹ loue of many shall abate. But he that endureth to ỹ ende/the same shalbe safe. And this B glad tydynges of the kyngdome shalbe preached in all the worlde/ for a wytnes vnto all nacyons: and then shall the ende come.

But praye that youre flight be not in ỹ a* winter/nether on ỹ Saboth daye. For then shalbe great tribulacīō/ suche as was not from the beginning of the worlde to this tyme/nor shalbe. Ye & except those dayes shuld be shortened/there shulde b* no flesshe be saued: but for the chosens sake/those dayes shalbe shortened.

Then yf eny man shall saye vnto you: lo/ here is Christ/or there is Christ: beleue it not. For there shall aryse false Christes/ & false prophetes/ & shall do great miracles & wonders. In so moche that yf it were possible/the verie electe shuld be deceaued. Take hede/ I haue tolde you before. And there gadered to geder vnto him moche people / so greatly ỹ he entred into a ship / & sate in the see / & all the people was by the see syde on ỹ shoore. And he taught thē many thinges in similitudes & sayde vnto them in his doctrine. Herken to: beholde / there wēt out a sower to sowe. And it fortuned as he sowed / ỹ some fell by ỹ waye syde / & the fowles of the ayre came & deuoured it vp. Some fell on stony groūde where it had not moche erth: & by & by sprāge vp / because it had not deepth of erth: but as sone as the sunne was vp it caught heet / and because it had not rotynge / wyddred awaye.

a * Unto you: ỹ is / vnto you which are without deceyte and are not curious ner trust in any thinge that pertayneth to man / is it geuē of my father of hys mercyfull goodnes to knowe the mystery (ỹ is ỹ secrete) of ỹ kingedome of God: that is of the Gospell / in whych is taught ỹ kyngdome of God / whych is oure ryghteousnes peace and ioye in the holy ghoost. Roma. x. which is ỹ kyngedome of all mercy / & the kyngedome of forgeuenes of synnes for Thristes sake. But vnto them that are without: ỹ is / vnto soche as be curious & trust more in their awne workes then in the ryghteousnes of Thryst / are all thinges spoken in parables / ỹ is / all that they here is euen as obscure & darcke vnto thē / as though they were in dede parables: whych thynge God therfore forfreth to be done / ỹ when they se / they shall se & not decerne &c / as it folowethy in the text.

And some fell amonge the thornes / and the thornes grewe vp and choked it / so that it gaue no frute. And some fell vpon good grounde / and dyd yelde frute that sprong and grewe / and brought forthe: some thyrty folde some syxtye folde / and some an hundred folde. And he sayde vnto thē: he that hath eares to heare / let hym heare. ✠

And when he was alone / they that were aboute him with the. xij. asked him of ỹ similitude. And he sayde vnto them. To a *you is it geuē to knowe ỹ mistery of the kingdome of God. But vnto them ỹ are with out / shall all thinges be done in similitudes: ỹ whē they se they shall se / & not discerne: & whē they heare they shal heare / & not vnderstāde: leste at any tyme they shulde tourne / & their synnes shuld be forgeuen thē. And he sayde vnto them: perceaue ye not this similitude? how then shuld ye vnderstande all other symylytudes.

The sower soweth the worde. And they ỹ are by the wayes syde / where the worde is sowen / are they to whom assone as they haue herde it / Satā cometh immediatly / & taketh awaye ỹ worde ỹ was sowen in their hertes. And likewyse they that are sowen on the stonye grounde / are they: which when they haue heard ỹ worde / atonce receaue it with gladnes / yet haue no rotes in thē selues / & so endure but a tyme: & anone as trouble & persecucion aryseth for the wordes sake / they fall immediatly. And they that are sowen amōge the thornes / are soche as heare ỹ worde: & the care of this worlde & the disceytfulnes of ryches and the lustes of other thinges / entre in & choocke the worde / & it is made vnfrutfull And those that weare sowed in good groūde / are they that heare the worde and receaue it / & bringe forth frute / some thirty folde some syxty folde / some an hundred folde.

And he sayde vnto thē: is the cādle lyghted to be put vnder a bushell / or vnder the table / & not rather to be put on a candelstick? For there is nothynge so preuy / that shall not be opened: nether so secreet / but that it shall come abroade. If eny man haue eares to heare let hym heare. And he sayde vnto them: take hede what ye heare. Wyth what measure ye mete / with the same shal it be measured vnto you agayne. And vnto you that heare / shall more be geuē. For *vnto him that hath / shall it be geuen: & from him that hath not / shalbe taken awaye / euen that he hath.

For the erth bringeth forth frute of her selfe: first the blade / then the eares / after that full corne in the eares. And assone as ỹ frute is brought forth / anone he thrusteth in the sykell / because the heruest is come.

And he sayde: where vnto shall we lyken the kyngdome of God? or with what cōparison shall we cōpare it? It is lyke a grayne of mustardseed / whych when it is sowen in the erth / is the leest of all seedes that be in ỹ erth: but after that it is sowen / it groweth vp / and is greatest of all yerbes: and bereth greate braunches / so that ỹ fowles of the ayre maye dwell vnder the shadowe of it.

And with many soche similitudes he preached the worde vnto thē / after as they myght heare it. And without similitude spake he no thynge vnto them. But when they were a parte / he expounded all thynges to hys disciples. And the same daye when euen was come / he sayde vnto them: let vs passe ouer vnto the other syde. Wherfore he sayde vnto thē: take hede/ & beware of couetousnes. *For no mannes lyfe standeth in the aboundaunce of the thynges which he possesseth. And he put forth a symylitude vnto thē saying: The grounde of a certayne ryche man brought forth frutes plenteously/ and he thought in hym selfe saying: what shall I do? because I haue no roume where to bestowe my frutes? And he sayde: This will I do. I wyll destroye my barnes/ & bylde greater/ & therin wyll I gadder all my frutes/ & my goodes: and I wyll saye to my soule: Soule thou hast moche goodes layde vp in stooze for many yeares/ take thyne ease: eate/ drincke/ & be mery. But God sayde vnto him: Thou fole/ this night will they fetche awaye thy soule agayne frō the. Then whose shall those thinges be which thou hast prouided? And he spake vnto hys disciples: Therfore I saye vnto you: Take no thought for youre lyfe/ what ye shall eate: nether for youre body/ what ye shall put on. ¶ The. xiij. Chapter.

AThere were present at ỹ same season that shewed him of the Galileans/ whose bloude Pylate mēgled with their awne sacrifyce. And Jesus answered/ & sayde vnto them: Suppose ye ỹ these Galileans were greater synners then all the other Galileans/ because they suffred suche punyshment? I tell you naye: but except ye repent/ ye shall all like wyse perysshe Or those. xviij. vpon which the toure in Syloe fell/ & slewe thē/ thinke ye that they were synners aboue all mē that dwel in Jerusalē? I tell you naye: But excepte ye repent/ ye all shall lyke wyse perysshe.

BAnd he put forthe this similitude: a certayne mā had a fygge tree planted in his vyneyarde & he came & sought frute theron/ and founde none. Then sayde he to the dresser of hys vyneyarde: beholde/ this thre yeare haue I come & sought frute in this fygge tree/ & fynde none: cut it doune: why combreth it ỹ grounde: and he answered & sayde vnto hym: Lorde let it alone this yeare also/ tyll I dygge rounde aboute it/ & donge it/ to se whether it will beare frute: & yf it beare not then/ after ỹ /cut it doune. And he taught in one of their synagoges on the Saboth dayes. And beholde ther was a woman which had a spryte of infirmite. xviij. yeares: & was bowed together & coulde not lyfte vp her selfe at all. When ¶ Jesus sawe her/ he called her to him/ & sayde to her: woman thou arte delyuered from thy dysease. And he layde hys handes on her/ and immediatly she was straught/ and glorifyed God. And ỹ ruler of the synagoge answered wyth indignacyon (because that Jesus had healed on the Saboth daye) and sayde vnto ỹ people. Ther are syx dayes in whych men ought to worke: in them come and be healed/ and not on the Saboth daye.

Then answered hym the Lorde/ and sayd: Math. xij. a. Luke. xiij. a. *ypocryte/ doth not eache one of you on the Saboth daye/ lowse his oxe or his asse from the stall/ & leade him to ỹ water? And ought not thys daughter of Abraham/ whom Satan hath bounde lo. xviij. yeares/ be lowsed frō this bonde on ỹ Saboth daye? And when he thus sayde/ all his aduersaries were ashamed/ and all the people reioysed on all the excellent dedes/ that were done by him. ✠

Then sayde he: what is the kyngedome of God lyke? or wherto shall I cōpare it? It is lyke a grayne of mustard seede/ whych a mā toke and sowed in his garden: and it grewe & wexed a greate tree/ and the foules of ỹ ayer made nestes in the braunches of it.

And agayne he sayde: whervnto shall I lyken the kyngdome of God? it is lyke leuen/ which a woman toke/ and hydde in thre bushels of floure/ tyll all was thorow leuended. And he went thorow all maner of cyties and tounes teachinge/ and iorneyinge towardes Jerusalem. Then sayde one vnto him: Lorde/ are ther feawe ỹ shalbe saued? And he sayde vnto thē: stryue w̄ youre selues to enter in at the strayte gate: for many I saye vnto you/ will seke to enter in/ and shall not be able.

*When the good mā of the house is rysen vp/ and hath shet to the dore/ ye shalle beginne to stande without/ & to knocke at ỹ dore sayinge Lorde Lorde/ open vnto vs: and he shall answer & saye vnto you: I knowe you not whēce ye are. Then shal ye begin to saye: we haue eaten in thy presence & droncke/ & thou hast taught in oure stretes. And he shall saye: I tell you I knowe you not whence ye are: departe from me all ye workers of iniquite. There shalbe wepinge & gnasshinge of teth/ when ye shall se Abraham and Isaac & Iacob/ and all the Prophetes in the kyngdome of God/ & youre selues thrust oute at dores. And they shall come from the east & from the weest & frō the northe & from the southe/ and shall syt doune in the kyngdome of God. And beholde/ there are last/ whych shalbe fyrst: And ther are fyrst which shalbe last.

* When the couenaūt made in the bloude of Christ is blynded/ then men payne them selues with holy workes/ trustinge therby to enter/ but all in vayne.

The same daye there came certayne of ỹ Pharises and sayd vnto him: get ỹ out of the waye/ and departe hence: for Herode will kyll the. And he sayd vnto them. Go ye and tell yͤ fore/ beholde I cast oute deuyls and heale ỹ people to daye and to morowe/ and ỹ thyrd daye I make an ende. Neuertheles/ I must walke to daye and to morowe/ & the daye folowinge: for it can not be/ that a Prophet perisshe eny other where/ saue at Jerusalem.

*O Jerusalem/ Jerusalem/ which killest Prophetes/ & stonest thē that are sent to the: how often wolde I haue gathered thy childrē together/ as the hen gathered her nest vnder her wynges/ but ye wold not. Beholde youre habitacion shalbe left vnto you desolate. For I tell you/ ye shall not se me vntyll the tyme come that ye shall saye/ blessed is he that cōmeth in the name of the Lorde. A And he put forth a symilitude vnto thē, sygnifyenge that men ought al wayes to praye and not to be wery, ... sayinge: There was a Iudge in a certayne cytie, which feared not God neither regarded man. Then sayde they that herde that. And who shall then be saued? And he sayde: Thynges whiche are vnpossyble with men are possyble with God.

F Then Peter sayde: Lo we haue lefte all, & haue folowed the. And he saide vnto them: Verely I saye vnto you, ther is no man that leaueth house, other father & mother, other brethren, or wyfe, or chyldren for the kyngedome of Goddes sake, whiche same shall not receyue muche more in this worlde: and in the worlde to come, lyfe euerlastinge. Math.xxvi.a. Marc.xiiij.a. THe feast of swete breed drue nye whych is called ester/ and the hye Prestes & Scribes sought how to kyll him/but they feared ỹ people. Math.xxvi.b. Marc.xiiij.a. *Then came the daye of swete breed/whẽ of necessyte the esterlambe must be offered. And he sent Peter & John sayinge: go & prepare vs the esterlãbe/ ỹ we maye eate. They sayde to him. Where wilt thou/that we prepare? And he sayde vnto thẽ. Beholde whẽ ye

And assone as it was daye ỹ elders of the people and the hye Prestes and Scribes/ came to gether/ & ledde him into their counsell sayinge: arte thou very Christ? tell vs. And he sayde vnto them: yf I shall tell you/ ye wyll not beleue. A Matth.xxvij.a. Marc.xv.a. Joh.xviij.e.

And ỹ whole multitude of thē arose/ & ledde him vnto Pilate. And they begāne to accuse hym sayinge: we haue founde thys felowe peruertinge the people/ and forbyddynge to paye tribute to Cesar: sayinge/ that he is Christ a kynge. And Pylate appoled him sayinge: arte thou ỹ kynge of the Jewes? He answered him and sayde: thou sayest it. Then sayde Pilate to the hye Prestes/ and to the people: I fynde no faute in this man. And they were ỹ moore fearce sayinge. He moueth ỹ people/ teachynge thorow out Jewry/ and begynne at Galile/ euen to this place.

When Pylate herde mencion of Galile he asked whether the mā were of Galile. And assone as he knewe that he was of Herodes iurisdicciō he sent him to Herode/ which was also at Jerusalem in those dayes. And when Herode sawe Jesus/ he was exceedinglie glad B For he was desyrous to se him of a lōge season/ because he had herde many thynges of hym/ and trusted to haue sene some myracle done by him. Then questioned he with hym of many thynges. But he answered hym not one worde. The hye Prestes and Scrybes/ stode forth and accused him straytly. And He rod with his men of warre/ despised him/ and mocked him/ and arayed hym in whyte/ and sent him agayne to Pylate. *And ỹ same daye Act.iij.c. Pylate and Herod were made frendes to gether. For before they were at variayance.

And Pylate called to gether ỹ hye Prestes and the rulers/ & the people/ and sayde vnto them: ye haue brought this man vnto me/ as one that peruerted the people. And beholde I C haue examined him before you/ & haue foūde no faute in this man/ of those thinges where of ye accuse him. No nor yet Herode. For I sent you to hym: and lo nothinge worthy of deeth is done to him. I will therfore chasten him/ & let hī louse. *For of necessite/ he must haue let one louse vnto them at that feast. And ꝑ rulers mocked him with thē saying he holpe other men/let hym helpe him selfe/ yf he be Christ ꝑ chosen of God. The soudiers also mocked him/and came and gaue him ve neger and sayde: yf thou be that kynge of the Jewes saue thy selfe. And hys superscripciō was written ouer him/in Greke/in Latin/ &

We are righteously punished/for we receaue accordynge to oure dedes: But thys man hath done nothinge amysse. And he sayd vnto Jesus: Lorde remēber me when thou comest into thy kyngdome. And beholde ther was a man named Joseph/a councellour/and was a good mā and a iuste/ & did not consent to the coūsell & dede of them/which was of Aramathia/a citie of the Jewes: whych same also wayted for the kyngdome of God: he went vnto Pylate and begged ꝑ body of Jesus/ & toke it doune/ & wrapped it in a lynnē clooth/ & layed it in an hewē toūbe/ wherin was neuer man before layed. ✠ And beholde/ two of them went that same daye to a toune whych was from Jerusalem about thre scooze forlonges/called Emaus:and they talked to gether of all these thynges that had happened. And it chaunsed/as they commened to gether and reasoned/that Jesus him selfe drue neare/& went wyth them. But their eyes were holden/that they coulde not knowe hym. And he sayde vnto them: What maner of communicacios are these that ye haue one to another as ye walke/ and are sadde? And the one of them named Cleophas/answered and sayde vnto hym: arte thou only a straunger in Jerusalem/and haste not knowen ỹ thynges whych haue chaunsed therin in these dayes? To whom he sayd:what thynges?

And they sayd vnto him:of Jesus of Nazareth whych was a Prophet/myghtye in dede and worde before God/ and all the people. And how the hye Prestes / and oure rulers delyuered hym to be condempned to deeth: and haue crucyfyed hym. But we trusted that it shuld haue bene he that shuld haue delyuered Israel. Ye and certayne wemen also of oure company made vs astonyed / whych came erly vnto the sepulchre/and founde not hys body: and came sayinge/ that they had sene a vision of angels/whych sayde that he was alyue. And certayne of them whych were wyth vs / went their waye to the sepulchre / and founde it euen so as the wemen had sayde: but hym they sawe not.

And he sayde vnto them: O foles and slowe of herte to beleue all that the Prophetes haue spoken. Ought not Christ to haue suffred these thynges/and to enter into hys glory? And he began at Moses/ and at all the Prophetes/and interpreted vnto them in all scryptures whych were wrytten of him. And they drue nye vnto the toune which they wēt to. And he made as though he wolde haue gone further. But they constrayned hym sayinge/ abyde wyth vs / for it draweth towardes nyght/and the daye is farre passed. And he went in/to tary wyth them.

And it came to passe as he sate at meate wyth them/ he toke breed/ blessed it/brake & gaue to them. And their eyes were opened & they knewe hym: and he vanysshed out of their syght. And they sayde betwene them selues: dyd not oure hertes burne wyth in vs/ whyll he talked wyth vs by ỹ waye/ and as he opened to vs the scryptures? And they roose vp the same houre/ & returned agayne to Jerusalem/ and founde the eleuen gathered to gether/and them that were with them whych sayde: the Lorde is rysen in dede/ and hath apered to Simon. And they tolde what thinges was done in the waye/and how they knewe him in breakynge of breed. ✠

As they thus spake ✠ Jesus hym selfe stode in the mydes of them/ and sayde vnto them:peace be with you. And they were abasshed and afrayde/ supposynge that they had sene a spyrite. And he toke it/and ate it before them.

And he sayde vnto them. These are the wordes which I spake vnto you whyl I was yet with you:that al must be fulfylled which were wrytten of me in the lawe of Moses and in the Prophetes/ and in the Psalmes: * Then opened he their wyttes/ that they myght vnderstand the scryptures/and sayde vnto them: Thus is it wrytten/ and thus it behoued Christ to suffre/ and to ryse agayne from deeth the thyrde daye / and that repentaūce and remission of synnes shuld be preached in his name amonge all nacyons/ ✠ & must be begynne at Jerusalem. And ye are wytnesses of these thynges. And beholde/ I wyll sende the promes of my father vpō you. *But tary ye in the citie of Jerusalē/ vntyll ye be endewed with power from an hye.

And he ledde them out into Bethany/and lyfte vp his handes and blessed them. *And it cam to passe/as he blessed them/he departed from thē/ and was caryed vp into heuen. And they worshipped him/and returned to Jerusalem wyth greate ioye/& were cōtinually in ỹ tēple prayinge & laudinge God: Amen.

Here endeth the Gospell of Sayncte Luke.

¶ The Gospell of Sayncte Johyn.

¶ The enerlastyng byrth of Christ/and how he became man. The testimony of Jhon. The callynge of Andrew/Peter.&c.

¶ The fyrst Chapter. ✠

IN the begynnynge was the worde/ & the worde was with God: and the worde was God. The same was in the begynnynge wyth God. All thynges were made by it/ and wythout it/ was made nothynge that was made. In it was lyfe/ & the lyfe was the lyght of men/ & a *the lyght shyneth in ỳ darckenes but the darckenes comprehended it not.

a *The lyght shyneth in the darckenes &c. By the light is vnderstande Christ & by the darckenes vngodlye vnbeleuinge me, amõg whome Christ came & they receaued him not as Ephe.iiij.d

There was a man sent from God/ whose name was Johyn. The same cam as a witnes to beare wytnes of the lyght/ that all men thrOugh him myght beleue. He was not that lyght: but to beare witnes of the lyght. That was a true lyght whych lyghteth all mẽ that come into the worlde. He was in the worlde/ and the worlde was made by hym: and yet b *the worlde knewe hym not.

b *The worlde knewe him not The worlde is here taken for the people of the worlde/as after in the.vii.a.and Mar.xvi.c.

He cam amonge hys awne/and hys awne receaued hym not. But as many as receaued hym/ to them he gaue power to be the sonnes of God in that they beleued on hys name: whych were borne/not of bloude nor of the wyll of the flesche/ nor yet of the will of man: but of God.

And the worde was made flesche and dwelt amonge vs/ and we sawe the glory of it/ as the glory of the only begotten sonne of the father/ whych worde was full of grace and verite. ✠

✠ Johyn bare wytnes of hym and cryed sayinge: This was he of whome I spake/he that cometh after me/ was before me/ because he was yer then I. And of hys fulnes haue al we receaued/euen c *(grace) for grace. For the lawe was geuen by Moses/ but grace and truthe came by Jesus Christ.

c *Grace for grace By grace vnderstande fauour. The meanynge is/ for the fauoure that God the father hath to hys sonne Christ hath he receaued vs in to fauoure: so ỳ as Christ is beloued of hys father/ euen so are we beloued for hys sake as Rom.v.c.

d *No man hath sene God at eny tyme. The only begotten sonne/ which is in the bosome of the father/ he hath declared him. ✠

d *No mã hath sene God at any tyme &c. There can no bodely eye beholde the maiestie of god in his excellent nature as he is D as we haue declared in Exod. xxxiii. d.

✠ And this is the recorde of Johyn: when the Jewes sent Prestes and Leuites frõ Jerusalem/ to aske hym/ what arte thou? And he confessed and denyed not & sayde playnly: I am not Christ. And they asked hym: what then? arte thou Helyas? And he sayde: I am not. Arte thou ỳ Prophete? And he answered no. Then sayd they vnto him: what arte thou that we maye geue an answer to them that sent vs: What sayest thou of thy selfe? He sayde: I am ỳ e *voyce of a cryar in ỳ wildernes/ make straight the waye of the Lorde/ as sayde the Prophete Esaias.

e *Voyce. that is/ I am that I preache I am sent to proue you synners & to crye on you to amende/ that ye maye receaue Christ and hys grace.

And they whych were sent/ were of the Pharyses. And they asked hym/ and sayde vnto him: why baptisest thou then yf thou be not Christ/ nor Helyas/ nether a Prophet? Johyn answered thẽ sayinge: I baptyse wyth water: but one is come amonge you/ whom ye knowe not/ he it is that cometh after me/ whiche was before me/ whose sho latchet I am not worthy to vnlose. These thynges were done in Bethabara beyonde Jordã where Johyn dyd baptise. ✠

✠ The nexte daye Johyn sawe Jesus commynge vnto him/ and sayde: beholde ỳ lambe of God/ which taketh awaye the synne of the worlde. This is he of whom I sayd. After me cometh a man/ whych was before me/ for he was yer then I/ and I knew him not: but that he shuld be declared to Israel/ therfore am I come baptysinge wyth water.

And Johyn bare recorde sayinge: I sawe ỳ spyrete descende from heuen/ like vnto a doue and abyde vpon him/ and I knewe hym not. But he that sent me to baptise in water/ the same sayde vnto me: *vpon whom thou shalt se the spyrete descende and tary styll on hym/ the same is he which baptiseth with the holy goost. And I sawe and bare recorde that this is the sonne of God. ✠ Math.iij.d. Mark.i.b. Luke.iij.d

The nexte daye after/ Johyn stode agayne/ and two of hys disciples. And he beheldе Jesus as he walked by/ and sayde: beholde the lambe of God. And the two dysciples hearde hym speake and folowed Jesus. And Jesus ✠ turned about/ and sawe them folowe/ & sayd vnto thẽ: what seke ye? They sayd vnto him: Rabbi (which is to saye by interpretacyon/ Master) where dwellest thou? He sayde vnto them: come and se. They came & sawe where he dwelt: and abode with him that daye. For it was about the tenth houre.

One of ỹ two which hearde John speake and folowed Jesus / was Andrew Simon Peters brother. The same foũde hys brother Simon fyrst/and sayde vnto hym: we haue founde Messias/which is by interpretacyō/ annoynted:and brought hym to Jesus. And Jesus beheldе him and sayde: thou arte Simon the sonne of Jonas/thou shalt be called Cephas:which is by interpretacion/a stone.

The daye folowyng Jesus wolde go into Galile/ & founde Philip/ and sayd vnto him/ folowe me.Philip was of Bethsaida ỹ citie of Andrew and Peter. And Philip founde Nathanael/ and sayde vnto hym. We haue founde hym of whome Moses in the lawe/ and the Prophetes dyd wryte.Jesus ỹ sonne of Joseph of Nazareth.And Nathanael sayd vnto hym: can there eny good thynge come oute of Nazareth?Philip sayde to him:come and se.

G Jesus sawe Nathanael compynge to hym/ and sayde of him.Beholde a ryght Israelyte/ in whom is no gyle. Nathanael sayde vnto hym: where knewest thou me? Jesus answered/and sayde vnto him:Before that Philip called the/when thou wast vnder ỹ fygge tree/ I sawe the. Nathanael answered and sayd vnto him:Rabbi/ thou arte the sonne of God/thou arte ỹ kyng of Israel. Jesus answered and sayde vnto him:Because I sayde vnto the/I sawe the vnder ỹ fygge tree/thou beleuest.Thou shalt se greater thinges then these.And he sayde vnto him:Verely/verely/ I saye vnto you: herafter shall ye see heuen open/and the angels of God ascendynge and descendynge ouer the sonne of man.

¶ Christ turneth the water vnto wyne/and dryueth ỹ byers & sellers out of the temple.

¶ The.ij.Chapter.

A Nd the thyrde daye/was ther a mariage in Cana a citie of Galile: & the mother of Jesus was there. And Jesus was called also and his disciples vnto the mariage. And when the wyne fayled/the mother of Jesus sayde vnto him:they haue no wyne.Jesus sayd vnto her: woman what haue I to do wyth the? myne houre is not yet come.His mother sayde onto the mynistres: whatsoeuer he sayeth vnto you / do it. And ther were standynge there/ syxe waterpottes of stone after the maner of the purifyinge of the Jewes / contaynynge two or thre fyrkins a pece.

And Jesus sayde vnto them: fyll ỹ waterpottes with water. And they fylled thē vp to the brym.And he sayde vnto them:drawe out now/& beare vnto the gouerner of ỹ feaste.

B And they bare it. When the ruler of the feast had tasted the water that was turned vnto wyne/and knewe not whence it was (but ỹ mynistres which drue the water knewe) He called the brydegrome / and sayde vnto hym: All men at the begynnynge / sett forth good wyne/and* when men be droncke/ then that which is worse. But thou hast kept backe ỹ good wyne/vntyll now.

This begynnynge of myracles dyd Jesus in Cana of Galile/and shewed his glory/and his disciples beleued on him. ✠ After that he descēded into Capernaum/ & his* mother/ and his brethren/and his disciples/ but contynued not manye dayes there.

✠ And the Jewes ester was euen at hande/ and Jesus wēt vp to Jerusalem/ and founde syttynge in the temple those that solde oxen and shepe and doues & chaungers of money. And he made a scourge of small cordes / and draue thē all out of the tēple / with the shepe & oxen/& powred out the chaungers money/ and ouerthrue the tables/and sayde vnto thē that solde doues:Haue these thinges hence/ & make not my fathers house an house of marchaundyse.And his disciples remēbred/ how that it was wryten:* the zele of thyne house hath euen eaten me.

Then answered the Jewes and sayde vnto hym: what token shewest thou vnto vs/ seynge that thou dost these thynges? Jesus answered & sayde vnto them:* destroye thys temple/and in thre dayes I wyll reare it vp agayne.Then sayde ỹ Jewes:xlvi.yeres was this temple abyldynge: & wylt thou reare it vp in thre dayes? But he spake of the temple of his body.As sone therfore as he was rysen frō deeth agayne/ hys disciples remembred ỹ he thus sayde.And they beleued ỹ scripture/and the wordes which Jesus had sayde.

When he was at Jerusalem at ester in the feaste/many beleued on his name/ whē they sawe his myracles which he dyd.But Jesus put not hym selfe in their handes / because he knewe all men / and neded not / that eny mā shuld testifie of him.For he knewe what was in man. ✠

8 Except a mā be bo3ne of water & of the spirite &c. By thys is sygny-fyed ỹ baptyme/ whych is the mo3tifycacyon of ỹ flesshe p3eached by John baptist/and the renuynge of ỹ spirite which is rem-pcyon of synnes obtayned by Chr3ist.
Jesus answered: verely verely/I saye vnto ỹ: * except ỹ a man be bo3en of water & of the spyrete/he cannot enter into ỹ kyngdō of God. That which is bo3en of the flesshe is flesshe: & that whych is bo3en of the spyrete/ is spyrete. Maruayle not that I sayd to the/ ye must be bo3en a newe. The wynde bloweth where he lysteth/ & thou heare-yt hys sounde: but canst not tell whēce he cometh & whether he goeth. So is euery man that is bo3en of the spyrete.
And Nycodemus answered and sayde vnto him: how can these thynges be? Jesus answered & sayde vnto him: arte thou a master in Israel/ & knowest not these thynges? Verely/verely/I saye vnto the/we speake ỹ we know/ & testify that we haue sene: and ye receaue not oure wytnes. If when I tell you erthly thynges/ye beleue not: how shulde ye beleue/yf I shall tell you of heuenly thynges?
b * No man ascendeth into heauen/but he that cam from heauē &c. That is/no man can come in heauen but by Chr3ist ỹ sonne of God that cam from heauē &c. Only by his rygh-teousnes must we allende.
b * And * no man ascendeth vp to heauē/but he that came doune from heauen/that is to saye/the sonne of man which is in heauen.
And as Moses lyfte vp the serpent in the wyldernes/euē so must the sonne of man be lyfte vp/ that none that beleueth in hym perysshe; but haue eternall lyfe.
✝ For God so loueth the wo3lde/ that he hath geuē his only sonne/ that none that beleue in him/ shulde perysshe: but shulde haue euerlastyng lyfe. For God sent not his sonne into ỹ wo3lde/to cōdempne the wo3lde: c * but that the wo3ld through him/myght be saued.
c * But that ỹ wo3ld through hym myght be saued &c. The wo3ld heredoth only sygnifye ỹ the chosen and those that do beleue.
He that beleueth on hym/ shall not be condempned. But he that beleueth not/ is condempned all redy/ because he beleueth not in the name of the only sonne of God. And thys is the condempnacion/that lyght is come in to the wo3ld/ & the men loued darcknes mo3e then lyght/ because their dedes were euyll. For euery man that euyll doeth/ hateth the lyght: nether commeth to lyght lest hys dedes shuld be rep3oued. But he that doth trueth/ commeth to ỹ lyght that his dedes myght be knowē/how ỹ they are w3ought in God.
After these thynges cam Jesus & hys disciples into the Jewes land/ & ther he haūted with thē & baptised. And John also baptised in Enon besydes Salim/ because ther was moche water there/ & they came & were baptised. For John was not yet cast into p3eson.
D ✝ And ther arose a questiō betwene Johns disciples and the Jewes aboute purifyinge. And they came vnto John/ & sayde vnto him: Rabbi/he that was wt the beyonde Jo3dan/ to whō thou bare-st wytnes. Beholde ỹ same baptiseth/ & all men come to hym. John answered/ & sayde: a mā can receaue nothynge at all except it be geuē him from heauen. Ye youre selues are witnesses/how that I sayd: I am not Chr3ist/but am sent before him. He ỹ hath the bryde/is the brydegrome. But the frende of the brydegrome/which standeth by and heareth him reioyseth greately of ỹ bry-degromes voyce. This my ioye is fulfylled. He must increace: and I must decreace.
He that cōmeth from an hye is aboue all: He that is of ỹ erth/is earthly/and speaketh of the erth. He that commeth from heauen/ is aboue all/ & what he hath sene and heard: that he testifieth: but no man receaueth hys testimonye. How be it/he that hath receaued his testimonye * d hath set to his seale ỹ God is true. For he whō God hath sent/ speaketh the wo3des of God. e * For God geueth not ỹ spyrete by measure (vnto hym). The father loueth the sonne and hath geuen all thynges into hys hande. He that beleueth on ỹ sonne/ hath euerlastynge lyfe: and he that beleueth not the sonne/ shall not se lyfe/ but the wrath of God abydeth on him.
d * Hath set to hys seale &c. that is/hath it p3ynted in hys belefe/as it were with a seale.
e * God geueth not the spirite by measure &c. How the spirite o3 the gyftes of the spirite are geuen by measure/reade Roma. xij. 1. Corint. xii. And euen so is the spirite it selfe geuē forth thorow all chr3istendome by measure: but to Chr3ist/ whych alone hath put awaye all synnes and death was it geuen aboue measure. as in Titu. iii.

The louynge communicacyon of Chr3ist with the woman of Samaria by the welles syde. How he healeth the rulers sonne.

The .iiij. Chapter.

AS sone as the Lo3de had knowledge/how ỹ Pharises had hearde/ that Jesus made and baptised moo disciples then John (though that Jesus hym selfe baptised not: but hys disciples) he lefte Jewry/and departed agayne into Galile. And it was so that he must nedes goo tho3owe Samaria. Then came he to a citie of Samaria called Sichar/besydes ỹ possessyon that Jacob gaue to hys sonne Joseph. And there was Jacobs well. Jesus then weryed in hys io3ney/ sate thus on the well. And it was a * about the syxte houre: & there came a woman of Samaria to dra3we water. And Jesus sayde vnto her: geue me dr3incke. For hys disciples were gone awaye vnto the toune to bye meate. Then sayde the woman of Samaria vnto him: how is it/ ỹ thou beynge a Jewe/ aske-st dr3yncke of me/ whych am a Samaritane? For the Jewes medle not with the Samaritans. Jesus answered & sayde vnto hy3: yf thou knewest the gyfte of God/and who it is that sayeth to the geue me dr3incke/thou woldest haue asked of him/ & he wolde haue geuen ỹ water of lyfe. The woman sayde vnto hym. Syr3 thou hast nothynge to dr3awe with/ & the well is depe: from whence then hast thou ỹ water of lyfe? Arte thou greater then oure father Jacob which gaue vs ỹ well/ & he him selfe dr3ācke therof/and his chyldr3en/and his catell?
a * About the syxte houre &c. The Jewes reckened ỹ houres of their daye from the sonne rysynge to the sonne settyng/ so that the syxte B houre was vi. houres after the sonne rysynge which at that tyme of the yere was about none.
Jesus answered and sayde vnto hy3: whosoeuer dr3incketh of this water/ shall thyrst agayne. But whosoeuer shall dr3incke of the water that I shall geue hym/ shall neuer be mo3e more a thyrst: but ye water that I shall geue him / shalbe in hym a well of water / sprynginge vp into euerlastynge lyfe. The womā sayd vnto him: Syr geue me of that water / ye I thyrst not / nether come hyther to drawe. Jesus sayd vnto her. Go & call thy husband / and come hyther. And the woman answered and sayde to him: I haue no husband. Jesus sayde to her: Thou hast well sayd / I haue no husband. For thou hast had fyue husbādes / and he whom thou now hast / is not thy husband. That saydest thou truely.

The woman sayde vnto hym: Syr I perceaue ye thou arte a Prophet. Oure fathers worshipped in thys mountayne: & ye saye ye in Jerusalem is ye place where men ought to worshippe. Jesus sayde vnto her: womā beleue me / the houre cometh / when ye shall nether in this moūtayne nor yet at Jerusalem / worshippe the father. Ye worshyppe ye wot not what: we knowe what we worshyppe. For saluacion cōmeth of the Jewes. But the houre cōmeth & now is / when the true worshippers shall worshippe ye father in ye spyrete / & in trouthe. For verely suche the father requyreth to worshippe him. God is a spyrete / & they ye worshippe him / must worshippe him in spyrete and trouthe.

The woman sayde vnto hym: I wot well Messias shall come / wyche is called Chryst. When he is come / he will tell vs all thinges: Jesus sayde vnto hir: I that speake vnto the am he. And euen at ye poynte came hys disciples / & maruelled that he talked with ye woman. Yet no man sayd vnto him: what meanest thou / or why talkest thou with her? The woman then lefte her waterpot / and wēt her waye into the cytie / & sayd to the men. Come se a man which tolde me all thynges ye euer I dyd. Is not he Chryst? Then they went out of the cytie / and came vnto him.

And in ye meane whyle his disciples prayed him saying: Master / eate. He sayde vnto thē: I haue meate to eate / that ye know not of. Then sayde the disciples betwene thē selues: hath eny mā brought him meate? Jesus sayd vnto them: my meate is to do the wyll of him ye sent me. And to fynisshe his worcke. Saye not ye: there are yet foure monethes / & then commeth haruest? Beholde I saye vnto you / lyfte vp youre eyes / and loke on the regions: for they are white all redy vnto haruest. And he ye repeth receaueth rewarde / & gathereth frute vnto lyfe eternall: ye both he ye soweth / and he that repeth myght reioyse together. And herin is ye saying true / that one soweth and another repeth. I sent you to repe that wheron ye bestowed no laboure. Other men laboured / & ye are entred into their labours.

Many of the Samaritans of that cytie beleued on him / for the saying of the womā / which testified: he tolde me all thynges that euer I dyd. Then when the Samaritans were come vnto him they besought hym / ye he wolde tary with them. And he abode there two dayes. And many moo beleued because of his awne wordes / and sayde vnto the woman: Now we beleue not because of thy sayinge: for we haue herde hym oure selues / and knowe that thys is euen in dede Chryst the sauioure of the worlde.

After two dayes he departed thence / and went awaye into Galile. * And Jesus hym selfe testified that a Prophete hath none honoure in his awne countre. Then as sone as he was come into Galile / the Galileans receaued hym whych had sene all the thynges that he dyd at Jerusalem at ye feast. For they wēt also vnto the feast daye. And Jesus cam agayne into Cana of Galile / wher he turned the water into wyne. Math. xiij. g. Marke. vi. a Luke. iiij. e

And ther was a certayne ruler / whose sonne was sycke at Capernaum. As sone as the same herde that Jesus was come out of Jewry into Galile / he wēt vnto him / and besought him / that he wolde descende / & heale hys sonne. For he was euen redye to dye. Then sayde Jesus vnto hym: excepte ye se signes & wonders / ye cannot beleue. The ruler sayde vnto him: Syr come awaye or euer that my chylde dye. Jesus sayd vnto him: Go thy waye / thy sonne lyueth. And the man beleued the wordes that Jesus had spoken vnto him / and went his waye. And anone as he went on his waye his seruauntes mett him / & tolde him sayinge: thy chylde lyueth. Then enquyred he of them the houre when he begānne to amende. And they sayde vnto hym: Yesterdaye the seuenth houre / the feuer lefte hym. And the father knewe that it was the same houre in which Jesus sayde vnto him: Thy sonne lyueth. And he beleued / & all hys housholde. This is agayne the seconde myracle that Jesus dyd / after he was come oute of Jewry into Galile.

¶ He healeth the man that was sycke eyght & thyrtie yere. The Jewes accuse him / he answereth for hym selfe / and reproueth them.

¶ The .v. Chapter.

And ther is at Jerusalē / by the* slaughterhouse / a pole called in the Ebrue tonge / a bethseda / hauyng fiue porches / in which laye a greate multytude of sycke folcke / of blinde / halt and wyddered / waytinge for the mouinge of the water. stepped in/was made whoale of whatsoeuer disease he had. And a certayne mã was there/ which had bene deseased .xxxviij.yeres. Whẽ Jesus sawe him lye/and knewe that he now longe tyme had bene diseased/he sayde vnto him. Wylt thou be made whoale? The sycke man answered him: Syr I haue no mã whẽ ỳ water is troubled/to put me into the pole. But in the meane tyme/ whyll I am aboute to come/another steppeth doune before me.

Jesus sayde vnto him: ryse/take vp thy beed & walke. And immediatly the man was made whole/& toke vp his beed/& went. And the same daye was ỳ Saboth daye. The Jewes therfore sayde to hym that was made whole. It is the Saboth daye/ it is not lawfull for the to cary thy beed. He answered thẽ: he that made me whole/sayde vnto me: take vp thy beed/& get the hence. Then asked they him what man is that which sayd vnto the/ take vp thy beed and walke. And he that was healed/ wist not who it was. For Jesus had gotten him selfe awaye/because ỳ ther was ¶ prease of people in the place.

And after that/Jesus founde hym in the temple/& sayde vnto him: beholde thou arte made whole/lynne no moore/lest a worse thynge happen vnto the. The man departed & tolde the Jewes that it was Jesus/ whych had made him whole. ✠ And therfore the Jewes dyd persecute Jesus/& sought ỳ meanes to slee him/because he had done these thynges on ỳ Saboth daye. And Jesus answered thẽ: ✠ [b]* my father worketh hidder to/& I worke. Therfore the Jewes sought ỳ moare to kyll him/not only because he had broke the Saboth: but sayde also that God was his father and made him selfe equall with God.

b* My father worcketh hether to and I worcke &c. That is/ my father kepeth not ỳ Saboth daye/ no more do I. But my father vseth no cõmen merchaundyse on the Saboth/ & no more do I.

Then answered Jesus & sayde vnto them: verely/verely/I saye vnto you: the sonne can do nothynge of him selfe/ but that he seeth ỳ father do. For whatsoeuer he doeth/ ỳ doeth the sonne also. For the father loueth ỳ sonne/ and sheweth him all thynges whatsoeuer he him selfe doeth. And he will shewe hym greater workes then these/because ye shuld maruayle. For lykewyse as the father rayseth vp the deed/& quyckeneth thẽ/ euẽ so the sonne quyckeneth whom he wyll. Neither iudgeth the father eny man: but hath committed all iudgement vnto the sonne/ because that all men shuld honoure the sonne/euẽ as they honoure the father. He that honoureth not the sonne/ ỳ same honoureth not ỳ father which hath sent hym. Verely/verely I saye vnto you: He that heareth my wordes/ & beleueth on him that sent me/ hath euerlastyng lyfe/ and shall not come into dampnacyon: but is escaped from deeth vnto lyfe.

Verely/verely I saye vnto you: the tyme shall come/ & now is/ when c* the deed shall heare ỳ voyce of the sonne of God. And they that heare/shall lyue. For as the father hath lyfe in him selfe/so lykewyse hath he geuẽ to the sonne to haue lyfe in him selfe: and hath geuen hym power also to iudge/ in that he is the sonne of man. Maruayle not at thys: ỳ houre shall come in ỳ which/* all that are in ỳ graues/shall heare his voyce/ and shall come forth: they that haue done good vnto ỳ resurrection of lyfe: and they that haue done euyll/vnto the resurrection of dãpnacion. ✠

c* The deed shall heare the voyce of the sonne of God &c. Here he speaketh of the resurreccyon of iustificacyon/ wherby ỳ wicked aryseth frõ his wyckednes/ & wherby ỳ synner is brought frõ ỳ death of his synnes into ỳ lyfe of ryghteousnes. And specially of the callyng of the gentyles/ whych was done after the commynge of ỳ holy goost: for the gẽtyles are reputed as deed men in cõparyson to the Jewes. And afterward when he sayth. * All ỳ are in the graues shall heare the voyce of ỳ sonne of mã &c. He meaneth the generall resurrecyon which shalbe in ỳ last daye.

✠ I can of myne awne selfe do nothyng at all. As I heare/I iudge/ and my iudgmẽt is iust/ because I seke not myne awne wyll/ but the wyll of ỳ father which hath sent me. If I beare wytnes of my selfe/my wytnes is not true. Ther is another ỳ beareth wytnes of me/and I am sure that the wytnes which he beareth of me/is true.

Ye sent vnto John/ & he bare wytnes vnto the truthe. But I receaue not the recorde of man. Neuertheles/these thynges I saye/ that ye myght be safe. He was a burnynge/ & a shynynge lyght/ & ye wolde for a season haue reioyced in his lyght. But I haue greater wytnes then the wytnes of John. For the workes which the father hath geuẽ me to fynisshe: the same workes ỳ I do/beare wytnes of me/that the father sent me. And ỳ father him selfe which hath sent me/beareth witnes of me. Ye haue not hearde hys voyce at eny tyme nor ye haue sene his shape: therto hys word haue ye not abydinge in you. For whõ he hath sent: hym ye beleue not.

Searche ỳ scriptures/for in thẽ ye thincke ye haue eternall lyfe: & they are they whych testify of me. And yet will ye not come to me/ that ye might haue lyfe. I receaue not prayse of men. But I knowe you/ that ye haue not the loue of God in you. I am come in my fathers name and ye receaue me not. If another shall come in his awne name/him wyll ye receaue. How can ye beleue which receaue honoure one of another/and seke not the honoure that commeth of God only?

Do not thynche that I wyll accuse you to my father. Ther is one that accuseth you: euẽ Moses in whõ ye trust. For had ye beleued Moses/ ye wolde haue beleued me: for he wrote of me. But seynge ye beleue not hys wrytynge: how shuld ye beleue my wordes? ✠

After these thynges Jesus wẽt hys waye ouer ỳ see of Galile nye to a cytie called Tiberias. And a great multitude folowed hym/ because they

And ester / a feast of ỹ Jewes was nye. ✠ *Then Jesus lyfte vp his eyes / and sawe a great cõpany come vnto hym / & sayd vnto Philip: whence shall we bye breed that these might eate. Philip answered him / two hundred peny worthe of breed are not sufficient for them / ỹ euery man haue a lytell. Then sayde vnto him one of his disciples / Andrew Simõ Peters brother. There is a lad here / which hath fyue barly loues and two fyshes: but what is that amonge so many? And Jesus sayde: B Make ỹ people syt doune: Ther was moche grasse in the place. And the men sate doune / in nombre / about fyue thousand. And Jesus toke the breed / and gaue thanckes & gaue to the disciples / and hys disciples to them that were set doune. And lykewyse of the fyshes as moche as they wolde.

When they had eate ynough he sayde vnto his disciples / gather vp the broken meate that remayneth: that nothynge be loost. And they gathered it to gether / and fylled twelue baskettes with the broken meate / of the fyue barly loues: which broken meate remayned vnto them that had eatẽ. And the see arose with a greate wynde that blew. And when they had rowẽ about a. xxv. or a. xxx. furlonges / they sawe Jesus walke C on the see / & drawe nye vnto ỹ shippe / & were afrayed. And he sayde vnto them: It is I / be not a frayde. Then wold they haue receaued hym into the shyp / and the shyp was by and by at the lande whither they went.

The daye folowynge / the people whych stode on the other syde of the see / sawe ỹ ther was none other shyp theare / saue that one wherin to his disciples were entred / & that Jesus went not in with hys discyples in the shyp: but that his disciples were gone awaye alone. How be it / ther cam other shippes frõ Tiberias nye vnto the place / where they ate breed / when the Lord had blessed. Then whẽ ỹ people sawe that Jesus was not there nether his disciples / they also toke shippyng & came to Capernaum seekynge for Jesus.

And whẽ they had founde hym on ỹ other syde of the see / they sayde vnto hym: Rabbi / whẽ camest thou hyther? Jesus answerd thẽ and sayde: verely / verely I saye vnto you: ye seke me / not because ye sawe the myracles: but because ye ate of ỹ loues / & were fylled. ✠ Laboure not for the meate which perysheth / but for the meate that endureth vnto euerlastinge lyfe / which meate the sonne of man shall geue vnto you. Then sayde they vnto him: what shall we do ỹ we myght worcke the workes of God? Jesus answered and sayde vnto them. Thys is the worke of God / that ye beleue on him / whõ he hath sent. They sayde vnto him: what sygne shewest thou then / that we maye se & beleue the? What doest thou worcke? Oure fathers dyd eate Manna in the desert / as it is wrytte: He gaue them breed from heauen to eate. Jesus sayde vnto thẽ: verely / verely I saye vnto you: Moses gaue you not breed from heauen: but my father geueth you the true breed from heauen. Verely verely I saye vnto you / he that beleueth

And the breed that I will geue/ F is my flesshe/which I wyll geue for the lyfe of the worlde. ✠

And the Iewes stroue amōge them selues saying: How can this felow geue his flesshe to eate? Then Iesus sayde vnto thē: ✠Verely/verely I saye vnto you/ except ye eate the flesshe of ꝑ sonne of mā & drincke his bloude/ ye shall not haue lyfe in you. Whosoeuer eateth my flesshe & dryncketh my bloude / hath eternall lyfe: & I wyll rayse him vp at ꝑ last daye. ✠For my flesshe is meate in dede: & my bloude is drincke in dede. It is ꝑ spyrete ꝑ quyckeneth/ the flesshe profiteth nothinge. The wordes ꝑ I speake vnto you/ are spyrete and lyfe. But there are some of you that beleue not. b* Doth thys offende you &c. That is yf my wordes do so offende you/what wyll then the performaunce of thē do/when ꝑ sonne of man shall do in dede ꝑ he hath now spoken.

From ꝑ tyme many of his disciples went backe & walked no moare with hym. Then sayde Iesus to the twelue: wyll ye also goo awaye? Then Simō Peter answered: Master to whom shall we goo? Thou haste the wordes of eternall lyfe/* & we beleue & knowe that thou arte Christ the sonne of ꝑ lyuynge God. Iesus answered thē: Haue not I chosen you twelue / and yet one of you is a deuyll? After that/ Iesus went about into A Galile / & wolde not go aboute in Iewry for ꝑ Iewes sought to kyll hym. The Iewes tabernacle feast was at hande. Go ye vp vnto this feast. I will not go vp yet vnto this feast / for my tyme is not yet full come. These wordes he sayde vnto thē/ & abode styll in Galile. Then cryed Jesus in ꝑ tēple as he taught sayinge: ye knowe me/ and whence I am ye knowe. And yet I am not come of my selfe/ but he that sent me is true / whom ye know not. I know him: for I am of him/ & he hath sent me. Then they sought to take hym: but no mā layde hādes on him/ because his tyme was not yet come. Many of the people beleued on him & sayde: whē Christ cometh/ will he do moo myracles then this mā hath done?

¶ The Pharises hearde that ꝑ people murmured suche thinges about him. Wherfore the Pharises and hye prestes sent ministres forth to take hym. Then sayde Jesus vnto thē: Yet am I a lytell whyle wt you / & then go I vnto him ꝑ sent me. Ye shall seke me/ & shall not fynde me: & where I am/ thyther can ye not come. Then sayde the Jewes betwene them selues: whither wyll he go/ that we shall not fynde him? Wyll he go amonge the gentyls which are scattered all abroade/ & teache the gentils: What maner of saying is this that he sayd: ye shall seke me/ & shall not finde me: and where I am thither can ye not come?

In the last daye/ ꝑ great daye of the feast F Jesus stode and cryed sayinge: If eny man thyrst/ lett him come vnto me & dryncke. Then answered thē the Pharises: are ye also disceaued? Doth eny of the rulers or of ꝑ Pharises beleue on hym? But the comen people which knowe not ꝑ lawe are curssed. The Pharises sayde vnto him: thou beareste recorde of thy selfe/ thy recorde is not true. Ye iudge after the flesshe/ I iudge no man. And yf I iudge/ my iudgemēt is true. For I am not alone: but I & the father ꝑ sent me. It is also wrytten in youre lawe/ that the testimony of two men is true. I am one ꝑ beare wytnes of my selfe/ & the father that sent me / beareth wytnes of me. Then sayde they vnto hym: where is thy father? Jesus answered: ye nether knowe me/ nor yet my father. If ye had knowen me/ ye shulde haue knowen my father also. Then sayd they vnto him/ who arte thou? D And Jesus sayde vnto thē: Euē the very same thynge that I saye vnto you. I haue many thynges to saye/ and to iudge of you. Ye & he ỳ sent me is true. ✠ Then sayde Jesus to those Jewes which beleued on hym. If ye cōtinue in my wordes/ then are ye my very disciples/ & shall knowe the trueth: & the trueth shall make you free. They answered hym: We be Abrahās seede/ and were neuer bonde to eny mā: why sayest thou then/ ye shalbe made fre.

Jesus answered thē: verely/ *verely I saye Roma. vi. c. ij. Petri. ij. d. vnto you/ that whosoeuer cōmytteth synne/ E is the seruaunte of synne. They answered and sayde vnto him: Abrahā is oure father. Jesus sayde vnto them. If ye were Abrahams chyldren ye wolde do the dedes of Abraham. But now ye go aboute to kyll me/ a man that haue tolde you the truthe whych I haue herde of God: this dyd not Abrahā. Ye do ỳ dedes of youre father. Then sayde they to him: we were not borne of fornicacyon. We haue one father/ which is God. Jesus sayd vnto them: yf God were youre father / then wolde ye loue me. For I proceaded forthe and come from God. Nether came I of my selfe / but he sent me. Why do ye not knowe my speache? Euē because ye cānot abyde ỳ hearyng of my wordes.

✠ Ye are of youre father the deuyll/ and the lustes of youre father ye wyll do. He was a murtherer from the begynnynge/ and abode not in the trueth / because there is no trueth in him. I seke not myne awne prayse: but ther is one that seketh and iudgeth.

Verely verely I saye vnto you / yf a man kepe my sayinges / he shall neuer se deeth. Then sayde the Jewes to hym. Now knowe we that thou hast the deuyll. Arte thou greater then oure father G Abraham/ which is deed? and the Prophetes are deed. Whom makest thou thy selfe.

Jesus answered: If I honoure my selfe/ myne honoure is nothynge worth. It is my father that honoureth me/ whych ye saye/ is youre God/ and ye haue not knowē him: but I knowe him. And yf I shuld saye/ I knowe hym not / I shulde be a lyar lyke vnto you. But I knowe him/ and kepe his sayinge.

¶ The. ix. Chapter.

A Nd as Jesus passed by / he sawe a man which was blynde from hys byrth. And his disciples asked him sayinge: Master/ who dyd synne: this man or his father & mother/ that he was borne blynde? Jesus answered: Nether hath this man synned/ nor yet his father and mother: but that the workes of God shulde be shewed on him. I must worcke the workes of him ỳ sent me/ whill it is daye. *The night cometh when noman can worcke. As longe as I am in the worlde/ I am the lyght of the worlde.

As sone as he had thus spokē/ he spatte on the grounde and made claye of the spetle / & rubbed the claye on the eyes of the blynde/ & sayde vnto him: Go wesshe the in the pole of

Syloe/which by interpretacion/ signifyeth sent. He went his waye & washed and came agayne seynge. The neyghboures & they ꝑ had sene hym before how ꝑ he was a begger/ sayde: is not this he ꝑ sate & begged? Some ¶ sayde: this is he. Other sayde: he is lyke him.

But he him selfe sayde: I am euē he. They sayde vnto hym. How are thyne eyes opened then? He answered and sayde. The man ꝑ is called Jesus/ made claye/ and anoynted myne eyes/ & sayde vnto me. Go to the pole Siloe and washe. And I went and washed and receaued my syght. They sayd vnto him: where is he? He sayde: I can not tell.

Then brought they to ꝑ Pharises/ hym ꝑ a lytell before was blynde: for it was ꝑ Saboth daye when Jesus made the claye & opened his eyes. Then agayne the Pharises also asked him how he had receaued his syght. He sayde vnto thē: He put claye vpō myne eyes & I washed/ & do se. Then sayde some of the Pharises: thys mā is not of God/ because he ꝺ kepeth not the Saboth daye. Other sayde: how can a man ꝑ is a synner/ do suche myracles? And ther was stryfe amonge thē. Then spake they vnto the blynde agayne: What sayst thou of hym / because he hath opened thyne eyes? And he sayde: He is a Prophet.

But the Jewes dyd not beleue of ꝑ felow/ how that he was blynde and receaued hys syght/ vntyll they had called the father & mother of hym that had receaued his syght. And they asked them saying: Is this youre sonne/ whom ye saye was borne blynde? How doth he now se then? Hys father and mother answered them & sayde/ we wote well that this is oure sonne/ & ꝑ he was borne blynde: but by what meanes he now seyth that can we not tell/ or who hath opened his eyes/ can we not tell. He is olde ynough/ aske him/ let him ¶ answere for him selfe. Suche wordes spake his father and mother/ because they feared ꝑ Jewes. For the Jewes had cōspyred all redy that ꝑ eny man dyd confesse ꝑ he was Christ he shuld be excommunicat out of the synagoge. Therfore sayde his father and mother: he is olde ynough/ aske him.

Then agayne called they the man ꝑ was blynde/ & sayd vnto him: Geue God ꝑ prayse: we know ꝑ this mā is a sinner. He answered and sayde: Whyther he be a synner or no / I cannot tell: One thynge I am sure of/ that I was blynd/ & now I se. Then sayd they to him agayne. What dyd he to the? How opened he ꝼ thyne eyes? He answered them/ I tolde you yer whyle/ and ye dyd not heare. Wherfore wold ye heare it agayne? Wyll ye also be his disciples? Then rated they him/ & sayd: Thou arte hys dyscyple. We be Moses discyples. We are sure that God spake wyth Moses. This felow we knowe not frō whence he is

The man answered and sayde vnto them: this is a meruelous thinge that ye wote not whēce he is/ seing he hath opened myne eyes. For we be sure ꝑ God heareth not a*synners. But ꝑ eny mā be a worshipper of God & do his will/ him heareth he. Sence ꝑ worlde begynne was it not hearde that eny mā opened the eyes of one that was borne blynd. If this mā were not of God/ he couldе haue done no thinge. They answered and sayde vnto hym: thou arte all to gether borne in synne/ & dost thou teache vs? And they cast him out.

Jesus hearde that they had excōmunicate him: & assone as he had founde hym/ he sayde vnto hym: doest thou beleue on the sonne of God? He answered & sayde: Who is it Lord/ ꝑ I myght beleue on hym? And Jesus sayde vnto him: Thou hast sene hym/ & he it is that talketh wt the. And he sayde: Lord I beleue/ & worshipped him. ✠ Jesus sayd: I am come vnto iudgement into thys worlde: that they which se not myght se/ & they which se might be made blynde. And some of the Pharises which were with him/ hearde these wordes & sayde vnto hym: are we then blynde? Jesus sayde vnto them: yf ye were blynde ye shulde haue no synne. But now ye saye/ we se/ therfore youre synne remayneth. G

As I sayde vnto you: my shepe heare my voyce / & I knowe them/ and they folow me/ and I geue vnto thẽ eternall lyfe/ & they shall neuer perysshe / nether shall eny man plucke them oute of my hande. My father whych gaue them me / is greater then all & no mã is able to take them out of my fathers hande. And I and my father are one.

Then ỹ Iewes agayne toke vp stones/ to stone hym wt all. Iesus answered thẽ: many good workes haue I shewed you frõ my father: for which of thẽ wyll ye stone me? The Iewes answered him sayinge. For thy good workes sake we stone ỹ not: but for thy blasphemy/ & because ỹ thou beinge a mã/ makest thy selfe God. Iesus answered them. Is it not written in youre lawe. * I saye/ ye are Goddes? If he called them Goddes vnto whõ the worde of God was spoken (& ỹ scripture can not be broken) saye ye then to hym/ whõ the father hath sanctifyed / and sent into the worlde/ thou blasphemest/ because I sayd I am the sonne of God? ¶ Christ rayseth Lazarus frõ death. The hie prestes and Pharises gather a councell agaynst him/ he getteth him out of the waye.

A Certayne man was sycke / named Lazarus of Bethania ỹ toune of Mary and her syster Martha. It was ỹ Mary which anoynted Iesus with oyntment & wyped hys fete wt her heere/ whose brother Lazarus was sycke / & his systers sent vnto him sayinge. Lorde beholde he whõ thou louest/ is sycke. When Iesus hearde ỹ/ he sayde: this infirmite is not vnto deeth/ but for the laude of God/ that the sonne of God might be praysed by the reason of it. Iesus loued Martha and her syster and Lazarus. Then after he had hearde that he was sycke/ yet abode he two dayes styll in ỹ same place where he was.

Then after ỹ/ sayd he to hys disciples: lette vs go into Iewry agayne. His disciples sayd vnto hym: Master/ the Iewes lately sought meanes to stone the / & wylt thou go thyther againe? Iesus answered/ are ther not twelue houres in the daye? If a mã walke in ỹ daye/ he stombleth not/ because he seyth the lyghe of this world. But yf a mã walke in ỹ night/ he stõbleth/ because ther is no lyght in hym. This sayde he/ & after that/ he sayd vnto thẽ: oure frende Lazarus slepeth / but I goo to wake him oute of slepe. Then sayde hys disciples: Lorde yf he slepe / he shall do well ynough. Howbeit Iesus spake of his deeth: but they thought ỹ he had spoken of ỹ naturall slepe. Then sayd Iesus vnto thẽ playnly/ Lazarus is deed/ & I am glad for your sakȝ/ ỹ I was not there/ because ye maye beleue. Neuertheles let vs go vnto him. Then sayd Thomas which is called Didimus/ vnto the disciples: let vs also go/ ỹ we maye dye with him. Then went Iesus/ & founde that he had lyne in hys graue foure dayes already. Bethanie was nye vnto Ierusalem/ aboute. xb. furlonges of/ & many of ỹ Iewes were come to Martha and Mary to comforte thẽ ouer their brother. Martha assone as she hearde that Iesus was comynge/ went & met hym: but Mary sate styll in the house.

✠Then sayd Martha vnto Iesus: Lorde yf thou haddest bene here / my brother had not bene bene deed: but neuertheleſſe/ I know ẏ what ſoeuer thou alkeſt of God/ God wyll geue it the. Jeſus ſayde vnto her: Thy bꝛother ſhall ryſe agayne. Martha ſayd vnto him: I know ẏ he ſhall ryſe agayne in ẏ reſurrecciō at the laſt daye. Jeſus ſayde vnto her: [a] *I am ẏ reſurreccion & ẏ lyfe: He that beleueth on me/ ye though he were deed/ yet ſhall he liue. And wholoeuer lyueth and beleueth on me/ ſhall neuer dye: Beleueſt thou this? She ſayd vnto him: ye Lorde/ I beleue ẏ thou arte Chꝛiſt the ſonne of God which ſhulde come into the worlde. ✠ And aſſone as he had ſo ſayde/ ſhe went her waye & called Marie her ſyſter ſecretly ſayinge: The maſter is come & calleth for the. And ſhe aſſone as ſhe hearde ẏ/ aroſe quickly/ & came vnto hym. Jeſus was not yet come into the toune: but was in ẏ place where Martha met hym. The Jewes then which were with her in the houſe & cōforted her/ when they ſawe Mary/ that ſhe roſe vp haſtely/ and went out/ folowed her/ ſayinge: She goeth vnto the graue/ to wepe there.

a *I am the reſurreccion and lyfe &c. That is I am the auctor of reſurreccion & lyfe for thoſe that beleue in me will I rayſe vp at the laſte daye in to lyfe euerlaſtynge: & thoſe that are deed ſhall lyue by me becauſe they beleue in me.

Then whē Mary was come where Jeſus was & ſawe hym/ ſhe fell doune at hys fete/ ſaying vnto him: Lorde yf thou haddeſt bene here/ my bꝛother had not bene deed. Whē Jeſus ſawe her wepe/ and ẏ Jewes alſo wepe/ which came with her/ he groned in ẏ ſpꝛete/ & was troubled in him ſelfe & ſayde: Where haue ye layed hym? They ſayde vnto hym: Lorde come & ſe. And Jeſus wept. Then ſayd the Jewes: Beholde how he loued hym. And ſome of thē ſayd: coulde not he which opened the eyes of the blynde/ haue made alſo/ ẏ this man ſhuld not haue dyed? Jeſus agayne groned in him ſelfe/ & came to the graue. It was a caue and a ſtone layde on it.

Jeſus ſayde: take ye awaye ẏ ſtone. Martha the ſyſter of him ẏ was deed/ ſayde vnto him: Lorde by this tyme he ſtyncketh. For he hath bene deed foure dayes: Jeſus ſayd vnto her: Sayde I not vnto the/ that yf thou dydeſt beleue/ thou ſhuldeſt ſe ẏ glozy of God. Then they toke awaye ẏ ſtone frō ẏ place where the deed was layde. And Jeſus lyfte vp hys eyes and ſayd: Father I thancke the because that thou haſt hearde me. I wot that thou heareſt me all wayes: but because of the people that ſtande by I ſayde it ẏ they maye beleue/ that thou haſt ſent me.

And when he thus had ſpoken/ he cryed with a loude voyce. Lazarus come forth. And he ẏ was deed/ came forth/ bounde hande and fote with graue bondes/ & hys face was bounde with a napkin. Jeſus ſayde vnto thē: Iowſe him/ & let him go. Then many of the Jewes which came to Mary/ and had ſene ẏ thingꝭ which Jeſus dyd/ beleued on hī. ✠ But ſome of them went their wayes to the Phariſes/ and tolde them what Jeſus had done.

Then gathered the hye Pꝛeſtes & the Phariſes a counſell & ſayd: what do we? This mā doeth many miracles. If we lett hym ſcape thus/ all men will beleue on hym/ and the Romaynes ſhall come & take awaye oure coūtre & the people. And one of thē named Cayphas which was ẏ hye pꝛieſt that ſame yere/ ſayd vnto them: Ye perceaue nothinge at all nor yet conſyder ẏ it is expediēt for vs/ ẏ one mā dye for the people/ & not ẏ all the people periſſhe. This ſpake he not of hym ſelfe/ but beynge hye Pꝛieſte that ſame yere/ he pꝛophecied ẏ Jeſus ſhulde dye for the people/ & not for the people only/ but ẏ he ſhuld gather together in one the chyldꝛē of God which were ſcattered abꝛode. *Frō ẏ daye forth they held a counſell to gether/ for to put him to deeth. The.xiij. Chapter. ✠

Before the feast of ester whē Jesus knew ꝑ his houre was come/ ꝑ he shulde departe oute of this worlde vnto the father. Whē he loued hys which were in ꝑ worlde/vnto ꝑ ende he loued thē. And whē supper was ended / after ꝑ the deuyll had put in ꝑ hert of Judas Iscarioth Simons sonne/to betraye him: Jesus knowyng that the father had geuē all thyngs in to his handes/& that he was come frō God/ and wēt to God: he rose from supper/& layde a syde his vpper garmētes/ & toke a towell/ and gyrde hym selfe. After that / he poured water water into a balyn / ꝑ * began to wash his disciples fete / ꝑ to wype thē with the towell / wherwith he was gyrde.

Then came he to Simon Peter. And Peter sayde to him: Lorde shall thou wesshe my fete? Jesus answered ꝑ sayde vnto him: what I do / thou wotest not now / but thou shalt knowe herafter. Peter sayde vnto him: thou shalt not wesshe my fete whyll ꝓ worlde stādeth. Jesus answered him: yf I washe ꝓ not / thou shalt haue no part with me. Simō Peter sayde vnto him: Lorde / not my fete only: but also my handes ꝑ my heed. Jesus sayde to hym: he ꝓ is weshed / nedeth not saue to wesshe his fete / ꝑ is clene euery whit. And ye are clene: but not all. For he knewe hys betrayer. Therfore sayd he: ye are not all clene.

After he had weshed their fete / ꝑ receaued his clothes / ꝑ was set doune agayne / he sayd vnto them: wot ye what I haue done to you? Ye call me master ꝑ Lord / ꝑ ye saye well / for so am I. If I then youre Lorde and master haue weshed your fete / ye also ought to wesshe one anothers fete. For I haue geuen you an ensample / ꝓ ye shuld do as I haue done to you. ¶ Verely verely I saye vnto you / ꝓ seruaunt is not greater then his master / nether the messenger greater then he that sent hym.

If ye vnderstāde these thynges / happy are ye yf ye do them. I speake not of you all / I knowe whō I haue chosen. But ꝓ the scripture be fulfylled: he ꝓ eateth breed with me / hath b * lyfte vp his hele agaynst me. Nowtell I you before it come: that when it is come to passe ye myght beleue ꝓ I am he. Verely verely I saye vnto you. He that receaueth whō soeuer I sende / receaueth me. And he that receaueth me / receaueth him that sent me.

¶ b ¶ To lyft vp his hele / is / to oppresse by violence: for whō ye thrust or tryppe wyth ꝓ hele / him do ye vtterly ouerthrowe.

When Jesus had thus sayd / he was troubled in ꝓ sprete / ꝑ testifyed saying: verely verely I saye vnto you / ꝓ one of you shall betraye me. And then the disciples loked one on another doutynge of whom he spake. Ther was one of his disciples / which leaned on Jesus bosome / whō Jesus loued. To him becked Simon Peter that he shuld aske who it was of whō he spake. He then as he leaned on Jesus brest / sayd vnto him: Lorde who is it? Jesus answered / he it is to whō I geue a soppe / whē I haue dypt it. And he wet a soppe / ꝑ gaue it to Judas Iscarioth Simons sonne. And after the soppe * Satan entred into him. Then sayd Jesus vnto him: ꝓ thou doest / do quyckly. That wist no mā at the table / for what intēt he spake vnto him. Some of thē thought / because Judas had ꝓ bagge / ꝓ Jesus had sayd vnto him / bye those thynges ꝓ we haue nede of agaynst the feast: or ꝓ he shulde geue some thynge to the poore. Assone then as he had receaued ꝓ soppe / he wēt immediatly out. And it was night / whē he was gone out. Jesus sayde: now is ꝓ sonne of mā glorifyed. And God is glorifyed by hym. If God be glorified by him / God shall also glorify him in him selfe: ꝑ shall strayght waye glorify him.

c ¶ After the soppe Sathan entred &c. Sathan was entred into hym before as thys Euāgelist affirmeth in the beginning of this Chapter / But now began he more to enforce his strenghte / and more openly to shewe hym selfe. In lyke maner as ꝓ Apostles had the holy goost before Christes resurrecciō / whē they beleued in him / whē they cōfessed hym to be the sonne of God ꝑ ce. But then euydently receaued hym when Christ was ascended. Act. ij. a

And whyther I go ye knowe / ꝑ the waye ye knowe.

Thomas sayde vnto him: Lorde we knowe not whyther thou goest. Also how is it possible for vs to knowe the waye? Jesus sayde vnto him: I am the waye / the truthe ꝑ ꝓ lyfe. And no mā cometh vnto the father / but by me. If ye had knowē me / ye had knowē my father also. And now ye knowe him / ꝑ haue sene him.

Philip sayde vnto him: Lorde shew vs the father / ꝑ it suffiseth vs. Jesus sayd vnto him / haue I bene so longe tyme wt you: ꝑ yet hast thou not knowē me? Then came Jesus when ỹ dores were shut/ & stode in the myddes & sayde: peace be with you.

After that sayde he to Thomas: bringe thy fynger hether & se my handes/ and bringe thy hande & thrust it into my syde/ & be not faythless/ but beleuinge. Thomas answered and sayde vnto him: my Lorde/ & my God. Jesus sayde vnto him. Thomas/ because thou hast sene me/ therfore thou beleuest: Happy are they that haue not sene/ and yet beleue. ✠

And many other sygnes dyd Jesus in the presence of his disciples/ which are not wrytten in thys boke. These are wrytten that ye myght beleue/ that Jesus is Christ ỹ sonne of God/ & that in beleuynge ye myght haue lyfe thorowe his name.

The appeareth to hys disciples agayne by the see of Tyberias and commaundeth Peter earnestly to fede hys shepe.

The. xxi. Chapter. ✠

After that Jesus shewed hym selfe agayne/ at ỹ see of Tyberias. And on thys wyse shewed he hym selfe. There were to gether Simō Peter & Thomas/ which is called Didymus: & Nathanael of Cana a citie of Galile/ & the sonnes of Zebedei/ & two other of the disciples. Simon Peter sayde vnto thē: I go a fyschynge. They sayde vnto him: we also will go with ỹ. They went their waye & entred into a shippe straycht waye/ & that night caught they nothinge. But whē ỹ morninge was now come Jesus stode on ỹ shore: neuertheless the disciples knewe not ỹ it was Jesus. Jesus sayde vnto thē: lyrs/ haue ye eny meate? They answered him/ no. And he sayd vnto thē: cast out ỹ net on ỹ right syde of ỹ ship/ & ye shal fynde. They cast out/ and anone they were not able to drawe it for the multitude of fysshes.

Then sayde the disciple whō Jesus loued vnto Peter: It is ỹ Lorde. When Simō Peter herde that it was the Lorde/ he gyrde his mantell to him (for he was naked) & sprange into the see. The other disciples came by shyp for they were not farre from lande/ but as it were two hondred cubites/ & they drewe the net wyth fysches. Assone as they were come to lande/ they sawe hoot coles and fysshe layd theron/ & breed Jesus sayde vnto thē: bringe of the fysshe which ye haue now caught. Simon Peter stepped forth and drewe the net to londe full of greate fysshes/ an hondred & liij. And for all ther were so many/ yet was not the net broken. Jesus sayde vnto them: come & dyne. And none of the disciples durste aske him: what arte thou? For they knewe that it was the Lorde. Jesus then came and toke breed/ and gaue them/ and fysshe lykewyse. Ans thys is now the thyrde tyme that Jesus appered to hys disciples/ after that he he was ryssen agayne from deeth. ✠

When they had dyned/ Jesus sayde to Simon Peter: Simon Joāna/ louest thou me more then these? He sayde vnto him: ye Lord thou knowest/ that I loue the. He sayd vnto him: fede my *lābes. He sayde to hym agayne the seconde tyme: Simō Joāna/ louest thou me? He sayde vnto him: ye Lorde thou knowest ỹ I loue ỹ. He sayde vnto him: fede my shepe. He sayde vnto him ỹ thyrde tyme: Simon Joanna/ louest thou me? And Peter sorowed because he sayde to him ỹ thyrde tyme louest thou me/ & sayde vnto him: Lord thou knowest all thinge/ thou knowest that I loue the. Jesus sayde vnto hym: fede my shepe.

Verely verely I saye vnto the/ when thou wast yonge/ thou gerdedst thy selfe/ & walkedst whyther thou woldest: but when thou arte olde/ thou shalt stretche forth thy handes & another shal gyrde the/ & leade the whyther thou woldest not. That spake he signifyinge by what deeth he shuld glorify God.

And whē he had sayde thus/ he sayd to him ✠ folowe me. Peter turned about & sawe ỹ disciple whom Jesus loued folowinge: which also lened on his brest at supper & sayd: Lord which is he that shall betraye the. When Peter sawe him/ he sayde to Jesus: Lorde what shall he here do? Jesus sayde vnto him: If I wyll haue hym to tary tyll I come/ what is that to the? folowe thou me. Then went this sayinge a broode amonge the brethren/ that ỹ disciple shulde not dye. Yet Jesus sayde not to him/ he shall not dye: but yf I wyll that he tary tyll I come/ what is that to the? The same disciple is he/ whych testifyeth of these thynges/ and wrote these thynges. And we knowe/ that his testimony is true. ✠ There are also many other thinges which Jesus dyd the which yf they shuld be wrytten euery one a *I suppose the worlde coulde not contayne the bokes that shuld be wrytten.

a *I suppose ỹ worlde coulde not contayne ỹ bokes ỹ shuld be written &c this is a figuratiue speche whych doth signifye ỹ ther was many thinges moo to wrytte. But as Erasmus affyrmeth in hys paraphrasis vpō this place. There remayneth so moche writtē as is necessary & sufficyēt to oure saluacyon.

When they were come to gether/ they asked of hym sayinge: Lorde wilt thou at this tyme/ restore agayne the kyngdome to Israel? ¶ Peter and the other Apostles answered & sayde: *We ought moare to obey God then men. The God of oure fathers rayled vp Jesus/ whom ye slewe and hanged on tre. And they moued the people and the elders & the scrybes: and came vpon hym and caught him/ & brought him to the counsell/ & brought forth false witnesses which sayde. This man ceasyth not to speake blasphemous wordes agaynst this holy place and the lawe: for we hearde hym saye: thys Jesus of Nazareth shall destroye thys place/ and shall chaunge the ordinaunces which Moses gaue vs. And all that sate in the counsell/ loked stedfastly on him/ and sawe hys face as it had bene the face of an Angell.

And therfore must ye loke vnto the wordes of Luke in the begynnynge of thys Chapter where he sayth that he feared God: whych thynge he could not haue done nether yet haue prayed ner geuen almose, except he had beleued: for how shuld he haue called on hi on whome he beleued not? Thus are we cõpelled to ascribe hys callinge vnto fayth oute of whych these frutes of prayer & fastynge proceaded, specially seyng that sayut Paule affyrmeth ỳ whatsoeuer is not done of fayth the same is synne Roma. xiiij. d. The christen then, & soche as will ỳ scripture to be trew in all places & so expound one text, that another maye agre with it, do right well know we that his callinge & oure saluacion is freely geuen of God for hys sonne Christes sake: & not for the deseruynge of oure workes. And because fayth cã receaue this great & free benefite of God, & beleue it to be true, & workes nether can beleue it ner yet deserue it: therfore is it ascribed vnto fayth & not to workes. And ther came a voyce to him: ryse Peter kyll & eate. But Peter sayde: God forbyd Lorde, for I haue neuer eatẽ eny thinge that is comen or vnclene. And ỳ voyce spake vnto him agayne the secõde tyme: what God hath clensed, that make thou not comẽ. This was done thryse, and the vessell was receaued vp agayne into heauen.

¶ While Peter mused in him selfe what this vision which he had sene meant: beholde, the men whych were sent from Cornelius, had made inquirãce for Simons house, & stode before the dore. And called out one and asked whether Simon which was also called Peter were lodged there. ¶ Whyll Peter thought on this vision, the spyrete sayde vnto him: beholde, mẽ seke the: aryse therfore, get ỳ doune & go wyth them, & doute not: for I haue sent them. Peter wẽt doune to the mẽ whych were sent vnto him from Cornelius, and sayde, Beholde, I am he whom ye seke, what is the cause wherfore ye are come? And they sayde vnto him: Cornelius the captayne, a iust mã, and one that feareth God, and of good report amonge all the people of the Iewes, was warned by an holy angell to sende for ỳ into his house, and to heare wordes of the. Then called he them in, and lodged them.

And on the morowe Peter went awaye w̃ them, and certayne brethren from Ioppa accõpanyed him. And ỳ thyrd daye entred they into Cesaria. And Cornelius wayted for thẽ, and had called to gether hys kynsmen, & speciall frendes. And as it chaũced Peter to come in, Cornelius met him, and fell doune at hys fete, and worshypped hym. But Peter toke him vp sayinge: stãde vp: for euyn I my selfe am a man. And as he talked with him he cam in, & founde many that were come to gether. And he sayde vnto them: Ye knowe how that it is an vnlawfull thinge for a man that is a Iewe, to company or come vnto an aliẽt: but God hath shewed me that I shulde not call eny man commen or vnclene: therfore came I vnto you without sayinge naye, assone as I was sent for. I aske therfore, for what intent haue ye sent for me.

And Cornelius sayde: This daye now. iiij. dayes I fasted & at ỳ nynthe houre I prayde in my house: & beholde, a mã stode before me in bright clothynge, & sayde: Cornelius, thy prayer is harde & thine almes dedes are had in remẽbraunce in the syght of God. Sende therfore to Ioppa, & call for Simon whych is also called Peter. He is lodged in the house of one Symon a tanner by the see syde, the which assone as he is come, shal speake vnto the. Then sent I for the immediatly: & thou hast well done for to come. Now are we all here present before God, to heare all thinges that are commaunded vnto the of God.

Then Peter opened his mouth & sayde: Of a trueth I perceaue, that God is not parcial but in all people he that feareth hym & worketh righteousnes, is accepted with him.

Ye knowe the preachynge that God sent vnto the childrẽ of Israel, preachinge peace by Iesus Christ, which is Lorde ouer all thinges: ✠ Which preachinge was published thorow oute all Iewrye, and beganne in Galile, after the baptyme which Iohn preached, how God had annoynted Iesus of Nazareth with the holy goost, and with power. Which Iesus went aboute doinge good, & healinge all that were oppressed of the deuels, for God was wyth hym. And we are witnesses of all thynges whych he dyd in the lande of the Iewes & at Ierusalẽ: whom they slew, & honge on tree. Him God reysed vp the thyrde daye, & shewed him openly, not to all the people, but vnto vs witnes chosen before of God, whych ate & droncke with him, after he arose from deeth. ✠ And he cõmaunded vnto vs to preache vnto ỳ people & testifie, that it is he that is ordened of God a iudge of quycke & deed. To him geue all the Prophetes witnes, that thorowe hys name, all that beleue in hym, shall receaue remission of synnes. ✠

Whyle Peter yet spake these wordes, the holy goost fell on all thẽ which harde ỳ preachinge. And they of the circumcision whych beleued, were astonyed, as many as came w̃ Peter, because that on the Gentyls also was sheed oute the gyfte of ỳ holy goost. For they harde them speake with tonges & magnify God. Then answered Peter: cã eny mã forbid water, ỳ these shuld not be baptised, whych haue receaued the holy goost as well as we? And he commaunded them to be baptysed in the name of the Lorde. ✠ Then prayde they him: to tary a feawe dayes.

And the Apostles & elders came to gether to reason of this matter.

And whē ther was moche disputynge/Peter rose vp & sayd vnto thē: Ye men & brethrē/ ye knowe how that a good whyle agoo/ God chose amōge vs ỹ the Gentyls by my mouth shuld heare the worde of the Gospell and beleue. And God which knoweth the hert/bare them wytnes/ and gaue vnto them the holy goost/ euen as he dyd vnto vs and he put no difference betwene thē & vs/ but wyth fayth a * purified their hertes. Now therfore why tempte ye God/that ye wolde put a yoke on the disciples neckes/ whych nether oure fathers nor we were able to beare. But we beleue that thorowe the grace of the Lorde Jesu Christ/we shalbe saued/as they do. Then all the multytude was peased and gaue audience to Barnabas and Paul/ which tolde what sygnes and wonders God had shewed amonge the Gentyls by them.

a * Fayth purified their hertes &c. Their hertes were purifyed wt fayth/ because they receaued by fayth/that their synnes were not inputed vnto them/ but forgeuē for Christes bloudes sake.

And whē they helde their peace James answered saying: Men & brethren herken vnto me. Simeon tolde how God at ỹ beginning dyd visit ỹ Gentyls/& receaued of thē/people vnto his name. And to this agreyth ỹ wordes of the Prophetes/as it is writtē. After this I wyll returne/& wyll bylde agayne/the tabernacle of Dauid which is fallen doune/and ỹ which is fallen in dekey of it/ wyll I bylde agayne/and I wyll set it vp/that the residue of men myght seke after the Lorde/ & also ỹ Gētyls b * vpō whō my name is named sayth ỹ Lorde/which doth all these thinges: knowē vnto God are all his workes frō the begynning of the world. Wherfore my sentence is/ that we trouble not thē which frō amōge the Gentyls/are turned to God: but ỹ we wryte vnto thē/ that they absteyne thē selues from filthynes of ymages from fornicacion/from * stranglyd & frō bloude. For Moses of olde tyme hath in euery citie that preache him/ & he is rede in ỹ synagogs euery Saboth daye.

b * Upon whō my name is named &c. That is. Those that shalbe named wt my name: as are those ỹ are called ỹ people of God & ỹ seruauntes of the Lorde/& the cō- D gregacion of Christ/ or the Christen company.

c * Strāgled is ỹ which dyeth & hath not hys bloud shed.

Then pleased it the Apostles & elders wt the whole cōgregacion/to sende chosen men of their awne company to Antioche wt Paul and Barnabas. They sent Judas called also Barsabas/& Sylas/which were chefe men amonge the brethren/and gaue them letters in their handes after this maner.

The Apostles/elders & brethren send gretynges vnto the brethrē which are of ỹ Gentyls in Antioche/Syria and Cylicia. For asmoche as we haue hearde ỹ certayne whych departed from vs/haue troubled you wyth wordes/and combred youre myndes saying: Ye must be circumcyled and kepe the lawe/ to whom we gaue no soche cōmaundement. It semed therfore to vs a good thinge/when we were come to gether with one accorde/to sende chosen men vnto you/wt oure beloued Barnabas and Paul/men that haue ieoparded their lyues for the name of oure Lorde Jesu Christ. We haue sent therfore Judas and Silas/which shall also tell you ỹ same thynges by mouth. For it semed good to the holy goost & to vs/to put no greuous thynge to you/more then these necessary thinges: ỹ is to saye/that ye abstayne from thinges offered to ymages/from bloud/from strāgled and fornicacion. Frō which yf ye kepe youre selues/ye shall do well. So fare ye well.

¶ Whē they were departed/they cam to Antioche and gathered ỹ multytude to gether/ & deliuered the pistle. When they had rede it/ they reioyced of that consolacion. And Judas & Sylas beinge* Prophetes/exhorted ỹ bre thrē with moche preachyng/and strengthed thē. And after they had taryed there a space/ they were let go in peace of the brethrē vnto the Apostles. Not wythstandynge it pleased Sylas to abyde there styll. Paul & Barnabas cōtinued in Antioche teachyng & preachyng ỹ worde of ỹ Lord with other many.

* Prophetes are here taken & in diuerse places of the new Testamēt/for expounders of the scripture.

But after a certayne space/Paul sayd vnto Barnabas: Let vs go agayne and vysite oure brethren in euery cytie where we haue shewed ỹ worde of ỹ Lord/& se how they do.

G And Barnabas gaue counsell to take wyth them John/called also Marcke. But Paul thought it not mete to take hym vnto their cōpany which departed from thē at Pamphilia/& went not with thē to the worcke. And the dissencion was so sharpe betwene them/ ỹ they departed a sunder one from the other: so ỹ Barnabas toke Marcke and sayled vnto Cypers. And Paul chose Sylas & departed/delyuered of the brethrē vnto the grace of God. And he went thorowe all Syria and Cylicia/stablisshinge the conregacions.

¶ Timothy is circumcysed. Paul preacheth at Philippos/and ther is he put in prison.

¶ The.xvi.Chapter.

A THen cam he to Derba & to Lystra. And beholde a certayne disciple was there named Timotheus/a womās sonne which was a Jewesse & beleued: but his father was a Greke. Of whom reported well/the brethren of Lystra & of Iconium. The same Paul wolde that he shuld go forth with him/and toke & circumcised him because of the Jewes whych were in those quarters: for they knewe all/ ỹ hys father was a Greke. As they went thorow the cyties/they deliuered thē ỹ decrees for to kepe/ordeyned of the Apostles and elders/ whych were at Jerusalem. And so were the congregacions stablysshed in the fayth/and encreased in noumbre dayly. B

When they had gone thorow out Phrigia/ & the region of Galacia/and were forbydden of the holy goost to preach the worde in Asia/ they came to Mysia/& sought to go into Bethynia. But the spyrete suffred thē not. Then they went ouer Mysia/and came doune to Troada. And a vision appered to Paul in ỹ nyght. There stode a man of Macedonia and prayed him/sayīg: come in to Macedonia & helpe vs. After he had sene the vision/immediatly we prepared to go in to Macedonia/ certified ỹ the Lord had called vs/for to preache ỹ gospell vnto thē. Then lowsed we forth frō Troada/& with a strayght course cam to Samothracia/& ỹ nexte daye to Neapolim/ & frō thence to Philippos/which is ỹ chefe citie in ỹ partes of Macedonia/& a free citie. C

We were in that citie abyding a certayne dayes. And on ỹ Saboth dayes we wēt out of the citie besydes a ryuer where men were wont to praye. And we sate doune and spake vnto the wemen which resorted thyther. And a certayne woman named Lydia a seller of purple/of the citie of Thyatira/which worshipped God/gaue vs audience. Whose hert the Lorde opened that she attended vnto the thynges/which Paul spake. When she was baptised and her housholde/she besought vs saying: If ye thincke ỹ I beleue on ỹ Lord/ come into my house/& abyde there. And she constrayned vs. D

*And it fortuned as we went to prayer/a certayn damsell possessed with a spyrete that prophesyed/met vs/which brought her master & mastres moche vauntage wt Prophesyinge. The same folowed Paul and vs and cryed sayinge: these men are the seruauntes of the most hye God/which shewe vnto vs ỹ waye of saluacyon. And thys dyd she many dayes. But Paul not content/turned about and sayde to the spyrete. I commaunde the in the name of Jesu Christ/that thou come out of her. And he came out the same houre. Leuit.xx.d. Deut.xviij.b. i.Reg.xxviij.a

And when her master and mastres sawe that ỹ hope of their gaynes was gone/they caught Paul and Sylas/and drue thē into the market place vnto the rulars/& brought thē to the officers saying: These men trouble oure cytie/which are Jewes & preache ordi- E

naunces/ which are not laufull for vs to receaue/nether to obserue/ seinge we are Romayns. And ỹ people ranne on thē/ & the officers rent their clothes/ & cōmaunded thē to be beatē w rodes. And when they had beatē them sore/ they cast thē into prison/ cōmaūdynge the iayler to kepe them surely. Which iayler when he had receaued suche cōmaundement/ thrust them into the vnner prison/ & made their fete fast in the stockes.

F At mydnight Paul & Sylas prayed/ and lauded God. And the prisoners hearde them. And sodenly ther was a greate erthquake/ so that the foundacion of ỹ prison was shakē/ & by & by all ỹ dores opened/ & euery mānes bandes were lowsed. When the keper of the prison waked out of his slepe & sawe the prison dores open he drue oute his swearde and wolde haue kylled him selfe/ supposinge the prisoners had bene fledde. But Paul cried w a loude voyce saying: do thy selfe no harme/ for we are all heare. Then he called for a lyght and sprange in and cam tremblynge/ & fell doune before Paul & Sylas/ & brought thē oute & sayde: Syrs what must I do to be saued? And they sayde: beleue on the Lorde Jesus & thou shalt be saued & thy household. And they preached vnto him the worde of the G Lord/ & to all that were in his house. And he toke thē the same houre of the nyght & washed their woundes/ & was baptised with all ỹ belonged vnto him straight waye. When he had brought thē into his house/ he set meate before them/ and ioyed that he with all hys household/ beleued on God.

And when it was daye/ the officers sent ỹ ministers sayīg: let those men go. The keper of the prison tolde this sayinge to Paul/ the officers haue sent worde to lowse yow. Now therfore get you hēce and go in peace. Then sayd Paul vnto thē: they haue beatē vs openly vncondēpned/ for all ỹ we are Romayns/ & haue cast vs into prison: & now wolde they sende vs awaye preuely? Naye not so/ but let thē come thē selues & fet vs out. When ỹ ministers tolde these words vnto ỹ officers/ they feared when they hearde that they were Romayns/ & cam & besought thē/ and brought thē out/ and desyred them to departe out of ỹ cytie. And they went out of ỹ prison & entred into ỹ house of Lidia/ & when they had sene the brethren/ they cōforted them & departed.

¶ Paul cōmeth to Thessalonica/ wher the Jewes set the cytie on a rore. Paul escapeth/ & commeth to Athens/ where he preacheth the true & vnknowne God

¶ The. xvij. Chapter.

A S they made their iorney thorow Amphipolis/ and Appolonia/ they cam to Thessalonica where was a Synagoge of the Jewes. And Paul as his maner was went in vnto them/ & thre sabboth dayes declared out of the scripture vnto them/ * openynge & allegynge that Christ must nedes haue suffred and risen agayne from deeth/ and that this Jesus was Christ/ whom (sayd he) I preache to you. And some of them beleued & cam and companyed with Paul and Sylas: also of the honourable Grekes a greate multitude & of ỹ chefe wemen/ not a feawe. Luke. xxiiij. g.

But ỹ Jewes which beleued not hauyng indignacīō/ toke vnto them euyll men which were vagabondes/ & gathered a company/ & B set all the cytie on a rore/ and made assaut vnto the house of Jason/ & sought to bringe them out to the people. But whē they founde them not/ they drue Jason and certayne brethrē vnto the heedes of ỹ citie cryinge: these/ that trouble the worlde are come hyther also which Jason hath receaued preuely.* And these all do contrary to the decrees of Cesar/ affirmynge another kynge/ one Jesus. And they troubled the people & the officers of the cytie/ when they hearde these thynges. And when they were sufficiently answered of Jason & of the other/ they let them go. John. xix. c.

And the brethren immediatly sent awaye Paul and Sylas by nyghte vnto Berrea. ¶ Which when they were come thyther/ they C entred in to the Synagoge of the Jewes. These were the noblest of byrthe amōge thē of Thessalonia/ whych receaued the worde wyth all dyligence of mynde/ and searched *the scriptures dayly whether those thinges were euen so. And many of them beleued: also of worshypfull wemen whych were Grekes/ and of men not a feawe. Whē the Jewes of Thessalonia had knowledge that ỹ worde of God was preached of Paul at Berrea/ they came and moued the people there. And then by and by the brethrē sent awaye Paul to go as it were to the see: but Sylas & Timotheus abode there styll. And they that gyded Paul/ brought him vnto Athens/ and re- D ceaued a cōmaūdemēt vnto Sylas & Timotheus for to come to him atōce & came their waye. ¶ Whill Paul wayted for thē at Athēs/ his spyrete was moued in him/ to se the cytie geuen to worshippyng of ymages. Then he disputed in the synagoge w the Jewes/ & w ỹ deuout personnes/ and in the market dayly with them that came vnto hym. Certayne Philosophers of the Epicures and of the Stoyckes/ disputed with him. And some ther were which sayd: what will this babler saye? Other sayde: he semeth to be a tydynges bringer of newe deuils/ because he preached vnto them Jesus & the resurrecciō. And they toke him/ & brought hym into Marce strete E sayinge: maye we not knowe what this new * Searche the scriptures for by them maye ye trye all doctrine.

¶ Paul preacheth at Corinthum/contynuing there ayere and a half/goeth agayne into Syria/ cōmeth to Ephesus/Cesarea and Antioche. Of Apollos/Aquila and Priscilla.

¶ The.xviij. Chapter.

A After that Paul departed from Athens & came to Corinthū/& foūde a certayne Iewe named Aquila borne in Ponthus/lately come frō Italie with his wyfe Priscilla (because that the Emperour Claudius had cōmaunded all Iewes to departe from Rome) & he drewe vnto thē. And because he was of ỹ same crafte/ he abode with them & wrought: their crafte was to make tentes. And he preached in the synagoge euery Saboth daye/ & exhorted ỹ Iewes and the gentyls.

When Silas and Timotheus were come from Macedonia/Paul was cōstrayned by the spyrite to testifie to the Iewes that Iesus was very Christ. And when they sayde cōtrary & blasphemed/ he shoke hys rayment and sayde vnto thē: youre bloud vpō youre awne heedes/ & from hence forth I go blameles vnto the gentyls. And he departed thence/ & entred into a certayne mannes house named Iustus a worshypper of God/ whose house ioyned hard to the synagoge. How beit one Crispus the chefe ruler of the synagoge beleued on the Lorde wyth all his housholde/ & many of the Corinthians gaue audiēce/ & beleued and were baptised.

Then spake the Lorde to Paul in the nyght by a vision: be not afrayde/ but speake/and holde not thy peace: for I am with the/ & noman shall inuade the that shall hurte the. For I haue moche people in this citie. And he cōtinued there a yeare and syxe monethes/ and taught them the worde of God.

When Gallio was ruler of the countre of Acaia the Iewes made insurreccion with one accorde agaynst Paul/ & brought him to the iudgement seate/saying: this felow counceleth men to worshyp God cōtrary to ỹ lawe. And as Paul was about to open his mouth/ Gallio sayde vnto the Iewes: yf it were a matter of wronge/ or an euyll dede (O ye Iewes) reason wold that I shulde heare you: but yf it be a question of wordes/ or of names/ or of youre lawe/ loke ye to it youre selues. For I wyll be no iudge in soche matters/ & he draue thē frō the seate. Then toke all the Grekes Sosthenes ỹ chefe ruler of the Synagoge/ & smote him before ỹ iudges seate. And Gallio cared for none of those thynges.

Paul after this/ taryed there yet a good whyle/ & then toke his leaue of the brethrē/ & sayled thence into Ciria/ Priscilla & Aquila accōpanying him. And a* he shore his heed in Cenchrea/for he had a vowe. And he cam to Ephesus & lefte them there: but he hym selfe entred into the Synagoge/ and reasoned with the Iewes. When they desyred hym to tary longer tyme with them, he cōsented not/ but bad them fare well sayinge. I must nedes at this feast that cometh/be in Ierusalem: but I will returne agayne vnto you/ yf God will And he departed from Ephesus & came vnto F Cesarea: & ascended and saluted the cōgregacion/ & departed vnto Antioche/ & whē he had taryed there a whyle he departed. And went ouer all the countre of Galacia and Phrygia by order/ strengthinge all the disciples.

And a certayne Iewe named Apollos/ borne

And whẽ he was disposed to go into Acaia / the brethren wrote exhortynge the disciples to receaue him. After he was come thyther / he holpe them moche which had beleued thorow grace. And myghtely he ouercame the Jewes / and that openly / shewynge by the scriptures that Jesus was Christ.

C Of the xii. men whom Paul baptised at Ephesus / and what miracles were done by him. Demetrius moueth sedicion in the cytie.

C The .xix. Chapter. ✠

A IT forturned whyll Apollo was at Corinthum / that Paul passed thorow the vpper costes and came to Ephesus / & founde certayne disciciples / & sayde vnto thẽ: haue ye receaued the holy goost sence ye beleued? And they sayde vnto hym: no we haue not hearde whether ther be eny holy goost or no. And he sayde vnto thẽ: wherwith were ye then baptised? And they sayd: a*with Johns baptyme. Then sayd Paul: John verely baptised with the baptim of repentaunce / saying vnto the people that they shuld beleue on him / which shuld come after him: that is on Christ Jesus. Whẽ they hearde that / they were baptised in the name of the Lorde Jesu. And Paul layde his hãdes a *Wyth Johns baptime &c. The difference betwene the baptyme of John & ỹ apostles was only this / that Jhon baptised thẽ to beleue in christ that was for to come & the B Apostles baptysed thẽ to beleue in christ which was come all readye & had suffred for ỹ remission of the synnes of as many as beleued in him.
vpon them / & the holy goost came on them / & they spake with tonges / and prophesied / and all the men were about .xii.

And he wẽt into the synagoge / & behaued him selfe boldely for the space of thre monethes / disputinge and geuinge them exhortacions of the kyngdom of God. H When dyuers wered harde herted & beleued not / but spake euyll of the waye / and that before the multitude: he departed from thẽ / and seperated the disciples. And he disputed daylye in ỹ scole of one called Tyrãnus. And this contynued by the space of two yeares: so that all they which dwelt in Asia / hearde the worde of the Lorde Jesu / bothe Jewes & Grekes.
C And God wrought no small myracles by the handes of Paul: so that from his body / were brought vnto ỹ sicke / napkyns or partelettes / and the diseases departed from them / and the euyll spyretes went out of them.

Then certayne of the vagabounde Jewes exorcistes / toke vpon them to call ouer them which had euyll spyretes / the name of ỹ Lord Jesus sayinge: We adiure you by Jesu whõ Paul preacheth. And ther were seuẽ sonnes of one Sceua a Jewe and chefe of ỹ prestes which dyd so. And the euyll spyrete answered D & sayde: Jesus I knowe & Paul I know: but who are ye? And the man in whome the euyll spyrete was / ranne on them / & ouercame thẽ / and preuayled agaynst them / so ỹ they fledde out of that house naked & wounded. And this was knowen to all the Jewes & Grekes also / which dwelt at Ephesus and feare came on them all / and they magnified the name of the Lorde Jesus.

And many that beleued / cam & confessed & shewed their worckes. Many of thẽ which vsed curious craftes / brought their bokes & burned them before all men / & they counted the pryce of them / & founde it fyfty thousand *syluerlynges. So mightely grewe ỹ worde of God / and preuayled. After these thynges were ended / Paul purposed in the spyrete / to passe ouer Macedonia & Achaia / & to go to Jerusalem saying: After I haue bene there / I must also se Rome. So sent he into Macedonia two of thẽ that ministred vnto hym Timotheus and Erastus: but he him selfe remayned in Asia for a season.

* These syluerlynges whych we now and then call pence / the Jewe call sycles / and are worth .x.d pence sterlyng the pece.

E The same tyme ther arose no lytell a do aboute that waye. For a certayne mã named Demetrius / a syluersmyth / which made syluer schrynes for Diana / was not a lytell beneficiall vnto the craftes men. Which he called together wythe workemen of lyke occupacio / & sayd: Syrs / ye knowe ỹ by this crafte we haue vauntage. Moreouer ye se & heare ỹ not alone at Ephesus / but almost thorow out all Asia / this Paul hath perswaded & turned awaye moche people sayinge ỹ they be not goddes which are made with hãdes. So ỹ not only this oure crafte cometh into parell to be set at nought: but also that ỹ tẽple of the greate Goddas Diana shulde be despysed / and her magnificence shulde be destroyed / which all Asia and the worlde worshyppeth.

When they hearde these sayinges / they were full of wrathe / and cryed out sayinge: Greate is Diana of the Ephesians. And all ỹ citie was on a rooze / & they russhed into the comen hall with one assent / & caught Gayus and Aristarcus / men of Macedonia / Pauls companiõs. When Paul wolde haue entred in vnto the people / the disciples suffered him not. Certayne also of the chefe of Asia which F were his frendes / sent vnto hym / desyringe him that he wolde not preace into the comen hall. Some cryed one thynge and some another / & the cõgregacion was all out of quiet / and ỹ moare parte knewe not wherfore they were come together.

Some

Some of the company drue forth Alexander / the Jewes thrustynge hym forwardes. Alexander beckened with the hand / & wolde haue geuē the people an answer. When they knew ꝑ he was a Jewe / ther arose a shoute almost for the space of two houres / of all mē crynge: great is Diana of the Ephesians.

When ꝑ toune clarcke had ceased ꝑ people / he sayde: ye men of Ephesus / what man is it that knoweth not how that the cytye of the Ephesians is a worshipper of ꝑ great godes Diana / & G b* of the ymage which cam frō heauen. Seinge then that no mā sayth here agaynst / ye ought to be content / and to do no thing rashly: for ye haue brought hither these mē which are nether robbers of churches / not yet despisers of youre goddes. Wherfore yf Demetrius & the craftes men whych are with him / haue eny sayinge to eny man / the lawe is open / and ther are rulers / let thē accuse one another. If ye goo aboute eny other thynge / it maye be determined in a lawfull congregacyon. For we are in ieopardy to be accused of this dayes busynes: for as moche as ther is no cause wherby we maye geue a reckenynge of thys concourse of people. And when he had thus spoken he let the congregacion departe.

b* Of ꝑ Image which came from heauen. They ꝑ made Images amōge the Grekes / to thintēt to wynne ꝑ moare aduauntage ther by / fayned that they were send from Jupiter forth of heuen / and that they were not mortall or subiect to death.

¶ Paul goeth in to Macedonia and into Grece. At Troas he rayseth vp a deed body. At Ephesus he calleth the elders of the congregacion together / commytteth the kepyng of Gods flocke vnto them / warneth them of false teachers / maketh his prayer wyth them / and departeth to shippe.

¶ The .xx. Chapter.

After the rage was ceased / Paul A called ꝑ disciples vnto him / & toke hys leaue of thē / & departed for to go into Macedonia. And when he had gone ouer those partyes / & geuen them large exhortaciōs / he cam into Grece / & there abode iij. monethes. And when the Jewes layde wayt for him as he was about to sayle into Syria / he purposed to returne thorow Macedonia. Ther accompanied him into Asia / Sopater of Berrea / and of Thessalonia Aristarcus and Secundus / and Gayus of Derba / and Timotheus: & oute of Asia Tychicus and Trophimos. These went before / B & taryed vs at Troas. And we sayled awaye from Philippos after the ester holy dayes / & cam vnto thē to Troas in fyue dayes / where we abode seuen dayes.

And on ꝑ morowe after ꝑ Saboth daye ꝑ disciples cam to gether for to breake breed / and Paul preached vnto thē (redy to departe on the morowe) & continued the preachynge vnto mydnyght. And ther were many lightes in the chamber where they were gathered to gether / & ther sate in a wyndowe a certayne yonge mā named Eutichus / fallē into a depe sleepe. And as Paul declared / he was the moare ouercome with slepe / & fell doune frō the thyrde lofte / & was taken vp deed. * Paul C wēt doune and fell on him / & embraced him / iij. When he was come vp agayne / he brake breed / & talcked / and comened a longe whyle euen tyll the morynng / & so departed. And they brought the younge man a lyue / & were not a lytell comforted.

And we went a fore to shippe / and lowsed vnto Asson there to receaue Paul. For so had he apoynted / and wolde him selfe goo a fote. When he was come vnto vs to Asson / we toke him in / & came to Mytilenes. And we sayled thence / and cam the nexte daye ouer agaynst Chios. And the nexte daye we ariued at Samos / and taried at Trogilon. The nexte daye we came to Myleton: for Paul had determined to leaue Ephesus as they sayled / because he wolde not spende the tyme in Asia. For he hasted to be (yf he coulde possible) at Jerusalem at the daye of Pentecoste. Wherfore frō D Myleton he sent to Ephesus / and called the elders of the congregacion. And when they were come to him / he sayd vnto thē: Ye know from the fyrst daye that I cam into Asia / after what maner I haue bene with you at all ceasons / seruynge the Lorde wyth all humblenes of mynde / & with many teares / & tēptaciōs which happened vnto me by ꝑ layinge awayte of the Jewes / & how I kepte backe nothinge ꝑ was profitable: but that I haue shewed you & taught you opēly and at home in your houses / witnessing both to ꝑ Jewes / & also to the Grekes / the repentaūce toward God / & fayth toward oure Lorde Jesus.

And now beholde I go bounde in ꝑ spyrete vnto Jerusalē / & knowe not what shall come E on me there / but ꝑ the holy goost witnesseth in euery cytie sayinge: that bandes & trouble abyde me. But none of those thynges moue me: nether is my lyfe dere vnto my selfe / that I myght fulfill my course with ioye / and the mynistracion which I haue receaued of the Lorde Jesu / to testifye ꝑ Gospell of ꝑ grace of God.

And now beholde / I am sure ꝑ hence forth ye all (thorow whō I haue gone preachinge the kyngdō of God) shall se my face no more. * Wherfore I take you to recorde thys same ff daye / that I am pure from the bloude of all ij. Reg. iij. f. men. For I haue kepte nothynge backe: but Daniel. iij. c. haue shewed you all ꝑ cōsell of God. Take hede therfore vnto youre selues and to all the flocke / where of ꝑ holy goost hath made you ouer seares / to rule the cōgregacion of God / which he hath purchased w̄ his bloude. * For i. Timo. iij. a. I am sure of this / that after my departynge ij. Cor. xi. c. shall greuous wolues entre in amōge you / ij. Pet. ij. a. Jude. i. f which wyll not spare the flocke. Moreouer of youre awne selues shall men aryse speakinge peruerse thinges to drawe disciples after thē. Therfore awake & remēber/ ꝑ by the space of iij. yeres I ceased not to warne euery one of you both nyght & daye with teares.

And now brethrē I cōmende you to God & to ꝑ worde of his grace/which is able to bilde further & to geue you an inheritaūce amōge all thē which are sanctifyed. I haue desyred no mans syluer/golde/or vesture. Ye knowe well ꝑ these handes haue ministred vnto my necessities/& to thē ꝑ were with me. I haue shewed you all thinges/how ꝑ so laborynge ye ought to receaue the weake & to remēber the wordes of ꝑ Lorde Jesu/how ꝑ he sayd: it is more blessed to geue then to receaue.

When he had thus spokē/he kneled doune & prayed wᵗ thē all. And they wept all aboundātly & fell on Pauls necke/& kissed hym/sorowinge most of all for the wordes which he spake/ that they shulde se hys face no more. And they acompanied him vnto the shippe.

¶ Pauls Journeye by shyppe. Of Philippe the Euāgeliste/and Agabus the Prophet/which warned Paul not to go to Jerusalem. He remayned stedfast in hys purpose/and is taken in the temple.

¶ The.xxi. Chapter.

And it chaunced that assone as we had launched forth/& were departed from them/ we came wyth a straight course vnto Choon and ꝑ daye folowyng vnto the Rhodes/ & frō thēce vnto Patara. And we founde a shippe redy to sayle vnto Phenices/and went a borde & set forthe. Then appered vnto vs Cyprus/& we lefte it on the lefte hande/& sayled vnto Syria & cam vnto Tyre. For there ꝑ shippe vnladed her burthen. And when we had founde brethren we taryed there. vij. dayes. And they tolde Paul thorowe the spyrete/ that he shuld not go vp to Jerusalem. And when the dayes were ended/we departed & wēt oure wayes/ and they all brought vs on oure waye/ wyth their wyues & chyldren/ tyll we were come out of the cytie. And we kneled doune in the shore & prayde. And when we had takē oure leaue one of another/we toke shippe/& they returned home agayne.

When we had full ended the course from Tyre we arryued at Ptolomaida/ & saluted the brethrē/ & a bode with thē one daye. The nexte daye/ we that were of Pauls cōpany departed & came vnto Cesarea. And we entred into the house of Philip the Euangelist/ which was one of the seuē deacones & abode wᵗ him. The same man had fower daughters virgens/which dyd prophesy.* And as we taryed there a good mayny of dayes/there cam a certayne prophet from Jurie/named Agabus. When he was come vnto vs/ he toke Pauls gerdell/ & bounde his hādes & fete/ & sayde: Thus sayth the holy goost: so shall the Jewes at Jerusalem bynde the mā ꝑ oweth thys gerdell/ and shall delyuer hym into the handes of the Gentyls.

When we hearde this/both we & other of the same place/ besought him that he wolde not go vp to Jerusalē. Then Paul answered and sayde: what do ye weppynge & breakinge myne herte? I am redy not to be bound only/ but also to dye at Jerusalē for the name of ꝑ Lorde Jesu. When we coulde not turne hys mynde/we ceased/ sayinge: the wyll of the Lord be fulfilled. After those dayes we made oure selues redy/ & wēt vp to Jerusalē. Ther went with vs also certayne of the disciples of Cesarea/ & brought with them one Mnason of Cyprus/an olde disciple with whome we shulde lodge. And when we were come to Jerusalem/the brethren receaued vs gladly And on the morowe Paul wēt in with vs vnto James. And all the elders came to gether. And when he had saluted them/ he tolde by order all thyngs/ ꝑ God had wrought amōge the gentyls by his ministracyon. And when they hearde it/they glorifyed the Lorde/ and sayd vnto him: Thou seest brother/ how many thousande Jewes ther are which beleue/ and they are all * zelous ouer the lawe. And they are informed of the/ that thou teachest all the Jewes which are amonge ꝑ gentyls/ to forsake Moses/and sayst that they ought not to circumcyse their chyldrē nether to lyue after the customes. What is it therfore? The multytude must nedes come together. For they shall heare ꝑ thou arte come. Do therfore this that we saye to the.

* zelouse is: geloese/as a mā is ouer hys wyfe.

* We haue. iiij. men/which haue a bowe on them. Them take/& purifye thy selfe wyth thē/and do cost on thē/ that they maye shaue their heddes and all shall knowe that those thinges which they haue hearde concernyng the/are nothinge: but that thou thy selfe also walkest & kepest the lawe. For as touchyng the gentyls which beleue/ we haue writtē & concluded/that they obserue no soche thyngs: but that they kepe them selues from thyngs offred to ydoles/from bloud/frō strangled/& from fornicacion. Then the nexte daye Paul toke the men/& purified him selfe with them and entred into the temple/ declarynge that he obserued the dayes of the purificacion/vntyll ꝑ an offerynge shuld be offered for euery one of them.

And as the seuen dayes shuld haue bene ended/ ꝑ Jewes which were of Asia when they sawe him in the tēple/they moued all ꝑ people/and layde handes on him cryinge: men of Israel/helpe. This is the man that teacheth all men euery where agaynst the people and ỹ lawe/& this place. Moreouer also he hath brought Grekes into the tẽple/& hath polluted thys holy place. For they sawe one Trophimus an Ephesian wyth him in the cytye. Him they supposed Paul had brought into the tẽple. And all the cytie was moued/& the people swarmed to gether. And they toke Paul and drue hym oute of the temple / and forth with the dores were shut to.

As they went about to kyll hym/tydinges came vnto the hye captayne of the soudyers/ that all Jerusalem was moued. Which immediatly toke soudiers & vndercaptaynes/& ranne doune vnto them. When they sawe ỹ hyper captayne & the soudiers they lefte smytinge of Paul. Then the captayne cam neare & toke him/and cõmaunded him to be bounde wt two chaynes/& demaunded what he was/ & what he had done. And one cryed this/another ỹ amõge the people. And when he coulde not knowe ỹ certayntie for the rage/he commaũded him to be caryed into the castle. And when he cam vnto a Grece/ it fortuned that he was borne of the soudiers for the violẽce of the people. For the multitude of ỹ people folowed after crynge: awaye with him.

And as Paul shulde haue bene caried into the castle / he sayde vnto the hye Captayne: maye I speake vnto the? Which sayde: Cãst thou speake Greke? Arte not thou that Egyptian which before these dayes made an vproure/ and ledde out into the wyldernes. iiij. thousande men that were mortherers? But Paul sayde: I am a mã which am a Jewe of Tharsus a citie in Cicill a Citezin of no vyle cytie/ I beseche the sofkre me to speake vnto the peope. When he had geuen him lycence/ Paul stode on the steppes / and beckened wt the hande vnto the people/ & ther was made a great sylence. And he spake vnto them in ỹ hebrue tonge sayinge.

¶ Paule answereth the Jewes/is scourged/and layde in prison agayne.

¶ The. xxij. Chapter

Men/brethrẽ and fathers/ heare myne answere which I make vnto you. When they hearde ỹ he spake in the Ebrue tonge to them / they kept ỹ more sylence. And he sayd: I am verely a mã which am a Jewe borne in Tharsus/ a cytie in Cycill: neuertheles yet brought vp in this cytie/at the fete of Gamaliel/and informed diligently in ỹ lawe of the fathers/ & was feruent mynded to God warde/as ye all are this same daye/& * I persecuted this waye vnto the deeth byndynge & delyuerynge into prison bothe men & wemen/ as ỹ chefe prest doth beare me wytnes / & all ỹ elders of whom also I receaued letters vnto ỹ brethren / and went to Damasco to bringe thẽ which were there bounde vnto Jerusalem for to be punyshed.

Act.viii.a. and.ix.a

And it fortuned/as I made my iorney and was come nye vnto Damasco aboute none that sodenly ther shone from heauen a great lyght rounde aboute me / and I fell vnto the erth/& heard a voyce sayīg vnto me.* Saul Saul/why persecutest thou me? And I answered: what arte thou Lorde? And he sayde to me: I am Jesus of Nazareth whom thou persecutest. And they that were wt me / sawe verely a lyghte and were afrayde: but they hearde not ỹ voyce of him ỹ spake with me. And I sayde: what shall I do Lorde? And the Lord sayd vnto me: Aryse & go in to Damasco and there it shalbe tolde the of all thinges which are apoynted for the to do. And when I sawe nothing for ỹ bryghtnes of ỹ lyght/ I was ledde by the hande of them that were with me/ and came into Damasco.

Act.viii.a.

And one Ananias a perfect mã/ & as pertaynynge to the lawe hauynge good report of all the Jewes which there dwelt/cam vnto me/and stode and sayde vnto me: Brother Saul/looke vp. And ỹ same houre I receaued my syght and sawe him. And he sayd/ the God of oure fathers hath ordeyned ỹ before/ ỹ thou shuldest knowe his will/ & shuldest se that which is ryghtfull/ & shuldest heare the voyce of hys mouthe: for thou shalt be hys wytnes vnto all men of those thyngs/ which thou hast sene and hearde. And now: why tariest thou? Aryse and be baptised/and wesshe awaye thy synnes / in callynge on the name of the Lorde. And it fortuned / when I was come agayne to Jerusalem & prayde in the tẽple/that I was in a traunce/and sawe him sayīg vnto me. Make haste/ & get ỹ quyckly out of Jerusalem: for they wyll not receaue thy wytnes that thou bearest of me. And I sayde: Lord they knowe that I presoned/and bet in euery synagoge thẽ ỹ beleued on the. And when the blood of thy wytnes Steuen was shed, I also stode by / & consented vnto his deeth & kept the raymẽt of thẽ that slewe him. And he sayd vnto me: departe/ for I will sende the afarre hence vnto the Gentyls.

They gaue him audiẽce vnto this worde/ and then lyfte vp their voyces & sayd: awaye with soche a selowe from the erth: it is pytie that he shuld lyue. And as they cryed & cast of their clothes/and threw dust into the ayer/ the captayne bad him to be brought into the castle/& cõmaunded him to be scourged/& to be examined/ that he myght know wherfore they cryed on hym. And as they bounde hym with thonges/Paul sayde vnto ỹ Centurion that stode by: Is it laufull for you to scourge a man that is a Romayn and vncõdempned?

When

When the Centurion hearde that / he went/ and tolde the vpper Captayne saying: What intēdest thou to do? This mā is a Romayn.

G Then the vpper Captayne cam/ & sayd to him: tell me/ art thou a Romayne? He sayd: Ye. And the captayne answered: with a great some obtayned I this fredō: And Paul sayde: I was fre borne. Then straycht waye departed from him/ they which shulde haue examined hym. And the hye Captayne also was afrayde/ after he knewe that he was a Romayne: because he had bounde him.

On the morowe because he wolde haue knowen the certayntie wherfore he was accused of the Iewes/ he lowsed him from hys bondes/ and commaunded the hye Prestes & all the counsell to come together/ & brought Paul and set him before them.

¶ Paul commeth before the councell. Debate aryseth amōge the people/ the Captayne delyvereth him/ God comforteth hym.

¶ The .xxiij. Chapter.

A PAul beheld the councell and sayd: men and brethren/ I haue lyued in Iosu.iiij.b. all good cōscience before God* vntyll this daye. The hye prest Ananias cōmaunded thē that stode by / to smyte him on the mouth. Then sayde Paul to hym: God smyte the thou paynted wall. Sittest thou and iudgest me after the lawe: and commaundest me to be smytten contrary to the lawe? And they that stode by sayde: revylest thou Goddes hye Preste? Then sayde Paul: I wist not brethren ỹ he was the hye preste. Exod.xxii.d. For it is wrytte:* thou shalt not curse the ruler of thy people.

B When Paul perceaued that the one parte were Saduces/ and the other Pharises: he cryed out in the councell. Men and brethē/ Philip.iij.a. *I am a Pharisaye/ ỹ sonne of a Pharisaye. Of the hope and resurreccion from deeth / I am Iudged. And when he had so sayde / ther arose a debate betwene the Pharisayes & the Saduces/ and the multitude was deuyded. Math.xxij.c. *For the Saduces saye that ther is no resurrecciō/ nether angell/ nor spyrete. But ỹ Pharisayes graunt bothe. And ther arose a great crye/ and the Scribes which were of ỹ Pharisayes parte/ arose and stroue sayinge: we fynde none euyll in this mā. Though a spyrete or an angell hath spered to hym/ lett vs not stryue agaynst God.

C And when ther arose greate debate / the captayne fearyng lest Paul shuld haue bene pluckt a sonder of them / cōmaunded ỹ soudiers to go doune/ & to take him frō amonge them and to bryng hym into the castell. The nyght folowyng / God stode by him & sayde: be of good cheare Paul: for as thou hast testified of me in Ierusalem/ so must thou beare wytnes at Rome. When daye was come/ certayne of the Iewes gathered them selues together/ and made a vowe/ sayinge / that they wolde nether eate nor dryncke tyll they had kylled Paul. They were about .xl. which had made this conspiracion. And they came to ỹ chefe Preste and elders/ and sayde: we haue bounde oure selues with a vowe/ ỹ we wyll eate nothynge vntyll we haue slayne Paul. D Now therfore geue ye knowledge to the vpper captayne & to the councell/ that he bring him forth vnto vs to morow / as though we wolde knowe some thynge more perfectly of him. But we (or euer he come neare) are redy in the meane season to kyll him.

When Pauls systers sonne hearde of their layinge awayte/ he went and entred into the castle/ and tolde Paul. And Paul called one of the vnder captaynes vnto him/ and sayde: bryng this younge man vnto the hye Captayne: for he hath a certayne thyng to shewe him. And he toke him and sayde: Paul ỹ presoner called me vnto him/ and prayed me to bryng this younge man vnto the / which hath a certayne matter to shewe the.

The hye captayne toke him by the hand & E went a parte with him oute of the waye: and asked him: what hast thou to saye vnto me? And he sayde: the Iewes are determyned to desyre the ỹ thou wouldest bringe forth Paul to morowe into the councell/ as though they wolde enquire somwhat of him more perfectly. But folowe not their myndes: for ther lye in wayte for him of thē/ more then .xl. men/ which haue bounde them selues w a vowe/ that they wyll nether eate ner dryncke tyll they haue killed him. And now are they redy/ and loke for thy promes.

The vpper captayne let the younge man departe & charged hym: se thou tell it out to no man ỹ thou hast shewed these thynges to me. And he called vnto him two vnder Captaynes sayinge: make redy two hundred soudiers to go to Cesarea & horsmen threscore & ten/ & speare men two hundred/ at the thirde houre of the nyght. And delyure thē beastes that they maye put Paul on/ and bringe him safe vnto Felix the hye debyte / and wrote a letter in this maner. F

Claudius Lysias vnto the most myghty rular Felix/ sendeth gretyng. This mā was takē of the Iewes/ & shuld haue bene kylled of thē. Then came I with soudiers/ & reskued him/ & perceaued that he was a Romayne. And when I wolde haue knowen the cause/ wherfore they accused him/ I broughte hym forth into their councell. There perceaued I D ỹ he was accused of questions of their lawe: but was not gylty of eny thynge worthy of deeth or of bondes. Afterwarde when it was shewed me how ỹ the Jewes layde wayte for the mā/I sent him straycht waye to the/and gaue cōmaundment to his accusars/ yf they had ought agaynst him/to tell it vnto ỹ: fare well. Then the soudiers as it was cōmaunded thē/toke Paul/& brought him by nyghte to Antipatras. On the morowe they lefte ỹ horsmen to go with him/& returned vnto the castle. Which when they came to Cesarea/ they delyuered the epistle to the debyte/& presented Paul before him. Whē the debyte had redde the letter/ he asked of what countre he was. And whē he vnderstode ỹ he was of Cicill/I wyll heare the (sayde he) whē thyne accusars are come also: & cōmaūded him to be kepte in Herodes pallys.

¶ Paul is accused before Felix/he answereth for him selfe.

¶ The.xxiiij.Chapter.

A Fter fyue dayes / Ananias the hye Preste descended / wyth elders and wyth a certayne Orator named Tartullus / & enformed ỹ rular of Paul. When Paul was called forth/Tartullus begāne to accuse him saying: Seinge ỹ we lyue in great quietnes by ỹ meanes of ỹ/ & that many good thinges are done vnto this nacion thorowe thy prouidence: ỹ alowe we euer & in all places most myghty Felix wyth all thanckes. Not withstandynge / that I be not tedeous vnto the/I praye the/that thou woldest heare vs of thy curtesy a feaw word
B We haue founde this man a* pestilent fe-
*Prouer.xv.b and,xxix.b. lowe/& a mouer of debate vnto all ỹ Jewes thorow out the worlde/and a mayntayner of ỹ secte of the Nazarites/& hath also enforced to pollute the tēple. Whom we toke & wolde haue iudged accordnge to oure lawe: but the hye captayne Lysias came vpon vs/ & wyth great violence toke him awaye oute of oure handes cōmaundynge hys accusars to come to the. Of whom thou mayst (yf thou wilt enquyre) knowe the certayne of all these things
C wherof we accuse hym. The Jewes lykewyse affermed / sayinge that it was euen so.

Then Paul (after that the rular hym selfe had beckened vnto him that he shuld speake) answered: I shall with a moare quiet mynde answere for my selfe/ for as moche as I vnderstande that thou hast bene of many yeres a iudge vnto this people / because that thou
D mayst knowe ỹ there are yet / but.xij. dayes sence I went vp to Jerusalem for to praye/& they nether founde me in the temple dysputynge wyth eny man / ether raysynge vp the people nether in the Synagoges/ nor in the cytye: Nether can they proue the thynges wherof they accuse me.

But this I confesse vnto the/that after ỹ waye (which they call heresy) so worshippe I the God of my fathers/beleuinge all thynges which are writtē in the lawe & ỹ Prophetes & haue hope towardes God/that the same resurreccion of the deed (which they thē selues loke for also) shalbe/ both of iust and vniust. And therfore study I to haue a cleare consciencie towarde God/& toward mā also.

But after many yeres I came & brought almes to my peple & offeringes in the which they founde me purified in ỹ temple/nether with multitude/nor yet wt vnquietnes/how beit there were certayne Jewes out of Asia/ which ought to be here present before the/ & accuse me/yf they had ought agaynst me: or E els lett these same here saye / yf they haue founde eny euyll doinge in me/whyll I stāde here in the councell: except it be for thys one voyce/that I cryed standyng amonge them/ of the resurreccion from deeth am I iudged of you this daye.

Whē Felix hearde these things/ he deferde them/for he knewe very well of that waye/ & sayde: when Lysias the captayne is come/ I wyll knowe the vtmost of youre matters. And he cōmaūded an vndercaptayne to kepe
F Paul and that he shuld haue rest/and that he shuld forbyd none of hys acquayntaunce to minister vnto him/or to come vnto him.

And after a certayne dayes/cam Felix & his wyfe Drusilla which was a Jewas/& called forth Paul/ and hearde him of ỹ fayth which is toward Christ. And as he preached of rygh teousnes/temperaūce/& iudgemēt to come/ Felix trembled and answered: thou hast done
G ynough at this tyme /departe/ when I haue cōueniēt time/I wyll sende for the. He hoped also that money shulde haue bene geuē hym of Paul/that he myght lowse him: wherfore he called hym ỹ oftenner and comened wyth him. But after two yere Festus Porcius cam into Felix roume. And Felix willyng to shew the Jewes a pleasure / lefte Paul in prison bounde.

¶ The Jewes accuse Paule before Festus/he appeaseth vnto the Emperoure/and is sent vnto Rome.

W Hen Festus was come into ỹ pro-
H uince/after thre dayes/he ascended from Cesarea vnto Jerusalē. Then enformed hym the hye Prestes and the chefe of the Jewes of Paul. And they besought him & desyred fauour agaynst hym/ that he wolde sende for him to Jerusalem: & layde awayte for him in ỹ waye/to kyll him. Festus answered that Paul shulde be kept at Cesarea: but that he hym selfe wolde shortly departe thyther. Let them therfore (sayde he) whych amonge you are able to do it / come doune with vs and accuse him/yf ther be eny faute in the man.

When

B When he had taryed there moare then ten dayes/he departed vnto Cesarea/& the nexte daye sate doune in the iudgement seate/& cõmaunded Paul to be brought. When he was come/the Iewes which were come frõ Ierusalem/cam aboute hym and layde many and greueous cõplayntes agaynst Paul/ whych they coulde not proue as longe as he answered for hym selfe/that he had nether agaynst ỹ lawe of the Iewes/nether agaynst the temple/nor yet agaynst Cesar offended eny thynge at all.

C Festus wyllinge to do ỹ Iewes a pleasure answered Paul & sayde: wylt thou go to Ierusalem and there be iudged of these thinges before me? Then sayde Paul: I stande at Cesars iudgement seate/where I ought to be iudged. To the Iewes haue I no harme done/ as thou very well knowest. If I haue hurte thẽ/or cõmytted eny thinge worthy of deeth I refuse not to dye. If none of these thinges are/where of they accuse me/no man ought to delyuer me to them. I appeale vnto Cesar Then spake festus with delyberacion/& answered. Thou hast appealed vnto Cesar: vnto Cesar shalt thou go.

D After a certayne dayes/kynge Agrippa & Bernice came vnto Cesarea to salute Festus And whẽ they had bene there a good season/ Festus rehersed Pauls cause vnto the kinge saying: ther is a certayne man left in prison of Felix/about whom when I came to Ierusalem the hye Prestes & elders of the Iewes enformed me/and desyred to haue iudgemẽt E agaynst him. To whõ I answered: It is not the maner of ỹ Romayns to delyuer eny mã/ that he shuld perisshe/before that he which is accused/haue the accusars before hym/ and haue lycence to answer for him selfe concernynge ỹ cryme layde agaynst him: when they were come hyther/without delaye on the morowe I sate to geue iudgemẽt/& cõmaunded the man to be brought forthe. Agaynst whõ whẽ ỹ accusers stode vp/they brought none accusacion of soche thynges as I supposed: but had certayne questions agaynst hym of their awne superstycion/and of one Iesus which was deed whome Paul affirmed to be F alyue. And because I douted of soche maner questions/I asked him whether he wolde go to Ierusalem/& there be iudged of these maters. Then when Paul had appealed to be kept vnto ỹ knowledge of Cesar/I cõmaũded him to be kept/tyll I myght send him to Cesar. Agrippa sayd vnto Festus: I wolde also heare the man my selfe. To morow (sayd he) thou shalt heare hym. And on the morowe when Agrippa was come and Bernice with greate pompe/& were entred into ỹ councell house with the captaynes & chefe men of the citie/at Festus commaundement Paul was brought forth. And Festus sayd: kyng Agrippa/& all men whych are heare present with vs: ye se this man about whom all the multitude of the Iewes haue bene with me/both at Ierusalem/and also here/ cryinge that he ought not to lyue eny lenger. Yet founde I nothynge worthy of deeth that he had cõmitted. Neuertheles seynge that he hath appealed to Cesar/I haue determined to sende him Of whõ I haue no certayne thynge to write vnto my Lord. Wherfore I haue brought him vnto you/& specially vnto the, kynge Agrippa/ỹ after examinacion had/I myght haue sum what to write. For me thincketh it vnreasonable/for to sende a prisoner/& not to shewe ỹ causes which are layde agaynst him

The .xxvi. Chapter.

A Grippa sayd vnto Paul: thou arte permytted to speake for thy selfe. Then Paul stretched forth ỹ hãde/ & answered for him selfe. I thinke my selfe happy kynge Agrippa/because I shall answere this daye before the/of all the thynges wherof I am accused of the Iewes namely because thou art experte in all customes and questions/which are amonge the B Iewes. Wherfore I beseche the to heare me pacyently.

My lyuinge of a chylde/which was at ỹ fyrst amõge myne awne nacion at Ierusalẽ knowe all ỹ Iewes which knewe me frõ the begynninge/yf they wolde testifie it. For after the most strayteste secte of oure laye/lyued I a Pharisaye. And now I stande & am iudged for the hope of the promes made of God vnto oure fathers: vnto whych promes oure C xij trybes instantly seruynge God daye and nyght hope to come. For which hopes sake/ kynge Agrippa/am I accused of the Iewes. Why shulde it be thought a thynge incredyble vnto you/that God shuld rayse agayne ỹ deed? I also verely thought in my selfe/that I ought to do many contrary thynges/clene agaynst ỹ name of Iesus of Nazareth: which thynge I also dyd in Ierusalem. Where many of the saynctes I shut vp in prison/& had receaued auctorite of the hye prestes. And whẽ D they were put to deeth/I gaue the sentence. And I punisshed thẽ ofte in euery synagoge/ and compelled thẽ to blaspheme: & was yet more mad vpon thẽ/& persecuted them/euẽ vnto straũge cities. About which thinges as I went to Damasco with auctorite & licẽce of the hye Prestes/euẽ at middaye (o kyng) I sawe in the waye a lyght from heauẽ/aboue the brightnes of ỹ sunne/shyne rosde about me and them which iorneyed with me.

Act. ix.a. and.xxvj.b.

E When we were all fallen to the erthe/ I heard a voyce speakynge vnto me/& sayinge in the Hebrue tonge: * Saul / Saul / why persecutest thou me? It is harde for the to kicke agaynst the pricke. And I sayde: Who arte thou Lorde? And he sayde I am Iesus whom thou persecutest/ but rise & stand vp on thy fete. For I haue apered vnto the for this purpose/to make ỹ a minister & a witnes both of those thynges which thou hast sene/ & of those thynges in the which I will appere vnto the/delyueringe the frō the people/& frō ỹ gentyls/ vnto which nowe I sende the/ to open their eyes/that they myght turne frō darcknes to lyght/ & from the power of Satan vnto God/that they maye receaue forgeF uenes of synnes & inheritaunce amonge thē which are sanctified by fayth in me.

Wherfore kynge Agrippa/ I was not disobedient vnto the heauēly vision: but shewed fyrst vnto them of Damasco/and at Ierusalem/& thorow out all the costes of Iewry/ & to the gētyls/ ỹ they shuld repent / & tourne to God/& do the ryght worckes of repentaūce For this cause the Iewes caught me in ỹ tēple & went about to kyll me. Neuertheles I obtayned helpe of God & cōtynew vnto thys daye witnessinge bothe to small and to great sayinge none other thinges/then those which ỹ prophetes & Moses dyd saye shuld come / ỹ G Christ shulde suffre; and that he shulde be the fyrst that shulde rise from deeth / and shulde shewe lyght vnto the people/& to ỹ gentyls. As he thus answered for hym selfe: Festus sayde w̄ a lowde voyce. Paul/ thou arte besydes thy selfe. Moche learninge hath made ỹ mad. And Paul sayde: I am not mad/ most dere Festus: but speake ỹ wordes of trueth and sobernes. The kynge knoweth of these thinges/before whome I speke frely: nether thynke I ỹ eny of these thynges are hydden from him. For this thinge was not done in a corner. Kynge Agrippa beleuest thou ỹ Prophetes? I wote well thou beleuest. Agrippa sayde vnto Paul: Sumwhat thou bryngest me in mynde for to become a Christen. And Paul sayde: I wolde to God ỹ not only thou: but also all that heare me to daye/ were/ not sumwhat only but altogether soche as I am/except these bondes. And when he had thus spoken/the kynge rose vp/& the debite/ and Bernice/ and they that sate with them. And when they were gone aparte/they talked betwene them selues sayinge: This man doeth nothyng worthy of deeth/ nor of bonds Then sayde Agrippa vnto Festus: This mā myght haue bene lowsed / yf he had not appealed vnto Cesar.

¶ The.xxvij. Chapter. B

When it was concluded ỹ we shuld sayle into Italy / they delyuered Paul & certayne other prysoners vnto one named Julius/ an vnder captayne of Cesars soudiars. And we entred into a ship of Adramicū/& lowsed frō land/ apoynted to sayle by the costes of Asia / one Aristarcus out of Macedonia/ of the contre of Thessalia/beinge w̄ vs. And ỹ nexte daye we came to Sidon. And Julius courteously entreated Paul/& gaue him lyberte to go vnto hys frendes/& to refresshe hym selfe. And frō thence lanched we/& sayled harde by Cypers / because the wyndes were contrarye. Then sayled we ouer the see of Cylicia / and Pamphilia/& cam to Myra a citie in Lycia. B

And there ỹ vndercaptayne foūde a shippe of Alexāder/redy to sayle into Italy/& put vs therin. And when we had sayled slowly many dayes/& scace were come ouer agaynst Gnydon (because ỹ winde withstode vs) we sayled harde by the costes of Candy / ouer agaynst Salmo / & w̄ moche worke sayled beyonde it/& cam vnto a place called goodpoorte. Nye wher vnto was a cytie called Lasea. When moche time was spēt & sayling was now ieoperdeous/ because also ỹ we had ouerlonge fasted/ Paul put thē in remembraunce / and C sayde vnto thē. Syrs / I perceaue that thys viage wilbe w̄ hurte & moche domage/ not of the ladynge & ship only: but also of oure liues. Neuerthelater the vnder captayne beleued ỹ gouerner & the master/ better then tho thinges which were spokē of Paul. And because the hauē was not cōmodius to wynter in/ many toke coūsell to departe thence/ yf by eny meanes they myght attayne to Phenices & there to wynter/ whych is an hauen of Candy/ and seruith to the southwest & northwest wynde. When the south wynde blewe/ they supposynge to obtayne their purpose lowed vnto Asson/ and sayled paste all Candy.

But anone after/ ther arose agaynst their purpose/ a flawe of wynde out of ỹ northeeste. And whē the ship was caught & could not resist the wynde/ we let her go & draue with ỹ D wether. And we came vnto an yle named Clauda/ & had moche worke to come by a bote/ which they toke vp & vsed helpe/ vndergerdinge the shippe/ fearinge lest we shuld haue fallē into Syrtes/ & we let doune a vessell & so were caryed. The nexte daye whē we were tossed w̄ an exceadinge tēpest/ they lightened ỹ ship/ & the thyrde daye we cast out w̄ oure awne handes/ ỹ tacklynge of ỹ shippe. When at the last nether sunne nor starre in many dayes appered & no small tēpest laye vpon vs/ all hope ỹ we shuld be saued/ was then take awaye. Then after longe abstynence/ Paul stode a * Lest we shulde haue fallen into Syrtes Syrtes are perlouse sandy places in the see about ỹ costes of Aphrica of the nature of whirpoles.

stode forth in the myddes of them and sayde: Syrs ye shulde haue harkened to me / & not haue lowsed from Candy / nether to haue brought vnto vs this harme & losse. And now I exhorte you to be of good chere. For ther shalbe no losse of eny mans lyfe amōge you / saue of ỹ ship only. For ther stode by me this nyght the angell of God / whose I am / & whō I serue / saying: feare not Paul for thou must be brought before Cesar. And lo / God hath E geuen vnto the all that sayle with the. Wherfore syrs be of good chere: for I beleue God / ỹ it shalbe euē as it was tolde me. How be it we must be cast into a certayne ylonde.

But when the fourtenth nyght was come as we were caried in Adria about mydnyght / the shypmen demed that ther appered some countre vnto them: and sounded / and founde it. xx. feddōs. And whē they had gone a lytell further, they sounded agayne / and fonnde. xv feddoms. Then fearynge lest they shuld haue fallē on some rocke / they cast. iiij. ancres out of the sterne / and wyshed for the daye. As the shypmen were about to fle out of the shyp / & had let doune ỹ bote into the see / vnder a coulour as though they wolde haue cast ancres oute of the forshippe: Paul sayde vnto the vnder captayne and the Soudiers: excepte these abyde in ỹ shyp / ye cānot be safe. Then F the Soudiers cut of the rope of the bote / and let it fall awaye.

And in the meane tyme betwyxt that and daye / Paul besought thē all to take meate / sayinge: this is the fourtenth daye ỹ ye haue taryed and contynued fastinge / receauynge nothing at all. Wherfore I praye you to take meate: for this no dout is for youre helth: for ther shall not an here fall from ỹ heed of eny of you. And when he had thus spoken / he toke breed and gaue thanckes to God in presence of thē all / and brake it / and beganne to eate. Then were they all of good cheare / and they also toke meate. We were all to gether in the shyp / two hundred threscore & sixtene soules. And when they had eaten ynough / they lyghtened ỹ shyp / & cast out ỹ wheate in to the see.

G When it was daye / they knew not ỹ lande but they spied a certayne hauen w a bancke into the which they were mynded (yf it were possible) to thrust in the shyp. And when they had taken vp the ancres / they commytted thē selues vnto the see / & lowsed ỹ rudder bondes and hoysed vp the mayne sayle to the wynde & drue to lande. But they chaunced on a place / which had the see on bothe the sydes / & thrust in the shyp. And the fooze parte stucke fast & moued not but the hynder brake with the violence of the waues.

The Soudyars councell was to kyll the presoners / lest eny of thē / whē he had swome out shulde fle awaye. But ỹ vnder captayne wyllynge to saue Paul kept them from their purpose / and cōmaunded that they ỹ coulde swyme shulde cast them selues fyrst into the see / and scape to lād. And the other he cōmaunded to go / some on bordes / and some on broken peces of the shyp. And so it came to passe / that they came all safe to lande.

¶ The vyper hurteth not Pauls hande / he healeth Publius father / and preacheth Christ at Rome.

¶ The. xxviij. Chapter.

A Nd when they were scaped / then A they knewe that the yle was called Milete. And the people of ỹ coūtre shewed vs no lytell kyndnes: for they kyndled a fyre & receaued vs euery one / because of the present rayne and because of ỹ colde. And when Paul had gathered a bondell of styckes / and put them in to the fyre / ther came a vyper out of the heet and lept on his hande. When the men of ỹ countre sawe the worme hange on hys hande / they sayde amonge them selues: this mā must nedes be a murtherer: whom (though he haue escaped the see) yet vengeaunce suffreth not to lyue. But he shouke of the vermen into the fyre & B felt no harme. How be it they wayted when he shulde haue swolne / or fallen doune deed sodenly. But after they had loked a greate whyle / and sawe no harme come to him, they chaunged their myndes / and sayde that he was a God.

In the same quarters the chefe man of the yle whose name was Publius / had a lordshipppe: the same receaued vs / and lodged vs thre dayes courteously. And it fortuned that the father of Publius laye sycke of a fieuer and of a bludy flixe. To whom Paul entred in and prayde / and layde his handes on hym and healed hym. When this was done / other C also which had dyseases in the yle / came and were healed. And they dyd vs great honoure. And when we departed / they laded vs wyth thynges necessary.

After thre monethes we departed in a shyp of Alexandry / whych had wyntred in the yle / whose badge was Castor & Pollux. And whē we came to Cyracusa / we taried there thre dayes. And from thence we fet a compasse & came to Regium. And after one daye ỹ south wynde blewe / and we came the nert daye to Putiolus: where we founde brethren / & were desyred to tary with them seuē dayes / and so came to Rome. And from thence / when the brethren hearde of vs / they came agaynst vs to Appiphorum / & to the thre tauernes. When Paul sawe them / he thanked God / & wexed bolde. And when he came to Rome / the vnder Captayne delyuered ỹ presoners to the chefe captayne of the host: but Paul was suffred to

* Castor and pollux. These in olde tyme were esteamed as Goddes: whych yf they appeared bothe together were counted fauourable & louckye D to Mariners and soche as trauayled ỹ seas: yf one after a nother / or but one alone / vnfortunate and cruell. The owner of the shippe carped ꝑ badge of them/ not wythoute great confyden ce therin/tyme kyng that these ꝙ. Godd (wolde ꝓsper his viages because he honoured them with ꝑ carying therof.

dwell by hym selfe wyth one Soudyer that kept him.

And it fortuned after thre dayes/ ꝑ Paul called the chefe of the Jewes to gether. And when they were come/ he sayde vnto them. Men and brethren though I haue cõmytted nothinge agaynst ꝑ people or lawes of oure fathers: yet was I delyuered prysoner from Jerusalem into the handes of the Romayns. Which when they had examined me / wolde haue let me go/ because they foũde no cause of deeth in me. But when the Jewes cryed cõtrary / I was constrayned to appeale vnto Cesar: not because I had ought to accuse my people of. For thys cause haue I called for you/ euen to se you/ and to speake wyth you: because ꝑ for ꝑ hope of Israel / I am bounde with this chayne.

And they sayde vnto hym: We nether receaued lettres out of Jewry pertayninge vnto the/ nether came eny of the brethren that shewed or spake eny harme of the. But we wyll heare of ꝑ what thou thinckest. For we haue hearde of this secte/ that euery wheare it is spoken agaynst. And when they had apoynted him a daye / ther came many vnto him into his lodgyng. To whõ he expounded and testified the kyngdom of God/ and preached vnto them of Jesu: both out of the lawe of Moses and also out of the Prophetes/ euẽ from morynge to nyght. And some beleued the thynges which were spokẽ/ and some beleued not.

When they agreed not amonge thẽselues they departed / after that Paul had spoken one worde. Well spake ꝑ holy ghost by Esay the Prophet vnto oure fathers/ saying: *Go vnto this people & saye: w̃ youre eares shall ye heare/ and shall not vnderstande: and with youre eyes shall ye se and not perceaue.

For the hert of this people is wexed grosse and their eares were thycke of hearyng/ and their eyes haue they closed: lest they shulde se with their eyes/ and heare with their eares/ and vnderstande with their hertes/ and shuld be conuerted/ and I shuld heale them. Be it knowen therfore vnto you/ that thys saluacyon of God is sent to the gentyls / and they shall heare it. And when he had sayde that/ ꝑ Jewes departed / and had greate despycions amonge them selues.

And Paul dwelt two yeres full in his lodgynge/ & receaued all that cam to him/ preachynge the kyngdome of God / and teachynge those thynges which concerned the Lorde Jesus with all confydence/ vnforboden.

¶ Here endeth the Actes of the Apostles.

¶The Prologe to the Epistle of Saynct Ir.

Paul to the Romayns.

For as moche as this Epistle is the principall & mooste excellent part of the newe Testament/& mooste pure Euangelion/that is to saye/glad tydinges and that we call Gospell/and also a light and awaye in/vnto the hole scripture/I thinke it meete/þ euery Christen man not only knowe it by rote & wythout the boke: but also exercise him selfe therin euermore contynually as w the dayly brede of the soule. No man verely can rede it to ofte or studye it to well: for the moare it is studyed the easier it is/the moare it is chewed/the pleasanter it is/& the moare groundely it is serched the precioser thyngs are fou̇de in it/so great treasure of spirituall thyngs lyeth hyd therin.

I wyll therfore bestowe my labour & dylygence/thorow this lytell preface or prologe/to prepare awaye in ther vnto/so farforth as God shall geue me grace/that it may be the better vnderstande of euery mā. For it hath bene hetherto cuyll darckened w glozes & wōder full dreames of Sophisters/þ no mā cowde spye out þ entente & meanynge of it. Which neuertheles yet of it selfe/is a bryght lyghte/& sufficient to geue lyght vnto all þ scripture.

Fyrst we must marke dilygently the maner of speakynge of the Apostel/and aboue all thynge knowe what Paul meaneth by these wordes/the Lawe/Synne/Grace/Fayth/Ryghteousnes/Flesshe/Spryte/& soche lyke/or els rede thou it neuer so ofte/thou shalt but loose thy laboure. This word lawe maye not be vnderstande here after the comune maner/& so vse Pauls terme/after the maner of men or after mans wayes/þ thou woldest saye the lawe here in this place were nothynge but lernynge which teacheth what ought to be done and what ought not to be done/as it goeth with mannes lawe where þ lawe is fulfylled without warde workes only/though the hert be neuer so farre of. But God iudgeth the grounde of the hert/ye & the thoughtes & þ secret mouynges of the mynde/and therfore his lawe requyreth the grounde of the herte & loue from the botome therof/& is not cōtent with the outwarde worke only: but rebuketh those workes most of all which spryng not of loue from the ground & lowe botome of the herte/though they appere outward neuer so honest & good. As Christ in þ Gospell rebuketh þ Phareles aboue all other þ were open synners/& calleth thē ypocrites/that is to saye dissembiers & paynted sepulcres/which pharises yet lyued no men so pure/as pertaynynge to the outwarde dedes & workes of the lawe: ye & Paul in the thirde Chapter of hys Epistell vnto the Philippians confesseth of hym selfe/þ as touchynge the lawe he was suche a one as no mā cowde cōplayne on/& not withstandyng was yet a murderer of the Christen/persecuted thē/& tormēted thē so sore/þ he cōpelled thē to blaspheme Christ/& was all to gether mercyelesse/as many which now fayne outward good workes are.

For this cause the .cxv. Psalme calleth all men lyars/because that no man kepeth the Lawe from the grounde of the herte/nether can kepe it/though he appeare outward full of good workes.

For all men are naturally enclyned vnto euyll & hate the lawe: we fynde in oure selues vnlust & tediousnes to do good/but lust & delectacion to do euyll: Now where no fre lust is to do good/there the botome of the herte fulfylleth not the lawe/& there no doute is also synne & wrath is deserued before God/though there be neuer so great and outwarde shewe & apperaunce of honeste lyuynge. For this cause concludeth saynct Paul in the seconde Chapter/that the Jewes are all synners & transgressors of the lawe/though they make men beleue/thorowe ypocrisy of outwarde workes/how that they fulfyll the lawe/and sayth that he only which doth the lawe/is ryghteous before God/meanynge therby that no man with outwarde workes/fulfylleth the lawe.

The lawe of God requyreth loue.

Thou sayth he/to the Jewe teachest/a man shulde not breake wedlocke/& yet breakest wedlocke thy selfe/wherin thou iudgest an other man/therin condēnest thou thy selfe/for thou thy selfe doest euen þ very same thynges which thou iudgest. As though he wolde saye/thou lyuest outwardly well in the workes of the lawe/and iudgest them that lyue not so. Thou teachest other men/& seest a moote in an other mās eye/but art not ware of þ beame þ is in thyne awne eye. For though thou kepe þ lawe outwardly with workes/for feare of rebuke/shame & punyshement/other for loue of rewarde vauntage & vayne glory: yet doest thou all without lust & loue towarde the lawe: & haddest leuer a greate deale otherwyse do yf thou dyddest not feare the lawe: ye inwardly in thyne herte/thou woldest that ther were no lawe/no nor yet God/the auctor & vēgear of the lawe/yf it were possible: so paynefull it is vnto the: to haue thyne appetites refrayned/& to be kepte doune. Wherfore then it is a playne conclusion/that thou frō the grounde and botome of thyne herte/arte an enimye to the lawe/what preuayleth it now/that thou teachest an other mā not to steale/when thou thyne awne selfe arte a thefe in thyne herte/and outwardly woldest fayne steale yf thou durst/though that þ outwarde dedes abyde not awaye behynde with soche ypocrytes & dissimulars/but breake forth amōge euen as an euyll scabbe or a pocke cannot all wayes be kept in with violence of medicine.

Thou teachest an other mā/but teachest not thy selfe/ye thou wotest not what thou teachest/for thou vnderstādest not the lawe a ryght/how that it cānot be fulfylled & satisfied/but with an vnfayned loue & affeccion/so greatly it cannot be fulfylled with outward dedes & workes only. Moreouer þ lawe encreaseth synne/as he sayth in þ fyfte Chapter/because that man is an enimy to the lawe/for as moche as it requireth so many thynges clene contrarie to his nature/whereof he is not able to fulfyll one poynte or tytle/as the lawe requireth it. And therfore are we moare prouoked/and haue greater lust to breake it. For which causes sake he sayth in the seuēth Chapter/that the lawe is spirituall: as though he wolde saye/yf the lawe were fleshly & but mans doctrine/it might be fulfylled/satisfyed and stylled with outwarde dedes. But nowe is the lawe goostly/& no mā fulfylleth it/excepte þ all that he doeth/springe of loue frō the botome of the hert. Suche a newe hert & lusty corage vnto the lawe warde/canst thou neuer come by of thyne awne strenght & enforcement/but by the operacion & workynge of the spryte. For the spryte of God only maketh a man spirituall & lyke vnto the lawe/so that now hēceforth he doeth no thynge of feare or for lucre or vantages sake or of vayne glorye/but of a fre hert/& of inward lust. The lawe is spirituall & wylbe bothe loued and fulfylled of a spirituall hert/& therfore of necessite requyreth it the spryte that maketh a mannes hert fre/and geueth hym lust and courage vnto the lawe warde. Where soche a spryte is not/there remayneth synne/grudgynge & hatered agaynst the lawe/which lawe neuertheles is good/ryghtewes and holy/

The spirite is required yer we can kepe þ lawe

Acquaynte thy selfe therfore with the maner of speakynge of the Apostel/& let this now stykefast in thyne hert/that it is not bothe one/to do dedes & workes of the lawe/& to fulfyll the lawe. The worke of the lawe/is whatsoeuer a man doeth or can do of his awne frewyll/of his awne proper strenghte & enforsynge. Notwithstandynge though there be neuer so greate workynge/yet as longe as ther remayneth in the herte/vnlust/tediousnes/grudgyng/grefe/& payne/lothsumnes & cōpulsion toward the lawe/so longe are all the workes vnprofytable/lost/ye & damnable in the lawe are two fyght of God. This meaneth Paul in the thirde Chapter where he sayth/by the dedes of the lawe shall no flesshe be iustified in the syghte of God. Here by perceauest thou that those sophisters are but disceauers/which teache þ a mā maye/& must prepare him selfe to grace & to the fauore of God with good workes before he haue þ spryte & true fayth of Christ. How can they prepare thē selues vnto the fauoure of God/& to that which is good/whē they thē selues can do no good/no cānot once thinke a good thought or consent to do good/the deuyll possessynge their hertes/

To do the dedes of the lawe & to fulfyll the lawe are two thynges.

myndes & thoughtes captiue at his pleasure? Can thole worckes please God thinkest thou/which are done with grike payne & tediousnes/& an cupll wyll / with a contrary & grudginge mynde? O holy sayncte prosperus/how myghtely/ & the scripture of Paul/dydest thou cofounde this herelye/aboute (I trowe) a twelue hundred yeres go/or therupō.

Prosperus.

To fulfyll the lawe/to do the worckes therof & whatsoeuer the lawe cōmaundeth/with loue/lust & inward affeccion & delectacion: and to lyue godly & well/frely/wyllyngly/& without compulcion of ꝑ lawe/euen as though there were no lawe at all. Suche luste & fre lyberte to the lawe/cometh only by the worckynge of the spryte in the herte / as he sayth in the.i. Chap. Now is the spryte none otherwyle geuē/then by fayth only/in ꝑ we beleue the promyses of God/ with out wauerynge/how that God is true/and wyll fulfyll all his good promyses toward vs/for Christes bloudes sake /as it is playne in the fyrst Chap. I am not asshamed sayth Paul/of Christes gladde tydynges/for it is the power of God vnto saluacion to asmany as beleue. For attonce & to gether euen as we beleue the glad tydynges preached to vs / the holy ghost entreth into oure hertes/& lowseth the bondes of the deuyll/which before polleded oure hertes in captiuite/& held them that we coulde haue no lust to the wyll of God in the lawe. And as the spryte commeth by fayth only/euē so fayth cometh by hearynge the worde or glad tydinges of God/when Christ is preached/how that he is Goddes sonne & man also/deed and ryslen agayne for oure lakes/as he sayth in the.iii.iiii.v.vi. Chapters. All oure iustifynge then cometh of fayth/& fayth and the spryte come of God & not of vs.

The spirite cometh by fayth.

Fayth cometh by hearyng the glad tydynges.

When we saye/fayth bringeth the spryte/it is not to be vnderstande/that fayth deserueth the spryte/or ꝑ the spryte is not present in vs before fayth. For the spryte is euer in vs/& fayth is the gyfte & worckyng of the spryte. But thorow preachynge/the spryte begynneth to worcke in vs. And as by preachynge the lawe/he worcketh the feare of God / so by preachyng the glad tydynges/he worcketh fayth. And now when we beleue & are come vnder the couenaunt of God/ then are we sure of the spryte/by the promise of God & then the spryte accompanieth fayth inseparablie/& we beginne to fele his worckynge. And so fayth certyfieth vs of the spryte/& also bringeth the spryte wyth her/vnto the worckyng of all other gyftes of grace/& to the worckynge out of the rest of oure saluacyon/vntyll we haue all to gether ouercome synne/deeth/hell & Satan/& are come vnto the euerlastyng lyfe of glorie. And for this cause saye we fayth bryngeth ꝑ spryte. Here of cometh it/that fayth only iustifieth/maketh ryghtewes/& fulfylleth the lawe/for it bryngeth the spryte thorow Christes deserynges/ the spryte bringeth lust/looseth the hert/maketh him fre/setteth hym at lyberte / & geueth him strength to worcke the dedes of the lawe with loue/euē as the lawe requyreth Then at the last oute of the same fayth so worckynge in the herte/springe all good worckes by there awne accorde. That meaneth he in the thirde Chapter/for after he hath cast awaye the worckes of the lawe/ so ꝑ he soundeth as though he wolde breake & dysanull the lawe thorow fayth: he answereth to that myght be layde agaynst/ sayinge: we destroye not the lawe thorow faith but maintayne/for ther or stablysshe the lawe thorow fayth. That is to saye/we fulfyll the lawe thorow fayth.

Worckes springe of fayth.

Synne in the scripture is not called that outward worcke only cōmytted by the body/but all the whole busines & whatsoeuer accōpanieth/moueth or stereth vnto the outwarde dede/& that whence the worckes springe/as vnbelefe/ pronenes & redines vnto the dede in the grounde of the herte/with all the powers/ affeccions & appetites wherwith we can but synne. So that we saye/that a man then synneth/when he is caried awaye hedlonge into synne/all to gether as moche as he is/of that poyson inclynacion & corrupte nature wherin he was cōceyued & borne. For there is none outwarde synne cōmytted/except a man be caried awaye all to gether/& lyfe/soule/herte/body/ luste & mynde therunto. The scripture loketh syngulary vnto the hert/& vnto the rote & originall fountayne of all synne / which is vnbelefe in the botome of the herte. For as fayth only iustyfyeth & bryngeth the spryte & luste vnto the outwarde good worckes/euē so vnbelefe only damneth & kepeth oute the spryte/prouoketh the flesshe & stereth vp luste vnto the cupll outwarde worckes/ as happened to Adam and Eua in Paradyse. Genelis.iij.

Synne.

Fayth is ꝑ mother of all good worckes / & vnbelefe of cupll.

For thys cause Christ calleth synne vnbelefe/ & that notably in the.xvi Chapter of sayncte John. The spryte sayth he/shall rebuke the worlde of synne/because they beleue not in me. And John.viij. he sayth. I am ꝑ lyght of ꝑ world. And therfore in the.xij. of John he byddeth them/ whyle they haue lyght/to beleue in the lyght / that ye maye be the chyldren of lyght/for he that walketh in darcknes wotteth not whether he goeth. Now as Christ is the lyght/ so is the ignorance of Christ that darcknes wherof he speaketh/in which he ꝑ walketh/ wotteth not whyther he goeth/that is/he knoweth not how to worke a good worke in the syght of God/ or what a good worke is. And therfore in the.ix. he sayth/as longe as I am in the worlde/I am the lyght of the worlde/but there cometh nyght whē no mā can worke/ which nyght is but ignorance of Christ in which no mā can se to do any worke that pleaseth God. And Paul exhorteth Epheli.iij. that they walke not as other hethen which are straūgers frō the lyfe of God/thorow the ignorance that is in thē. And agayne in the same Chapter. Put of (sayth he) the olde mā which is corrupt thorowe the lustes of errour/that is to saye ignorance. And Rom.xiij. Let vs cast awaye the dedes of darcknes/that is to saye/of ignorance & vnbelef. And.i. Petri.i. Fassion not youre selues vnto youre olde lustes of ignorāce. And.i. John.ij. He that loueth his brother dwelleth in lyght/and he that hateth his brother walketh in darcknes/& woteth not whither he goeth/for darcknes hath blynded his eyes. By lyght he meaneth the knowledge of Christ/& by darcknes / the ignorance of Christ. For it is impossible that he that knoweth Christ truly/shulde hate his brother.

Furthermore/to perceaueth is thynge moare clearly/thou shalt vnderstāde/ ꝑ it is impossible to synne any synne at all/except a mā breake the fyrst cōmaundemēt before. Now is the fyrst cōmaūdemēt deuyded into two verses. Thy Lorde God is one God & thou shalt loue thy Lorde God with all thyne hert/& all thy soule/with all thy power and with all thy myght. And the whoale cause why I synne agaynst any inferioure precept/is ꝑ this loue is not in myne hert/ for were this loue wrytte in my herte & were full & perfect in my soule/it wold kepe myne hert frō consenting vnto any synne. And the whoale & only cause why this loue is not wrytte in oure hertes/is that we beleue not ꝑ fyrst parte/that oure Lorde God is one God. For wist I what these wordes/one Lorde & one God meaneth/that is to saye/ yf I vnderstode that he made all/& ruleth all/& ꝑ whatsoeuer is done to me/ whether it be good or bad/is yet hys wyll/ & ꝑ he only is the Lorde that ruleth/ & doth it/& wist therto what thys worde/myne/meaneth/that is to saye/ yf myne herte beleued & felte the infinite benefites & kyndedes of God to me warde/& vnderstode & erneslye beleued ꝑ many folde couenauntes of mercye wherwith God hath bounde hym selfe to be myne wholye & all together/with all hys power/loue/mercye/& myght/ then shuld I loue him with all myne hert/soule/power/& myght/and of that loue euer kepe his commaundementes. So se ye now that as fayth is the mother of all goodnes & of all good worckes/so is vnbelefe ꝑ grounde & rote of all cupll & all cupll worckes. Finallye/yf any mā hath forsake synne & is conuerted to put his trust in Christ/and to kepe the lawe of God/doth fall at a tyme/the cause is/ that the flesshe thorow negligence hath choked the spryte & oppressed hyr & taken from hyr the fode of hyr strength with ꝑ fode of hyr meditacyon in God & in hys wonderfull dedes/& in the many folde couenauntes of hys mercye.

Wherfore then before all good worckes as good frutes/there must nedes be fayth in the herte whence they spring. And before all bad dedes as bad frutes/there must be vnbelefe in the hert as in the rote/fountayne/pith & strength of all synne. Which vnbelefe & ignorāce is called the heed of the serpēt & of the olde dragō/which the womās seed Christ

must treade vnder fote/as it was promysed vnto Adam. Grace & gifte haue this difference. Grace properly is Goddes fauoure/benemolẽce or kindmind/which of hys awne selfe/without deseruinge of vs/he beareth to vs/wherby he was moued & enclined to geue Christ vnto vs/with all his other gyftes of grace. Gifte is the holy goost & his worckinge whõ he powreth into the hertes of thẽ/on whõ he hath mercy/& whom he fauoreth. Though the gyftes of the spryte encrease in vs daylye/& haue not yet their full perfeccion: ye & though there remayne in vs yet euyll lustes and synne which fyght agaynst the spryte/as he sayth here in the.vij. Chapter/& in the.v. to the Galathians/& as it was spoken before in the.iij. chapter of Gene. of the debate betwene the womãs seed/& the seed of the serpent: yet neuertheles Goddes fauoure is so greate/& so stronge ouer vs for Christes sake/þ we are counted for full hole & perfecte before God. For Goddes fauoure toward vs/deuydeth not hym selfe/encreasinge a lytell & a lytell/as do the gyftes/but receaueth vs hole & all to gether in full loue for Christes sake onre intercessor and mediator/& because that the giftes of the spryte and batayle betwene the spryte and euyll lustes/are begonne in vs all ready.

Grace. Gyfte.

Of this now vnderstãdest thou the.vij. Chap. where Paul accuseth hym selfe as a synner/& yet in the.viij. chap. sayeth/there is no dãnacyon to thẽ that are in Christ/& that because of the spryte/and because the gyftes of the spryte are begonne in vs. Synners we are because the flesshe is not full kylled and mortified. Neuertheles in as moche as we beleue in Christ/& haue the ernest & begynnynge of the spryte/& wold fayne be perfecte/God is so louinge & fauorable vnto vs/þ he wil not loke on soche synne/nether will cõpte it as synne/but wil deale wt vs according to oure beleue in Christ & according to his promyses/which he hath sworne to vs/ vntyll þ synne be full slayne & mortifyed by dethe.

Fayth is not þ worke of man.

Fayth is not mãs opinion & dreame/as some ymagin & fayne/whẽ they heare the storie of the Gospell/which whẽ they se that there folowe no good workes nor mendemẽt of liuinge/though they heare/& yet cã babyll many thynges of fayth/then they fall frõ the righte waye & saye/fayth only iustifieth not/a man must haue good workes also/yf he wilbe righteous & safe. The cause is when they heare the Gospell or glad tydinges/they fayne of their awne strẽgth certayne ymaginaciõs & thoughtes in their hertes sayinge/ I haue heard the Gospell/I remẽber the storie/so I beleue. And that they counte righte fayth/which neuertheles as it is but mãs ymaginaciõ & fayninge/euẽ so profiteth it not/nether folowe there any good workes or mendemẽt of liuinge. But righte fayth is a thinge wroughte by the holy ghost in vs/which chaungeth vs/turneth vs in to a newe nature & begetteth vs a newe in God/& maketh vs the sonnes of God: as thou redest in the fyrst of John/& kylleth the olde Adã/and maketh vs all to gether newe in the herte/ mynd/will/lust & in all oure affeccions & powers of the soule/the holy ghost euer accõpanyinge hir & rulinge þ hert.

Ryght fayth is of the worcking of the spryte of God.

Fayth is a lyuely thinge/mighty in worckinge/valiaunte & stronge/euer doinge/euer frutfull/so that it is vnpossible that he which is endued there with/shulde not worke al wayes good workes without ceasinge. He asketh not whether good workes are to be done or not/but hath done thẽ all redy/yer mencio be made of thẽ/& is allwaye doinge/for soche is his nature: nowe quycke fayth in his herte & lyuely mouinge of the spryte driue him & sterre him ther vnto. Whosoeuer doeth not good workes/is an vnbeleuinge person & faithlesse/& loketh rõd about gropinge after fayth & good workes/& wotteh not what fayth or good worke meane/though he babill neuer so many thinges of fayth & good worke.

Fayth what it is.

Fayth is then a lyuely & stedfast truste in the fauoure of God/wherwyth we compytte oure selues all to gether vnto God/& that truste is so surely grounded & steketh so fast in oure hertes/that a man wolde not once doute of it/ though he shuld dye a thousand tymes therfore. And suche trust wrought by the holy goost through fayth/maketh a man glad/lusty/cherefull & true herted vnto God & to all creatures. By the meanes where of/willingly & with out cõpulsion he is glad & redy to do good to euery man/to do seruyce to euery mã/to suffre all thynges/that God maye be loued & prayed/which hath geuen him suche grace: so that it is impossyble to separat good workes frõ fayth/euen as it is impossyble to separat heete & burninge frõ fyre. Therfore take hede to thy selfe/& beware of thyne awne fantasyes & ymaginaciõs/which to iudge of fayth & good workes will seme wyse/when in deade they are sterke blind & of al thynges most folysshe. Praye God that he will witesafe to worke fayth in thyne herte/or elles shalt thou remayne euermore faythlesse/ fayne thou/ymagin thou/enforce thou/wrastyll with thy selfe/& do what thou wilte or canst.

Fayth is rygh teoulnes

Righteoulnes is euen suche fayth/& is called Godes righteoulnes/or ryghteoulnes that is of valoure before God. For it is Goddes gyfte/& it altereth a mã & chaungeth him to a newe spirituall nature/& maketh him free & liberall to paye euery mã his dutie. For thorow fayth is a man purged of his synnes/and obteyneth luste vnto the lawe of God/ wherby he geueth God his honoure/& payeth him that he oweth him/& vnto mẽ he doeth seruis willingly wherwith soeuer he can/& payeth euery man his dutie. Suche righteoulnes can nature/frewyll & oure awne strength neuer bringe to passe. For as no mã can geue him selfe fayth/so can he not take awaye vnbeliefe/how then can he take awaye eny thing at all. Wherfore al is false ypocrisy & synne/whatsoeuer is done wt out faith or in vnbeleue/as it is euidẽt in the.xiiij. Chapter vnto the Romayns/though it appere neuer so glorious or beautyfull outwardes.

Flesshe what is

Flesshe & spryte mayste thou not here vnderstand/as though flesshe were only that which pertayneth vnto vnchastite/& the spryte/that which inwardly pertayneth to the herte: but Paul calleth flesshe here as Christ doth John.iij. is All that is borne of flesshe/þ is to wete/the whole mã wyth lyke/soule/body/witte/wyll/reason & whatsoeuer he is or doth with in & wyth out: because that these all/& all that is in man/study after the worlde and the flesshe. Call flesshe therfore whatsoeuer (as longe as we are wyth out the spryte of God) we thynke or speke/of God/of fayth of good workes & of spirituall matters. Call flesshe also all workes which are done wtoute grace/& wout þ worckinge of þ spryte/ how soeuer good/holy & spirituall they seme to be/as thou mayst proue by þ.v. Chapter vnto the Galathyans/where Paul nombreth worshippynge of ydols/witchecrafte/enuy & hate/amõge the dedes of the flesshe/& by the.viij. vnto the Romayns/ where he sayth that the lawe by the reason of the flesshe is weake. Which is not vnderstande of vnchastyte only/but of all synnes/& most specyally/of vnbeleue whych is a spyce most spyrytuall & ground of all synnes.

And as thou callest hym: whych is not renewed wyth the spryte & borne agayne in Christ/flesshe/& all hys dedes euẽ the very mocyõs of hys hert & mynd/hys lernynge doctryne & contẽplacyõ of hye thynges/hys preachynge/teachynge & study in þ scripture/byldynge of churches/foundynge of abbeyes/geuynge of almes/masse/matence & what soeuer he doeth/though it seme spirituall & after the lawes of God: So contrary wyse call him spirituall which is renewed in Christ/& all hys dedes whych sprynge of fayth/seme they neuer so grose/as the washynge of the dyscyples fete/done by Christ/and Peters fyshynge after the resurrecciõ/ye and all the dedes of matrymony are pure spyrytuall/yf they procede of fayth/and what soeuer is done wyth in the lawes of God/though it be wrought by þ body/as the very wyppinge of shewes & soche lyke/how soeuer grose they appere outwarde. Wythout suche vnderstandynge of these wordes/canst thou neuer vnderstande this epistle of Paul/nether any other place in the holy scripture. Take hede therfore/for whosoeuer vnderstandeth these wordes other wyse/the same vnderstandeth not Paul/what soeuer he be. Nowe wyll we prepare oure selues vnto the epistle.

The fyrst Chapter.

For as moche as it becommeth the precher of Christes glad tydynges/fyrst thorow openynge of the lawe: to rebuke all thynges/& to proue all thynges synne/that procede not of the spryte & of fayth in Christ/& to proue all men synners & chyldren of wrath by inheritaunce/and how that to synne is they^r nature/and that by nature they can none other wyse do than to synne/and therwith to abate the pryde of man/and to bringe him vnto the knowledge of him selfe/& to mysery & wretchednes/that he might desyre helpe. Euen so doeth sayncte Paul/and beginneth in the fyrst Chapter to rebuke vnbeleefe & grose synnes which all men se/as ydolatrie/and as the grose synnes of the hethen were/and as the synnes now are of all thē which lyue in ignorance without fayth/and without the fauoure of God: & sayth. The wrath of God of heauen appereth thorow the Gospell vpon all men for their vngodlynes & vnholy lyuinge. For though it be known & dayly vnderstande by the creatures/that ther is but one God/yet is nature of hyr selfe with out the spyrite & grace so corrupte & so poysoned/that men nether can thāke hym/nether worshippe him/nether geue hym his due honour/but blind thē selues & faule with out ceasinge in to worse case/euē vntyll they come vnto worshippinge of ymages & workinge of shamefull synnes which are abhominable & agaynst nature/& more ouer suffre the same vnrebuked in other/hauinge delectacion & pleasure therin. In the.ij. Chapter. he proceadeth further and rebuketh all those holy people also which with out lufte & loue to the lawe/lyue well outwardly in the face of ỳ worlde & condempne other gladly/as the nature of all ypocrites is/to thinke thē selues pure in respecte of open synners/& yet hate the lawe inwardly/& are full of couetousnes & enuie & of all vnclennes/Mat. xxiij. These are they which despise the goodnes of God/& accordinge to the hardenes of their hertes/hepe to gether for thē selues the wrath of God. Furthermore sayncte Paul as a true expounder of the lawe/suffreth no man to be with out synne/but declareth ỳ all they are vnder synne which of frewill and of nature will lyue well/& suffereth them not to be better then the opē synners ye he calleth them harde herted and sochs as cannot repente. In the.iij. Chapter. he myngleth both to gether/both the Jewes & the gentyles/& sayth that the one is as the other/both synners/& no difference betwene thē/saue in this only/that the Jewes had the worde of God cōmitted vnto them. And though many of them beleued not theron/yet is Godes truth & promyse therby nether hurte ner minished/& he taketh in his waye & allegeth the sayinge of the. I. Psal. that God might abyde true in hys wordes and ouercome when he is iudged. After that he returneth to his purpose agayne & proueth by the scripture/that all men without differēce or excepcio are sinners/& that by the workes of ỳ lawe no man is iustifyed: but that the lawe was geuen to vtter & to declare synne only. Then he begynneth & sheweth the ryghte waye vnto ryghtewesnes/by what meanes mē must be made righteous & sayth. They are all synners & with out prayse before God/& must wt out their awne deseruynge be made ryghteous thorow fayth in Christ/which hath deserued soche ryghtewesnes for vs/& is become vnto vs Goddes mercy stole for the remissyon of synnes that are past/therby prouinge ỳ Christes ryghteousnes which cōmeth on vs thorow fayth/helpeth vs only. Which ryghteousnes/sayth he/is now declared thorow the Gospell/& was testifyed of before by the lawe & the Prophetes. Furthermore (sayeth he) the lawe is holpe & fordered thorow fayth/though that the workes therof with all their bofte are brought to nought and proued not to iustifye.

Seconde Chapter.

The lawe iustifieth not/but vttereth ỳ synne onlye and condemneth.

In the.iiij. Chapter (after that now by the.iij. fyrst Chapters/the synnes are opened/& the waye of fayth vnto righteousnes layde) he beginneth to answere vnto certayne obiections and cauillacions. And fyrst he putteth forth those blind reasons/wherof cōmenly they ỳ wilbe iustifyed by their awne workes/are wōt to make whē they heare ỳ fayth only with out workes/iustifieth/sayinge: shall men do no good workes/ye & yf fayth only iustifie/ what nedeth a man to study for to do good workes? He putteth forth therfore Abraham for an ensample/sayinge/what dyd Abraham wyth his workes? was all in vayne/came hys workes to no prophete? And so concludeth that Abrahā with out and before all workes was iustified & made righteous. In so moche that before the worke of circūcision he was prayfed of ỳ scripture & called righteous by his fayth only/Gene. xv. So that he dyd not the worke of circūcision for to be holpe therby vnto righteousnes/which yet God cōmaunded him to do/& was a good worke of obedyence. So in lyke wyse no doute none other workes helpe any thinge at all vnto a mās iustifyinge/but as Abrahams circumcision was an outwarde synne wherby he declared his righteousnes which he had by fayth/& his obedience & redynes vnto the wyll of God/euen so are all other good workes outeward signes & outward frutes of fayth & of the spryte/which iustifie not a mā/but that a mā is iustified all redy before God inwardly in the hert/thorow fayth & thorow the spryte purchased by Christes bloud. Here wyth now stablissheth sayncte Paul hys doctrine of fayth afore rehersed in the.iij. Chap. and bringeth also testimony of Dauid in the.xxij. Psal which calleth a man blessed/not of workes/but in that his synne is not reckened and in that fayth is imputed for righteousnes/though he abyde not afterwarde wyth out good workes/when he is once iustifyed. For we are iustifyed & receaue the spryte for to do good workes/nether were it other wyse possyble to do good workes/excepte we had fyrst the spryte.

Outward workes are synnes & tokens of ỳ inwarde fayth.

Blessed is he ỳ hath his synnes forgeuen hym.

Fourthe chapter.

For how is it possyble to do any thinge well in the syght of God/whyle we are yet in captiuite & bondage vnder the deuyll/& the deuyll possesseth vs all to gether & holdeth oure hertes/so that we cānot once consent vnto the wyll of God. No man therfore can preuent the spryte in doinge good/but the spryte must fyrst come & wake him out of hys slepe & with the thunder of the lawe feare him/& shewe him his miserable estate & wretchednes/& make him abhorre & hate him selfe & to desyre helpe/& then cōforte him agayne with the pleasant rayne of the Gospell/that is to saye/wt the swete promyses of God in Christ/& stere vp fayth in him to beleue the promyses. Then when he beleueth ỳ promyses/as God was mercyfull to promyse/so is he true to fulfyll them/& will geue him the spryte & strength/both to loue the will of God & to worke there after. So se we that God only which accordinge to the scripture worketh all in all thinges/worketh a mans iustifyinge/ saluacion & health/ye & powreth fayth & belefe/ lust to loue Goddes wyll/& strength to fulfyll the same/into vs/euen as water is powred into a vessell/& that of his good will & purpose/& not of oure deseruynges & merytes. Goddes mercy in promysinge/& trueth in fulfyllinge his promyses saueth vs & not we oure selues. And therfore is all laude/prayse/& glory/to begeueu vnto God for his mercy & trueth/& not vnto vs for oure merites & deseruinges. After that he stretcheth his ensample out agaynst all other good workes of ỳ lawe/& concludeth that the Jewes cannot be Abrahās heyres because of bloud & kinred only/& moche lesse by the workes of the lawe/but must inheret Abrahās fayth/yf they wilbe the right heyres of Abraham/for as moche as Abraha before the lawe/bothe of Moses and also of circumcision/was thorow fayth made righteous/& called the father of all them that beleue/& not of them that worke. Moreouer the lawe causeth wrath/in as moche as no man can fulfyll it wyth loue & lufte. And as longe as suche grudginge/hate & indignacion agaynst the lawe remayneth in the herte/& is not taken awaye by the spryte that cōmeth by fayth/so longe/no doute/the workes of the lawe/declare euidently that the wrath of God is vpon vs & not fauoure. Wherfore fayth only receyueth the grace promysed vnto Abraham. And these ensamples were not writtē for Abrahās sake only/sayth he/but for oure also to whom yf we beleue/fayth shalbe reckened lyke wyse for ryghteousnes/as he sayth in the ende of the Chapter.

The.v. chapter

In the.v. Chapter he cōmendeth the frutes or workes of fayth/as are peace/reioysinge in the conscience/inwarde loue to God & man/moreouer boldnes/trust/confidence & a stronge & a lusty mynd & stedfaste hope in tribulacyon & sufferinge. For all suche followe/where the ryght fayth is/for the aboundante graces sake and gyftes of the spryte/which God hath geuen vs in Jesu Christe/in that he gaue hym to dye for vs yet his enymyes. Now haue we then/that fayth only before all workes iustifieth/& that it followeth not yet therfore that a man shulde do no good workes/but that the righte chapen wo:kes abyde not behinde/but accompanye fayth/euen as bi:yghtenes doth the lumme/& are cal led of Paul the frutes of the spi:te. Where ỳ spi:te is/ther it is alwayes somer & ther are all wayes good frutes/ỳ is to saye: good wo:kes. Pauls o:der is/that good wo:kes spi:yuge of the spi:te/the spi:te cõmeth by fayth & fayth cõmeth by hearinge the wo:de of God/when the glad tydynges & pi:omyses which God hath made to vs in Chri:ste/are pi:eached truly/& receaued in ỳ grounde of ỳ heart wout wauerinye o:r doutinge/after that the lawe hath palled vpõ vs & hath dãned oure cõscieces. Where ỳ wo:de of God is pi:eached purely & receaued in the herte/there is fayth & ỳ spi:te of God/& ther are also good wo:kes of necessyte whẽ soeuer occasiõ is geuẽ: where goddis wo:de is not purely pi:eached/but mens dreames/tradicions/ymaginacions inuencios/ceremonyes & supersticion/there is no fayth: & consequently no spi:te that cõmeth of God. And where Goddis spi:te is not/there cã be no good wo:kes/euẽ as where an appell tre is not/ there can growe no appell/but there is vnbelefe/the deuels spi:te & cuyll wo:kes. Of this Goddis spi:yte & hys frutes/haue oure holy ypocrites not once knowen/nether yet tasted how swete they are/ though they fayne many good wo:kes of their awne ymaginacions/to be iustified with all/in which is not one crome of true fayth of spirituall loue/o:r of inward ioye/peace & quyetnes of conscyence/fo:r as moche as they haue not the wo:de of God fo:r them/that suche wo:kes please God/but they are euen the roten frutes of a roten tre.

Good wo:kes are the frutes of the spi:te.

After that he breaketh fo:rth/& runneth at large/& sheweth whence both synne & ryghteousnes/deeth & lyfe come. And he cõpareth Adam & Chri:st to gether/thus wyse reasonynge & disputynge/that Chri:st must neades come as a second Adam to make vs heyres of his righteweines/thorow a newe spirituall bi:yth/without oure deserynges/euẽ as the fi:yst Adã made vs heyres of synne/thorowe the bodely generacyon/without oure deserynge. Wherby is euydently knowen & proued to the vttermoste/that no man can bi:ynge hym selfe oute of synne vnto ryghtewesnes/no mo:re then he coulde haue withstande that he was bo:rne bodely. And that is pi:oued herewith/fo:r as moche as the very lawe of God/which of ryghte shulde haue holpe/yf any thinge coulde haue holpen/not only came & brought no helpe with hy:r/but also encreased synne/because ỳ the cuill & poysoned nature is offended & vtterly displeased with the lawe & the mo:re she is fo:rbed by the lawe/themo:re is she pi:ouoked and set a fyre to fulfyll and satisfye hy:r lustes. By the lawe then we se clerely that we muste nedes haue Chri:ste to iustifye vs with hys grace/and to helpe nature.

In the .vi. he setteth fo:rth the chefe & principall wo:rke of fayth/the batayll of the spi:te agaynst the flesshe/how the spi:te laboureth & enfo:rseth to kyll ỳ remenaunte of synne & luste which remayne in ỳ flesshe/after oure iustifyinge. The .vi. Chapter.

And this chapter teacheth vs/that we are not so fre frõ synne thorowe fayth/that we shulde hence fo:rth go vp and doume pole carlesse & cure of oure lyues/as though there were nowe no mo:re synne in vs: yes there is synne remayninge in vs/but it is not rekened because of fayth & of ỳ spi:te/which fyghte agaynste it. Wherfo:re we haue ynough to do all oure lyues longe/ to tame oure bodyes/& to compell the membres to obeye the spi:yte & not the appetites/that therby we myghte be lyke vnto Chri:stes deeth & resurreccion/and myght fulfyll oure baptime/which signifyeth the mo:rtifyinge of synnes/and the newe lyfe of grace. Fo:r this batayle ceaseth not in vs vntyll the laste bi:eth/and vntyl that synne be vtterly slayne by the deeth of the bodye.

Baptyme is a witnesse betwene God & vs ỳ we haue pi:omy

This thinge (I meane to tame the body & so fo:rth) we are able to do (sayth he) seynge we are vnder grace/and not vnder the lawe/what it is/not to be vnder the lawe/he him selfe expounde th. Fo:r not to be vnder the lawe is not so sed to mo:rtifye to be vnderstand/that euery man may do what him lusteth. But not to be vnder the lawe/is to haue a fre herte rened with the spi:te/so that thou haste luste inwardly of thyne awne accorde to do that which the lawe cõmaundeth/ne that remaywith oute compulcion/ne though there were no lawe. Fo:r grace that is to saye Goddis fauoure bringeth vs ỳ spi:te/neth in ỳ flesshe & maketh vs loue the lawe/so is there nowe no moare synne/nether is the lawe nowe any moare agaynst vs/but at one/& agreed with vs & we with it. But to be vnder the lawe/is to deale with ỳ wo:rkes of the lawe/& to wo:rke wout the spi:te and grace: fo:r so longe no doute synne raygneth in vs thorowe the lawe/that is to saye/the lawe declareth ỳ we are vnder synne and that synne hath power and dominion ouer vs/seynge we cannot fulfyll the lawe/namely in the herte/fo:r as moche as no man of nature fauoureth the lawe/consenteth there vnto & delyteth therin. Whych thinge is exceadinge greate synne/that we cãnot cõsent to the lawe/which lawe is nothinge elle saue ỳ will of God.

Not to be vnder the lawe what it meaneth.

This is the ryght fredome & lyberte from synne & frõ the lawe where of he wryteth vnto the ende of this Chapter/that it is a fredome to do good only with luste/& to lyue well without cõpulcion of the lawe/wherfo:re thys fredome is spi:rituall fredome/which destroyeth not the lawe/but ministreth that which the lawe requyreth/ & where with the lawe is fulfylled/that is to vnderstand/luste & loue/where with the lawe is stylled & accuseth vs no moare/ cõpelleth vs no moare/nether hath oughte to craue of vs any moare. Euen as though thou were in dette to an other man/& were not able to paye/two maner wayes myghtest thou be losed. One waye/yf he wolde requyre nothyng of the/& breke thyne oblygacion. An other waye/yf some other good man wolde paye fo:r the/& geue ỳ as moche as thou myghtest satisfye thyne oblygacõ with all. Of this wyse hath Chri:ste made ỳ fre frõ the lawe/& therfo:re is this no wylde fleshely lyberte/that shulde do nought/but that doeth all thynges/& is fre from the craynge & dette of ỳ lawe.

To be vnder ỳ lawe what it is.

In the .vij. cõfirmeth he the same with a symilitude of the state of matrimony. As when the husbande dyeth/ the wyfe is at hy:r lyberte/& the one lowsed & departed frõ the other/not that ỳ womã shulde not hawe power to marye vnto an other man/but rather now fyrste of all is she fre/& hath power to marye vnto an other mã/which she coulde not do before/tyll she was lowsed frõ hy:r fyrst husband. Euẽ so are oure consciences bound & in daunger to the lawe vnder olde Adã the flesh/as longe as he lyueth in vs. Fo:r the lawe declareth ỳ oure hertes are bounde & that we cannot discõsent frõ him. But when he is mo:rtified & kylled by the spi:te/then is the cõscience fre & at lyberte: not so that ỳ cõscience shall nowe nought do/but now fyrst of all cleuyth vnto an other/ỳ is to wete Chri:st/& bringeth fo:rth the frutes of lyfe. So nowe to be vnder the lawe/is/not to be able to fulfyll the lawe/but to be better to it/& not able to paye that which the lawe requyreth. And to be lowse from the lawe/is to fulfyll it & to paye that which the lawe demaundeth/so that it can now hence fo:rth axe the nought. Consequently Paul declareth mo:re largely the nature of synne and of the lawe/how that thorowe the lawe synne reuyueth/moueth hy:r selfe/and gadereth strength. Fo:r the oldman and co:rupte nature/the moare he is fo:rboden and kepte vnder the lawe/is the moare offended and displeased there wyth/fo:r as moche as he cannot paye that whych is requyred of the lawe. Fo:r synne is hys nature and of him selfe/he cannot but synne. Therfo:re is the lawe deeth to hym/to:mente and marterdome. Not that the lawe is cuyll but because that the cuyll nature cannot suffre that whych is good/cannot abyde that the lawe shulde requyre of hym any good thynge. Lyke as a sycke man cannot suffre that a man shulde desyre of hym to runne/to lepe and to do other dedes of an whole man. Fo:r whych cause Sayncte Paul concludeth/that where the lawe is vnderstande and perceaued of the beste wyse/there it doeth no moare but vtter synne/and bringe vs vnto the knowledge of oure selues/and therby kylle vs and make vs bonde vnto eternall damnacyon and debters of the euerlastynge wrath of God/euen as he well fealeth and vnderstandeth whose conscyence is truely touched of the lawe. Insuche daunger were we per the lawe came/that we knewe not what synne mente/nether yet knowe we the wrath of God vpon synners/tyll the lawe hath vttered it. So seest thou that a man must haue some other thinge/ye and a gretter and gretter & a moare myghty thinge then the lawe/to make him ryghteous & sake. They that vnderstande not the lawe on this wyse/are blind & go to worke presumptuously/suppolynge to satisfye the lawe with workes. For they knowe not that the lawe requyreth a fre/a willinge/a lusty & a louynge herte. Therfore they se not Moses ryght in the face/the vayle hangeth betwene & hydeth hys face/so that they cannot beholde the glorye of hys countenaunce/how þ the lawe is spirituall & requireth the hert. I maye of myne awne strēgth refrayne that I do myne enemye no hurte/ but to loue him with all myne herte/& to put awaye wrathe clene oute of my mynde/can I not of myne awne strēgth I maye refuse money of myne awne strenght/but to put awaye loue vnto ryches oute of myne herte/can I not do of myne awne strenght. To abstayne frō adultery as cōcernynge the vtteward dede/can I do of myne awne strength/ but not to desyre in myne hert is an vnpossyble vnto me as is to chose whether I will hongry or thurst/& yet so þ lawe requireth. Wherfore of a mās awne strength is the lawe neuer fulfylled/ we must haue therunto goddis fauoure/& his spirite/purchased by Christes bloude. Neuertheles when I saye a man maye do many thinges outerwardly clene agaynst his herte/we must vnderstande that man is but dyeuen of diuers appetites/& the greatest appetite ouercommeth the lesse & caryeth the man awaye violently with hym. As when I desyre vengeaunce/& feare also the inconuenience that is lyke to folowe/yf feare be greatter/I abstayne/yf the appetite þ desyreth vēgeaūce be gretter/I cānot but prosecute þ dede/as we se by experience in many murtherars & theues/whych though they be brought into neuer so great perell of deeth/yet after they haue escaped/do euen the same agayne. And cōmen we mē prosecute their lust(because feare & shame are awaye/whē other whych haue the same appetites in their hertes/ abstayne at þ leest waye vtwardly or worke secretly beynge ouercome of feare and of shame/and so lyke wyse is it of all other appetites.

To be vnder ỳ lawe. To be lowse from the lawe.

The .vij. Chapter.

Further moare he declareth/how the spryte & the flesshe fyghte to gether in one man/and maketh an ensample of him selfe/that we myght lerne to know how to worke a ryghte/I meane to kyll synne in oure selues. He calleth both the spryte & also the flesshe a lawe/because that lyke as the nature of Goddis lawe is to dryue/to cōpell & to craue/euē so the flesshe dryueth/cōpelleth/ craueth & rageth agaynst the spryte/& will haue her lustes satisfyed. On þ other syde dryueth the spryte/cryeth & fyghteth agaynst the flesshe/& will haue his luste satisfied. And this stryfe dureth in vs/as longe as we lyue/in some moare & in some lesse/as the spryte or the flesshe is stronger/& the very man hys awne selfe is both the spryte & the flesshe/whych fyghteth with his awne selfe vntyll synne be vtterly slayne & we all to gether

The.viij.chap. spirituall. In the.viij. Chap. he cōforteth suche fyghters þ they dispere not because of suche flesshe/other thinke that they are lesse in fauoure with God. And he sheweth how that the synne remaynynge in vs/hurteth not/for ther is no daunger to them that are in Christ which walke not after the flesshe/but fyght agaynst it. And he expoundeth more largely what the nature of the flesshe & of the spryte is/& how the spryte cōmeth by Christ/which spryte maketh vs spirituall/taweth/subdueth & mortifieth the flesshe/& certifyeth vs that we are neuertheless the sonnes of God/& also beloued though that synne rage neuer so moche in vs/so longe as we folowe the spryte & fyghte agaynst synne to kyll & mortifie it. And because no thynge is so good to the mortifyenge of the flesshe/as the crosse & tribulacion/he cōforteth vs in oure passyons & afflictiōs/by the assistens of the spryte which maketh intercession to God for vs myghtely with grouynges that passe mās vnderstaunce/so that mās spesche cānot cōprehende them & wyth the mournynge also of the creatures wyth vs/of greate desyre that they haue/that we were lowsed frō synne & corrupcio of the flesshe. So se we that these thre chapters/ the.vi.vij.viij. do none other thynge so moche as to dryue vs vnto the ryght worke of

The.ix.x.&.xi. Chapters. fayth/which is to kyll the olde man and mortifye the flesshe. In the.ix.x.&.xi. chapters he treateth of Goddis predestinacio/whence it springeth all to gether/whether we shall beleue or not beleue/be lowsed frō synne or not be lowsed. By which predestinacio oure iustifyinge & saluacio are clene take oute of oure handes/& put in the handes of God only/which thinges is most necessary of all. For we are so weke & so vncertayne/that yf it stode in vs/there wolde of a trueth no man be saued/the deuell no doute wolde deceaue vs. But now is God sure/that his predestinacio cānot deceaue hym/nether can eny man withstand or let him/and therfore haue we hope and truste agaynst synne.

But here muste a mane be set vnto those vnquyet/busye and hye clyming spryles howe ferre they shall go/which fyrst of all bringe hether there hye reasons & pregnāt wyttes/& beginne fyrst from an hye to serche botomlesse secretes of Goddis predestinacio/whether they be predestinat or not. These must nedes ether cast thē selues doune hedelōg into desperacio or else cōmyt thē selues to fre chaunce carelesse. But folowe thou the order of this epistle/& nooselI thy selfe wyth Christ & learne to vnderstande what the lawe & the gospell meane/& the office of both two/that thou mayst in the one knowe thy selfe/& how that thou hast of thy selfe no strength/but to synne & in the other the grace of Christ And then se thou fyghte agaynst synne/& the flesshe as the.viij.fyrst. Chapters teache the. After that when

Thys do yf thou wylt vnderstande. thou arte come to the.viij. chapter & arte vnder the crosse & suffrynge of tribulacio/the necessite of predestinacio will ware swete/& thou shalt well fele how precioulse a thinge it is. For excepte thou haue borne the crosse of aduersyte and temptacio/& hast felte thy selfe brought vnto the very brymme of desperacyon/ye & vnto hell gates/thou canst neuer medle with the sentence of predestinacio without thyne awne harme/& without secret wrath & grudgynge inwardly agaynst God/for other wyse it shall not be possyble for the to thynke that God is ryghteous & iuste. Therfore must Adam be well mortifyed and the flesshely wytte brought vtterly to nought/yer þ thou mayst awaye with this thinge/ & drincke so stronge wyne. Take hede therfore vnto thy selfe/that thou drincke not wyne/whyle thou art yet but a suchlyng. For euery lernynge hath hys tyme/measure & age/& in Christ is there a certayne chyldhod/in which a mā must be content with mylke for a ceason/vntyll he ware stronge & growe vp vnto a perfecte man in Christ/& be able

The.xij.Chapter. to eate of moare stronge meate. In the.xij. Chapter he geueth exhortacions. For this maner obserueth Paul in all hys epistles/fyrst he teacheth Christ & the fayth/then exhorteth he to good workes/& vnto continuall mortifyinge of the flesshe So here teacheth he good workes in deade/& the true seruynge of God/& maketh all mē Prestes/to offer vp/not money & beastes as the maner was in the tyme of the lawe/but their awne bodyes/with kyllynge & mortifyinge of the lustes of the flesshe. After that he describeth the outwarde conuersacyon of Christen men/how they oughte to behaue thē selues in spirituall thinges/how to teache/preache & rule in the cōgregacio of Christ/to serue one to another/to suffre all thinges pacyently/& to cōmyt the wreke & vengeaūce to God/in cōclusyō how a Christen man oughte to behaue him selfe vnto all men/to frend/foo or what soeuer he be. These are the ryghte workes of a Christe mā which springe oute of fayth. For fayth kepeth not holye daye/nether suffreth any mā to be ydle/wher soe-

The.xiij. Chapter. uer she dwelleth. In þ xiij. he teacheth to honoure the worldly & tēporall swerde. For though þ mās lawe & ordinaūce make not a mā good before God/nether iustifye him in the herte/ yet are they ordeyned for the furderaunce of the cōmune welth/to mayntene peace/to punysshe the euyll & to defende the good. Therfore ought the good to honoure the tēporall swerde & to haue it in reuerence/though as cōcernynge thē selues/they nede it not/but wolde abstayne frō euyll of their awne accorde/ye & do good wythout mās lawe/but by the lawe of the spryte which gouerneth the Loue is the fulfyllynge of the lawe. harte/and gydeth it vnto all that is the will of God. Finally he cōprehendeth and knetteth vp all in loue. Loue of her awne nature bestoweth all that she hath/ and euen her awne selfe on that whych is loued. Thou neadest not to byd a kynde mother to be louynge vnto her only sonne. Moche lesse spyrytuall loue whych hath eyes

ner of God/readeth mās lawe to teache her to do hyr dutie. And as in ꝑ begynnyng he dyd put forth Christ as the cause & auctor of oure ryghteweſnes & saluacyō/euen so here setteth he hym forth as an ensample to conterfayte/that as he hath done to vs/euen so shulde we done one to another.

In the.xiiij.Chap.he teacheth to deale soberly wt the consciēces of the weke in the fayth/which vnderstād not yet the libertie of Christ perfectly ynough/& to fauer thē of Christe loue/& not to vse ꝑ liberte of ꝑ fayth vnto hyndrāce/ but vnto the furderāce & edifying of the weake. For where soche cōsideracio is not/there foloweth debate & despising of the Gospell. It is better therfore to forbere ꝑ weake a whyle/ vntill they waxe strōge/then that the learnynge of the Gopell shulde come all to gether vnder fote. And suche worke is the syngular worke of loue/& where loue is perfect/ there must needes be suche a respect vnto the weake/a thinge ꝑ Christ cōmaūded & charged to be had aboue all thinges.

In ꝑ.xv.Chap.he setteth forth Christ agayne to be folowed/ꝑ we also by his ensample shuld suffre other that are yet weake/as thē that are frayle/opē synners/ vnlerned/vnexperte/& of lothsome maners/& not to cast them awaye forth with/ but to suffre thē tyll they waxe better/& exhorte them in the meane tyme. For so dealt Christ in the Gospell & now dealeth with vs dayly/soffring oure imperfectnes/wekenes/cōuersacyon/ and maners/not yet fassyoned after the doctrine of ꝑ Gospell/ but smell of the fleshe/ ye & sometyme breake out in outwarde dedes. After that to conclude wt all he wysheth them encreace of fayth/peace/& ioye of conscīēce/prayeth thē & cōmitteth them to God & magnifieth his office & administracio in the Gospell/& soberly & with greate discrecyon desyreth succoure and ayde of them/ for the poore saynctes of Jerusalē/& it is all pure loue that he speketh or dealeth wt all. So finde we in this pystle plētuously/ vnto the vtmoste/whatsoeuer a Christen man or woman ought to knowe/that is to wete what the lawe/the Gospell/ synne/Grace/Fayth/Righteousnes/Christ/God/good workes/Loue/Hope/& the crosse are/and euen where in the pyth of all that pertayneth to the Christen fayth stondeth/& howe a Christen man oughte to be haue him selfe vnto euery man/be he perfect or a synner/good or bad/ stronge or weke/frend or foo/and in conclusyō howe to behaue oure selues both toward God & toward oure selues also. And all thinges are profoundely grounded in the scryptures/& declared with ensamples of him selfe/of the fathers and of the prophetes/that a man can here desyre no moare. Wherfore it apperet h euidently/ꝑ Paulus mynde was to comprehende breuely in thys pistle all the hole lernynge of Christes Gospell/& to prepare an introduccion vnto all the olde testamēt. For without doute whosoeuer hath thys pistle perfectly in hys herte/the same hath the lyght & the effecte of the olde testamēt with him/wherfore let euery man without excepcio exercyse him selfe therin diligētly/& recorde it night & daye cōtinually/vntyll he be fully acquaynted therwith.

This epistle to the Romaynes is the dore into all the scriptures/ye & ꝑ kepeth openeth it and bringeth mē to the true vnderstandinge of it.

The last Chapter is a Chapter of recōmendacion/wherin he yet myngleth a good monycion/ꝑ we shulde beware of the traditiōs & doctryne of men whych begyle the symple with sophistry & lernynge that is not after the Gospell/ & drawe them from Christ/and noosell them in weke and febie and (as Paul calleth them in the pistle to the Galathyans) in bedgerly ceremonyes for the entent ꝑ they wolde lyue in fatte pastures & be in auctorite/and be taken as Christ/ye and aboue Christ/and syt in the temple of God/that is to witt in the consciences of men where God only/ hys worde/and his Christ ought to sytte. Compare therfore all maner doctryne of men vnto the scrypture & se whether they agre or not. And cōmitte thy selfe whole & all to gether vnto Christ/ and so shall he wyth hys holy spryte and wyth all hys fulnes dwell in thy soule.

The last Chapter.

The somme and hole cause of the wrytinge of this Epistle/is/to proue that a man is iustifyed by fayth onlye: which propolycyon who so denyeth/to him is not only this Epistle and all that Paul wryteth/ but also the hole scripture so locked vp/that he shall neuer vnderstande it to his soules health. And to bringe a man to the vnderstandynge and felynge that fayth onlye iustifyeth: Paule proueth that the hole nature of mā is so poysoned & so corrupte/ye & so deed concernynge godly lyuynge or godly thynkynge/that it is impossyble for hym to kepe ꝑ lawe in the syght of God: that is to saye/to loue it/and of loue & lust to do it as naturally as a mā eateth or drinketh/vntyll she be quyckened agayne & healed thorow fayth. And by iustifyinge/vnderstande none other thinge then to be recōciled to God & to be restored vnto his fauoure/& to haue thy synnes forgeuen the. As when I saye God iustifieth vs/vnderstande therby/that God for Christes sake/meryttes & deserynges only receaueth vs vnto his mercye/ fauore & grace/ and forgeueth vs oure synnes. And when I saye Christ iustifieth vs/vnderstande therby ꝑ Christ hath only redemed vs/bought & delyuered vs oute of the wrath of God & damnacyon/& hath wyth hys workes onlye/ purchased vs the mercye/the fauoure and grace of God & the forgeuenes of oure synnes. And when I saye that fayth onlye iustifyeth/vnderstande therby that fayth & trust in the truthe of God & in ꝑ mercye promysed vs for Christes sake/& for his deserynge & workes onlye/ doth quyet the conscience and certifye hyr that oure synnes be forgeuen and we in the fauoure of God.

Iustifyenge.

Furthermore/set before thyne eyes Christes workes and thyne awne workes. Christes workes onlye iustifye the & make satisfaccion for thy synne/& thyne awne workes not: that is to saye/quyeteth thy conscience/& make the sure ꝑ thy synnes are forgeuen the/& not thyne awne workes. For the promyse of mercye is made the for Christes workes sake/& not for thyne awne workes sake. Wherfore seinge God hath not promysed that thyne awne workes shall saue the: therfore fayth in thyne awne workes can neuer quyet thy conscience ner certifye the before God (when God cōmeth to iudge and to take a reconnynge) that thy synnes are forgeuen the. Beyonde all this/myne awne workes can neuer satisfye the lawe or paye hyr that I owe hyr. For I owe the lawe to loue hyr with all myne hert/sowle/power & myght. Which thynge to paye I am neuer able whyle I am cōpased with fleshe. No/ I cannot once begynne to loue the lawe/except I be fyrst sure by fayth that God loueth me and forgeueth me. Finallye that we saye fayth only iustifyeth/ought to offende no man. For yf thys be true/ꝑ Christ onlye redemed vs/Christ onlye bare oure synnes/ made satisfaccion for them and purchased vs the fauoure of God/then must it nedes be true/that ꝑ trust onlye in Christes deserynge and in the promyses of God the father made vs for Christes sake/doth onlye quyet the conscyence & certifie hyr that the synnes are forgeuē. And when they saye a mā must repent/forsake synne/& haue a purpose to synne no more as nye as he can & loue the lawe of God: Ergo fayth alone iustifyeth not. I answere/that and all lyke argumentes are nought/& lyke to this. I must repent & be sorye/the Gospell must be preached me/ and I must beleue it or elles I cānot be partaker of mercye which Christ hath deserued for me/Ergo Christ onlye iustifieth me not/or Christ onlye hath not made satisfaccyon for my synnes. As this is a naughtye argument/so is the other.

Now go to reader/and accordynge to the order of Pauls wrytynge/ euē so do thou. Fyrst beholde thy selfe diligentlye in the lawe of God/& se there thy iust damnacyon. Secondarely turne thyne eyes to Christ/ & se there the exceadynge mercye of thy mooste kynde & louynge father. Thyrdly remember that Christ made not this attonement that thou shuldest anger God agayne/nether dyed he for thy synnes/that thou shuldest lyue styll in thē/nether clensed he the/that thou shuldest returne/as a swyne/vnto thyne olde podell agayne: but ꝑ thou shuldest be a new creature and lyue a new lyfe after the wyll of God/and not of the fleshe. And be dyligent least thorow thyne awne negligence & vnthankfulnes/thou lose this fauoure and mercye agayne.

For I am detter both to the Grekes and to them which are no Grekes/ vnto the learned and also vnto ✠ vnlearned. Lyke wyse/ as moche as in me is I am redy to preache the Gospell to you of Rome also. For I am not ashamed of the gospell of Christ because it is the power of God vnto saluacyon to all that beleue/ namely to the Iewe/ and also to the Gentyle.

c * For by it the ryghtewelnes which cōmeth of God/ is opened/ from fayth to b * fayth. As it is written: the iust shall lyue by fayth.

c For by it ✠ ryghtewelnes which cometh of God/ is opened/ that is/ by the preachyng of the gospell/ the imputacyō of ryghtwelnes wherwith God reputeth and pronounceth vs ryghtwes freely thorow mercy/ is euydently declared.

For the wrath of God apereth from heauē agaynst all vngodlynes and vnryghtewelnes of men which withholde the trueth in vnrightewelnes: seynge/ what maye be knowen of God/ that same is manifest amonge them. For God dyd shewe it vnto thē. So that hys inuisyble thynges: that is to saye/ hys eternall power and godhed/ are vnderstande and sene/ by the workes from the creacion of the worlde. So that they are wythout excuse/ in as moche as whē they knewe God/ they glorified him not as God/ nether were thankfull but were full of vanities in their imaginacīōs/ and their folisshe hertes were blynded. When they counted them selues wyse/ they became foles and turned the glory of the immortall God/ vnto the similitude of ✠ ymage of mortall man/ ✠ of byrdes/ and foure foted beastes/ and of serpētes. Wherfore God lyke wyse gaue thē vp vnto their hertes lustes/ vnto vnclennes/ to defyle their awne boddyes bitwene thē selues: whych tourned hys trueth vnto a lye/ ✠ worshypped and serued the creatures more then ✠ maker/ which is blessed for euer. Amen. For this cause God gaue them vp vnto shamfull lustes. For euē their wemen dyd chaunge the naturall vse vnto ✠ vnnaturall. And lyke wyse also the men lefte the natural vse of the womā/ ✠ brent in their lust̄ one to another. And mā w mā wrought filthynes/ ✠ receaued in thē selues ✠ rewarde of their errour/ as it was accordynge.

D And as it semed not good vnto thē to be a knowen of God/ euē so God delyuered thē vp vnto a leawde mynd/ that they shulde do tho thinges which were not comly/ beinge full of all vnrighteous doynge/ of fornicacion/ wickednes/ coueteousnes/ maliciousnes/ full of enuye/ morther/ debate/ disceyte/ euyll condicyoned/ whysperers/ backbyters/ haters of God/ doers

God/doers of wronge/proude/bosters/bringers vp of euill thinges/disobediēt to father and mother/ without vnderstandinge/ couenaunte breakers / vnlouynge / trucebreakers/ and merciles. Which men though they knew the ryghteweines of God/how ỹ they which commyt soche thinges/are worthy of deeth/yet not only do the same/but also haue *pleasure in them that do them.

*To haue pleasure in another mannes synnes is greater wyckednes then to synne thy selfe.

¶ He rebuketh the Jewes/which as touchynge synne are lyke the Heythen/yee worse then they.

¶ The.ij. Capter.

A a *To iudge/ here (as i many other places) signifyeth to cōdēmne other & esteame thy selfe ryghtwes

THerfore arte thou inexcusable O man/ whosoeuer thou be ỹ a *iudgest. For in that same wherin thou iudgest another/ thou condemnest thy selfe. For thou that iudgest doest euē the same selfe thinges But we are sure that the iudgement of God is accordynge to trueth/ agaynst them whych cōmyt soche thynges. Thinkest thou this O thou man that iudgest them which do soche thynges/ & yet doest euē the very same/ that thou shalt escape the iudgement of God? Ether despysest thou the ryches of his goodnes/ pacyence & longe sufferaunce? & remēbrest not how ỹ the kyndnes of God ledith the to repentaunce?

But thou after thyne harde herte ỹ cānot repent/ heapest the to gether the treasure of wrath agaynste the daye of vengeaūce/ whē shalbe opened ỹ ryghtewes iudgemēt of God

b *Which will reward euery mā accordynge to hys deades.

b *which will reward euery mā accordynge to hys dedes: ỹ is to saye/ prayse/ honoure & immortalite/ to thē which contynue in good doynge/ and seke eternall lyfe. But vnto thē that are rebellions and disobey the trueth/ & folowe iniquytie/ shall come indignaciō and wrath/ tribulacion & anguysshe vpon ỹ soule of euery man that doth euyll: of the Jewe fyrst/ & also of the Gentyl. To euery mā that doth good/ shall come prayse/ honoure/ and peace/ to the Jewe fyrst/ & also to the Gētyll. For ther is no parcialyte w̄ God. But whosoeuer hath synned wyth out lawe/ shall perisshe wyth out lawe. And as many as haue synned vnder ỹ lawe/ shalbe iudged by ỹ lawe

c *For before God they are not ryghteous which heare the lawe: but the doers of ỹ lawe shalbe iustified. For yt ỹ Gētyls which haue no lawe/ do of nature the thynges cōtayned in ỹ lawe: then they hauynge no lawe/ are a lawe vnto them selues/ which shewe the dede of the lawe writtē in their hertes: whill their conscience beareth witnes vnto them & also their thoughtes/ accusynge one another or excusynge/ at the daye when God shall iudge the secretes of men by Jesus Chryst/ accordynge to my Gospell.

c *For before God they are not rightwes &c but the doars of the lawe shalbe iustifyed / that is/ shalbe pronounced iust & ryght wes This sentēce

Beholde/ thou arte called a Jewe/ & trustest in ỹ lawe & reioysist in God/ & knowest his will/ & hast experience of good/ & bad/ in ỹ thou arte informed by the lawe: & beleuest that thou thy selfe arte a gyde vnto ỹ blynde/ a lyght to them whych are in darknes/ an informer of them whych lacke discrecyon/ a teacher of vnlearned/ which hast ỹ ensample of that whych ought to be knowē/ and of the truth/ in the lawe. But thou whych teachest another/ teachest not thy selfe. Thou preachest a man shuld not steale: and yet thou stealest. Thou sayst/ a mā shuld not cōmyt aduoutry and thou breakest wedlocke. Thou abhorrest ymages/ and robbest God of his honoure. Thou reioysest in the lawe/ & thorow breakynge the lawe/ dishonourest God. For the name of God is euyll spoken of amonge the Gentyls thorowe you/ as it is written.

Circūcision verely auayleth/ yf thou kepe the lawe. But yf thou breake ỹ lawe/ thy circumcisiō is made vncircūcision. Therfore yf the vncircumcised kepe the right thinges cōtayned in the lawe: shall not his vncircumcision be counted for circumcision? And shall not vncircumcision which is by nature (yf it kepe the lawe) iudge ỹ/ which beynge vnder the letter and circumcision/ dost trāsgresse ỹ lawe? For he is not a Jewe/ whech is a Jewe outwarde. Nether is that thinge circūcision which is outwarde in the flesshe. But he is a Jewe which is hyd wythin/ and the circumcision of the herte is ỹ true circūcision/ whych is the spyrete & not in the letter/ whose prayse is not of men/ but of God.

¶ He sheweth what preferment the Jewes haue/ and that both the Jewes and Gentyls are vnder synne/ & are iustifyed only by ỹ grace of God in Chryst.

¶ The.iij. Chapter.

WHat preferm̄ēt then hath ỹ Jewe? other what auaūtageth circūcisiō Surely very moche. First vnto thē was committed the worde of God. What then though some of thē dyd not beleue? shal their vnbeleue make the promes of God wyth out effecte? God forbyd. Let God be true/ & all men lyars/ as it is written: that thou myghtest be iustifyed in thy sayinge/ & shuldest ouercome/ when thou are iudged.

Yf oure vnryghtewesnes make the righteweines of God more excellent: what shall we saye? Is God vnrighteous whych taketh vengeaunce? I speake after ỹ maner of men. God forbid. For how then shall God iudge ỹ worlde? If the veritie of God appere moare excellēt thorow my lye/ vnto his prayse/ why am I hence forth iudged as a synner? & saye not rather (as men euyll speake of vs/ and as some affyrme that we saye) let vs do euyll that good maye come therof. thys selfe text expounde Paul/ sayyng/ not they are righteous which heare the lawe/ but which beleue in Chryst whome the lawe promysed/ affyrmyng playnly/ that to beleue in hym is to do the lawe

¶ No/in no wyse. For we haue al ready proued how that both Jewes & Gētyls are all vnder synne/as it is writtē: there is none righteous no not one: there is none that vnderstandeth/ there is none that seketh after God/they are all gone out of the waye/they are all vnprofytable/ther is none that doeth good/no not one. Their throte is an open sepulchre/with their tounges they haue disceaued: ỹ poyson of aspes is vnder their lyppes. Whose mouthes are full of cursynge & bytternes. Their fete are swyfte to sheed bloud. Destruccyon and wretchednes are in their wayes. And the waye of peace they haue not knowen. There is no feare of God before their eyes.

¶ Ye & we knowe that whatsoeuer ỹ lawe sayth/he sayth it to them which are vnder the lawe. That all mouthes maye be stopped/& all the worlde be subdued to God/because ỹ by the dedes of the lawe/shall no flesche be iustifyed in the sight of God. For by the lawe commeth the knowledge of synne.

Now verely is the ryghtewelnes that cōmeth of God declared with out ỹ fulfyllinge of the lawe/hauynge witnes yet of the lawe and of the Prophetes. The ryghtewelnes no dout which is good before God/commeth by the fayth of Jesus Christ/vnto all and vpon all that beleue.

¶ There is no differēce: for all haue synned/ and lacke ỹ prayse that is of valoure before God: but [a]*are iustifyed freely by his grace/ throughe the redempcion that is in Christ Jesu/ whom God hath made a seate of mercy thorow fayth in hys bloud/ to shewe ỹ ryghtewelnes which before him is of valoure/in that he forgeueth the synnes that are passed/ which God dyd suffre to shewe at thys tyme/ the righteousnes that is alowed of him/that he myght be counted iuste/and a iustifiar of hym which beleueth on Jesus. ¶

Where is then thy reioysynge? It is excluded. By what lawe? by the lawe of workes? Naye: but by the lawe of fayth.

Therfore we holde ỹ a mā is iustyfyed by fayth wythout the dedes of the lawe. Is he the God of the Jewes only? Is he not also the God of the Gentyls? Yes/euen of ỹ Gentyls also. For it is God only whych iustifyeth circumcisyon which is of fayth/and vncircumcisyon thorow fayth. Do we then destroye the lawe thorow fayth? God forbyd. But we rather mayntayne the lawe.

¶ He declareth by ẽxāple of Abrahā/that fayth iustifieth/and not the lawe/nor the workes therof.

¶ The .iiij. Chapter

What shall we saye then/that Abraham oure father as pertaynynge to the flesche/dyd finde? If Abrahā were iustified by*dedes/then hath he wherin to reioyce: but not wyth God. For what sayth the scripture? Abraham beleued God/& it was counted vnto hym for ryghtewelnes. To hym that worketh/is ỹ rewarde not reckened of fauoure/but of dutye. To him that worketh not but beleueth on him ỹ iustifieth the vngodly/is his fayth coūted for ryghtewelnes. Euen as Dauid describeth ỹ blessedfulnes of ỹ man vnto whō God ascribeth ryghtewelnes without dedes.* Blessed are they/whose vnrighteousnes are forgeuē & whose synnes are couered. Blessed is ỹ mā to whom the Lorde imputeth not synne.

a* Therfore by faith &c that ỹ prom̄ might be suer/that is/ therfore are ye pronoūced righteous by fayth (by which vnderstande euen ỹ mercy of god receaued by fayth) that the cōclycēce might be surly certified of the wyl of God/& of ỹ promeses of Gospell/ that is/ of remissyō of synnes/of reconciliacyon or reputacion of righteousnes/ and of the gyft of euerlastyng lyfe/that these thynges shall suerly be performed: whych were not possyble yf ỹ promes shuld depende & hange on oure workes. For then shulde the conscyēce be vnsure dowting whether we had workes ynow ghe/whether God wolde be mercifull/whether the lawe which we knowe we haue transgressed/ wolde condemne vs &c.

¶ Now when doutefulnes remayneth in vs there remayneth also fearfulnes/by whych cometh desperacyon & deeth: for so longe as the lawe

Dedes iustifye not before God.

Are iustified freely by his grace. This sayng doth S. Ambrose expounde on this wyse: they worckyng nothyng nor acquytyng hym any whit/ are iustyfyed by fayth alone/ by the gift of God Thys worde/ alone/ (although ther wyth vniustly offended) is also euidently expressed by S. Paul hym selfe/ in these wordes/ freely ỹ oute ỹ lawe/ without workes/ it is a gift/ & soche like/ which thou must marcke/ for they are all one w̄ this forsayde exposicio of S. Ambrose/ by fayth alone we are iustified which sayng signifyeth thus moche. Onely by ỹ belefe wherwith we beleue that the mercy of God grasted in christes bloude dothe saue vs are we pronoūced ryghtwes. This word/alone/ excludeth workes/ not ỹ thou shuldest not do thē: for vnto all good workes cōmaūded in ỹ scripture art thou bouūde/ and called to walcke in thē/ & must ernestly studye & endeuour thy selfe to leue none of them vndone: but ỹ thou shuldest in no condicio thinck/ that thou arte ther by iustifyed or made rightwes before God.

shewth vs the angre of God/ feares deth cā not be ouer come. Therfore must we reades tyck onely to fayth in ꝑ mercyful promyses of God/ suerly certifyed ꝑ they shalbe fulfylled although oure workes haue not deserued ꝑ fulfyllinges of them.

he was able to make good. And therfore was it reckened to him for righteweines.

It is not writtē for him only/ that it was reckened to him for ryghteweines: but also for vs/ to whom it shalbe counted for righteweines/ so we beleue on hym that rayled vp Iesus oure Lorde from deeth: Which was delyuered for oure synnes/ and rose agayne for to iustifye vs.

¶ The power of fayth/ hope and lone: and how death raygned from Adam vnto Christ/ by whome onely we haue forgeu euelle of synnes.

¶ The.v. Chapter.

BEcause therfore ꝑ we are iustified by fayth/ [a]*we are at peace wyth God thorow oure Lorde Iesus Christ: by whō we haue awaye in thorow fayth / vnto thys grace wherin we stande and reioyce in hope of the prayse that shalbe geuen of God. Nether do we so only: but also we reioyce in tribulacyon. For we knowe that tribulacyon bringeth pacience/ pacience bryngeth experiēce/ experiēce bringeth hope. And [b]*hope maketh not ashamed for ꝑ loue of God is sheed abrod in oure hertz by the holy goost/ which is geuen vnto vs.

For when we were yet weake/ accordyng to ꝑ tyme: Christ dyed for vs whych were vngodly. Yet scace will eny man dye for a ryghtewes man. Parauēture for a good mā durst a mā dye. ✠ But God setteth out hys loue ꝑ he hath to vs/ seynge that whyll we were yet sinners/ Christ died for vs. Moche more then now (seynge we are iustifyed in hys bloud) shall we be saued from wrath thorow hym.

For yf whē we were enemyes/ we were reconciled to God by ꝑ deeth of his sonne: moche more/ seinge we are reconciled/ we shalbe preserued by his lyfe. Not only so/ but we also ioye in God by ꝑ meanes of oure Lord Iesus Christ/ by whō we haue receaued ꝑ attōmēt.

a *To be at peace wyth God is no nother thing/ than to haue trā quillitie and rest in oure hertes toward God/ knowing assuredly that we be accepted of hym & do pleasehim: which thyng we fynde by fayth onely/ in that it receaueth forgeuenes of synnes & geuenes of life euerlasting by mercy obtayned at Christes blode. Oure awne workes cā bring no forthe tanquillitie/ because they be vnsure and engender doubte/ of whych followeth deliperacion/ & of it dampnacyon.

*b We are not ashamed of oure hope for we are sure by the deathe of christ ꝑ God louethvs and will bringe oure hope to passe.

¶ Wherfore as by one mā synne entred into the worlde/ & deeth by the meanes of synne. And so deeth went ouer all men/ in so moche that all men synned. For euen vnto the tyme of the lawe was synne in ꝑ worlde/ but synne was not regarded/ as longe as ther was no lawe: neuertheles deeth raygned frō Adam to Moses/ euē ouer thē also that synned not/ with lyke trasgression as dyd Adam: whych is the similitude of him that is to come.

Adās disobediēce dāpned vs all yer we oure selues wrought euell. And Christes obedyence saueth vs all/ yer we oure selues worke anye good.

But the gyfte is not lyke as ꝑ synne. For yf thorow the sinne of one/ many be deed: moche more plenteous vpon many was ꝑ grace of God and gyfte by grace: which grace was geuen by one man Iesus Christ.

And ꝑ gifte is not ouer one synne/ as deeth cā thorow one synne of one that synned. For damnacion came of one synne vnto condēnacion: but ꝑ gift came to iustify frō many synnes. For yf by the sinne of one/ deeth raygned by the meanes of one: moche more shall they which receaue aboundance of grace & of the gyfte of ryghteweines/ raygne in lyfe by the meanes of one (that is to saye) Iesus Christ.

Lykewise then as by the synne of one/ condemnaciō came on all mē: euē so by the iustifyinge of one cōmeth the ryghteweines that bringeth lyfe vpō all mē. For as by one mānes disobediēce many be came synners: so by the obediēce of one/ shall many be made ryghteous. But the*lawe in ꝑ meane tyme entred in/ that synne shuldencreace. Neuerthelater where aboundaūce of synne was/ there was more plenteousnes of grace. That as synne had raygned vnto deeth/ euē so myght grace raygne thorow ryghteweines/ vnto eternall lyfe/ by the helpe of Iesu Christ.

* The lawe encreaseth synne/ & maketh oure nature more gredye to do euell because the lawe ministreth no power nether lust to ꝑ the bidden/ or to refrayne from ꝑ which forbiddeth. Gala. iij. d.

¶ For so moch as we be deliuered thorow Christ frō synne: we muste fashion oure selues to lyue as the seruauntes of God/ and not after our awne lustes. The vnlyke rewarde of ryghteousnesse and synne.

¶ The.vi. Chapter.

WHat shal we saye then? Shall we cōtinue in synne/ ꝑ there maye be aboundaūce of grace? God forbid How shall we that are deed as touchinge synne/ liue eny lēger therin? ✠ Remēber ye not that all we which are baptised in ꝑ name of Iesu Christ are baptised to dye with him? We are buried wᵗ hym by baptyme/ for to dye/ that lykewyse as Christ was rayled vp frō deeth by ꝑ glorie of the father euen so we also shuldwalke in a newe life. For yf we be graft in deeth lyke vnto him: euen so must we be in the resurrection. Thys we must remember that oure olde man is crucifyed wᵗ him also/ that the body of synne might vtterly be destroyed/ that hence forth we shuld not be seruauntes of synne. For he that is deed/ is iustifyed from synne.

Wherfore yf we be deed wᵗ Christ/ we beleue that we shall lyue with him: remēbringe that Christ once rayled from deeth/ dyeth no more. Deeth hath no more power ouer him. For as touchinge that he dyed/ he dyed cōcerninge synne/ once. And as touchinge that he liueth/ he liueth vnto God. Lykewyse ymagen ye also/ ꝑ ye are [a]*deed cōcerninge synne but are alyue vnto God thorow Iesus Christ oure Lorde ✠ Let not synne raygne therfore in youre mortal bodyes/ ꝑ ye shulde therunto obey in the lustes of it. Neither geue ye youre mēbres as instrumentes of vnrighteweines vnto synne: but geue youre selues vnto God as they ꝑ are alyue frō deeth. And geue youre members as instrumentes of ryghteweines vnto god Let not sinne haue power ouer you For ye are not vnder ꝑ lawe/ but vnder grace

a *To dye vnto synne is/ not to obeye the delyres & concupiscences of synne

What then? Shall we synne/ because we are not vnder ỹ lawe: but vnder grace? God forbyd. ✠ Remẽber ye not how that to whõ soeuer ye cõmyt youre selues as seruauntes to obey: his seruaũtes ye are to whõ ye obey: whether it be of synne vnto deeth/ or of obedience vnto righteweſnes? God be thanked/ ℣ that though ye were once the seruauntes of synne/ ye haue yet obeyed wyth herte vnto ỹ forme of doctrine wher vnto ye were deliuered. Ye are then made fre frõ synne/ and are become the seruauntes of ryghteweſnes. ✠ ✠ I will speake grosly because of the infirmitie of youre fleſshe. As ye haue geuẽ youre mẽbers seruaũtes to vnclẽnes & to iniquitie frõ iniquitye vnto iniquitye: euẽ so now geue youre members seruauntes vnto ryghteweſnes/ that ye maye be sanctifyed. For whẽ ye were the seruauntes of synne/ ye were not vnder righteweſnes. What frute had ye then in tho thinges/ wherof ye are now aſshamed For ỹ ende of tho things is deeth. But now are ye deliuered frõ synne/ & made ỹ seruaũtes of God/ & haue youre frute ỹ ye shuld be sanctified/ & ỹ ende euerlastinge life. For ỹ rewarde of synne is deeth: but eternall* lyfe is ỹ gyfte of God/ thorow Jesus Chryst oure Lorde.

Eternall lyfe is the deliuerynge of Chryst.

¶ Chryst hath delyuered vs from the lawe and death. Paul sheweth what the fleſshe and outwarde man is/ and calleth it the lawe of the membres.

Remẽber ye not bretheren (I speake to them that knowe the lawe) how ỹ ỹ lawe hath power ouer a mã as longe as it endureth? For ỹ womã which is in subiecciõ to a mã/ is bounde by ỹ lawe to the man/ as longe as he lyueth. If the man be deed/ she is lowsed from the lawe of the man. So then yf whill the man lyueth she couple her selfe vnto another mã/ she shalbe counted a wedlocke breaker. But yf the man be deed/ she is fre frõ the lawe: so that she is no wedlocke breaker/ though she couple her selfe with another man.

a* Are deed concernynge the lawe. To be deed concernig the lawe is to be made fre frõ the lawe and from the burthether of: to receaue the spirite/ by which we may do after ỹ law. And the same/ is to be delyuered from the lawe of deeth. Galat. ỹ.d

Euen so ye my bretheren/ a* are deed concerninge the lawe by the body of Chryst/ that ye shulde be coupled to another (I meane to him that is rysen agayne from deeth) that we shulde bringe forth frute vnto God. For whẽ ℣ we were in the fleſshe/ the lustes of synne which were stered vppe by the lawe raygned in oure members/ to bringe forth frute vnto deeth. But now are we delyuered frõ the lawe and deed from that wherunto we were in bondage that we shuld serue in a newe conuersacion of the spyrete/ and not in the olde cõuersacion of the letter.

What shall we saye then? is the lawe synne? God forbyd: but I knewe not what sinne meãt but by the lawe. For I had not knowne what lust had meãt/ excepte the lawe had sayd/ *thou shalt not lust. But synne toke an occasyon by the meanes of the commaundement and wrought in me all manner of concupiscẽce. For verely without ỹ lawe/ synne was deed. I once lyued without lawe. But when the cõmaundement came/ synne reuyued/ and I was deed. And the very same commaundement which was ordeyned vnto life/ ¶ was foũde to be vnto me an occasyõ of deeth. For synne toke occasion by the meanes of ỹ commaundement/ and so dyſceaued me/ & by the selfe cõmaundement slewe me. Wherfore 1.Timo.i.b. the lawe is holy/ and the cõmaundemẽt holy/ iust and good.

Exod.xx.e. Deut.v.b.

Was that then which is good/ made deeth vnto me? God forbyd. Naye synne was deeth vnto me/ that it myght appere/ how ỹ synne by the meanes of that whych is good/ had wrought deeth in me: that synne whych is vnder the commaundement/ might be out of measure synfull. For we knowe that ỹ lawe is spirituall: but I am carnall solde* vnder synne/ because I wote not what I do. For what I wold/ that do I not: but what I hate/ ỹ do I. If I do now that which I wolde not/ I graũte to ỹ lawe that it is good. So then nowe/ it is not I that do it/ but synne that dwelleth in me. For I knowe that in me (that is to saye in my fleſshe) dwelleth no good thinge. To will is present wt me: but I fynde no meanes to performe that whych is good. For I do not that good thinge which I wold but that euil do I/ which I wold not. Finally yf I do that I wolde not/ then is it not I that do it/ but synne that dwelleth in me/ doeth it. I fynde then by the lawe/ that when I wolde do good/ euyll is present with me. I delite in the lawe of God/ concerninge the inner man. But I se another lawe in my membres rebellinge agaynst the lawe of my mynde/ and subduynge me vnto the lawe of synne/ which is in my members. O wretched man that I am: who shall delyuer me from thys body of deeth? I thanke God thorow Jesus Chryst oure Lorde. So then I my selfe in my mynde serue the lawe of God/ and in my fleſshe the lawe of synne.

To be solde vnder synne is to be made a bond mã to do ỹ wyll of synne only.

¶ The lawe of the spyrete geueth lyfe. The spyrete of God maketh vs Gods children and heyres with Chryst The aboundaunt loue of God can not be seperated.

¶ The .viij. Chapter. ✠

There is then no damnacion to them whych are in Chryst Jesu/ whych walke not after ỹ fleſshe: but after the spyrete. For the lawe of ỹ spyrete ỹ bringeth lyfe thorowe Jesus Chryst/ hath delyuered me from the lawe of synne & deeth. For what the lawe coulde not do in as moche as it was weake because of the fleſshe: that perforemed

perfourmed God/ & sent his sonne in the symilitude of synfull flesshe/ & by *synne damned synne in ye flesshe: ye the righteweisnes requyred of the lawe/ myght be fulfylled in vs/ whych walke not after ye flesshe/ but after the spyrete

For they ye are carnall/ are carnally mynded. But they that are spirituall/ are gostly mynded. To be carnally mynded/ is deeth.

a *ye are not geuen to ye flesshe. To be geuē to ye flesshe/ is to lyue in ye workes of the flesshe/ which are rebuked. Galat. v. d.

But to be spiritualy mynded is life & peace. ¶ Because that ye flesshly mynde is emnyte agaynst God: for it is not obedient to ye lawe of God/ nether can be. So then they that are geuen to the flesshe/ cannot please God.

*Christes spirite is in all his/ & ye spirite is lyke because it cōsenteth vnto ye lawe. And ye bodye ye is deed because it consenteth to synne wyll ye spryte quycken at the last/ & geue him lust to do ye lawe & wyll not suffre hym to remayne in synne

But a *ye are not geuē to ye flesshe/ but to the *spyrete: yf so be that ye spyrite of God dwell in you. If ther be eny man that hath not the spyrite of Christ/ the same is none of hys. If Christ be in you/ the body is deed because of synne: but the spyrite is lyfe for ryghteweisnes sake. Wherfore yf the spyrite of him ye rayled vp Jesus from deeth/ dwell in you: euen he ye rayled vp Christ from deeth/ shall quycken youre mortall bodyes/ because that his spyrite dwelleth in you.

C ✝ Therfore brethren we are nowe detters/ not to the flesshe/ to liue after ye flesshe. For yf ye lyue after the flesshe/ ye must dye. But yf ye mortifye ye dedes of the body/ by ye helpe of ye spyrite/ ye shall lyue. For as many as are led by the spyrete of God: they are the sonnes of God. For ye haue not receaued the spyrete of bondage to feare eny moare/ but ye haue receaued the spyrete of *adoption wherby we crye Abba father. The same spyrete certifyeth oure spyrete that we are the sonnes of God. If we be sonnes/ we are also heyres/ ye heyres I meane of God/ and heyres annexed wt Christ yf so be that we *suffer together/ ye we maye be glorified together. ✠

(Adoption) ye is the inheritaūce promysed by grace.

*We must suffre with Christ yf we shal raygne with hym in glorye.

✠ For I suppose that the afflictiōs of this lyfe/ are not worthy of ye glory which shalbe shewed vpon vs. Also the feruent desyre of ye creatures abydeth lokynge when the sonnes of God shall appere/ because ye creatures are subdued to vanyte agaynst their wil: but for his will whych subdueth them in hope. For the very creatures shalbe delyuered frō the bondage of corrupcion into ye gloryous libertie of the sonnes of God. For we knowe that euery creature groneth with vs also/ & trauayleth in payne euen vnto this tyme.

*First frutes/ a taste/ & a certayne porcion & not the full gyfte of the spirite.

Not they only/ but euē we also whych haue the fyrst *frutes of ye spyrite/ morne in oure selues & wayte for the (adopciō) & loke for ye deliuraūce of oure bodyes. ✠ For we are

*We are saued by hope ye is we hope to be delyuered oute of ye corrupciō/ of oure bodyes into ye

*sauyd by *hope. But hope that is sene is no hope. For how can a mā hope for that which he seyth? But and yf we hope for that we se not/ then do we with pacience abyde for it.

Lyke wyse the spyrete also helpeth oure infirmities. For we knowe not what to desyre as we ought: but the spyrete maketh intercessyon mightely for vs with gronynges which cannot be expressed with tonge. And he that searcheth the hertes/ knoweth what is the meaninge of the spyrite: for he maketh intercessyon for the sayntes accordynge to the pleasure of God. ✠

E glorye that Christ now is mi and therfore fayntnot in oure tribulacyons.

✠ For we knowe ye all thinges worke for the best vnto them that loue God/ which also are called *of purpose. For those whych he knewe before/ he also ordeyned before/ that they shulde be lyke fassyoned vnto the shape of his sonne/ ye he myght be the fyrst begotte sonne amonge many brethren. Moreouer which he appoynted before thē also he called And whych he called/ them also he iustifyed/ which he iustified/ them he also glorifyed.

*God choseth of hys awne goodnes & mercie calleth thorow the gospell: iustifieth thorow fayth and glorifyeth thorow good workes. F

What shall we then saye to these thinges? yf God be on oure syde: who can be agaynst vs? which spared not his awne sonne/ but gaue him for vs all: how shall he not with hym geue vs all thinges also? Who shall laye eny thinge to the charge of Goddes chosen? it is God that iustifieth: who then shall condēpne? it is Christ whych is deed yee rather whych is rysen agayne/ whych is also on the ryght hande of God & maketh intercessyon for vs. G

*He that seeth what Christ hath done for hym/ cānot but beleue that god loueth him and also loue God agayne.

Who shall seperate vs frō ye loue *of God? shall tribulacion? or anguysshe? or persecucyon? other honger? ether nakednesse? ether parell? ether swearde? As it is wrytten: for thy sake are we kylled all daye lōge/ and are counted as shepe apoynted to be slayne. Neuertheles in all these thynges we ouercome strongly thorow his helpe that loued vs. Ye and I am sure that nether deeth/ nether lyfe/ nether Angels/ nor rule/ nether power/ nether thinges present/ nether thinges to come nether heygh/ nether lowth/ nether eny other creature shalbe able to departe vs frō ye loue of God/ shewed in Christ Jesu oure Lorde. ✠

C The. ix. Chapter. A

I Saye the trueth in Christ/ and lye not/ in that wherof my conscyence beareth me wytnes in ye holy ghost that I haue gret heuynes and continuall sorowe in my hert. For I haue wysshed my selfe to be cursed frō Christ/ for my brethren & my kynsmen as pertayninge to ye flesshe/ which are ye Jsraelites. To whō pertayneth the adopciō/ & the glorye/ & the couenauntes & the lawe that was geuen/ and the seruice of God/ and the promyses: whose also are the fathers and they of whome (as concernynge the flesshe) Christ came/ which is God ouer all thinges blessed for euer Amen.

Adopcion is an inheritaunce by grace

I speake not these thynges as though the wordꝭ of God had take none effecte. For they are not all Israelites which came of Israel:
B nether are they all chyldren straycht waye because they are the seed of Abraham. But in Isaac shall thy seede be called: ꝟ is to saye/they which are the children of the flesshe/are not the chyldren of God. But the children of promes are counted the seede. For thys is a worde of promes/aboute thys tyme wyll I come/and Sara shall haue a sonne.

Nether was it so wyth her only: but also when Rebecca was wyth chylde by one/ I C meane by oure father Isaac/yer the children were borne/when they had nether done good nether bad: that the purpose of God which is by election/myght stande/it was sayde vnto her/not by ꝟ reason of workes/but by grace of the caller: the elder shall serue ꝟ younger.
As it is wrytte: Jacob he loued/but Esau he hated. What shall we saye then? is there eny vnrighteweslnes w God? God forbyd. For he sayth to Moses: I wyll shewe mercy to whō
I shewe mercy: and will haue compassion on whom I haue cōpassion. So lieth it not then in a mās will or runninge/but in the mercye of God. For the scripture sayth vnto Pharao euen for this same purpose haue I stered the vp/to shewe my power on the/& that my name myght be declared thorow out all ꝟ worl-de. So hath he mercye on whom he will/and whom he will/he maketh hard herted.

Thou wylt saye then vnto me: why then blameth he vs yet? For who cā resist his will?
D But O mā/what arte thou whych disputest with *God? Shall the worcke saye to ꝟ wor-
* The fleshly & proude mynded will be as wise as God must be mortified to learne to feare God & to obey him & to leue disputinge w hym be man: why hast thou made me on this fasshyon? Hath not the potter power ouer the claye/euen of the same lompe to make one vessell vnto honoure/and another vnto dishnoure? Euen so/God willinge to shewe hys wrath/and to make his power knowē suffered with longe pacience the vessels of wrath/ordeyned to damnacion/that he myght declare the riches of his glory on ꝟ vessels of mercye/whych he had prepared vnto glorye: that is to saye/vs whych he called/not of the Je-E wes only/but also of the gētyls. As he sayth
Osee. ii. d. in Osee: I wyll call them my people whych
1. Petr. ij. a. were not my people: and her beloued whych was not beloued. And it shall come to passe in the place where it was sayd vnto them/ye are not my people: that there shalbe called ꝟ children of the lyuynge God.

But Esaias cryeth concernynge Israel/though the nombre of the children of Israel be as ꝟ sonde of ꝟ see yet shall but a remnaūt be saued. He fynisheth the worde verely/& maketh it short in ryghtwesnes. For a short worde wil God make on erth. And as Esaias sayd before: except the Lorde of Saboth had F left vs seede/we had bene made as Sodoma/and had bene lykened to Gomorra.

What shall we saye then? We saye that ꝟ gentyls which folowed not righteweslnes ha ue ouertakē righteweslnes: I meane ꝟ righ-teweslnes which cometh of fayth. But Israel which folowed ꝟ lawe of righteweslnes could not attayne vnto the lawe of ryghteweslnes.
And wherfore? Because they sought it not by fayth: but as it were by the workes of the lawe. For they haue stombled at ꝟ stōblynge stone. As it is wrytte: Beholde I put in Syō a stomblynge stone/and a rocke which shall make men faule. And none that beleue on him/shalbe a shamed.

C The vnfaythfulnes of the Jewes. Two maner of ryghteousnes.

C The. x. Chapter.

Brethre/my hertes desyre & prayer to God for Israel is/that they myght be saued. For I beare them recorde that they haue a feruent mynde to God warde/but not accordynge to knowledge. For they are ignorannt of the ryghteweslnes whych is alowed before God/and go about to stablysshe their awne ryghteweslnes/and therfore are not obedient vnto the ryghteweslnes whych is of valew before God. For a *Christ is the ende of the lawe/to iustifye all that beleue.

* a Christ is the ende of ꝟ lawe/ that is/Christ is ꝟ fulfyllinge of the lawe: so ꝟ who so hathe hir & beleueth ꝟ hel & shedinge of his bloude hath wasshed awaye synnes/& therwith ouercome deeth and hell/ and obtayned ꝟ fauour of hys father for all that thus beleue/is counted ryghteweslnes/although he do not in dede satisfye the lawe.

Moses describeth ꝟ ryghteweslnes which cometh of the lawe/how that the man which doth the thinges of the lawe/shall lyue ther-B in. But the ryghteweslnes whych cometh of fayth/speaketh on this wyse. Saye not in thine hert/who shall ascende into heauen (ꝟ is nothynge els then to fetch Christ doune) Other who shall descende into ꝟ depe? (ꝟ is nothynge els but to fetch vp Christ frō deeth)
But what sayth the scripture? The worde is nye the/euē in thy mouth and in thyne herte.

This worde is the worde of *fayth whych
we preache. For yf thou shalt knowledge w thy mouth that Jesus is the Lorde/& shalt beleue with thyne hert that God rayled hym vp from deeth thou shalt be safe. For the belefe of the hert iustifyeth/& to knowledge with the mouth maketh a man safe. For the scrypture sayth: whosoeuer beleueth on him shall not be ashamed.

* Though fayth iustifye from sinne and though Christ deserued ꝟ reward promysed/yet is the promyse made on the condicyō that we embrace Christes doctryne and cōfesse him w worde & dede So ꝟ we are iustifyed to do good workes/& in thē to walke to the saluacyō promysed.

There is no dyfferēce betwene the Jewe & the Gentyll. For one is Lord ouer all/which is ryche vnto all ꝟ call on him. For whoso-C uer shall call on the name of ꝟ Lorde/shalbe safe. But how shall they call on him/on whō they beleued not? how shall they beleue on him of whom they haue not herde? how shall they heare w̄out a preacher? And how shall they preache b *except they be sent? As it is b * Except they

be sent/that is/ except ꝑ worde be geuē thē of God. Except they be sent: ꝑ wyll alke of whom Verely of him which is ꝑ owner of the Gospell/ꝑ is God. Of him be they sent/whych preache Christ truly: purely without ꝑ desyre of vayneglorye or gaynes. Of the same maner doth Christ prove that he was sent of hys father: because he spake to the glorie of his father/not of hi selfe. John.vij. But soche as vnder the pretēce of preachig ꝑ Gospell preache mēs traditions wherby they seke the prayse of thē selues/are false Apostles/ and sent of Antychrist not of Christ.

written: how beautyfull are the fete of them wych bringe glad tydynges of peace/and bringe glad tydynges of good thinges. But they haue not all obeyed to the Gospell. For Esaias sayth: Lorde who shall beleue oure sayinges? So then fayth cometh by hearing & hearinge cometh by ꝑ worde of God. But I aske: haue they not herde? No dout/their sounde wēt out into all landes: & their wordes into the endes of the worlde. ℣

But I demaunde whether Israel dyd know or not? First Moses sayth: I will prouoke you to envy/by them that are no people & by a folisshe nacīō I wil anger you. Esaias after that/is bolde and sayth: I am founde of them that sought me not/and haue appered to them that asked not after me. And agaynst Israel he sayth: all daye longe haue I stretched forth my handes vnto a people that beleueth not/but speaketh agaynst me.

¶ All the Jewes are not cast awaye/therfore Paul warneth the Gentyls that be called/not to be hye minded, nor to despyse the Jewes/for the iudgemeutes of God are depe and secrete.

¶ The.xi.Chapter.

I Saye then: hath God cast awaye his people? God forbyd. For euē I verely am an Israelite/of ꝑ seed of Abrahā/& of ꝑ tribe of Beniamin/ God hath not cast awaye hys people whych he knewe before. Etherwote ye not what the scripture sayth by ꝑ mouth of Helias/how he maketh intercessyon to God agaynst Israel/ saying: *Lorde they haue kylled thy Prophetes & dygged doune thyne alters: & I am lefte only/& they seke my lyfe. But what sayth the answer of God to him agayne? I haue reserued vnto me seuē thousande mē whych haue not bowed the knee to Baal. Euen so at this tyme is ther a remanaūt lefte thorow ꝑ electiō of grace. If it be of *grace/then is it not of workes. For then were grace no moare grace. If it be of workes/then is it no moare grace. For then were deseruinge no lenger deseruinge. What then? Israel hath not obtayned that he sought. No but yet ꝑ electiō hath obtayned it. The remanaūt are blinded/accordinge as it is writtē: *God hath geuē thē the spyrete of vnquyetnes: eyes that they shuld not se & eares that they shulde not heare/euē vnto thys daye. *And Dauid sayth: Let their table be made a snare to take them with all/ & an occasion to faule/& a rewarde vnto thē. Let their eyes be blynded that they se not: & and euen a *bowe downe their backes.

I saye then: haue they therfore stombled/ that they shulde but faule only? God forbyd: but thorowe their faule is saluacion happened vnto the gētyls/for to prouoke thē wyth all. Wherfore yf the faule of thē/be ꝑ ryches of the worlde: and the mynyshynge of them the ryches of the gentyls: How moche moare shulde it be so/yf they all beleued. I speake to you gētyls/in as moche as I am ꝑ Apostle of the gētyls/I will magnify myne office/ꝑ I myght prouoke thē which are my flesshe/& myght saue some of thē. For yf the castynge awaye of them/be the reconcylynge of the worlde: what shall the receauynge of thē be/ but lyfe agayne from deeth? For yf one pece be holy the whole heepe is holy. And yf the rote be holy/the braunches are holy also.

Though some of the braūches be broken of/and thou beynge a wylde olyue tree/ arte graft in amonge thē/& made partaker of the rote and fatnes of the olyue tree/bost not thy selfe agaynst the braūches. For yf thou bost thy selfe/remēber that thou bearest not the rote/but the rote the. Thou wilt saye then: the braūches are broken of/that I myght be grafte in. Thou sayest well: because of vnbeleue they are broken of/& thou standest stedfast in fayth. Be not hye mynded/but feare seynge ꝑ God spared not the naturall braunches/lest haply he also spare not the.

Beholde ꝑ kindnes & rigorousnes of God: on thē which fell/rigorousnes: but towardes the/kyndnes: yf thou cōtinue in his kyndnes. Or els thou shalt be hewē of/& they yf they byde not styll in vnbelefe/ shalbe grafted in agayne. For God is of power to graffe them in agayne. For yf thou wast cut out of a naturall wilde olyue tree/and wast grafted contrary to nature in a true olyue tree: how moche more shall ꝑ naturall braunches be grafted in their awne olyue tree agayne.

I wolde not ꝑ this secrete shulde be hyd frō you my brethren (lest ye shuld be wyse in youre awne conseytes) that partly blyndnes is happened in Israel/vntyll the fulnes of ꝑ gentyls be come in: & so all Israel shalbe saued. As it is writtē: *There shall come oute of Syō he ꝑ doth deliuer/& shal turne awaye the vngodlynes of Jacob. And this is my couenaūt vnto them/when I shall take awaye their synnes. As cōcerning ꝑ gospell they are enemyes for youre sakes: but as touchinge ꝑ electciō they are loued for ꝑ fathers sakes.

For verely the gyftes and callinge of God are soche/that it cannot repent him of them: for loke/as ye in tyme passed haue not beleued God/yet haue now obtayned mercy thorow their vnbelefe: euē so now haue they not beleued the mercy whych is happened vnto you/ꝑ they also maye obtayne mercy. God hath wrapped all nacyons in vnbeleue/that he myght haue mercye on all.

O the depnes of the aboundaūt wysdome & knowledge of God: how vnsercheable are his iudgementes/& his wayes past findinge be sent/that is/ except ꝑ worde be geuē thē of God. Except they be sent: ꝑ wyll alke of whom Verely of him which is ꝑ owner of the Gospell/ꝑ is God. Of him be they sent/whych preache Christ truly: purely without ꝑ desyre of vayneglorye or gaynes. I Beseche you therfore brethren/by the mercyfulnȝ of God/ ỹ ye make youre bodyes a quicke sacrifyce/ holy & acceptable vnto God: which is youre resonable seruinge of God & fassyō not your selfnȝ lyke vnto thys worlde: but be ye chaūged in youre shape/ by ỹ renuynge of youre wittes that ye maye fele what thynge ỹ good/ that acceptable/& perfaycte wyll of God is. IIm *that is weake in ꝑ fayth/receaue vnto you/ not in diſputynge & troublinge hys conſcēce. One beleueth ꝑ he maye eate all thynge. Another which is weake/eateth earbes. Let not him ꝑ eateth/deſpiſe him that eateth not And let not him whych eateth not/ iudge him ꝑ eateth. For God hath receaued hym. What arte thou that iudgeſt a nother mannes ſeruaunt? Whether he ſtande or faule/that pertayneth vnto his maſter: ye/he ſhal ſtāde. For God is able to make him ſtande.

This man putteth differēce bitwene daye & daye. Another mā couēteth all dayes alyke. Se ꝑ no mā wauer in his awne meanynge. He that obſerueth one daye more then another/doeth it for the Lordes pleaſure. And he that obſerueth not one daye moare then another/doeth it to pleaſe the lorde alſo. He that eateth/doth it to pleaſe ꝑ lorde/for he geueth God thankes. And he that eateth not/eateth not/to pleaſe the Lorde with all/and geueth God thākes. For none of vs lyueth his awne ſeruaunt: nether doeth any of vs dye his awne ſeruaunt. If we lyue/we lyue to be at the Lordes wyll. And yf we dye we dye at the Lordꝭ will. Whether we lyue therfore or dye we are the Lordes. For Chriſt therfore dyed and roſe agayne/and reuyued that he myght be Lorde both of deed and quicke.

But why doeſt thou then iudge thy brother Other why doeſt thou deſpyſe thy brother? We ſhalbe all brought before the iudgemēt ſeate of Chriſt. For it is written: as truely as I lyue ſayth the Lorde/all knees ſhall bowe to me/and all tōges ſhall geue a knowledge to God. So ſhall euery one of vs geue accomptes of him ſelfe to God. Let vs not therfore iudge one another eny more.

But iudge thys rather/that no man put a ſtomblinge blocke or an occaſion to faule in his brothers waye. For I knowe and am full certifyed in the Lorde Jeſus that ther is nothinge comen of it ſelfe: but vnto him ꝑ iudgeth it to be comen: to him is it comen. If thy brother be greued wꝭ thy meate/now walkeſt thou not charitablie. Deſtroye not him with thy meate/for whom Chriſt dyed. Cauſe not youre *treaſure to be euyll ſpokē of. For ꝑ kyngdome of God is not meate & drynke: but ryghteweſnes/peace & ioye in ꝑ holy gooſt. For whoſoeuer in theſe thingꝭ ſerueth Chriſt pleaſeth well God/& is commended of men.

Let vs folowe tho thinges which make for peace/& thynges wherwith one maye edifye another. Deſtroye not the worke of God for a lytell meates ſake. All thingꝭ are pure: but it is euyll for ꝑ mā/which eateth with hurte of hys conſcyence. It is good nether to eate flefſhe/nether to drynke wyne/ nether eny thinge/wherby thy brother ſtombleth/ether falleth/or is made weake. Haſt thou fayth? haue it with thy ſelfe before God. Happy is he that condēpneth not him ſelfe in ꝑ thynge whych he alloweth. For he that maketh conſcience/is dāpned yf he eate: becauſe he doth it not of fayth. For whatſoeuer is not of fayth/that ſame is ſynne.

To do agaynſt cōſcience is dānable. And all ꝑ is not of fayth is ſynne.

And agayne/ praiſe ꝑ Lorde all ye gentyls/& laude him all nacios. ¶ The fyrst Chapter.

PAul by vocacyon an Apostle of Jesus Christ thorow the wyll of God / and brother Sostenes, Unto the congregacion of God which is at Corynthum.

a *Saynctes by callynge. Of this / loke Roma.i.a.

a *To them that are sanctifyed in Christ Jesu / *a saynctes by callynge / with all þ call on þ name of oure Lorde Jesus Christ in euery place / both of theirs and of oures.

Grace be with you and peace frō God oure father / and from the Lorde Jesus Christ.

✠ I thanke my God all wayes on youre behalfe / for the grace of God which is geuē you by Jesus Christ / þ in all thinges ye are made ryche by him / in all lerninge and in all knowledge / euen as the testimony of Jesus Christ was cōfermed in you / so that ye are behynde in no gyft / & wayte for the apperyng of oure Lorde Jesus Christ which shall strenght you

1.Cor.a. B vnto the ende / that ye maye be blameles in the daye of oure Lorde Jesus Christ. ✠ For God is faythfull by whom ye are called vnto þ fellyshippe of his sonne Jesus Christ oure Lorde. I beseche you brethren in the name of oure Lorde Jesus Christ / that ye all speake one thynge & þ there be no dissencion amōge you: but be ye knyt to gether in one mynde & in one meanynge: It is shewed vnto me (my brethren) of you / by them that are of ẏ house of Cloe / that ther is stryfe amonge you. And this is it that I meane: how that comenly ye amōge you / one sayeth: I holde of Paul: another I holde of Apollo: the thyrde I holde of Cephas: the fourth I holde of Christ. Is Christ deuided? was Paul crucified for you? ether were ye baptised in the name of Paul? I thanke God that I christened none of you / C but Crispus and Gayus / lest eny shulde saye þ I had baptised in myne awne name. I baptised also the house of Stephana. Forthermore knowe I not whether I baptised eny man or no.

For Christ sent me not to baptyse / but to preache the Gospell / not wyth wysdome of wordes / lest the crosse of Christ shulde haue bene made of none effecte. For the preaching of the crosse is to them that perisshe folysshnes but vnto vs which are saued it is the power of God. For it is wrytten: I wyll destroye the wysdome of the wyse / and wyll cast awaye the vnderstandynge of the prudēt. Where is the wyse? Where is the scribe? Where is the searcher of this worlde? Hath not God made the wysdome of this worlde folysshnes?

Preachyng of the crosse is the power of God

For when the worlde thorowe wysdome knewe not God / in the wysdome of God: it pleased God thorow folysshnes of preachynge to saue them that beleue. For the Jewes require a sygne / & the Grekes seke after wysdome. But we preache Christ crucified / vnto the Jewes an occasyon / of fallynge / & vnto the Grekes folysshnes: but vnto them which are called both of the Jewes and b *Grekes / we preache Christ the power of God and the wysdome of God. For the folysshnes of God is wyser then men: & the weakenes of God is stronger then men. Brethren loke on youre callynge how that not many wyse men after ẏ flesshe / not many myghty / not many of hye degre are called: But God hath chosen the folysshe thynges of the worlde / to confounde ẏ wyse. And God hath chosyn ẏ weake thinges of the worlde / to confounde thynges whych are myghty. And vyle thynges of the worlde / & thynges which are despised / hath God chosen / yee and thinges of no reputacyon / for to bryngе to nought thynges of reputacyon / ẏ no flesshe shulde reioyce in his presence. And vnto him partayne ye / in Christ Jesu / which of God is made vnto vs wysdome / and also ryghtwesnes / & sanctifyinge and redēpcion. That accordynge as it is wrytten: he whych c *reioyseth / shulde reioyce in the Lorde.

b *The Grekes sygnifye sometime the awne nacyon onely / as in the Actes.vi.a. Some tyme all the Gentyles / as here / a..d Rom.i.b.

c *He reioyseth in the Lorde which knoweth certenly þ God wylleth hym good / & fauoureth hym / so þ thyng which he dothe pleaseth God: and þ which he dothe not as he shuld do / is forgeuen hym & not imputed vnto him Jere.vi.g & Rom.viij.c.

¶ It is not eloquence and glorious paynted wordes of worldly wysdome / that can edifye & cōuerte soules vnto Christ: but the playne wordes of the scripture / for they make mencion of him and his crosse.

¶ The.ij.Chapter.

AND I bretherē when I came to you/ came not in gloriousnes of wordꝫ or of wysdom/ shewynge vnto you ꝑ testimony of God. Nether shewed I my selfe that I knewe eny thynge amonge you saue Iesus Christ/ euen the same ꝑ was crucified. And I was amōge you in weaknꝫ/ and in feare/ and in moche tremblynge. And my wordes & my ꝓeachynge was not wyth entysynge wordes of mannes wysdome: but in shewynge of the spyrete and of power that youre fayth shuld not stande in the wysdome of men: but in the power of God.

Perfect are they that vnderstāde the lawe/ fayth & workes truly/ & ꝓfesse them.

B That we speake of/ is wysdome amonge thē that are perfecte: not the wysdom of thys worlde/ nether of the rulars of thys worlde (which go to nought) but we speake ꝑ wysdome of God/ which is in secrete & hyeth hyd/ which God ordeyned before the worlde/ vnto oure glory: which wysdom none of ꝑ rulars of this worlde knewe. For had they knowen it/ they wolde not haue crucified the Lord of glory. But as it is wrytten: The eye hath not sene/ & the eare hath not hearde/ nether haue entred into the hert of mā/ the thinges which God hath ꝓpared for them that loue hym.

C But God hath opened thē vnto vs by hys spyrete. For the spyrete searcheth all thynges/ ye the botome of Goddes secretes. For what man knoweth the thinges of a man: saue the spyrete of a man which is with in him. Euē so the thynges of God knoweth no mā/ but the spyrete of God. And we haue not receaued the spyrete of the worlde: but the spyrete which cōmeth of God/ for to knowe the thynges that are geuen to vs of God/ which thynges also we speake/ not in the connynge wordes of mannes wysdome/ but with the connynge wordes of the holy ghost/ makyng spirituall comparisons of spyretuall thynges. For the naturall man perceaueth not the thinges of the spyrete of God. For they are but folyshnes vnto him. Nether can he perceaue them/ because he is spyretually examined. But he that is spyretuall/ discusseth all thinges: yet he him selfe is iudged of no mā*. For who knoweth the mynde of the Lord/ other who shall enfourme him? But we vnderstande ꝑ mynde of Christ.

The spirite vnderstandeth godly thinges. The naturall man ꝑ is not renued in Christ cānot perceaue the thynges of God.

C The. iij. Chapter.

AND I coulde not speake vnto you bretheren as vnto spyretuall: but as vnto carnall/ euen as it were vnto babes in Christ. I gaue you mylke to drinke & not meate. For ye then were not stronge/ no nether yet are. For ye are yet carnall. As longe verely as ther is amonge you enuyinge/ stryfe & dissencyon: are ye not carnall/ & walcke after the manner of men? As lōge as one sayth/ I holde of Paul/ & another I am of Apollo/ are ye not carnall? What is Paul? What thynge is Apollo? Only mynisters are they by whom ye beleued/ euē as ꝑ Lord gaue euery mā grace. I haue plāted/ Apollo watred: but God gaue the encreace. So then/ nether is he ꝑ planteth eny thing/ nether he ꝑ watreth/ but God ꝑ gaue the encreace. Ye that planteth & he ꝑ watreth/ are nether better then the other. Euery man yet shall receaue his rewarde accordynge to hys laboure. We are Goddes labourers/ ye are Goddes husbandrye/ ye are Goddes bylding. Accordynge to the grace of God geuen vnto me/ as a wyse bylder haue I layde the foundacyon. And another bylt theron. But lett euery mā take hede how he bylded vpō. For other foundacion can no mā laye/ then that which is layde/ which is Iesus Christ. If eny mā bylde on this foundacion/ golde/ syluer/ precious stones: tymber/ haye or stoble: euery mannes worcke shall appere. a* For the daye shall declare it/ and it shalbe shewed in fyre. And the fyre shall trye euery mannes worcke what it is. If eny mannes worcke ꝑ he hath bylt vpon/ byde/ he shall receaue a rewarde. If eny mānes worcke burne/ he shall suffre losse/ but he shalbe safe hym selfe: neuertheles yet as it were thorow fyre.

B a* For the daye shall declare it &c. Daye here signifieth the tyme when God bryngeth to light the thyng that is hydde/ Wy fyre vnderstande examynynge perfectes true. Iudgemēt/ the which/ whē it hathe opened the fawte & errour/ affliccyon of for thynckynge and repentyng doth folow. S. Paule intreateth here of preachers that succeaded hym whē he was departed frō the Corinthyans. He had layde a good foundacīō/ lett other take hede/ sayth he/ what they buylde theron. If they buylde thynges worthye for christ their worke will remayne & abyde euen when it is sene in the lyght/ which thynge he signifyeth when he sayth/ for the daye shall declare it. But yf they bynge in Iewyshe facyons/ they shall happely deceaue for a tyme. D but at length their deceate shalbe opened/ as sone as it is begonne to be examyned with true & syncere Iudgement/ which is signifyed by this worde fyre. Thus doth Erasmus expounde this place in his annotacīō vpō these wordes Haye & stobble/ pronynge also by the Authorite of S. Ambrose/ Therome and other olde Authoures/ that it maketh nothyng for: purgatorye/ though many haue wrōgfully laboured to wrest it to that purpose.

✠ Are ye not ware that ye are the temple of God/ & how that the spyrete of God dwelleth in you? If eny man defyle the tēple of God/ him shall God destroye. For the tēple of God is holy/ which temple ye are. Let no man deceaue him selfe. If eny mā seme wyse amōge you/ let him be a fole in this worlde/ that he maye be wyse. For the wysdō of thys worlde is folyshnes with God. For it is wrytten: he compaseth the wyse in their craftynes. And agayne/ God knoweth the thoughtes of the wyse that they be vayne. Therfore let no mā reioyce in men. For all thynges are youres/ whether it be Paul/ ether Apollo/ ether Cephas: whether it be ꝑ world/ ether lyfe/ ether deeth/ whether they be present thynges or thynges to come: all are youres: & ye are Christes/ & Christ is Goddes. ✠

Collo. ij. a. B * Excommunicacion is to destroye fleshlye wysdome ¶ that ỹ spryte maye be sounde in the doctrine of Christ.

Youre reioysynge is not good: knowe ye not that a lytle leuē sowreth ỹ whole lompe of dowe. ✠ Pourge therfore the olde leuen/ ỹ ye maye be new dowe/ as ye are swete breed. For Christ oure esterlambe is offered vp for vs. Therfore let vs kepe holy daye/ not with olde leuē/ nether with the leuē of maliciousnes and wickednes: but with the swete breed of purenes and truthe. ✠

I wrote vnto you in a pistle ỹ ye shuld not
D cōpany with fornicatours. And I meant not at all of ỹ fornicatours of this worlde/ ether of the coueteous/ or of extorcioners/ ether of ỹ ydolaters: for then must ye nedes haue gone out of ỹ world. But now I wryte vnto you/ that ye cōpany not to gether/ yf eny ỹ is called a brother/ be a fornicator/ or coueteous/ or a worshipper of ymages / ether a raylar/ ether a dronckard/ or an extorcionar: with ỹm ỹ is soche se that ye eate not. For what haue I to do/ to iudge thē which are wythout? Do ye not iudge them that are with in? Them ỹ are wythout / God shall iudge. Put awaye from amonge you that euyll person. Ye maye that professeth christ be soch: no nether Christen mā maye beare him companie.

¶ He rebuketh thē for goinge to lawe together before the Hethen & reproueth vncleannesse.

¶ The. vi. Chapter.

To go to lawe

HOw dare one of you hauynge busines with another go to lawe vnder the wycked/ & not rather vnder the saynctes? Do ye not know that the saynctes shall iudge the worlde? If the worlde shalbe iudged by you: are ye not good ynough to iudge small trifles: knowe ye not how ỹ we shall iudge ỹ angels? How moche more maye we iudge thynges that pertayne to the lyfe? If ye haue iudgementes of worldely matters/ take them which are despysed in the congregacyon / & make them iudges. B
This I saye to youre shame. Is ther vtterly no wyse man amonge you? What not one at all/ that can iudge betwene brother and brother/ but one brother goeth to lawe with another: and that vnder the vnbeleuers?

Now

Now therfore there is vtterly a faute amonge you/because ye go to lawe one wyth another. Why rather suffer ye not wronge? why rather suffre ye not youre selues to be robbed? naye/ye youre selues do wronge/& robbe: & that the brethre. Do ye not remember how that the vnryghteous shall not inherit the kyngdome of God? Be not deceaued. For nether fornicatours/nether worshyppers of ymages/nether whormongers/nether weaklings/nether abusers of the selues with ꝑ mankynde/nether theues/nether couetouse/nether dronckardes/nether cursed speakers/nether pylers/shall inherit the kyngdom of God. And soche were ye verely: but ye are washed: ye are sanctified: ye are iustified by the name of the Lorde Iesus/& by the spyrite of oure God.

These & suche haue no part in Christ.

Sanctifienge & iustyfyeng come by Christ & hys spyrite.

All thynges are lawfull vnto me: but all thynges are not profytable. I maye do all thynges: but I will be brought vnder nomās power. Meates are ordyned for the belly/& the belly for meates: but God shall destroye both it & them. Let not the body be applyed vnto fornycacion/but vnto the Lorde/& the Lorde vnto the body. God hath rayled vp the Lorde/& shall rayse vs vp by his power.

Dure bodyes are the membres of Christ.

Other remember ye not/that youre bodyes are ꝑ *members of Christ? shall I now take ꝑ members of Christ/& make the members of an harlot? God forbyd. Do ye not vnderstande that he whych coupleth hym selfe with an harlot/is he come one body? For two (sayth he) shalbe one flesshe. But he that is ioyned vnto the Lorde/is one spyrite.

Flie fornicacyon. All synnes ꝑ a mā dothe/are without the body. But he that is a fornicator/synneth agaynst his awne body. Other knowe ye not how that youre bodyes are the tẽple of the holy ghost/which is in you/whō ye haue of God/& how that ye are not youre awne? For ye are dearly bought. Therfore glorifye ye God in youre bodyes and in youre spyrites/for they are Goddes.

Of mariage/virgynite & wyddowheade.

The.vij. Chapter.

As cōcernyng the thynges wherof ye wrote vnto me: it is good for a man/not to touche a woman. Nevertheless to a voyde fornicacion/let euery man haue his wyfe: & let euery woman haue her husbande. Let the mā geue vnto the wyfe due beneuolence. Lykewyse also ꝑ wyfe vnto ꝑ mā. The wyfe hath not power ouer her awne body: but the husbande. And lykewyse ꝑ husbāde hath not power ouer his awne body: but the wyfe. Wyth drawe not youre selues one from another/except it be by cōsent for a time/for to geue youre selues to fastynge & prayer. And afterwarde come agayne to/the same thynge/lest Satan tẽpt you for youre incontinencie.

This I saye of fauoure/and not of commaundement. For I wolde that all men were as I my selfe am: but euery man hath hys proper gyfte of God/one after this manner/another after that. I saye vnto the vnmaried men and wyddowes: it is good for thē yt they abyde euen as I do. But and yt they cannot abstayne/lett them mary. For it is better to mary then to a*burne.

a* To burne after S. Ambrose is/when the will consenteth to the lust of ꝑ flesshe.

Vnto the maryed cōmaunde not I/but ꝑ Lord: that the wyfe separate not her selfe frō the man. If she separate her selfe/let her remayne vnmaryed or be reconcyled vnto her husbande agayne. And lett not the husbande put awaye his wyfe from him.

To the remnaunt speake I & not ꝑ Lord. If eny brother haue a wyfe ꝑ beleueth not/yf she be content to dwell with him/let hym not put her awaye. And ꝑ woman which hath to her husbande an infidell/yf he consent to dwell with her/lett her not put hym awaye. For the vnbeleuynge husbande is sanctifyed by the wyfe & the vnbeleuynge wyfe is sanctifyed by ꝑ husband. Or els were your chyldren vnclene: but b* now are they pure. But and yf the vnbeleuynge departe/lett hym departe. A brother or a syster is not in subiectiō to soche. God hath called vs in peace. For how knowest thou o woman/whether thou shalt saue ꝑ mā or no? Other how knowest thou o man whether thou shalt saue ꝑ woman or no? but euen as God hath distributed to euery man.

b* Now are they pure/Noe that chyldrē are cleane & pure by nature/for that were agaynst the Apostle himselfe/which proueth Rom.v. that all are vnder originall synne/& naturally the chyldren of Gods wrath/as Ephes.ij. But his meaning is here/that lyke as all thinges are cleane vnto the cleane. Titum.i. Euen so to a christen man an vnchristen wyfe is cleane/so that he maye be conuersaunt with her/& not offende in so doynge/& that the chyldrē of thē are not to be reputed as vnlawfull or vncleane.

As the Lorde hath called euery person/so let him walcke: and so ordeyn I in all congregacions. If eny man be called beynge circūcised/let him adde nothynge therto. If eny be called vncircumcised: let hym not be circumcised. Circumcision is nothynge/vncircumcision is nothynge: but the kepyng of the cōmaundementes of God is all together.

c* Be not mennes seruauntes. To be the seruauntes of men here/is/to do any thyng for the fauour of mē by which they fall from the fauoure of God/whyle they dispysing Christ do thyng on men & not are.

Let euery man abyde in the same state wherin he was called. Arte thou called a seruaunt? care not for it. Neuertheles yf thou mayst be free/vse it rather. For he ꝑ is called in the Lorde beynge a seruaunt is the Lordes freman. Lykewyse he that is called beynge free/is Christes seruaūt. Ye are dearly bought/*be not mēnes seruaūtes. Brethre let euery man wherin he is called/therin abyde wyth God.

D regarde mennes preceptes & ordynaunces than the very iustitions of God: ye/than God hym selfe. This forbydderth S. Paul here/& not that we shuld deny to be seruauntes to oure maisters to whō we be bound/accordyng to the cōmē order apoynted in commen welthes.

To these we are straytly cōmaunded in sundry places of the scripture to be obedyent with loue & dylygence in all thynges aggreable to Goddes holy worde.

As concerninge virgins/I haue no cōmaundement of the Lorde: yet geue I coūsell/as one ꝑ hath obtayned mercye of ꝑ Lorde to be faythfull. I suppose ꝑ it is good for the present*necessite. For it is good for a man so to be. Arte thou bounde vnto a wyfe? seke not to be lowsed. Arte thou lowsed from a wyfe? seke not a wyfe. But & yf thou take a wyfe

*If a man haue the gyfte/chastite is good/the more quyetlye to serue God. For the married haue ofte moche trouble/ but yf the mynde of the chast be combred wyth other worldly bu synes/ what helpeth it: and yf the maryed be the moare quiet minded therby what hurteth it? Nether of it selfe is better then the other/ or pleaseth God more then theother. Nether is outwarde circumcision or outewarde baptyme worth a pynne of them selues / saue that they put vs in remembraunce to kepe the couenaunt made betwene vs and God.

a wyfe thou synnest not. Lykewyse yf a virgin mary / she synneth not. Neuerthelesse soche shall haue trouble in their flesshe: but I sauer you.

This saye I brethen/ the tyme is shorte. It remayneth that they which haue wyues / be as though they had none/ and they that wepe be as though they wept not: and they that reioyce/ be as though they reioysed not: & they that bye/ be as though they possessed not: and they that vse this worlde / be as though they vsed it not. For the fassiō of this world goeth awaye. I wolde haue you without care. The syngle mā careth for the thynges of ỹ Lorde how he maye please ỹ Lorde. But he ỹ hath maried/ careth for the thynges of the worlde/ how he maye please his wyfe. There is differēce betwene a virgin & a wyfe. The singie womā careth for the thynges of the Lorde/ ỹ she maye be pure both in body & also in spyrete But she that is maried/ careth for the thyngs of the worlde/ how she maye please her husband. This speake I for youre profit / not to tangle you in a snare: but for ỹ which is honest & comly vnto you / & ỹ ye maye quyetly cleaue vnto the Lorde without separacyon.

If eny man thinke that it is vncomly for his virgin/ yf she passe the tyme of mariage/ and yf so nede requyre / lett hym do what he lysteth/ he synneth not: lett thē be coupled in mariage. Neuertheless he that purposeth surely in his herte/ hauyng none nede: but hath power ouer his awne wyll: & hath so decreed in his herte / that he wyll kepe hys virgin / doth well. So then he ỹ ioyneth hys virgin in mariage/ doth well. But he ỹ ioyneth not his virgin in mariage/ doth better. The wyfe is bounde to the lawe as longe as her husbād lyueth. If her husband slepe/ she is at lyberte to mary with whō she wyll/ only in ỹ Lorde. But she is happyar yf she so abyde / in my iudgement. And I thinke verely that I haue the spyrete of God.

¶ He rebuketh thē ỹ vse their liberte to the sclaunder of other/ and sheweth how men ought to behaue them towarde soch as be weake.

¶ The.viij. Chapter.

A lytle loue is better thē moche knowledge

TO speake of thinges dedicate vnto ydols/ we are sure that we all haue knowledge. Knowledge maketh a man swell: but loue edifieth. If eny mā thynke ỹ he knoweth eny thyng/ he knoweth nothyng yet as he ought to know. But yf eny mā loue God/ ỹ same is knowē of him.

To speake of meate dedycat vnto ydols/ we are sure ỹ ther is none ydoll in ỹ worlde and that ther is none other God but one. And though ther be that are called Goddes/ whether in heauē other in erth (as ther be Godds many and lordes many) yet vnto vs is there but one God/ which is the father/ of whō are B all thynges / and we in him: and one Lorde Iesus Christ by whom are all thynges / and we by him. But euery man hath not knowledge. For some suppose that ther is an ydoll vntyll this houre/ and eate as a thynge offered vnto the ydole / and so their consciences beynge yet weake/ are defyled. Meate maketh vs not acceptable to God. Nether yf we eate/ are we ỹ better. Nether yf we eate not/ are we the worsse. C

But take hede that youre libertye cause not the weake to faule. For yf some man se the which hath knowledge/ syt at meate in ỹ ydols temple/ shall not the conscience of him whych is weake / be boldened to eate those thynges which are offered to the ydole? And so thorow thy knowledge shall ỹ weake brother perisshe for whom Christ dyed. When ye synne so agaynst the brethrē/ & wounde their weake consciences/ ye synne agaynst Christ Wherfore yf meate hurt my brother/ I wyll eate no flesshe whill the worlde stondeth/ because I wyll not hurte my brother.

In all our dedes we must haue a respect to ours neyboures weith. D

Charyte what it doeth.

¶ Loue for beareth the thynge that she maye do by ỹ lawe. Hr exhorteth thē to runne on forth in the course that they haue begonne.

¶ The.ix. Chapter.

AM I not an Apostle? am I not free? haue I not sene Iesus Christ oure Lorde? Are ye not my worke in the Lorde? If I be not an Apostle vnto other/ yet am I vnto you. For the seale of myne Apostleshippe are ye in ỹ Lord. Myne answer to them that aske me/ is this. Haue we not power to eate and to drynche? Ether haue we not power to leade about a sister to wyfe/ as well as other Apostles / and as the brethren of the Lorde & Cephas? Ether only I and Barnabas haue not power this to do? Who goeth a warfare eny tyme at his awne cost? who planteth a vyneyarde/ & eateth not of ỹ frute? Who fedeth a flocke & eateth not of the mylcke?

Paule proueth him selfe an Apostle equall to the best/ in ỹ the spirite bereth recorde to hys preachyng/ & in that as manye were by him conuerted as by the other Apostles

Saye I these thynges after the maner of men? Or sayth not ỹ lawe the same also? For it is wrytte in ỹ lawe of Moses: Thou shalt not mosell the mouth of ỹ ore that treadeth oute the corne. Doth God take thought for oxen? Ether sayth he it not all together for oure sakes? For oure sakes no doute thys is wrytten: that he which eareth/ shulde eare in hope: & that he which threshseth in hope/ shuld be partaker of his hope. If we sowe vnto you spirituall thynges: is it a great thynge yf we repe youre carnall thynges? If other be partakers of this power ouer you/ wherfore are not we rather? B

The preacher hath ryghte to chalenge a lyuynge for his labourre.

Neuertheless we haue not vsed thys power: but suffre all thynges lest we shulde hynder hynder the Gospell of Christ. Do ye not vnderstande how that they which minister in ỹ temple/haue their lyndynge of the temple? And they which wayte at the aulter/are partakers with the aulter. Euen so also dyd the Lorde ordayne/that they which preache the Gospell/shulde lyue of the Gospell. But I haue vsed none of these thynges.

C Nether wrote I these thyngs that it shuld be so done vnto me. For it were better for me to dye/then that eny man shuld take this reioysynge from me. In that I preache the gospell/I haue nothynge to reioyce of. For necessite is put vnto me. Wo is it vnto me yf I preache not the Gospell. If I do it wt a good wyll I haue a reward. But yf I do it against my will/an office is cõmitted vnto me. What is my rewarde then? Verely that when I preache the Gospell/I make the Gospell of Christ fre/that I misuse not myne auctorite in the Gospell.

He ỹ worcketh of loue to hys neyboure/hath his rewarde.

For though I be fre frõ all men/ yet haue I made my selfe seruaunt vnto all men/that D I myght wynne the moo. Vnto the Iewes/I became as a Iewe/to wynne the Iewes. To them that were vnder the lawe/ was I made as though I had bene vnder ỹ lawe/to wynne them that were vnder the lawe. To thẽ ỹ were with out lawe/ becam I as though I had bene with oute lawe (when I was not wt out lawe as perteynynge to God/ but vnder a lawe as concernynge Christ (to wynne thẽ that were with oute lawe. C To the weake became I as weake/to wynne ỹ weake. I am all thynge I fassyoned my selfe to all men/ to saue at the lest waye some. And this I do for the Gospels sake/ that I myghte haue my parte therof.

✠ Perceaue ye not how ỹ they which runne in a course/runne all/ yet but one receaueth the rewarde. So runne ỹ ye maye obtayne. Euery man ỹ proueth masteries/abstayneth from all thynges. And they do it to obtayne a corruptible croune: but we to obtayne an vncorruptible croune. I therfore so runne/ not as at an vncertayne thinge. So fyght I/not as one that beateth the ayer: but I tame my body/and bringe it into subiecciõ/ lest after ỹ I haue preached to other/ I my selfe shuld be a cast awaye. ✠

BRethren I wolde not that ye shuld be ignorant of this/ how ỹ oure fathers were all vnder a cloude/ & all passed thorow ỹ see/ & were all baptised vnder Moses/in the cloude & in the see: & did all eate of one spirituall meate/and dyd *all drynke of one maner of spyrituall drincke. And they dranke of that spirituall rocke that folowed them/ whych rocke was Christ. ✠ But in many of them had God no delyte. For they were ouerthrowen in the wyldernes. Exodi.xvi.c. Exo.xvij.b. Numeri.xx.a. Nume.xxv.b. Numeri.xiij.e

B These are ensamples to vs ✠ ỹ we shulde not lust after euyll thynges/as they lusted. Nether be ye worshyppers of ymages as were some of thẽ accordynge as it is wrytte: The people sate doune to eate & drynke/ & rose vp agayne to playe. Nether let vs cõmit fornicaciõ as some of them commytted for- nicacion/ & were destroyed in one daye. xxiij. thousande. Nether lett vs tempte Christ/ as some of them tempted/and were destroyed of serpẽtes. Nether murmure ye as some of thẽ murmured & were destroyed of ỹ destroyer. C Exodi.xxxij.b Nume.xxv.a. Psalm.cv.d

All these thynges happened vnto them for ensamples/ and were wrytte to put vs in remembraunce/whom the endes of the worlde are come vpon. Wherfore let him that thynketh he stõdeth/take hede least he fall. Ther hath none other temptacyon taken you/but soche as foloweth the nature of man. But God is faythfull/ which shall not suffer you tobe tempted aboue youre strenght: but shall in the myddes of ỹ temptacion make awaye to escape out. ✠ Wherfore my deare beloued fle from worshyppynge of ydols.

I speake as vnto them which haue discre- D cion/iudge ye what I saye. Is not the cuppe Cup. of blessyng which we blesse/partakynge of ỹ Breed. blonde of Christ? is not the breed whych we breake/partetakynge of the body of Christ? because that we (though we be many) yet are one breed & one bodye in as moche as we all are partakers of one breed. Beholde Israel which walketh carnally. Are not they which eate of the sacrifyce/partetakers of ỹ aulter?

What saye I then? that the ymage is eny E thinge? or that it which is offered to ymages is eny thynge? Nay but I saye/ that these thinges which the gentyls offer/they offer to deuyls/ & not to God.

✠ And I wolde not that ye shulde haue fellishippe with the deuyls. Ye can not drincke of the cup of the Lorde/ & of the cup of ỹ deuyls Ye cannot be ỹ parttakers of the Lordes table/and of the table of deuelles. Ether shall we prouoke the Lorde? Or are we stronger then he? All thyngs are lawfull vnto me/ but all thynges are not expedient. All thyngs are F lawfull to me/but all thyngs edifye not. ¶ The.xi. Chapter.

A I Cõmende you brethren that ye remember me in all thynges/& kepe the ordinaunces euen as I delyuered them to you. I wolde ye knew that Christ is the heed of euery man. And the mã is the womãs heed. And God is Christes heed. Euery man prayinge or prophesyinge hauing eny thynge on his heed/ shameth hys heed. Euery woman that prayeth or prophesieth bare hedded/dishoneseth hyr heed. For it is euen all one/and the very same thynge/

B euen as though she were shauen. If the woman be not couered/let her also be shorn. If it be shame for a woman to be shorne or shauen/let her couer her heed.

A man ought not to couer his heed/for as moche as he is the ymage and glory of God. The woman is the glory of the man. For the man is not of the woman/but the woman of the mã. Nether was the mã created for yͭ womãs sake: but the womã for the mãnes sake.

¶ For this cause ought the womã to haue *power on her heed/for the angels sakes. Neuertheless nether is the mã without the womã/ nether yͭ womã without the mã in yͭ Lorde. For as the woman is of the man/ euen so is the man by the woman: but all is of God.

*Power is as moche to saye/ as a sygne that the womã is in subiecyon and hath an heed ouer hyr.

Iudge in youre selues whether it be comly yͭ a womã praye vnto God bare heeded. Or els doth not nature teach you/ yͭ it is a shame for a man/yf he haue longe heere: & a prayse to a woman/yf she haue longe heere? For her heere is geuẽ her to couer her withall. If ther be any man amõge you that lusteth to stryue let hym knowe yͭ we haue no soche custome/ nether the congregacyons of God.

This I warne you of/and commende not that ye come to gether: not after a better maner but after a worse. ✠ Fyrst of all when ye come to gether in the congregacio/ I heare yͭ there is dyssencyõ amonge you: & I partely beleue it. For ther must be sectes amõge you/ that they wyych are perfect amonge you/ myght be knowẽ. When ye come to gether/ a man cãnot eate the Lordes supper. For euery mã begynneth afore to eate his awne supper And one is hõgry/ & another is dronckẽ. Haue ye not houses to eate & to drynke in? Or els despyse ye the congregacyõ of God/ and shame them that haue not? What shall I saye vnto you? shall I prayse you? In thys prayse I you not. ✠

The Lordes supper.

✠ That which I delyuered vnto you I receaued of yͭ Lorde. For the Lorde Iesus the same nyght in which he was betrayed/ toke breed: & thanked & brake/ & sayde. Take ye/ & eate ye: this is my body which is broken for you. * This do ye in the remembraũce of me. After the same maner he toke the cup/ when the supper was done/ sayinge: This do as oft as ye drynche it/ in remembraũce of me. For as oft as ye shall eate this breed/ and drynke this cup ye shall shewe yͭ Lordes deeth/ tyll he come. Wherfore whosoeuer shall eate of this breed/ or drynke of yͭ cup vnworthely/ shalbe gylty of the body & bloud of yͭ Lorde. Let a man therfore examen hym selfe/ & so let hym eate of the breed & drynke of yͭ cup. For he that eateth or drynketh vnworthely/ eateth & drinketh hys awne damnacyõ/ because he maketh no differẽce of yͭ Lordes body. ✠ For this cause many are weake & sych amonge you/ & many slepe. If we haue truly iudged oure selues/ we shuld not haue bene iudged. But when we are iudged of yͭ Lorde we are chastened/ because we shulde not be damned with the worlde. Wherfore my brethren whẽ ye come to geder to eate/ tary one another. If any mã hõger/ let him eate at home/ yͭ ye come not together vnto condẽnacio. Other thyngs will I set in order whẽ I come.

Roma.xii.a. Ephe.iii.b.

For as the body is one/& hath many membres/and all ỹ membres of one body though they be many/yet are but one body: euẽ so is Christ. For in one spirete are we all baptysed to make one body / whether we be Iewes or Gentyls/whether we be bonde or fre/& haue all droncke of one spirete. For the body is not one member/but many. If ỹ fote saye: I am not the hande/therfore I am not of the body: is he therfore not of the body? And yf ỹ eare saye/I am not the eye: therfore I am not of ỹ body: is he therfore not of ỹ body? If all the body were an eye/where were then the eare? If all where hearynge: where were the smelynge? But now hath God disposed the membres euery one of thẽ in ỹ body/at his awne pleasure. If they were all one mẽber: where were the bodye? Now are there many membres/ yet but one body. And the eye can not saye vnto ỹ hand/I haue no nede of the: nor the heed also to ỹ fete/I haue no nede of you. Yee rather a great deale those membres of ỹ body whych seme to be most feble / are most necessary. And vpõ those membres of ỹ body which we thynke lest honest/put we most honestie on. And oure vngodlye parties haue most beauty on. For oure honest membres nede it not. But God hath so disposed ỹ body/ & hath geuẽ most honoure to ỹ parte whych lacked/lest there shuld be eny stryfe in ỹ body: but that the membres shuld indifferẽtly care one for another. And yf one member suffer/ all suffer with him: yf one member be had in honour/all membres be glad also.

Ye are ỹ body of Christ/& membres one of another. And God hath also ordeyned in the cõgregacion/fyrst the Apostles/secondarely prophetes/thyrdly teachers / then them that do myracles: after that / the gyftes of healyng/helpers/gouerners/diuersite of tõges.

Are all Apostles? Are all Prophetes? Are all teachers? Are all doars of miracles? Haue all the gyftes of healynge? Do all speake with tonges? Do all interprete? Couet after the best gyftes. And yet shewe I vnto you a moare excellent waye.

The nature and condicions of loue.

The.xiij.Chapter.

Though I spake with the tonges of men & angels/& yet had no loue/I were euẽ as soundyng brasse: or as a tynklynge cymball. And though I coulde prophesy/& vnderstãde all secretes/ and all knowledge: yee/yf I had* all fayth/ so ỹ I coulde moue mountayns oute of their places/& yet had no loue/I were nothynge. And though I bestowed all my goodes to fede the poore and though I gaue my body euen that I burned/& yet had no loue/it profeteth me nothynge.

a *All fayth is as moche to saye as so strõg faythe.

Loue suffreth longe & is corteous. Loue enuyeth not. Loue doth not frowardly/swelleth not/dealeth not dishonestly / seketh not her awne/is not prouoked to anger/thinketh not euyll/reioyseth not in iniquite: but reioyseth in the trueth/suffreth all thynges/ beleueth all thinges/hopeth all thinges/endureth in all thynges. Though ỹ prophesyinge fayle/ other tonges shall cease / or knowledge banysshe awaye/yet loue falleth neuer awaye.

b *The chefe of these is loue. For concernyng iustificacion/but concernyng the applying of all thinges to the profet of the congregacio. Do this lerneth some one peculiar thig dyuercsly referred to be now inferiour now superiour to another Loue concerning prouydyng for the necessitye of thy neygbour is chefe & above fayth/ But concernyng the obtaynyng of iustificacion and saluacion doth faith exceade loue How S. Paul doth not heare dispute what fayth doth in iustificacio/but what loue doth to thẽ that be ready in the cõgregacio Therin is loue chefe/for it seketh naraway to se thẽ holpen. To thys entẽt onely doth seynct Paul geue loue the chefe place here. Erasmus in his annotacyõ vpon this place doth lyke wyse expounde it.

For oure knowledge is vnperfect & oure prophesyinge is vnperfect. But whẽ ỹ which is perfect/is come/then that which is vnperfect / shall be done awaye. When I was a chylde/I spake as a chylde/I vnderstode as a chylde/I ymagined as a chylde. But assone as I was a man / I put awaye chyldeshnes. Now we se in a glasse/euen in a darcke speakyng: but then shall we se face to face. Now I knowe vnperfectly: but then shall I knowe euen as I am knowen. Now abydeth fayth/ hope/and loue/euen these thre: but* ỹ chefe of these is loue. ✠

Paul sheweth ỹ the gyfte of propecye/interpretyng or preachynge excelleth the gyfte of tonges / and how they both ought to be vsed.

The.xiiij.Chapter.

Labour for loue & couet spyretuall gyftes: and most chefly for to prophesye. For he that speaketh wyth tonges / speaketh not vnto men/ but vnto God. For no man heareth him. Howbeit in the spirete he speaketh misteries. But he that* prophesieth / speaketh vnto men/ to edifyinge/to exhortacion and to comforte. He that speaketh with tonges/profiteth him selfe: he that prophesieth / edifieth the congregacion. I wolde that ye all spake with tonges: but rather that ye prophesied. For greater is he that prophesyeth/then he that speaketh with tonges/except he expounde it also: that the congregacion maye haue edifying. Now brethren / yf I come vnto you speakynge wyth tonges: what shall I profyt you / excepte I speake

speake to you/other by reuelacion or knowledge/or prophesyinge/or doctrine.

Moreouer whē thinges without lyfe: geue sounde: whether it be a pype or an harpe: except they make a distinccion in the soundes: how shall it be knowen what is pyped or harped? And also yf the trompe geue an vncertayne voyce / who shall prepare hym selfe to fyghte? Euen so lykewyse when ye spake w tonges/except ye speake wordes that haue signyficacion / how shall it be vnderstande what is spoken? For ye shall but speake in the ayer.

Many kyndes of voyces are in ỹ world/ C and none of them are with out sygnificaciō. If I knowe not what the voyce meaneth / I shalbe vnto him that speaketh / an alient/ & he ỹ speaketh shalbe an alient vnto me. Euē so ye(for as moche as ye couet spretuall giftes) seke that ye maye haue plentye vnto the edifyinge of the congregacion.

Wherfore let him ỹ speaketh with tonges praye that he maye interpret also. If I praye w tonges my spirite prayeth: but my mynde is wythout frute. What is it then? I wyll praye with the b* spirite/ & wyll praye with ỹ mynde also. I will synge with the spirite/and wyll singe with the mynde also.

b* To speake w tonges/or with the spirite/is to speake ỹ other vnderstond not as Priestes saye their seruyce. To speake w the mynde is to speake that other vnderstonde/ as whē the preacher preacheth.

For els when thou blessest with the spirite/ how shall he that occupieth the roume of the vnlearned/saye Amē at thy geuinge of thankes/seynge he vnderstandeth not what thou sayest. Thou verely geuest thākes well / but the other is not edified. I thanke my God/ I speake with tonges moare then ye all. Yet had I leuer in the congregacyon / to speake fyue wordes with my mynde to the informacion of other rather then ten thousand wordes with the tonges.

Brethren/be not chyldren in wytte. How be it as cōcernyng malicioulnes / be chyldrē but in witte be perfect. In ỹ lawe it is written with othertonges/and with other lippes wyll I speake vnto this people/ & yet for all that/will they not heare me/sayth the Lorde Wherfore/tonges are for a sygne/not to thē that beleue: but to them that beleue not. C On trary wyse/prophesyinge seruyth not for thē that beleue not: but for them whych beleue.

* All deedes must be lawced with the doctrine of God/ & not w good meanyng onlye.

If therfore when all the congregacyon is come to gether/and all speake with tonges/ ther come in they that are vnlearned or they which beleue not: will they not saye ỹ ye are out of youre wites? But & yf all prophesy/ C and ther come in one ỹ beleueth not / or one vnlearned/he is rebuked of all men/& is iudged of euery man: & so are the secretes of hys hert opened/and so falleth he doune on hys face/and worshippeth God / and sayth that God is with you in dede.

How is it then brethren? When ye come together/euery mā hath his longe/ hath his doctrine/hath his tonge / hath his reuelacion/ hath his interpretaciō. Let all thinges be done vnto edifyinge. If eny mā speake wyth tonges/let it be two attonce or at the most thre attonce and that by course/and lett another interprete it. But yf ther be no interpreter/ let him kepe sylence in the congregacion / F & let him speake to him selfe and to God.

Let the prophetes speake two attonce/or thre attonce/& let the other iudge. If eny reuelacion be made to another that sytteth by/ let the fyrst holde his peace. For ye maye all prophesy one by one/that all maye learne/ & all maye haue comforte. For the spretes of ỹ Prophetes are in the power of ỹ Prophetes. For God is not causer of stryfe: but of peace/ as he is in all other cōgregaciōs of ỹ sayncts. G

Let youre wyues kepe sylence in the congregacions. For it is not permitted vnto thē to speake: but let thē be vnder obedience / as sayth ỹ lawe. If they wyll learne eny thinge/ let thē aske their husbandes at home. For it is a shame for wemen to speake in the cōgregaciō. Spronge the worde of God frō you? Eyther came it vnto you only? If eny mā thinke hym selfe a Prophet/either spirituall: let him vnderstande/what thynges I wryte vnto you. For they are ỹ cōmaundemētes of the Lorde. But & yf eny mā be ignorant/let hym be ignorāt. Wherfore brethren couet to prophesye/ & forbyd not to speake with tonges. And let all thinges be done honestly & in order.

PAul an Apostle of Je-A su Christ by the wyll of God/ and brother Timotheus.

Vnto the congregacion of God/which is at Corinthum with all the sayncte̅s wtych are in all Achaia. Grace be with you & peace from God oure father / and from the Lorde Iesus Christ.

Blessed be God the father of oure Lorde Iesus Christ/the father of mercy/& the God of all comforte / whych comforteth vs in all oure tribulacion/in so moche ỹ we are able to comforte thẽ which are troubled/in whatsoeuer tribulacion it be/with the same comforte/wherwith we oure selues are comfor-B ted of God. For as the *afflictions of Christ are plenteous in vs/euen so is oure consolacion plenteous by Christ.

Whether we be troubled for youre cõsolacion & saluacion / which saluaciõ sheweth her power in ỹ ye soffre the same afflictions/ which we also suffre: or whether we be cõforted for youre cõsolacion & saluacion: yet our hope is stedfast for you / in as moche as we know how ỹ as ye haue your parte in afflictions/so shall ye be partakers of cõsolacion.

Brethren I wolde not haue you ignorãt of oure trouble / whych happened vnto vs in Asia. For we were greued oute of measure passyng strength/so greatly ỹ we despeared euen of lyfe. Also we receaued an answer of deeth in oure selues/& that because we shuld not put oure trust in our selues: but in God/ which rayseth ỹ deed to lyfe agayne/& which delyuered vs frõ so great a deeth/and doth deliuer. On whom we trust/that yet here after he will deliuer/ by the helpe of youre prayer for vs/ ỹ by the meanes of many occasions/ thankes maye be geuen of many on oure behalfe/for the grace geuen vnto vs.

Oure reioysinge is this / the testimony of oure conscience/that in synglenes and godly C purenes & not in fleshly wysdom / but by the Conscience. grace of God/we haue had oure conuersaciõ in ỹ world/& most of all to you wardes. We wryte no nother thinges vnto you/ then ỹ ye reade & also knowe. Yee and I trust ye shall fynde vs vnto ỹ ende / euẽ as ye haue foũde vs partly: for we are youre reioysynge / euen as ye are oures in the daye of ỹ Lord Iesus.

And in this confidence was I mynded the other tyme to haue come vnto you / that ye myght haue had yet one pleasure moare / & to haue passed by you into Macedonia / & to haue come agayne oute of Macedonia vnto you/and to haue bene ledde forth to Jewrye ℣ warde of you. When I thus wyse was mynded:did I vse lyghtnes? Or thinke I carnally those thinges which I thinke? that with me shuld be a*yee yee/ & naye naye. God is faythfull: For oure preachyng to you/was not yee & naye. For Goddis sonne Jesus Christ which was preached amonge you by vs (that is to saye/by me and Siluanus and Timotheus) was not yee and naye:but in him it was yee:

a*yee yee / and Naye naye is here put for vnstablenes/incōstātnes/layning or slyttynge of with wordes.

℣ For all the promises* of God/ in him are yee: and are in him Amen/ vnto the lawde of God thorowe vs. For it is God which stablisshed vs and you in Christ / & hath annoynted vs/ which hath also sealed vs / & hath geuen the ernest of the spyrete into oure hertes.

*All ỳ promyses of God are geuen vs onlye for Christes sake

¶ She sheweth the cause of his absence and exhorteth them to forgeue the man that was fallen/ & to receaue him agayne with loue.

¶ The.ij.Chapter. ✠

A I Call God for a recorde vnto my soule / ỳ for to fauer you wyth all I came not eny moare vnto Corinthum. Not that we be lordes ouer your fayth:but helpers of your ioye. For by fayth ye stande. But I determined this in my selfe/that I wold not come agayne to you in heuynes. For yf I make you sorye/ who is it that shuld make me glad/ but ỳ same whych is made sory by me? And I wrote this same epistle vnto you/lest yf I came/ I shuld take heuynes of thē/of whom I ought to reioyce. Certaynly this cōfidence haue I in you all/ ỳ my ioye is ỳ ioye of you all. For in great affliccion and anguyshe of hert I wrote vnto you with many teares:not to make you sory/ but that ye myght perceaue the loue wyych I haue/most specially vnto you.

℣ If eny man hath caused sorow / the same hath not made me sory/ but partely: lest I shulde greue you all. It is sufficient vnto the same mā that he was rebuked of many. So ỳ now contrary wyse ye ought to to forgeue him and comforte him:lest that same persone shuld be swalowed vp wyth ouer moche heuynes. Wherfore I exhorte you ỳ loue maye haue strenght ouer him. For this cause verely dyd I wryte/ that I myght knowe ỳ profe of you / whether ye shulde be obedient in all thynges. To whom ye forgeue eny thynge/ I forgeue also. And verely yf I forgaue eny thynge/to whō I forgaue it/for youre sakes forgaue I it/in the roume of Christ/lest Sa

When I was come to Troada for Christes Gospels sake (& a great dore was opened vnto me of the Lord) I had no rest in my spyrete/ because I founde not Titus my brother:but toke my leaue of them and went awaye into Macedonia. Thanckes be vnto God wyych alwayes geueth vs the victorie in Christ / & openeth the sauer of his knowledge by vs in ℣ euery place. For we are vnto God the swete sauoure of Christ/both amonge thē that are saued/ & also amonge thē which perisshe. To the one parte are we ỳ sauour of deeth vnto deeth. And vnto ỳ other part are we ỳ sauour of lyfe vnto lyfe. And who is mete vnto these thynges? For we are not as many are which choppe & chaūge with the worde of God:but euē out of purenes/ & by the power of God/ & in ỳ syght of God/so speake we in Christ.

¶ The.iij.Chapter.

B & sheweth vs that by him we are iustified frō all thynges wherof we could not be iustified by ỳ lawe. Act.xiij.E dothe therfore byng lyke. As for loche as by the letter wyll vnderstāde the lytter all lence/ & by the spyrete the spyrituall/ can no lerned or christen mā alowe. For these wordes* letter/* ministracyon of deeth/* mynistryng of cōdēnacion/ & * that which is destroyed/ lygnyfie all one thyng: And these/ ‡ spyrete/ ‡ mynistracio of ỳ spyrete/ ‡ ministracio of rightwelues/ & ‡ ỳ which remayneth / be

We begyn to prayse oure selues agayne. Nede we as some other/ of Epistles of recommendacion vnto you? or letters of recommendacyon from you? Ye are oure epistle wrytte in oure hertes/ wbych is vnderstande & reed of all men/in that ye are knowen / how that ye are the epistle of Christ/ mynistred by vs and wrytte/not with ynke:but with the spyrete of the lyuynge God/not in tables of stone/ but in fleshly tables of the herte.

✠ Suche trust haue we thorowe Christ to God ward/not that we are sufficient of oure selues to thynke eny thyng as it were of oure selues but oure ablenes commeth of God/ which hath made vs able to minister ỳ newe testamēt/not of ỳ letter/but of ỳ spyrete. For a* ỳ ‡letter kylleth/but ỳ* spyrete geueth lyfe.

If* the mynistracio of deeth thorow the letters fygured in stones was glorious/ so ỳ the chyldren of Israel coulde not beholde the face of Moses for ỳ glory of his countenaūce (which glory neuertheles is done awaye) why shall not ỳ ‡mynistracion of ỳ spyrete be moche more glorious? For yf ỳ* ministringe of cōdempnacion be glorious:moche moare doth ỳ ‡ministracion of ryghteweines excede in glory. ✠ For no dout ỳ which was there glorified is not once glorifyed in respecte of this excedinge glory. Then yf* ỳ which is destroyed was glorious/moche more shall ‡ ỳ which remayneth/be glorious.

Seyng then that we haue soche trust/ we vse great boldnes & do not as Moses/ which put a vayle ouer hys face that the chyldrē of Israel shuld not se for what purpose that sercued which is put awaye. But their myndes were blinded. For vntill this daye remayneth the same couerynge vntakē awaye in ỳ olde testament their very con traries. Now wordes ✠ meaning onethyng must haue one inter pretacion. And by some of the spirit cānot the lytterall sence be vnderstāde/ ner by some of ȳ last ȳ spretual: ergo nether by these wordes / letter or sprete: syth letter is all one with the spirit/and sprete with ȳ latter.

testamēt when they reade it/which in Christ is put awaye. But euē vnto this daye when ✠ Moses is redde/ ȳ vayle hāgeth before their hertes. Neuertheless whē they tourne to the Lorde/the vayle shalbe taken awaye. The Lord no dout is a spyrete. And where ȳ spyrete of the Lorde is/there is libertie. But we all beholde the glorie of the Lorde with his face open/and are chaunged vnto the same simi= litude/from glory to glory/ euē of the spyrte of the Lorde.

¶ A true preacher is diligent/ he corrupteth not the worde of God/he preacheth not him selfe/ but seketh the honoure of Christ yee though it be with the parell of his lyfe.

¶ The.iiij.Chapter.

Therfore seyng that we haue soche an office/euē as mercy is come on vs/ we faynte not: but haue cast frō vs the clokes of vnhonestie / & walke not in craftynes nether corrupte we the worde of God: but walke in open trueth/ & reporte oure selues to euery mannes con= science in the syght of God. If oure Gospell be yet hyd/it is hyd amonge thē ȳ are lost/in whō a* the God of this worlde hath blynded ȳ mindes of thē which beleue not/lest the light of the glorious gospell of Christ which is the ymage of God shulde shyne vnto them.

✠ For we preache not our selues/but Christ Jesus to be ȳ Lorde/and oure selues youre seruauntes/for Jesus sake. For it is God ȳ commaūded the lyght to shyne out of darck= nes/which hath shyned in oure hertes/ for to geue the lyght of the knowledge of the glory of God/ b* in the face of Jesus Christ.

But we haue this treasure in erthē vessels ȳ the excellent power of it myght appere to be of God/and not of vs. We are troubled on euery syde/yet are we not without shyft. We are in pouertie: but not vtterly without som what. We are persecuted: but are not forsa= ken. We are cast doune: neuertheless we pe= rishe not. And we all wayes beare in our bo dyes ȳ dyinge of the Lorde Jesus/ ȳ the lyfe of Jesu myght appere in oure bodyes. ✠

For we which lyue/are alwayes deliuered vnto deeth for Jesus sake / that the lyfe also of Jesu myght appere in oure mortall flesshe. So then deeth worketh in vs/& lyfe in you. ✠ Seynge then that we haue ȳ same spyrte of fayth/accordynge as it is written: I beleu= ed/and therfore haue I spoken. We also be leue/& therfore speake. For we knowe ȳ he which rayled vp the Lorde Jesus/ shall rayse vp vs also by the meanes of Jesus/and shall sect vs w you. For all thyngs do I for youre sakes/that the plenteous grace by thankes geuen of many/maye redounde to the prayse of God.

Wherfore we are not wery/but though oure *outwarde mā perisshe/ yet the inwarde man is renewed daye by daye. For oure exce= dynge tribulacion which is momentany and lyght/prepareth an exceadynge & an eternall wayght of glorye vnto vs/ whill we loke not on the thyngs which are sene/but on ȳ thyngs which are not sene. For thynges whych are sene/are temporall: but thynges which are not sene/are eternall. ✠

* That he he recalleth the outward mā/ he sometyme calleth the olde man sometyme the flesshe. What the flesh he sygnifyeth/ shall ye fynde in the prologe to the Romayns/ the.xxi.leafe.

¶ The reward for suffrynge trouble.

¶ The.v.Chapter.

We knowe surely yf oure erthy man= cyon wherin we now dwell were destroyed/that we haue a bildinge ordeyned of God/ an habitacio not made with handes / but eternall in heauen. And herefore sygh we/desyring to be clothed with oure mansion which is from heauē: so yet yf that we be founde clothed/and not na= ked. For as longe as we are in this taberna= cle/we sygh and are greued/ for we wold not be vnclothed/but wolde be clothed vpon / ȳ mortalite myght be swalowed vp of lyfe. He ȳ hath ordeyned vs for this thynge / is God: which very same hath geuē vnto vs ȳ earnest of the spyrte.

Therfore we are alwaye of good chere/ & knowe well that as longe as we are at home in the body/we are absent from God. For we walke in fayth and se not. Neuertheless we are of good comforte/and had leuer to be ab= sent from the body and to be present with the Lorde. Wherfore / whether we be at home or frō home we endeuoure oure selues to plea= se him. For we must all appere before ȳ iud= gemēt seate of Christ/ ȳ euery man maye re= ceaue the workes of his body accordynge to that he hath done/whether it be good or bad?

✠ Seynge then that we knowe/ how the Lorde is to be feared/ a* we fare fayre wyth men. For we are knowen well ynough vnto God. I trust also that we are knowē in youre consciences.

We praise not oure selues agayne vnto you/but geue you an occasyon to reioyce of vs/ ȳ ye maye haue some what agaynst thē/ which reioyce in the face/& not in the herte. For yf we be to feruent/to God are we to fer uent. If we kepe measure / for youre cause kepe we measure. For the loue of Christ con strayneth vs/because we thus iudge / yf one be deed for all/ ȳ then are all deed/& ȳ he died for all/that they which lyue/ shuld not hence forth lyue vnto them selues / but vnto hym which dyed for them and rose agayne. ✠

Wherfore henceforth know we no mā af= ter the flesshe. In somoche though we haue knowen Christ after the flesshe/ now hence forth know we him so no moare. Therfore yf

a* We fare fayre with mē. That is / we playe not the tyrauntes with cursynges and excommunica= cions / nether vse we violence maliciously a= monge the people / but feare God/and intreat the people louyng= ly/to drawe thē vnto Christ.

D thynges are become newe. Neuertheiesse all thyngs are of God/ which hath reconciled vs vnto hym selfe by* Iesus Chryst/ & hath geuē vnto vs the office to preache ỹ attonement. For God was in Chryst/ and made agremēt betwene the worid & him selfe/ and imputed not their synnes vnto them: & hath cōmitted to vs the preachinge of the attonemēt. Now then are we messengers in ỹ roume of Chryst euen as though God dyd beseche you thorow vs. So praye we you in Chrystes stede/ that ye be atone with God: for he hath made hym b* to be synne for vs/ which knew no synne/ that we by his meanes shuld be that ryghteousnes which before God is alowed.

* The attonement betwene God & man in Chryst/ is the Apostles office to preache.

b* To be synne for vs: that is to say/ to be the sacrifice for oure sinnes: for sinne in the scripture is sometyme taken for the sacrifice of synne. As Ose.iij. the preistes eate the synnes of ỹ people. And Rom. viij. By synne he damned synne in the flesshe.

¶ An exhortacion to receaue the worde of God with thankfulnesse and amendement of lyfe. The diligence of Paul in the Gospell/ and how he warneth them to exclude the company of the Heythen.

As helpers therfore exhorte you/ ỹ ye receaue not ỹ grace of God in
* vayne. For he saith: I haue heard the in a tyme accepted: and in the daye of saluacion / haue I succored the. Beholde/ now is ỹ well accepted tyme: beholde now is that daye of saluacion. Lett vs geue no man occasion of euyll/ that in oure office be founde no faute: but in all thynges let vs behaue oure selues as the mynisters of God.

* Vayne / that the worde sowē in youre hertes shulde be frutelesse to youre greate damnacyon.

B In moche pacience/ in afflictiōs/ in necessyte/ in anguysshe/ in stryppes/ in prysonmēt/ in stryfe/ in laboure/ in watchyng/ in fastyng/ in purenes/ in knowledge/ in longe suffering in kyndnes/ in ỹ holy goost/ in loue vnfayned/ in the wordes of trueth/ in ỹ power of God/ by the armoure* of righteousnes of ỹ ryght hande & on the lyfte/ in honoure & dishonoure/ in euill reporte & good reporte/ as deceauers & yet true/ as vnknowen/ & yet knowē: as dyinge/ & beholde we yet lyue: as chastened/ & not killed: as sorowyng/ & yet alwaye mery: as poore/ & yet make many riche: as hauinge no thyng/ & yet possessing all thynges. ✝

O ye Corinthyans/ oure mouth is open vnto you. Oure hert is made large: ye are in no strayte in vs / but are in a strayte in youre awne bowelles: I promyse you lyke reward D me/ as to my childrē. Set your selues therfore at large/ & ✝ beare not a straūgers yoke with ỹ vnbeleuers. For what fellyshyp hath ryghteousnes with vnryghteousnes? What cōpany hath light with darcknes? What cōcorde hath Chryst with Belial? Ether what parte hath he that beleueth/ with an infidell? how agreeth the tēple of God with ymages? And ye are the temple of that lyuinge God/ as sayde God. * I wyll dwell amonge them & walcke amonge them/ & wylbe their God: & they shalbe my people. Wherfore come out frō amonge thē / and separate youre selues (sayth the Lorde) and touche none vncleane thinge: so wyll I receaue you/ and wilbe a father vnto you / and ye shalbe my sonnes and daughters/ sayth the Lorde almyghty.

Leuiti. xxvi. Esa. lij.

¶ He exhorteth them to receaue the promyses of God thankfully. The Corinthyās are cōmended for their obedience and loue towarde Paul.

¶ The.vij.Chapter.

Synge that we haue soche promyses derely beloued / lett vs clense oure selues frō all filthynes of the flesshe & spryte/ & growe vp to full holynes in the feare of God. Understand vs/ we haue hurte no man: we haue corrupte no man: we haue defrauded no mā. I speake not this to condemne you: for I haue shewed you before that ye are in oure hertes to dye & lyue w you. I am very bolde ouer you / & reioyce greatly in you. I am fylled with comforte & am exceadynge ioyouse in all oure trybulacions. For when we were come into Macedonia/ oure flesshe had no rest / but we were troubled on euery syde. Outwarde was fighty tyng/ inward was feare. Neuertheless God that comforteth the abiecte / comforted vs at the commynge of Titus. A

B And not with his cōmynge only: but also with the consolacion wherwith he was comforted of you. For he tolde vs youre desyre/ youre mournyng/ youre feruēt mynde to me warde: so that I now reioyce ỹ more. Wherfore though I made you sory with a letter/ I C repent not: though I dyd repēt. For I perceaue that ỹ same epistle made you sory/ though it were but for a season. But I now reioyce/ not that ye were sory/ but that ye so sorowed that ye repented. For ye sorowed godly: so ỹ in nothynge ye were hurte by vs. For godly sorowe causeth repentaunce vnto saluacion not to be repented of: when worldely sorow causeth deeth. 2. Petri. ij.

Beholde what diligence thys godly sorowe that ye toke/ hath wrought in you: yee it caused you to cleare youre selues. It caused indignaciō/ it caused feare/ it caused desyre/ it caused a feruent mynde/ it caused punisshement: For in all thyngs ye haue shewed your selues that ye were cleare in that matter. Wherfore though I wrote vnto you / I did it not for hys cause that dyd hurte / nether for his cause that was hurte: but that oure good mynde whych we haue towarde you in the syght of God/ myght appere vnto you.

Therfore we are cōforted/ because ye are D comforted: yee and exceadyngly ỹ moare ioyed we/ for the ioye that Titus had: be cause hys spryte was refreshed of you all. I am therfore foze/not now a shamed though I bosted my selfe to him of you. For as all thynges which I preached vnto you are true/ euē so is oure bostinge/ that I bosted my selfe to Titus w̄ all/ founde true. And now is his inwarde affeccion moare aboundant towarde you/ whē he remembreth the obedience of euery one of you: how with feare and trembleyng ye receaued him. I reioyce that I maye be bolde ouer you in all thynges.

The putteth thē in remembraunce to helpe the poore sayncte at Jerusalē/ accordyng as ẏ Macedonias dyd.

The.viij. Chapter.

A MOreouer brethrē/ we do you to wit of ẏ grace of God which is geuen in the congregacions of Macedonia/ how ẏ the aboūdaunce of their reioysing is/ ẏ they are tryed with moche tribulacyon. And therto though they were exceding poore yet haue they geuen excedynge richly/ & that in synglenes. For to their powers (I beare recorde) yee and beyōde their power/ they were wyllynge of their awne record/ & prayed vs with great instaūce/ that we wolde receaue their benefite/ and suffre them to be partetakers w̄ other in ministrynge to the sayncte.

B And thys they dyd/ not as we loked for: but gaue their awne selues fyrst to the Lorde/ & after vnto vs by the wyll of God: so that we coulde not but desyre Titus to acomplysshe the same beniuolence amonge you also/ euē as he had begonne.

Now therfore / as ye are ryche in all parties/ in fayth/ in worde/ in knowledge/ in all feruentnes/ & in loue / which ye haue to vs: euē so se that ye be plenteous in this beniuolence. This saye I not as cōmaundynge: but because other are so feruent/ therfore proue I your loue/ whether it be perfayt or no. Ye knowe the liberalitie of oure Lorde Jesus Christ / which though he were ryche yet for youre sakes he came poore: that ye thorowe his pouertie/ myght be made ryche.

And I geue councell here to. For this is expedient for you/ which beganne/ not to do only: but also to wyll a yere a go. Now therfore performe the dede: that as ther was in you a redynes to wyll/ euen so ye maye performe ẏ

C dede/ of ẏ which ye haue. For yf ther be fyrst a wyllynge mynde/ it is accepted accordyng to that a man hath / & not accordynge to that he hath not.

It is not my mynde that other be set at ease/ and ye brought into combraūce: but that ther be egalnes now at this time/ that youre aboundaūce sucker their lacke: ẏ their aboūdaunce maye supplye youre lacke: that ther maye be equalite/ agreynge to that which is writtē. *He that gathered moche had neuer the more aboundaūce/ & he that gathered lytell had neuertheles. Thākes be vnto God/ which put in the hert of Titus the same good mynde towarde you. For he accepted the request yee rather he was so well willing/ that of his awne accorde/ came vnto you.

We haue sent with him ẏ brother / whose laude is in the gospell thorow out all the cō- D gregacions: & not so only/ but is also chosen of the cōgregacyons to be a felowe with vs in oure iorney cōcernynge this beniuolence ẏ is mynistred by vs vnto the prayse of the Lorde and to stere vp youre prompt mynde.

For this we eschue/ that eny man shulde reproue vs in this plenteous distribucyō that is mynystred by vs/ and therfore make prouysion for honest thinges /not in the sight of God only/ but also in the syght of men.

We haue sent with thē a brother of oures whom we haue ofte tymes proued diligēt in many thinges/ but now moche more diligēt. The greate confidence which I haue in you/ hath caused me this to do: partely for Titus sake which is my felowe and helper as concernyng you/ partely because of other which are oure brethren and the messengers of the congregacyons/ & the glory of Christ. Wher fore shewe vnto them proffe of youre loue/ & of the reioysynge that we haue of you/ that the congregacyons maye se it.

C In this Chapter doth he the same that he dyd in the Chapter goyng before/ that is/ moueth them to helpe ẏ poore brethren at Jerusalem.

The.ix. Chapter.

OF the ministring to ẏ* sayncte it is but superfluous for me to write vnto you: for I knowe youre redynes of mynde/ wherof I bost my selfe vnto thē of Macedonia/ & say ẏ Achaia was prepared a yere a go/ & your feruētnes hath prouoked many. Neuertheles yet haue I sent these brethren / lest oure reioysynge ouer you shulde be in vayne in this behalfe/ and that ye (as I haue sayde) prepare youre selues lest parauenture yf they of Macedonia come with me / and fynde you vnprepared/ the boost ẏ I made in this matter/ shuld be a shame to vs. I saye not vnto you.

* What sayncte sygnifie in the scripture/ Luke Act.ix.c.

B Wherfore I thought it necessary to exhorte the brethren/ to come before hande vnto you for to prepare your good blessinge promised a fore / that it myght be redy: so that it be a blessinge/ & not a defraudynge. ✠ This yet remember/ howe that he whych soweth lytell/ shall reepe lytell/ & he ẏ soweth plenteously shall reepe plenteously. And let euery mā do accordynge as he hath purposed in his hert/ not groudgyngly/ or of necessite. For God loueth a chearfull geuer.

*To moche meknes & obedience is not alowed in ỹ kingedome of God/ but all must be accordynge to knowledge.

How be it wherin soeuer eny man dare be bolde (I speake folisshly) I dare be bolde also. They are Ebrues/ so am I: They are Israelites/ euē so am I. They are the seede of Abraham/ euē so am I. They are the ministers of Christ (I speake as a fole) I am moare: In labours moare aboundant: In strypes aboue measure: In prison moare plenteously: In deeth ofte. Of the Iewes fyue tymes receaued I euery tyme .xl. stryp̄s saue one. Thryse

In iorneyinge often: in parels of waters: in parels of robbers: in ieopardies of myne awne nacion in ieoperdies amonge the hethen. I haue bene in parels in cities/ in parels in wildernes in parels in the see/ in parels amonge false brethrē/ in laboure & trauayle/ in watchinge often/ in honger in thyrst/ in fastinges often in colde & in nakednes. And besyde ỹ thinges which outwardly happen vnto me/ I am cōbred daily/ & do care for al cōgregaciōs. Who is sicke/ & I am not sicke? Who is hurte in ỹ fayth & my hert burneth not? If I must nedes reioyce/ I will reioyce of myne infirmityes.

¶ Paul is taken vp into the thyrde heauen/ & heareth wordes not to be spoken of.

¶ The .xij. Chapter.

A ✝ The God and father of oure Lorde Iesus Christ/ whych is blessed for euermore/ knoweth that I lye not. ✝ In the citie of Damascon/ ỹ gouerner of the people vnder kynge Aretas/ layde watche in the citie of the Damascens/ and wolde haue caught me / and at a wyndowe was I let doune in a basket thorow the wall/ and so scaped hys handes.

It is not expediēt for me no dout to reioyce Neuertheles I will come to visions & reuelaciōs of the Lorde. I knowe a mā in Christ aboue .xiij. yeares agone (whether he were in the body I cannot tell/ or whether he were oute of the body I cānot tell (God knoweth) whych was taken vp in to the thyrde heauen. And I knowe the same man (whether in the body/ or out of the body. I cannot tell God knoweth) how that he was takē vp into Paradyse/ and herde wordes not to be spoken/ which no man can vtter. Of this man will I reioyce/ of my selfe wil I not reioyce/ except it be of myne infirmities. And yet though I
B wolde reioyce/ I shulde not be a fole: for I wolde saye ỹ trouthe. Neuertheles I spare/ lest eny man shulde thinke of me aboue that he seyth me to be/ or heareth of me.

And lest I shuld be exalted out of measure thorow the aboundance of reuelacyōs/ ther was geuē vnto me a *vnquyetnes of ỹ flesshe/ the messenger of Satan to buffet me: because I shulde not be exalted out of measure. For this thinge besought I the Lorde thryse that it myght departe from me. And he sayde
C vnto me: my grace is sufficiēt for the. For my strength is made parfayct thorow weaknes very gladly therfore wil I reioyce of my weknes/ that the strength of Christ maye dwell in me. ✝ Therfore haue I delectacyon in infirmities in rebukes/ in nede/ in persecuciōs in anguysshe/ for Christes sake. For when I am weake/ then am I stronge.

a *Unquyetnes of ỹ flesshe is here the vyolent withstandyng & agaynsaying and euen the persecutyng of euell mē which cōtinually troubled him/ & braled against his preaching. This was ỹ minister of Satan/ ỹ as it had ben with buffettes vexed him. His aduersaries which with their blasphemouse and
D cōtrarious teaching/ dyd disquyet & torment hym/ destroying as fast as he edyfyed/ were the very prickes & disquietnesse of ỹ flesshe/ frō whych he desyreth the Lorde to be delyuered.

I am made a fole in bostinge my selfe. Ye haue cōpelled me: I ought to haue bene cōmended of you. For in nothynge was I inferior vnto the chefe Apostles/ though I be nothynge/ yet the tokens of an Apostle were wrought amonge you with all pacience/ with signes & wōders/ & mighty dedes. For what is it wherin ye were inferiors vnto other congregaciōs except it be therin that I was not greuous vnto you. Forgeue me this wronge done vnto you. Beholde now the thirde tyme I am redy to come vnto you: & yet wyll I not be greuous vnto you. For I seke not youres/ but you. Also the chyldren ought not to laye vp for the fathers and mothers: but the fathers and mothers for the chyldren.

I will very gladly bestowe/ & wilbe bestowed for youre soules: though the moare I loue you/ ỹ lesse I am loued agayne. But be it ỹ I greued you not: neuertheles I was craftye & toke you with gile. Dyd I pill you by eny of them which I sent vnto you? I desyred Titus/ & with him I sent a brother. Dyd Titus defraude you of eny thynge? walked we not in one spyrete? walked we not in like steppes? Agayne thinke ye ỹ we excuse oure selues? We speake in Christ in the syght of God.

But we do all thinges dearly beloued for youre edifyinge. For I feare lest it come to passe/ that when I come/ I shall not fynde you soche as I wolde: & I shalbe founde vnto you soche as I wolde not: I feare lest ther be founde amōge you debate/ enuyinge/ wrath stryfe/ backbytinges/ whysperynges/ swelinges and discorde. I feare lest when I come agayne/ God bringe me lowe amōge you/ & I be constrayned to bewayle many of them which haue synned all redy/ and haue not repented of the vnclennes/ fornicacion & wantannes which they haue committed.

¶ He promyseth to come vnto them and exhorteth the so to ordre them selues th at he may fynde them parfecte/ and of one mynde.

¶ The Epistle of Saynct Paul the Apostle vnto the Galathyans.

¶ Paul rebuketh thē/ because they were fallen awaye from the Gospell/ sheweth his awne conuersyon/ magnifyeth his office and Apostelshippe/ and declareth him self to be equall with the hye Apostles.

¶ The fyrst Chapter.

PAul an apostle not of men/ nether by man/ but by Jesus Christ/ and by God the father which rayled him from deeth: and all ỹ brethrē which are with me.

A Paul though he came longe after the Apostles yet had he not his auctorite of Peter or of any that wēt before hym. Nether brought he with hī letters of recōmendacyō or bulles of confirmacyon. But the confirmacyon of hys apostleshyp was ỹ worde of god/ cōsciēce of men & the power of the spryte that testifyed wyth hym by myracles and manyfolde gyftes of grace.

Vnto the congregacyons of Galacia. Grace be wyth you and peace from God the father/ and from oure Lorde Jesus Christ/ which gaue him selfe for oure synnes/ to deliuer vs from this present euyll worlde/ thorow the will of God oure father/ to whom be prayse for euer and euer. Amen.

B I maruayle that ye are so sone turned frō him that called you in the grace of Christ/ vnto another Gospell: wh ych is nothynge els/ but that ther be some which trouble you/ and intende to peruert the Gospell of Christ. Neuertheles though we oure selues/ or an angell from heuen/ preache eny other Gospell vnto you/ then that which we haue preached vnto you/ holde hym as a cursed. As I sayde before/ so saye I now agayne/ yf eny man preache eny other thinge vnto you/ then that ye haue receaued/ holde hī accursed. Preache I mānes doctrine or Gods? Other go I about to please men? If I stodyed to please men/ I were not the seruaunt of Christ.

✝ I certifye you brethren/ ỹ the Gospell which was preached of me/ was not after ỹ manner of men/ nether receaued I it of man nether

nether was I taught it: but receaued it by ỹ
C reuelacõ of Jesus Chrift. For ye haue heard of my conuersacyon in tyme past/ in the Jewes wayes/ how ỹ beyonde measure I persecuted the congregacion of God/ & spoyled it: and preuayled in the Jewes laye/ aboue many of my cõpanions/ which were of mine awne nacion/ and was a moche more keruẽt mayntener of the traditions of the elders.

But whẽ it pleased God/ which seperated me from my mothers wombe/ & called me by his grace/ for to declare his sonne by me/ ỹ I shuld preache him amonge the hethen: immediatly I cõmened not of ỹ matter w^a *flesche and bloud/ nether returned to Jerusalem to them whych were Apostles before me: but went my wayes into Arabia/ & came agayne vnto Damasco. Then after thre yeare/ I returned to Jerusalem to se Peter/ and abode with hym .xv. dayes/ no nother of the Apostles sawe I/ saue James the Lordes brother. The thinges which I write/ beholde/ God knoweth I lye not.

a *Flesche and bloude here signifie men or mennes counsell

After that I went into ỹ costes of Syria & Cilicia: & was vnknowen as touching my person vnto the congregacyons of Jewrye/ which were in Christ. But they hearde only ỹ he which persecuted vs in tyme past/ now preacheth ỹ fayth which before he destroyed. And they glorified God on my behalfe. F

The withstondeth Peter in the face/ and proueth that the lawe & circumcisyon are not necessary to saluacio.

C The .ij. Chapter.

A Paul defendeth the libertye of the gospell.

Then .xiiij. yeares ther after/ I wẽt vp agayne to Jerusalẽ with Barnabas/ and toke wyth me Titus also. Ye & I went vp by reuelacion & cõmened with thẽ/ of the Gospell which I preache amonge the Gentyls: but betwene oure selues/ with them whych were counted chefe/ lest it shuld haue bene thought that I shuld runne or had runne in vayne. Also Titus whych was wyth me/ though he were a Greke/ yet was not cõpelled to be circũcised & that because of incõmers beynge falle brethren which came in amõge other to spye out oure libertie which we haue in Christ Jesus that they myght bringe vs into bondage. To whõ we gaue no roume/ no not for ỹ space of an houre/ as concerninge to be brought into subiecyon: and that because that the trueth of the Gospell myght continue with you.

Paul is of as hye auctorite as Peter/ James or John.

B Of thẽ which semed to be great (what they were in tyme passed it maketh no matter to me: God loketh on no mãs person) neuertheles they which semed great/ added nothyng to me. But contrary wyse/ when they sawe ỹ the Gospell ouer the vncircũcision was commytted vnto me/ as the Gospel ouer the *circumcisyon was vnto Peter: for he that was myghty in Peter in the Apostleshippe ouer the circũcisyon/ the same was myghty in me amonge the Gentyls: and therfore whẽ they perceaued the grace that was geuẽ vnto me/ then James/ Cephas & John/ whych semed to be pylers/ gaue to me and Barnabas the ryght handes and agreed with vs/ ỹ we shuld preache amonge the Hethen/ & they amonge the Jewes: warninge only that we shulde remember the poore. Which thinge also I was diligent to do.

Circumcisiõ are the Jewes/ & vncircumcision the Gétyles.

C Paul rebuketh Peter in the face.

And when Peter was come to Antioche/ I withstode him in the face/ for he was worthy to be blamed. For yer that certayne came from James/ he ate wyth the Gentyls. But when they were come/ he withdrue and separated him selfe/ fearynge thẽ whych were of the circumcisyon. And the other Jewes dissembled lykewyse/ in so moche that Barnabas was brought into their simulacio also. But when I sawe/ ỹ they went not the right waye after the trueth of the Gospell/ I sayde vnto Peter before all men/ yf thou beynge a Jewe/ lyuest after the mãner of the Gẽtyls and not as do the Jewes: why causest thou ỹ Gentyls to lyue as do the Jewes? We which are Jewes by nature/ and not synners of the Gentyls/ knowe that a man is not iustifyed by the *dedes of the lawe: but by the fayth of Jesus Christ. And therfore we haue beleued on Jesus Christ/ that we myght be iustifyed by the fayth of Christ (and not by the dedes of the lawe: because that by the dedes of ỹ lawe no flesche can be iustifyed.

D If then whyll we seke to be made ryghtewes by Christ/ we oure selues are founde sinners/ is not then Christ ỹ minister of synne? God forbyd. For yf I bylde agayne ỹ whych I destroyed/ then make I my selfe a trespaser. a *But I thorow the lawe/ am deed to the lawe: that I might lyue vnto God. I am crucifyed with Christ. I liue verely: yet now not I/ but Christ lyueth in me. For ỹ lyfe whych I now lyue in the flesche/ I lyue by the fayth of the sonne of God/ which loued me/ & gaue hym selfe for me. I despyse not the grace of God. For yf ryghtewelnes come of ỹ lawe/ then Christ dyed in vayne.

a *But I thorow ỹ lawe am deed to the lawe/ that is/ by ỹ lawe of lyberte & grace graunted in Christ/ I am delyuered from the lawe of bondage ministred by Moses & from the burthẽ & curse therof.

The rebuketh the vnstedfastnesse of the Galathyans shewynge the vnparfectnesse of the lawe/ & declareth neuertheless that it was not geuen for nought.

C The .iij. Chapter.

O Folysshe Galathyans: who hath bewitched you ỹ ye shuld not beleue ỹ trueth? To whõ Jesus Christ was described before ỹ eyes/ & amonge you crucifyed. This only wolde I learne of you/ receaued ye ỹ spyrete by ỹ dedes of ỹ lawe/ or els by preachynge of the fayth? Are yet so vnwyse/vnwyse/ that after ye haue begonne in the spyrete ye wolde nowe ende in the flesshe?

So many thinges ye haue suffred in vayne/ yf that be vayne. Which ministred to you the spyrete/ and worketh myracles amonge you doth he it thorow the dedes of the lawe/ or by preachynge of the fayth? *Euen as Abrahã beleued God/ and it was assctybed to hym for ryghtewesnes. Understande therfore that they whych are of fayth/ the same are ỹ chyldren of Abraham.

Gene.xv.b. Rom.iiij.a. Jacob.ij.d.

For the scrypture sawe afore hande/ that God wolde iustifye the Hethen thorow fayth and therfore shewed before hande glad tydynges vnto Abraham: In the shall all nacyons be blessed. So then they whych be of fayth/ are blessed wyth faythfull Abraham. For as many as are vnder ỹ dedes of the lawe/ are vnder malediccyon. For it is wrytten curled is euery man that contynueth not in all thynges which are wrytten in the boke of the lawe/ to fulfyll them. That no man is iustifyed by the lawe in the syght of God/ is euident. For the iuste shall lyue by fayth. The lawe is not of fayth: but the man that fulfilleth the thynges contayned in the lawe (shall lyue in them.) But Christ hath delyuered vs from the curse of the lawe/ and was made a *curled for vs. For it is wrytten: curssed is euery one that hangeth on tree/ that ỹ blessynge of Abraham myght come on the Gentyls thorow Jesus Christ/ and that we might receaue ỹ promes of the spyrete thorow fayth

The lawe curseth: but fayth bleseth.

(For fayth) onlye maketh the cõscience a lyue

*Christ was accursed for oure sakes/ that is: he was punyshed and slayne for oure synnes

Brethren I wyll speake after the maner of men. Though it be but a mans testament yet no man delyyleth it/ or addeth eny thinge therto/ when it is once alowed. To Abraham and hys seed were the promyses made. He sayth not in the seedes/ as many: but in thy sede/ as in one/ which is Christ. Thys I saye/ that the lawe whych beganne afterwarde/ beyonde. iiij. C. & xxx. yeare/ doth not dismaull the testament/ that was confermed afore of God vnto Christ ward/ to make the promes of none effect. For yf the inheritaũce come of the lawe/ it cõmeth not of promes. But God gaue it vnto Abraham by promes

Wherfore then serueth the lawe? The lawe was added because of transgressyon (tyll the seed came to whych ỹ promes was made) and it was ordeyned by Angels in the hande of a mediator. A mediator is not a mediator of one. But God is one. Is the lawe then agaynst the promes of God? God forbyd.

Howbeit yf ther had bene a lawe geuẽ which coulde haue geuen* lyfe: then no doute ryghtewesnes shuld haue come by the lawe. But the scrypture concluded all thynges vnder synne that the promes by the fayth of Jesus Christ/ shuld be geuen vnto them that beleue. ¶ Before that fayth came/ we were kept & shut vp vnder the lawe/ vnto ỹ fayth which shuld afterwarde be declared.

Wherfore the lawe was oure scolemaster vnto the tyme of Christ/ that we myght be made ryghtewes by fayth. But after that fayth is come/ now are we no lẽger a *vnder a scolemaster. For ye are all ỹ sonnes of God by the fayth whych is in Christ Jesus. For all ye that are baptysed/ haue put on Christ. Now is ther no Jewe nether Gentyll: ther is nether bonde ner fre: ther is nether man ner woman: but ye are all one thynge in Christ Jesu. If ye be Christes/ then are ye Abrahãs seed/ and heyres by promes.

a *To be vnder a scolemaster & to be vnder the lawe are bothe one/ and are expounded in the prologe to the Romayns/ the leasse. lxỹ.

¶ Paul sheweth that thorow Christ we be delyuered from the lawe/ and rebuketh the vnthankfulnesse of the Galathyans.

¶ The. iiij. Chapter. ✠

And I saye that the heyre as longe as he is a chylde/ differeth not from a seruaunt/ though he be Lorde of all/ but is vnder tuters and gouerners/ vntyll the tyme appoynted of ỹ father. Euen so we/ as longe as we were chyldren/ were in bondage vnder the ordinaunces of ỹ worlde. But whẽ the a *tyme was full come/ God sent his sonne borne of a womã & made bonde vnto the lawe/ to redeme them whych were vnder the lawe: that we thorow electiõ myght receaue the inheritaunce that belongeth vnto ỹ naturall sonnes. Because ye are sonnes/ God hath sent the spyrete of his sonne into oure hertes/ which cryeth Abba father. Wherfore now/ thou art not a seruaũt/ but a sonne. If thou be the sonne/ thou arte also the heyre of God thorow Christ. ✠ a *The tyme fulcome was ỹ tyme of Christes comming/ whych made an ende of ỹ lawe & delyuered vs from the bure then therof.

B

Not withstandynge/ when ye knewe not God ye dyd seruice vnto them/ which by nature were no Goddes. But now seynge ye knowe God (yee rather are knowen of God) how is it ỹ ye tourne agayne vnto ỹ weake and bedgarly cerimonies/ wher vnto agayne ye desyre afreshe to be in bondage? Ye obserue dayes/ and monethes/ & tymes/ & yeares I am in feare of you/ lest I haue bestowed on you laboure in vayne.

Bedgarlye ceremonyes

Brethren I beseech you/ be ye as I am: for I am as ye are. Ye haue not hurte me at all. Ye knowe/ how thorow infirmitye of ỹ flesshe/ I preached the Gospell vnto you at the fyrst. And my temptacion which I suffred by reason of my flesshe/ ye despysed not nether abhorred: but receaued me as an Angell of God: yee as Christ Jesus. How happy were ye then? for I beare you recorde that yf it had bene possible ye wolde haue plucked out youre awne eyes/ and haue geuen thẽ to me. Am I therfore become youre enemye/ because I tell you the trueth.

Infirmitie and temptacion are persecucion/ rebuke & ỹ crosse.

Theyare

They are gelous ouer you amisse. Yee/they intende to exclude you/that ye shuld be feruent to them warde. It is good alwayes to be feruent/so it be in a good thynge/and not only when I am present with you.

My lyttell chyldren (of whom I trauayle in birth agayne/vntill Christ be fashioned in you) I wolde I were with you now/& coulde chaunge my voyce: for I stande in a doute of you. Tell me ye yͤ desyre to be vnder the lawe haue ye not hearde of the lawe? For it is wrytten that Abraham had two sonnes/the one by a bōde mayde/yͤ other by a fre womā. Yee and he whych was of the bonde woman was borne after yͤ flesshe: but he which was of the fre woman/was borne by promes. Which thynges betoken mystery. For these wemen are two testamentes/the one from yͤ mounte Syna/whych gendreth vnto bondage/which is Agar. For mounte Syna is called Agar in Arabia/and bordreth vpon yͤ citie/which is now Ierusalem/and is in bondage with her chyldren.

But Ierusalem/whych is aboue/is fre: which is the mother of vs all. For it is writtē reioyce thou baren/that bearest no chyldren breake forth & cry:/thou yͤ trauelest not. For the desolate hath many moo chyldren then she whych hath an husband. Brethrē we are after the maner of Isaac/chyldrē of promes. But as then he yͤ was borne carnally/persecuted him that was borne spiritually. Euen so is it now. Neuertheles what sayth the scrypture: put awaye the bonde woman and her sonne. For the sonne of the bonde woman shall not be heyre wͭ the sonne of yͤ fre womā. So then brethren we are not chyldren of the bonde woman: but of the fre woman.

The laboureth to drawe them awaye from circumcision/sheweth them the batayll betwyxte the spyrite & the flesh/and the frutes of them both.

The.v. Chapter.

The libertye & fredome yͤ we haue in Christ ought euery mā to stande by Stand fast therfore in the libertye wherwyth Christ hath made vs fre/and wrappe not youre selues agayne in the yoke of bondage.

Beholde I Paul saye vnto you/that yf ye be circūcised/Christ shall profyt you nothinge at all. I testifye agayne to euery man which is circumcysed that he is bounde to kepe the whole lawe. Ye are gone quyte from Christ as many as are iustified by the lawe/and are fallen from grace. We loke for/and hope in yͤ spyrite/to be iustified thorow fayth. For in Iesu Christ/nether is circumcision eny thynge worth/nether yet vncircūcision/but* fayth which by loue is mighty in operacīō. Ye dyd runne well: who was a let vnto you/that ye shuld not obey the trueth? Euen that cōsell that is not of him that called you. A lytell leuen doth leuen the whole lompe of dowe.

* Fayth which worketh thorow loue is the true fayth & all that God requyreth of vs.

I haue trust towarde you in the Lorde/that ye wyll be none other wyse mynded. He that troubleth you/shall beare his iudgemēt whatsoeuer he be. Brethren yf I yet preache circumcision: why do I then yet suffre persecucyon? For then had the offence whych the crosse geueth/ceased. I wolde to God they were seperated from you/which trouble you. Brethren ye were called into (libertye) only let not youre libertie be an occasion vnto the flesshe/but in loue serue one another* For al the lawe is fulfylled in one worde/whych is this: thou shalt loue thyne neyghbour as thy selfe. If ye byte & deuoure one another: take hede lest ye be consumed one of another.

* Romā.xiij. Iaco.ij.b. 1.Petr.ij.c.

I saye walke in the spyrite/and fulfyll not the lustes of the flesshe. For the flesshe lusteth contrary to the spyrite/and the spyrite contrary to the flesshe. These are cōtrary one to the other/so that ye cannot do that whych ye wolde. But and yf ye be ledde of yͤ spyrite/then are ye not vnder the lawe. Beholde how large a letter I haue writtē vnto you wyth myne awne hande. As many as desyre with outwarde apperaūce to please carnally/ they constrayne you to be circumcised/only because they wolde not suffre persecuciō with the crosse of Christ. D God forbyd that I shuld reioyce/but in ỹ crosse of oure Lorde Jesu Christ/wherby the worlde is crucified as touchynge me/ & I as concernynge the worlde. And as many as walke accordynge to thys rule/peace be on them/and mercy/and vpon Israel that pertayneth to God. Frō hence forth/let no man put me to busynes. But God which is rych in mercy thorow his greate loue wherwyth he loued vs/ euen when we were deed by synne/ hath quickened vs to gether in Christ (for by grace are ye saued) and hath rayled vs vp to gether & made vs sytte to gether in heuenly thinges thorow Christ Jesus/ for to shewe in tymes to come the excedinge riches of his grace/ in kyndnes to vs warde in Christ Jesu. a *The promyses of mercye in Christes bloude are made vs on that condycyō that we kepe the lawe / & loue one another as Christ loued vs.

Wherfore remēber that ye beynge in tyme passed gētyls in the flesshe/ & were called vncircumcision to them which are called circūcision in ỹ flesshe/ which circūcision is made by handes: Remember I saye/ that ye were at that tyme without Christ/ & were reputed aliantes frō the cōmen welth of Israel/ and were straungers from the b *testamentes of promes/ & had no hope/ & were with out God in this worlde. But now in Christ Jesu/ ye which a whyle agoo were farre of/ are made nye by the bloude of Christ.

c *Moses lawe that was the wal & cause of hate betwene the Jewes & Gentyles/ is taken awaye. In whose stede is lo ue come to loue one another / as Christ loued vs/

For he is oure peace/ which hath made of both one/ & hath brokē doune ỹ c *wall that was a stoppe betwene vs/ and hath also put awaye thorow his flesshe/ d *the cause of hatred/ that is to saye/ the lawe of cōmaundementes contayned in the lawe wrytten/ for to make of twayne one newe mā in him selfe so makynge peace: and to recōcile both vnto God in one body thorow his crosse/ and slewe hatred therby: & came and preached peace to you which were a farre of/ & to them ỹ were nye. For thorow him we both haue an open waye in/ in one spyrete vnto the father.

God had mercy on him: not on him only/ but on me also lest I should haue sorowe vpō sorowe. I sent him therfore the diligentliar/ ye whē ye should se him/ ye might reioyce againe and I myght be the lesse sorowfull. Receaue him therfore in the Lorde with all gladnes/ & make moche of soche: because that for the worke of Christ he wēt so farre/ that he was nye vnto deeth/ and regarded not hys lyfe to fulfyll that seruyce whych was lackynge on youre parte towarde me.

The warneth them to beware of false techers/ whom he calleth dogges & enemyes of Christ and reproueth mannes awne ryghteousnes.

The .iij. Chapter.

A Moreouer/ my brethrē reioyce in ye Lorde. It greueth me not to write one thinge oftē to you. For to you it is a sure thinge. Beware of dogges/ beware of euyl workers. Beware of dissencion. For we are circūcision which* worship God in ye spyrete/ & reioyce in Christ Jesu & haue no confidence in the flesche: though I haue wherof I myght reioyce in the flesche. If eny other mā thynketh that he hath wherof he myght trust in the flesche: moche moare I: circumcyped the eyght daye/ of the kinred of Israel/ of ye tribe of Beniamin/ an Ebrue borne of the Ebrues: as concerninge ye lawe/ a Pharisaye/ and as concerninge feruētnes/ I persecuted the congregacion/ and as touchinge the righteweines which is in ye lawe/ I was vnrebukable.

But the thinges that were vauntage vnto me/ I counted losse for Christes sake. Yee I thynke all thinges but losse for that excellēt knowledges sake of Christ Jesu my Lorde. For whom I haue counted all thinge losse/ & do iudge thē but donge/ that I myght winne Christ/ and myght be founde in hym/ not hauinge myne awne ryghteweines which is of the lawe: but that whych sprynge th of the fayth which is in Christ. I meane the righteweines which cōmeth of God thorow fayth in knowinge him and the vertue of the resurreccion/ and the fellowshippe of his passiōs/ that I myght be cōformable vnto his (deeth) yf by eny meanes I myght attayne vnto the resurrecton of the deed.

Not as though I had all redy attayned to it/ ether were all redy perfect: but I folowe/ yf that I maye cōprehende ye/ wherin I am cōprehended of Christ Jesu. Brethren I coūte not my selfe that I haue gotten it: but one thinge I saye: I* forget ye whych is behinde & stretche my selfe vnto that which is before & preace vnto that marke apoynted/ to obtayne the rewarde of the hye callinge of God in Christ Jesu. Let vs therfore as many as be perfect/ be thus wyse mynded: & yf ye be other wyse mynded/ I praye God open euen this vnto you. Neuertheles in ye wher vnto we are come/ let vs procede by one rule/ that we maye be of one accorde.

✝ Brethrē be folowers of me/ & loke on thē which walke euē so/ as ye haue vs for an ensample. For many walke (of whom I haue tolde you often (& now tell you wepinge) that they are the enemyes of the crosse of Christ/ whose ende is damnacyō whose God is their bely/ & whose glory is to their shame/ whych are worldely mynded. But oure conuersacio is in heauen/ from whence we loke for a saueour/ euē ye Lorde Jesus Christ/ which shal chaunge oure vyle bodyes/ that they maye be fassioned lyke vnto his gloryous body/ accordyng to the workinge/ wherby he is able to subdue all thinges vnto him selfe. ✝

If we be lyke Christ in conuersacyon we shalbe lyke him in glorye.

The saluteth certayne of them/ exhorteth them to be of honest conuersacion/ and thanketh them because of the prouisyon/ ye they made for him beynge in prison.

The .iiij. Chapter.

Therfore my brethrē dearly beloued & longed for/ my ioye and croune/ so cōtinue in the Lorde ye beloued. I praye Euodias/ & beseche Syntiches ye they be of one accorde in the Lorde. Yee and I beseche the faythfull yockfelowe/ helpe the wemen which labored wt me in the gospell/ & with Clemēt also/ & with other my labour felowes/ whose names are in ye a* boke of lyfe. ✝ Reioyce in ye Lorde alwaye/ & agayne I saye reioyce. Let youre softenes be knowen vnto all men. The Lorde is euen at hande. Be not carefull: but in all thynges shewe youre peticiō vnto God in prayer and supplicaciō wt geuinge of thākes. And ye peace of God which passeth al vnderstādinge/ kepe youre hertes and myndes in Christ Jesu. ✝

Furthermore brethrē/ whatsoeuer thinges are true/ whatsoeuer thinges are honest/ whatsoeuer thinges are iust/ whatsoeuer thinges are pure/ whatsoeuer thinges pertayne to loue/ whatsoeuer thinges are of honest reporte: yether be eny vertuous thinge/ yether be eny laudable thinge/ those same haue ye in your mynde/ whych ye haue both learned & receaued/ herde & also sene in me: those thinges do/ & the God of peace shalbe wt you. I reioyce in the Lorde greatly/ that now at the last ye are reuyued agayne to care for me/ in that wherin ye were also carefull/ but ye lacked oportunite. I speake not because of necessitie For I haue learned in whatsoeuer estate I am/ therwyth to be content. I can both cast doune my selfe/ I cā also excede. For they them selues shewe of you what maner of entrynge in we had vnto you & how ye tourned to God from ymages/ for to serue the lyuinge and true God/ & for to loke for hys sonne from heauen/ whõ he rayled frõ deeth: I meane Jesus which de=liuereth vs from the wrath to come.

¶ He putteth them in mynde of the godly conuersaciõ that he led amonge them whẽ he preached the Gospell vnto them/ thanketh God that they receaue his worde so frutefully and excuseth his absence.

I For ye youre selues knowe brethren ẽ of oure entraũce in vnto you/ how that it was not in vayne: but euen after that we had suffered before & were shamfully entreated at Philippos (as ye well knowe) then were we bolde in oure God to speake vnto you the Gospell of God/ w̃ moche striuynge. For this cause thãke we God with out cea=synge/ because that whẽ ye receaued of vs ỹ worde wherwyth God was preached/ ye re=ceaued it not as the worde of man: but euen as it was in dede/ the worde of God/ whych

¶*We knowe that the lawe is good/ yf a man vse it lawfully / vnderstandynge thys/ how that the lawe is not geuen vnto a righteous man/but vnto the vnryghteous & disobediẽt to the vngodly and to synners/ to vnholy and vncleane/ to murtherers of fathers and murtherers of mothers / to manslears & whoremongers: to thẽ that defyle them selues with mankynde: to menstealers: to lyars & to periured/ & so forth yf ther be eny other thing that is contrary to holsome doctryne/ accordinge to the Gospell of the glory of the blessed God/ which gospell is cõmitted vnto me.

¶ And I thanke Christ Jesus oure Lorde which hath made me stronge: for he counted me true/ and put me in office/ when before I was a blasphemar/ and a persecuter/ & a Tyraunt. But I obtayned mercy/ because I did it ignorauntly thorow vnbeleefe. Neuerthelater the grace of oure Lorde was moare aboundaunt with fayth and loue which is in Christ Jesu. ¶

The grownde of the fayth.

¶ This is a true sayinge & by all meanes worthy to be receaued/ ỹ Christ Jesus came into the worlde to saue synners/ of whome I am cheefe. Not withstandynge for this cause was mercy geuẽ vnto me/ that Jesus Christ shulde fyrst shewe on me all longe pacience/ vnto the ensample of thẽ which shall in tyme to come beleue on hym vnto eternall lyfe.

Paul is an ensample that none despeare that can repent.

¶ So then vnto God kynge euerlastynge/ immortall/ inuisyble/ & wyse only / be honoure and prayse for euer and euer. Amen.

This commaundement commit I vnto ỹ sonne Timotheus/ accordynge to the prophesies which in tyme past were prophisied of the/ that thou in them shuldest fyght a good fyght/ hauyng fayth & good cõscience which some haue put awaye from them/ & as cõcernyng fayth haue made shipwracke. ¶ He exhorteth to praye for all men. He wyll not haue wemen to be ouercostly arayed nor to teache in the cõgregaciõ/ but to be in sylence/ & obeye their husbãdes.

¶ Exhorte therfore/ that aboue all thynges/ prayers/ supplicacions/ intercessions & geuyng of thankes be had for all men: for kynges/ and for all that are in auctorite/ that we maye lyue a quyet and a peasable lyfe/ in all godlynes and honestie. For that is good & accepted in the syght of God oure sauiour / whych *wyll haue all men saued/ and to come vnto the knowledge of the trueth. For ther is one God/ and one (mediator) betwene God & mã/ which is the man Christ Jesus / which geue him selfe a raunsome for all men / ỹ it shuld be testified at his tyme/ where vnto I am ordayned a preacher and an Apostle: I tell the trueth in Christ & lye not beyng the teacher of the gentyls in fayth and veritie. ¶

*Wyll &c. that is wyll haue ỹ Gospell preached to all men without exception & offer to all men repentaunce and will haue all men prayed for.

Also Adam was not deceaued / but the woman was deceaued/ and was in trãsgression. And yf so be ỹ ye call on the father whych without respect of person iudgeth according to euery mannes* workes/ se that ye passe ỹ tyme of youre pelgremage in feare. ✝ For as moche as ye knowe how ỹ ye were not redemed with corruptible syluer and golde from youre vayne cõuersacion which ye receaued by the tradicions of the fathers: but with the precious bloude of Christ/ as of a lambe vndefyled/ and without spot/ which was ordeyned before the worlde was made: but was declared in ỹ last tymes for your sakes/ which by his meanes haue beleued on God ỹ raysed him from deeth/ and glorifyed hym / that youre fayth and hope myght be in God.

* By youre workes shall we be iudged: for as ỹ inuisible fayth is/ soche are the workes by which ỹ fayth his seue.

And for as moche as ye haue purified your soules thorowe the spyrete / in obeyuge the trueth for to loue brotherly wythout fayenyng/ se that ye loue one another with a pure hert feruẽtly: for ye are borne a newe/ not of mortall seed/ but of immortall/ by ỹ worde of God whych lyueth and lasteth for euer.

*For all flesche is as grasse/ and all the glory of man is as the floure of grasse. The grasse wydderyth/ and ỹ flower falleth awaye / but the worde of the Lord endureth euer. ✝ And this is the worde which by the Gospell was preached amonge you.

C For so moch as the power of God hath geuē them all thynges pertaynynge vnto lyfe/he exhorteth them to flye ꝑ corrupcion of worldly lust/to make their callynge sure with good workes/ and frutes of fayth. He maketh mencion of his awne deeth/declarynge the Lorde Jesus to be ꝑ true sonne of God/ as he him selfe hath sene vpon the mount.

C The fyrst Chapter.

SImon Peter a seruaunt A and an Apostle of Jesus Christ/ to them which haue obtayned lyke precious fayth wyth vs in the ryghtewelnes that commeth of oure God and sauioure Jesus Christ.

Grace with you/and peace be multyplied in the knowledge of God and of Jesus oure Lorde. Accordynge as his godly power hath geuen vnto vs all thynges that pertayne vnto lyfe and godlynes/thorow the knowledge of him that hath called vs by vertue and glory/ by the meanes wherof/are geuen vnto vs excellent and moste greate promyses/ that by the helpe of them ye shuld be partakers of ꝑ godly nature/ in that ye flye the corrupcyon of worldly lust.

And herunto geue all diligence: in youre fayth,* minister vertue and in vertue knowledge/and in knowledge temperance/and in tēperance pacience/ in pacience godlynes/ in Godlynes brotherly kyndnes/ in brotherly kyndnes loue. For yf these thinges be amōge you and are plenteous/ they wyll make you that ye nether shalbe ydle nor vnfrutefull in the knowledge of oure Lorde Jesus Christ. But he that lacketh these thynges is blynde and gropeth for the waye with his hande/ and hath forgotten that he was pourged frō hys olde synnes.

a * Although ꝑ callyng of God be stable and sure/ neuertheles ꝑ Apostle wyll/ ꝑ oure workes shulde declare vnto men that we are called.

Wherfore I wyll not be negligent to put you all wayes in remēbraūce of seche thynges though that ye knowe them/ and be also stablished in the present trueth. Not withstandynge I thynke it mete/as longe as I am in this b* tabernacle/to stere you vp by puttyng you in remēbraunce/ for as moche/ as I am sure how that the tyme is at hande that I must put of my tabernacle/ euen as oure Lorde Jesus Christ hath shewed me. I wyll enforce therfore/ that on euery syde ye myght haue wherwith to stere vp the remembraunce of these thynges after my departing. ✠ For we folowed not deceuable fables whē we opened vnto you the power and commynge of oure Lorde Jesus Christ/ but wyth oure eyes we sawe his maiestie: euen then verely when he receaued of God ꝑ father honoure and glory/and when ther came seche a voyce to him frō ꝑ excellent glorie.* This is my dere D beloued sonne/in whom I haue delyte. This voyce we hearde when it came from heauen/ beynge with him in the holy mounte.

We haue also a ryght sure worde of prophecie wherunto yf ye take hede/ as vnto a lyght ꝑ shyneth in a darcke place/ye do well/ vntyll the daye dawne and the daye sterre aryse in youre hertes. ✠ So that ye fyrst know this: that no prophecie in the scripture hath eny pryuate interpretacion. ¶ The.ij. Chapter.

THer were false Prophetes amõge the people/ euẽ as ther shalbe false teachers amõge you: which preuely shall bryng in damnable sectes/ euen denyinge the Lorde ẏ hath bought them/ & bringe vpon them selues swyft damnacyon/ and many shall folowe their damnable wayes/ by which the waye of trueth shal be euyll spoken of/ & thorow * coueteousnes shall they wyth fayned wordes make marchandyse of you/ whose iudgemẽt is not farre of/ and their damnacion sleepeth not.

For yf God spared not the angels that synned/ but cast them doune into hell/ and deliuered them into chaynes of derckenes / to be kept vnto iudgement: nether spared the olde worlde/ but saued Noe the eyght preacher of ryghteweines/ and brought in the flud vpon the worlde of the vngodly/ and turned the cyties of Sodom and Gomor into asshes: ouerthrewe them/ damned thẽ / & made on thẽ an ensample vnto all that after shulde lyue vngodly. For he beynge ryghteous and dwellynge amõge them in seynge and hearyng/ vexed his righteous soule from daye to daye with their vnlawfull dedes. The Lorde knoweth how to delyuer the godly oute of temptacion/ & how to reserue the vniuste vnto the daye of iudgemẽt for to be punisshed: namely thẽ ẏ walcke after the flesshe in the lust of vnclennes/ and despyse the rulers. Presumpteous are they/ and stubborne and feare not to speake euyll of them that are in auctorite. But these as brute beastes/ naturally made to betaken and destroyed/ speake euyll/ of that they knowe not/ & shall perysshe through their awne destruccion / & receaue the rewarde of vnryghteweines.

They count it pleasure to lyue delycyously for a season. ¶ The.ij. Chapter.

My lyttell

He that kepeth the cōmaundemētes knoweth God/& he that kepeth thē not knoweth not God.

MY lytell chyldrē/these thinges wryte I vnto you/ that ye synne not: yf eny man synne/yet we haue an aduocate wyth the father/ Iesus Christ/wyych is ryghteous: and he it is that obteyneth grace for oure synnes: not for oure synnes only: but also for the synnes of all the worlde. And herby we are sure that we knowe hym/yf we kepe hys*commaundementes. He that sayth I knowe hym/and kepeth not hys commaundementes is a lyar & the veritye is not in hym. Whosoeuer kepeth his worde/in him is the loue of God parfect in dede. And therby knowe we that we are in him. He that sayth he bydeth in hym/ B ought to walke euen as he walked. ✠

Brethren I wryte no newe cōmaundemēt vnto you: but that olde cōmaundemēt which ye hearde from the beginnynge. The olde cōmaundement is the worde whych ye hearde from the beginnynge. Agayne a newe commaundement I wryte vnto you/ a thynge ẏ is true in him/& also in you: for the derckenes is past/& the true light now shyneth. He that sayth how that he is in the lyght/and yet hateth hys brother/ is in derckenes euen vntyll this tyme. He that loueth hys brother/abydeth in the lyght and ther is none occasion of euyll in hym. He that*hateth hys brother/is in derckenes/ and walketh in derckenes: and cannot tell whyther he goeth/ because that derckenes hath blynded his eyes.

*He ẏ hateth/is in darckenes & knoweth not what Christ hath done for him but he that loueth is in lyght/and woteth what Christ hath done.

Babes I wryte vnto you how that youre synnes are forgeuē you for his names sake. I wryte vntoyou fathers/ how ẏ ye knowe him that was frō the beginnyng. I wryte vnto you younge men/how that ye haue ouercome ẏ wicked. I wryte vnto you lytell chyldren/how that ye knowe the father. I wryte vnto you fathers/ how that ye knowe hym that was from the begynnynge. I wryte vnto you younge men/ how that ye are stronge & the worde of God abideth in you and ye haue ouercome that wycked.

Loue not the worlde/nether ẏ thynges that are in the worlde. If eny man loue the worlde/ the loue of the father is not in hym. For all that is in the worlde (as the lust of the flesche/the lust of the eyes/and the pryde of goodes) is not of the father/ but of the worlde. And ẏ worlde vanyssheth awaye and the lust ther of: but he that fulfylleth the will of God/abydeth euer.

He that loueth the worlde/ loueth not God.

Lytell chyldren it is the last tyme/and as ye haue herde how ẏ *Antichrist shall come euen now are there many Antichristes come allredy. Wherby we knowe that it is ẏ last tyme. They went oute frō vs/but they were not of vs. For yf they had bene of vs/ they wolde no dout/haue continued with vs. But that fortuned that it might appere/that they were not of vs.

Of Antychrist loke in ẏ fourth Chapter folowynge.a.

And ye haue an oyntment of the holy goost & ye knowe all thinges. ✠ I wrote not vnto you/as though ye knewe not the trueth: but as though ye knewe it/and knowe also that no lye commeth of trueth. Who is a lyar but he that denyeth that Iesus is Christ? the same is the Antichrist that denyeth the father & the sonne. Whosoeuer denyeth the sonne/ the same hath not the father. Let therfore abyde in you that same which ye hearde frō the beginnynge. If that which ye hearde frō the beginninge/shal remayne in you/ye also shall contynewe in the sonne/ and in the father. And this is the promes that he hath promysed vs euen eternall lyfe.

This haue I writtē vnto you/cōcerninge them that disceaue you. And the anoyntinge whych ye receaued of hym/dwelleth in you. And ye nede not that eny mā teache you: but as the annoyntynge teacheth you all thinges/ and is true/and is no lye/& as it taught you euen so byde therin. And nowe babes abyde in hym that when he shall appere/ we maye be bolde and not be made a shamed of hym at his commynge: If ye knowe that he is ryghteous/ knowe also that he whych foloweth ryghteweslnes/is borne of hym.

Here ye se that Christ & synne can not dwell to gether/ for Christes spirite fyghteth agaynst synne.

¶ The synguler loue of God toward vs: and how we agayne oughte to loue one another.

¶ The.iij.Chapter.

BEholde what loue the father hath shewed on vs that we shuld be called ẏ sonnes of God. For this cause the worlde knoweth you not/ because it knoweth not hym. Derely beloued/ now are we the sonnes of God/& yet it doth not appere what we shalbe. But we knowe that whē it shall appere/we shalbe lyke him. For we shall se him as he is. And euery man ẏ hath this hope in him/pourgeth him selfe/ euen as he is pure. Whosoeuer committeth synne/committeth vnryghteousnes also/ for synne is*vnryghteousnes. And ye knowe ẏ he appered to take awaye oure synnes/ and in hym is no synne. As many as byde in him synne not: whosoeuer synneth/ hath not sene him/nether hath knowen hym.

B *He that worketh ryghteousnes/is borne of God & taught of hys spirite.

Babes/let no man deceaue you. He that doeth ryghteousnes/is ryghteous/euē as he is ryghteous. He that cōmitteth synne/is of the deuyll: for the deuyll synneth sence ẏ beginnynge. For this purpose appered ẏ sonne of God/to lowse the worckes of the deuyll. Whosoeuer is borne of God/synneth not: for his seed remayneth in him/& he cānot synne/ because he is borne of God. In thys are the childzen of God knowen/and the childzen of the deuyll. Whosoeuer doeth not ryghtewelnes/is not of God/nether he that loueth not hys brother.

Loue is ỹ fyrst precept & cause of all other.

For this is the tidinges/that ye hearde frō the beginninge/ỹ ye shuld loue one another not as Cayn which was of ỹ wicked & slewe his brother. And wherfore slewe he him? Because his awne workes were euyll/and hys brothers good. ✠ Maruayle not my brethrē though the worlde hate you. We knowe ỹ we are translated from*deeth vnto lyfe/because we loue the brethren. He that loueth not hys brother/ abydeth in deeth. Whosoeuer hateth hys brother/is a man slear. And ye knowe that no man slear/ hath eternall lyfe abydynge in hym.

*He ỹ loueth/is escaped deathe. He that loueth not/is in deathe & a murtherar and hath not eternall lyfe.

Herby perceaue we loue: that he gaue his lyfe for vs: & therfore ought we also to geue oure lines for the brethren. Whosoeuer hath this worldes good & seyth hys brother haue neade: & shutteth vp his cōpassion from him: how dwelleth ỹ loue of God in him? My babes/let vs not loue in worde/nether in tōge: but with the dede & in veritie: ✠ for*therby we knowe that we are of the veritie/and can before hym quyet oure hertes. But yf oure hertes cōdēpne vs/God is gretter then oure hertes/& knoweth all thynges. Beloued/yf oure hertes condēpne vs not/ then haue we trust to God warde: & whatsoeuer we aske we shal receaue of him: because we kepe his commaundemētes/& do those thinges which are pleasynge in his syght.

+ He ỹ hath no compassyon loueth not God.

*By loue we knowe ỹ we are in the truthe/ & haue quyet cōsciences to God warde.

And thys is hys cōmaundement/ that we beleue*on ỹ name of his sonne Jesus Christ/ and loue one another/ as he gaue cōmaundement. And he that kepeth hys cōmaundementes/dwelleth in hym/and he in hym: and therby we knowe that ther abydeth in vs of the spyrete which he gaue vs.

*Fayth & loue is the fyrst cōmaundemēt/ & all cōmandementes/ & he ỹ hath them is in God and hath his spirite.

¶ Differēce of spyretes/and howe the spyrete of God maye be knowne frō the spyrete of errour. Of the loue of God and of oure neyghboures.

¶ The.iiij. Chapter.

Beloued/beleue not euery spyrete but proue ỹ spyretes whether they are of God or not/for many false Prophetes are gone out into the worlde. Herby shall ye knowe the spyrete of God. Euery spyrete that confesseth that Jesus Christ is come in the flesshe/is of God. And euery spyrete which confesseth not that Jesus Christ is come in the flesshe/is not of God. And this is ỹ spyrete of a*Antichrist/of whō ye haue hearde/ howe that he shulde come: & euen now alredy is he in the worlde.

They ỹ saye workes iustifye frō synne/ are they that denie Christ to be come in ỹ flesshe.

a* Antichrist sygnifyeth not any particular man/which (as the people dreame) shulde come in the ende

Lytell childzen/ye are of God and haue ouercome them: for greatter is he that is in you/then he that is in ỹ worlde. They are of the worlde/ & therfore speake they of the worlde/ & the worlde heareth thē. We are of God. He ỹ knoweth God/heareth vs: he that is not of God/heareth vs not. Herby knowe we ỹ spyrete of veritie/ & the spyrete of errour.

B of ỹ worlde for ye se ỹ euē in S. Johns tyme he was already come: but all ỹ teache false doctryne cōtrary to the worde of God/ are Antichrist.

Beloued/let vs loue one another: for loue commeth of God. And euery one that loueth is borne of God/and knoweth God. He that loueth not/knoweth not God: ✠ for God is loue. In this appered the loue of God to vsward/because that God sent his only begotten sonne into ỹ worlde/ that we might liue thorow him. Herin is loue/not that we loued God but that he loued vs/and sent his sonne to make agrement for oure synnes.

Beloued/yf God so loued vs/we ought also to loue one another. No man hath sene God at eny tyme. ¶ If we loue one another/ God dwelleth in vs/and his loue is parfect in vs. Herby know we: that we dwell in hym/& he in vs: because he hath geuen vs of his spyrete. And we haue sene and do testifye that the father sent the sonne/which is the saueour of ỹ worlde. Whosoeuer confesseth that Jesus is the sonne of God/in hym dwelleth God/and he in God. And we haue knowē and beleued the loue that God hath to vs.

God is loue/and he that dwelleth in loue/ dwelleth in God/and God in him. Herin is ỹ loue perfect in vs/ that we shuld haue trust in the daye of iudgement: for as he is/euen so are we in thys worlde. Ther is no feare in loue/but parfect loue casteth out all feare/ for feare hath paynfulnes. He that feareth/ is not parfect in loue.

We loue hym/for he loued vs fyrst. If a mā saye/ I loue God/ & yet hate his brother he is a lyar. For how can he that loueth not his brother whō he hath sene/loue God whō he hath not sene? And this commaundemene haue we of hym: that he whych loueth God/ shuld loue his brother also. ✠

He that loueth not his brother loueth not God

¶ To loue God/is to kepe hys commaundementes. Fayth ouercommeth the worlde. Euerlastynge lyfe is in the sonne of God. Of the synne vnto death.

¶ The.v. Chapter.

Whosoeuer beleueth that Jesus is Christ/is borne of God. And euery one that loueth him which begat/ loueth him also whych was begotte of him. In this we knowe that we loue the childzen of God/whē we loue God and kepe his cōmaundemētes. This is the loue of God that we kepe his cōmaundementes/& his cōmaundementes are not greuous. ✠ For all that is borne of God/ouercōmeth ỹ worlde. And this is the victory that ouercōmeth the worlde/euē*oure fayth. Who is it that ouercommeth the worlde: but he whych beleueth that Jesus is the sonne of God.

This

B This Jesus Christ is he that cam by water and bloud/not by water only: but by water and bloud. And it is the spyrete that beareth wytnes/ because the spyrete is trueth.
(For ther are thre which beare recorde in heauen/ the father/ the worde/ & the wholy goost. And these thre are one)
For ther are thre which beare recorde (in erth) the spyrete/ and water/ and bloud: and these thre are one. If we receaue the wytnes of men/ the wytnes of God is greater. For thys is the wytnes of God/ whych he testifyed of hys sonne. He that beleueth on the sonne of God/ hath the wytnes in hym selfe. ☩ He that beleueth not God/ hath made him a lyar/ be-
C cause he beleued not the recorde that God gaue of hys sonne. And thys is that recorde/ how that God hath geuen vnto vs eternall lyfe/ and this lyfe is in hys sonne. He that hath the sonne/ hath lyfe: and he that hath not the sonne of God/ hath not lyfe.

In Christ is the lyfe eternall.

These thynges haue I wrytten vnto you that beleue on the name of the sonne of God that ye maye knowe howe that ye haue eternall lyfe/ and that ye maye beleue on the name of the sonne of God. And thys is the trust that we haue in hym: that yf we aske eny thinge accordynge to hys wyll/ he heareth vs. And yf we knowe that he heare vs whatsoeuer we aske/ we knowe that we shall haue the peticyons that we desyre of hym.

Synne vnto deeth.

If eny man se hys brother synne a synne that is not vnto deeth/ let hym aske/ and he D shall geue hym lyfe for them that synne not vnto deeth. Ther is a synne vnto deeth/ for whych saye I not that a man shuld praye. All vnryghtewesnes is synne/ & ther is sinne not vnto deeth.

He that is borne of God synneth not.

We knowe that whosoeuer is borne of God/ synneth not: but he that is begotten of God kepeth hym selfe/ and that wycked toucheth hym not. We knowe that we are of God/ and that the worlde is all to gether set on wyckednes. We knowe that the sonne of God is come/ and hath geuen vs a mynde to knowe hym whych is true: and we are in him that is true/ through his sonne Jesus Christ. This same is very God/ and eternall lyfe. Babes kepe youre selues fro ymages. Amen.

C The seconde epistle of Saynct John.

The wryteth vnto a certayne lady/ reioyseth that her childre walke in the trueth/ exhorteth them vnto loue/ warneth them to beware of soch disceauers as denye that Jesus Christ came in the flesh/ prayeth them to continue in the doctryne of Christ/ & to haue nothinge to do with them that bringe not this lernynge.

THe elder to the electe lady & her childre which I loue in the trueth: and not I only/ but also all that knowe the trueth/ for the truthes sake
A whych dwelleth in vs/ and shalbe in vs for euer.

With you be grace/ mercye/ and peace frō God the father & frō the Lorde Jesus Christ the sonne of the father/ in trueth and loue.
B I reioyced greatly/ that I founde of thy childre walkinge in trueth/ as we haue receaued a cōmaūdemēt of ye father. And nowe beseche I the lady/ not as though I wrote a newe cōmaundement vnto ye/ but that same which we had frō ye beginnynge/ ye we shuld * Loue is ye first cōmaundemēt.
*loue one another. And this is the loue/ that we shulde walke after hys cōmaundemētes.
C This commaundement is (that as ye haue hearde from the beginnynge) ye shuld walke in it. For many deceauers are entred into the worlde/ which confesse not that Jesus Christ is come in ye flesshe. This is a deceauer & an Antichrist. Loke on youre selues/ ye we loose not that we haue wrought: but that we may haue a full rewarde. Whosoeuer trāsgresseth & bydeth not in the doctryne of Christ/ hath D not God. He that endureth in the doctryne of Christ/ hath bothe the father and the sonne.

If ther come eny vnto you and bringe not this learninge/ him receaue not to house: neither byd him God spede. For he that byddeth him God spede/ is partaker of his euyl dedes. I had many thinge to wryte vnto you/ neuertheles I wolde not wryte wt paper & ynke: but I trust to come vnto you/ & speake wt you mouth to mouth/ that oure ioye maye be full. The sonnes of thy electe sister grete ye: Amē.

The thyrde epistle of saynct John.

The is glad of Gayus/ that he walketh in the trueth: exhorteth them to be louynge vnto the poore Christē in their persecucion/ sheweth the vnkyndedealynge of Diotrephes/ and the good reporte of Demetrius.
A

THe elder vnto the beloued Gayus/ whō I loue in the trueth. Beloued I wisshe in all thynges ye thou prosperedest & faredest well euē as thy soule prospereth. I reioyced greatly when

The Epistle

Bly when the brethren came/ and testify ed of the trueth that is in the/ how thou walkest in trouble. I haue no greater ioye then for to heare howe that my sonnes walke in veritie

Beloued/ thou doest faithfully whatsoeuer thou doest to the brethren/ & to straungers/ which bare witnes of thy loue before all the congregacyon. Which brethren when thou bryngest forwardes of their iorney (as it besemeth God) thou shalt do well: because that for hys names sake they wēt forth/ and toke nothynge of the Gentyls. We therfore ought to receaue soche/ that we also myght be helpers to the trueth.

I wrote vnto the congregacion: but Diotrephes whych loueth to haue the preeminence amonge thē/ receaueth vs not. Wherfore yf I come/ I will declare his dedꝛ which he doeth/ iestynge on vs wyth malicious wordes/ nether is therewyth content. Not only he him selfe receaueth not ỹ brethrē: but also he forbyddeth them that wolde/ and thrusteth them out of the congregacyon.

Beloued/ folowe not that whych is euyll/ but that whych is good. He that doeth well/ is of God: but he that doeth euyll seyth not God. Demetrius hath good reporte of al mē & of the trueth: ye & we oure selues also beare recorde/ & ye knowe ỹ oure recorde is true. I haue many thingꝛ to wryte: but I will not with ynke & penne wryte vnto ỹ. For I trust I shall shortly se ỹ/ & we shall speake mouth to mouth. Peace be with the. The louers salute the. Grete the louers by name.

The Epistle of Saynct Paul vnto the Hebrues.

How God dealt louyngly with them of the olde tyme in sendynge them his Prophetes/ but moch more mercy hath he shewed vs in that he sent vs hys awne sonne. Of the moost excellent glory of Jesus Christ/ which in all thynges is lyke to hys father.

The fyrst Chapter.

God in tyme past dyuerslye & many wayes/ spake vnto the fathers by ỹ Prophetes but in a* these last dayes he hath spoken vnto vs by hys sonne/ whom he hath made heyre of all thinges: by whom also he made ỹ worlde. Which sonne beynge the brightnes of his glory/ & very ymage of hys substance/ bearynge vp all thynges wyth the worde of hys power/ hath in hys awne person purged oure synnes/ & is sytten on the right hande of the maiestye on hye/ and is more excellent then the angels/ in as moche as he hath by inheritaunce obteyned an excellenter name then haue they.

a* Of these laster dayes ye haue. Esai. ỹ. a. Ezec. xxxviii. c.

B Christ hath purged oure synne.

For vnto whych of the angels sayde he at eny tyme: Thou arte my sonne/ this daye begate I the? And agayne: I will be his father/ and he shalbe my sonne. And agayne whē he bringeth in the fyrst begotten sonne into the worlde/ he sayth: And all the angels of God shall worshyppe hym. And of the angels he sayth: He maketh hys angels spyrytes/ & hys ministres flammes of fyre. But vnto ỹ sonne he sayth: God/ thy seate shalbe forever & euer The scepter of thy kyngdome is a ryght scepter. Thou hast loued ryghtewelnes and hated iniquyte. Wherfore God whych is thy God/ hath anoynted the with the oyle of gladnes aboue thy felowes.

Oyle of gladnes is the holy goost.

And thou Lorde in the beginnynge hast layde the foundacyon of the erth. And the heuens are the worckes of thy handes. They shal perysshe/ but thou shalt endure. They all shall wexe olde as doth a garment: and as a vesture shalt thou chaunge them/ and they shalbe chaunged. But thou arte all wayes/ and thy yeres shall not fayle. ¶ Unto which of the angels sayde he at eny tyme: Syt on my ryght hande/ tyll I make thyne enemyes thy fote stole: Are they not all mynistrynge spretes/ sent to minister/ for their sakes which shalbe heyres of saluacyon?

The exhorteth vs to be obedyent vnto the new lawe which Christ hath geuen vs and not to be offended at the infirmyte and lowe degree of Christ/ because it was necessary that for oure sakes he shulde take soch an humble state vpon hym/ that he myght be lyke vnto hys brethren.

The.ij. Chapter.

Therfore we ought to geue ye more hede to the thinges we haue herde lest we perysshe. For yf the worde which was spoken by angels was stedfast: so that euery transgression & disobedience receaued a iust recõpence to rewarde how shall we escape/ yf we despyse so great saluacion/ which at ye fyrst began to be preached of the Lorde hym selfe/ and afterwarde was confermed vnto vs warde/ by them that hearde it/ God bearynge wytnes therto/ bothe with sygnes and wonders also/ and with diuers* myracles/ & giftes of the holy goost accordynge to hys awne will.

If ye despysers of Moses were so greuously punished what shall become of thẽ that make a mocke of christ.

* Miracles are called sygnes because they be a sygne toke & an euydent proffe/ that the thinge ye is preached is Godes worde.

He hath not vnto the angels put in subiection the worlde to come/ wherof we speake. But one in a certayne place wytnesseth/ sayinge. What is man/ that thou arte mynd full of hym? After thou haddest for a season made hym lower then the angels: thou crounedst hym wyth honour and glory/ & hast set him aboue the worckes of thy handes. Thou hast put all thynges in subiection vnder hys fete. In that he put all thinges vnder him/ he left nothynge that is not put vnder him. Neuertheles we yet se not all thinges subdued but him that was made lesse then the angels we se that it was Jesus/ which is crouned wt glory & honour for the sofferynge of death: ye he by the grace of God/ shulde tast of deeth for all men.

For it became him/ for whõ are all thinges and by whõ are all thinges/ after that he had brought many sonnes vnto glory/ ye he shuld make the Lorde of their saluacyon parfecte thorow sofferinge. For he ye sanctifieth/ & they which are sãctifyed/ are al of one. For which cause sake he is not a shamed to call them brethrẽ sayinge: I wil declare thy name vnto my brethren/ & in the myddes of the congregaciõ will I prayse ye. And agayne: I wil put my trust in hym. And agayne: beholde here am I & the childrẽ which God hath geuẽ me.

For as moche then as the chyldren were partetakers of flesshe and bloud/ he also him selfe lykewise toke parte with thẽ/ for to put doune thorow deeth/ him that had lordshippe ouer deeth/ that is to saye the deuyll/ & that he myght delyuer them/ which thorow feare of deeth were all there life tyme in daũger of bondage. For he in no place taketh on hym ye angels: but the seed of Abrahã taketh he on him. Wherfore in al thinges it became him to be made lyke vnto his brethrẽ/ that he might be mercyfull/ and a faythfull hye Preste in thynges concernynge God/ for to pourge ye peoples synnes. For in that he hym selfe suffered and was tempted/ he is able to succker them that are tempted.

The requyreth vs to be obedyent vnto the worde of Christ/ whiche is more worthy then Moses. The punyshement of such as will neues harde theyr hartes.

The.iij. Chapter.

Therfore holy brethren/ partakers of the celestiall callynge/ cõsyder ye embassadour & hye prest of oure professiõ Christ Jesus/ which was faythfull to him that made him/ euen as was Moses in all his house. And yet was this mã counted worthy of more glory then Moses: In as moche as he whych hath prepared the house/ hath most honoure in ye house. Euery house is prepared of some man. But he that ordeyned all thinges/ is God. And Moses be rely was faythfull in all hys house/ as a minister/ to beare witnes of tho thinges whych shuld be spoken afterwarde. But Christ as a sonne/ hath rule ouer ye house/ whose house are we/ so that we holde fast the confydence & the reioysynge of that hope/ vnto the ende.

Wherfore as the holy goost sayth: to daye yf ye shall heare his voyce/ harden not youre hertes/ after the rebellion in the daye of tẽptaciõ in the wyldernes/ where youre fathers tẽpted me/ proued me/ & sawe my worckes. xl. yeare longe. Wherfore I was greued with ye generacyon & sayde. They erre euer in their hertes: they verely haue not knowẽ my wayes so that I sware in my wrathe/ that they shuld not enter into my rest. Take hede brethren/ ye therbe in none of you an euyll herte in vnbelefe/ that he shuld departe frõ the lyuynge God: but exhorte one another dayly/ whyll it is called to daye/ lest eny of you were hard herted thorow the deceytfulnesse of synne.

We are partetakers of Christ yf we kepe fyrst substaunce vnto the ende the* fyrst substãce/ so lõge as it is sayd: to daye yf ye heare hys voyce/ harden not youre hertes/ as whẽ ye rebelled. For some/ when they hearde rebelled: how be it not all that came out of Egypt vnder Moses. But

les. But wyth whom was he displeased.xl yeares? Was he not displeased wyth them ꝑ synned whose carkases were ouer thowē in the desert? To whō sware he that they shuld not enter into his rest: but vnto them that beleued not? And we se that they coulde not enter in/because of vnbelefe.

¶ The Sabboth or rest of the Christen: punyshement of vnbeleuers: the nature of the worde of God.

¶ The.iiij. Chapter.

A LEt vs feare therfore lest eny of vs forsakinge the promes of entringe into hys rest/shulde seme to come behynde. For vnto vs was it declared/as well as vnto thē. But it profyted not thē that they hearde the worde/because they which hearde it/ coupled it not with* fayth. But we whych haue beleued/ do enter into his rest/as cōtrary wyse he sayde to the other I haue sworne in my wrath/they shall not enter into my rest. And that spake he verely longe after that the workes were made and the foundacīo of ꝑ worlde layde. For he spake in a certayne place of the seuenth daye/ on B this wyse: And God dyd rest ꝑ seuēth daye frō all hys workes. And in thys place agayne: They shall not come into my rest.

Seynge therfore it foloweth ꝑ some must enter therinto/ & they to whom it was fyrst preached/ entred not therin for vnbeleues sake. Agayne he apoynted in Dauid a certayne present daye after so longe a tyme/ sayinge as it is rehearsed: this daye yf ye hear his voyce/ be not hard herted. For yf Iosue had geuē them rest/then wolde he not afterwarde haue spoken of another daye. There remayneth therfore yet a rest to the people of God. For he ꝑ is entred into his rest/doth* cease frō hys awne workes as God dyd frō hys. Let vs study therfore to entre into ꝑ rest/ lest eny mā faule after the same ensample/ into vnbeleue. For the worde of God is quycke/ D & mighty in operacion/and sharper then eny two edge swearde: & entreth through/euē vnto the diuidinge a sonder of the soule and the spyrete/& of the ioyntes & the mary: & iudgeth the thoughtes & the intentes of the herte: neither is ther eny creature inuisyble in ꝑ syght of him. For all thinges are naked & bare vnto the eyes of hym/of whom we speake.

*As fayth is ꝑ grounde of all grace: euen so is vnbelefe the rote of al synne.

*Synne is oure worke/from which all must cease that enter into the rest of a quiet conscience in Christ.

¶ Christ is oure hye preste/ and seate of grace/& more excellent then the hye prestes of the olde lawe.

¶ The.v. Chapter.

A SEynge then that we haue a great hye prest which is entred into heauē (I meane Iesus ꝑ sonne of God) let vs holde oure professiō. For we haue not an hye prest/which cā not haue cōpassyon on oure infyrmities: but was in all poyntes tēpted/lyke as we are: but yet with out synne. Let vs therfore go boldely vnto ꝑ seate of grace/that we maye receaue mercy/ and fynde grace to helpe in tyme of nede.

✝ For euery hye prest that is taken from amōge men is ordeyned for men/in thinges pertayninge to God: to offer gyftes & sacrifices for synne: which can haue cōpassion on ꝑ ignoraunt/ and on them that are out of the waye/because that he hym selfe also is compased with infirmitie: for the which infirmities sake he is bounde to offer for synnes/as well for his awne parte/as for the peoples. And no man taketh honour vnto hym selfe/ B but he that is called of God/as was Aaron.

Euē so lykewise/Christ glorified not him selfe/to be made the hye prest: but he ꝑ sayde vnto hym: thou arte my sonne/thys daye begat I ꝑ/glorified him. As he also in another place speaketh: thou arte a Prest for euer after ꝑ order of Melchisedech. ¶ Which a*in ꝑ dayes of his flesshe/dyd offer vp prayers and supplicacīos/with stronge cryinge & teares vnto him that was able to saue him frō deeth and was also hearde/ because of hys Godlynes. And though he were Goddes sonne/ yet learned he obedīece/ by tho thinges which he suffered/& was made parfaycte/& the cause of eternall saluacīo vnto all them that obey him: and is called of God an hye Prest/after the order of Melchisedech. a * The dayes of hys fleashe sygnyfye/ ꝑ tyme of hys humanytie.

Wherof we haue many thinges to saye/ D which are harde to be vttered: because ye are dull of hearinge. For when as concerninge ꝑ tyme/ye ought to be teachers/yet haue ye nede agayne that we teache you the fyrst prynciples of the worde of God: and are become soche as haue nede of b*mylke/& not of strōge meate: for euery man that is feed wt mylke/is inexperte in ꝑ worde of ryghteousnes. For he is but a babe. But stronge meate belongeth to thē ꝑ are parfecte whych thorow custome haue their wytnes exercised/to iudge both good and euyll also.

¶ He goeth forth with the thynge that he began in the latter ende of the fyfte chapter/and exhorteth thē not to faynt/but to be stedfast and pacyent: for so moch as God is sure in his promesse.

¶ The.vj. Chapter.

THerfore let vs loue ꝑ doctryne pertaynynge to the begynnynge of a Christē man/& let vs go vnto perfecciō/& now no more laye ꝑ foundacīo of repentaūce frō deed workes/and of fayth towarde God/of baptyme/of doctrine & of layinge on of handes/& of resurreccion frō deeth & of eternall iudgemēt. And so wyll we do/yf God permitte. a*For it is not possyble ꝑ they which were once lyghted/& haue tasted of the heauēly gyft/and were become partetakers of the holy goost/& haue tasted of the a * For it is not possyble ꝑ: they which were once lyghted &c. This texte denyeth no possybilite of mercy in God/but the impossyby-lyte of repen-taunce in soche men as malici-ously forsake ꝑ trueth/blaspheme Christ/and take parte agaynst the holy goost. For ꝑ trueth is/that with the Lorde there is mercy & plenteous re-dempcion. Psal.c.xxix so that whosoe-uer calleth vpō his name/shal-be saued. Joe.ij. Roma.x. Now they that forsa-ke the trueth/ blaspheme-pynge Christ/and ta-kynge parte a-gaynst the holy goost/cā not re-pente: for ꝑ sin-ners wolde con-uerte/and call vpon God/ they shulde be sure of re-myssyon.

of the good worde of God/and of the power of the worlde to come: ꝑ they faule/shulde be renued agayne vnto repentaunce: for as moche as they haue(as concernynge thē selues(crucified the sonne of God a fresshe ma-kynge a mocke of hym.

For that erth which drinketh in the rayne B that cōmeth ofte vpon it/and bringeth forth erbes mete for them that dresse it/receaueth blessinge of God. But ꝑ grounde which bea-reth thornes & bryars/is reproued/ & is nye vnto cursynge: whose ende is to be burned.

Neuertheles deare frendes we trust to se C better of you/& thinges which accōpany sal-uacion/though we thus speake. For God is not vnrighteous that he shulde forget youre worke and laboure that procedeth of loue/ which loue ye shewed in his name/which ha-ue ministred vnto the saynctes/ and yet mi-nister. Yee/& we desyre that euery one of you shew the same diligence/to the stablisshinge of hope/euen vnto the ende: that ye faint not but folowe them/whych thorow fayth & pa-cience inheret the promyses.

For when God made promes to Abraham because he had no greater thynge to sweare by/he sware by him selfe/sayinge: Surely I will blesse the & multiplie the in dede. And so after ꝑ he had taried a lōge tyme/he enioyed the promes. Men verely sweare by him that is greater then them selues/& an othe to con-fyrminge the thynge is amōge them an ende of all stryfe. So God willinge very aboun-dantly to shewe vnto the heyres of promes/ the stablenes of his coūsayl/he added an othe that by two* immutable thinges(in which it was vnpossible that God shuld lye)we might haue perfecte cōsolaciō/which haue fled/ for to holde fast the hope that is set before vs/ which hope we haue as an ancre of the soule both sure and stedfast. Whych hope also en-treth in/into tho thynges which are wyth in the vayle/whither ꝑ forerunner is for vs en-tred in/ I meane Jesus that is made an hye prest for euer/after ꝑ order of Melchisedech.

*Two immu-table thynges: the promyse & the othe.

The compareth the presthode of Christ vnto Melchi sedech/but to be farre more excellent.

The.vij.Chapter.

A THis Melchisedech kynge of Sa-lem(which beynge prest of ꝑ most hye God/ met Abraham/as he re-turned agayne from the slaughter of the kynges and blessed hym: to whom also Abraham gaue tythes of all thynges) fyrst is by interpretacion kynge of ryghtewesnes: after that he is kynge of Salem/that is to saye/kynge of peace: wyth out father wyth out mother/with out kinne/and hath nether begynnynge of hys tyme/nether yet ende of his lyfe: but is likened vnto the sonne of God and contynueth a prest for euer. Consyder what a man this was vnto whō ꝑ Patriarke Abraham gaue tythes of the spoyles. And ve-rely thole childzen of Leuy/which receaue ꝑ offyce of the prestes/haue a cōmaundement to take accordinge to the lawe/tythes of the people/ that is to saye/of their brethren/yee though they spronge out of the loynes of Abraham. But he whose kynred is not coun-ted amonge them receaued tythes of Abrahā and blessed hym that had the promyses. And with out all naye sayinge/he whych is lesse/ B receaueth blessynge of him which is greater And here men that dye/receaue tythes. But there he receaueth tythes of whom it is wit-nessed/that he liueth. And to saye the trueth/ Leuy him selfe also which receaueth tythes/ payed tythes in Abraham. For he was yet in the loynes of his father Abraham whē Mel-chisedech met him.

If now therfore perfeccion came by the presthod of the Leuites(for vnder that prest-hod the people receaued ꝑ lawe) what neded it further more that another prest shuld ryse/ after the order of Melchisedech/& not after the order of Aaron? Now no dout/yf ꝑ prest-hod be translated/then of necessytie must the lawe be translated also.

For he of whom these thinges are spoken pertayneth vnto another trybe/of whych ne-uer man serued at the aultre. For it is euidēt that oure Lorde sprōge of ꝑ tribe of Juda/of whych trybe spake Moses nothinge concer-C ninge presthod. And it is yet a more euydent thinge/yf after ꝑ similitude of Melchisedech ther aryse another prest/whych is not made after the lawe of the carnall cōmaundement: but after the power of the endlesse lyfe. (For he testifyeth: thou arte a prest for euer/after the order of Melchisedech) Then the cōmaū-demēt that wēt a fore/is disanulled/because of hyr weaknes and vnprofytablenes. For the lawe made nothynge parfecte: but was an introduccyon of a better hope/by whych hope/we drawe nye vnto God.

And for this cause it is a better hope/that it was not promised with out an othe. Those prestes were made without an othe/but this prest wyth an othe/by hym that sayde vnto hym. The Lorde sware/and wyll not repent: Thou arte a prest for euer after the order of Melchisedech. And for that cause was Jesus a stabylsher of a better testament.

And amonge them many were made pre-stes/because they were not suffred to endure D by the reason of deeth. But this mā/because he endureth euer hath an euerlastynge prest hod. Wherfore he is able also euer to saue them that come vnto God by him/seynge he euer lyueth/to make intercessyon for vs.

Soche

Soche an hye Prest it became vs to haue which is holy/ harmlesse / vndefiled/ separat from synners/ and made hyer then heauen. Which nedeth not dayly (as yonder hye prestes) to offer vp sacrifyce/ fyrst for hys awne synnes/ and then for the peoples synnes. For that dyd he at once for all/ whē he offered vp him selfe. For the lawe maketh men prestes/ whych haue infirmitie: but the worde of the othe that came sence the lawe/ maketh the sonne prest/ which is parfecte for euermore.

Christ once sacrificed purged all synnes.

¶ The office of Christ is more worthy then ỹ prestes office of the olde lawe/ whyche was vnperfecte/ and therfore abrogate.

¶ The.viij. Chapter.

A Of the thinges which we haue spokē this is the pyth: ỹ we haue soche an hye preste ỹ is sytten on ỹ ryght hāde of ỹ seate of maiestie in heauē & is a minister of holy thinges/ & of the very tabernacle which God pyght/ and not man. For euery hye prest is ordeyned to offer gyftes and sacrifices: wherfore it is of necessitie that thys man haue some what also to offer. For he were not a preste/ yf he were on the erth where are prestes that accordinge to the lawe offer gyftes/ which prestes serue vnto ỹ ensample and shadowe of heauenly thinges: euen as the answer of God was geuen vnto Moses when he was about to fynysshe the tabernacle. Take hede (sayde he) that thou B make all thinges accordynge to the patrone shewed to the in the mount.

Now hath he obtayned a more excellent office/ in as moche as he is the mediator of a better testamēt/ whych was made for better promyses. For yf that fyrst testamēt had bene fautelesse: then shulde no place haue bene sought for the seconde. For in rebukinge thē he sayth: Beholde the dayes will come (sayth the Lorde) and I will fynysshe vpō the house of Israel/ and vpon the house of Juda/ a newe testament: not lyke the testament that I made wyth their fathers at that tyme/ when I toke them by the handes/ to lede them oute of the lande of Egypte/ for they contynued not in my testament/ and I regarded thē not sayth the Lorde.

For this is the testament that I will make wyth the house of Israel: After those dayes sayth the Lord: I will put my lawes in their myndes/ and in their hertes I will write thē/ and I wylbe their God/ and they shalbe my D people. And they shall not teache/ euery mā his neyghboure/ and euery mā hys brother/ sayinge: knowe ỹ Lord: for they shall knowe me/ from the lest to the moste of them: For I wilbe mercifull ouer their vnrighteweines/ & on their synnes and on their iniquities. In ỹ he sayth a new testament/ he hath abrogat the olde. Now that which is dysanulled and wexed olde/ is redy to vanysshe awaye.

¶ The profyte and worthynesse of the olde Testamēt and how farre the new excelleth it.

¶ The.ix. Chapter.

That fyrst tabernacle verely had ordinaūces/ & seruinges of God/ and worldy holynes. For ther was a fore tabernacle made/ wherin was the candelsticke & ỹ table/ & the shewe breed which is called holy. But with in ỹ seconde vayle was ther a tabernacle/ which is called holyest of all/ whych had the golden censer & the arcke of the testament ouerlayde round about with golde/ wherin was the goldē pot with Manna/ and Aarons rodde that sprōge B and the tables of the testamēt. Ouer ỹ arcke were the Cherubis of glory shadowynge the seate of grace. Of which thinges we wil not now speake particularly.

When these thinges were thus ordeyned/ the Prestes went all wayes into the fyrst tabernacle & executed the seruice of God. But into the seconde wēt the hye prest alone/ once euery yeare: and not wyth out bloud/ whych he offered for him selfe/ & for the ignorance of the people. Wherwith the holy goost thys C signifyed that the waye of holy thinges/ was not yet opened/ whyll as yet the fyrst tabernacle was standynge. Whych was a symilitude for the tyme then present/ and in whych were offered gyftes & sacrifyces that coulde not make the mynyster parfecte/ as pertayninge to the conscyence wyth only meates & drinckes/ & diuers washinges & iustifyings of the flesshe/ whych were ordeyned vntyll ỹ tyme of reformacyon.

But Christ beinge an hye Prest of good thinges to come/ came by a greater & a moare parfecte tabernacle/ not made wᵗ handes: that is to saye/ not of thys maner byldynge/ nether by the bloud of gotes & calues: but by D his awne bloud he entred in once for all into the holy place/ & founde eternal redemciō. For yf the bloud of oxen and of gotes and the asshes of an heyfer/ whyen it was sprynckled/ purified the vnclene/ as touchynge the purifyinge of the flesshe: how moche moare shall the bloud of Christ (which thorow ỹ eternall spryte/ offered him selfe without spot to God) pourge youre consciences from deed workes for to serue the liuinge God?

And for this cause is he the mediator of the newe testamēt/ ỹ thorow deeth which chaūsed for the redempciō of those transgressyons that were in the fyrst testament/ they whych were called/ myght receaue the promes of eternall inheritaunce. For whersoeuer is E a testament/ ther must also be the deeth of him that maketh the testament. For the testament stament taketh auctoritie whē men are deed: for it is of no value as longe as he that made it/is a liue. For whych cause also/nether ẏ fyrst testamēt was ordeyned with out bloud. For whē all the cōmaundemētes were redde of Moses to al the people/he toke the bloud of calues and of gotes/with water & purple woolle & ysope/ & sprynckled both the boke/ F & all the people/ saying:*this is the bloud of the testament whych God hath appoynted vnto you. Moreouer/he sprenckled the tabernacle with bloud also/ & all ẏ ministringe vessels. And also almost all thynges/are by the lawe pourged wyth bloud/and with out sheadinge of bloud is no remissyon.

Exod.xxiv.c and.xviij.c.

It is then nede that the similitudes of heauenly thynges be purifyed wyth soche thinges:but the heauenly thynges thē selues are purifyed w̄ better sacrifyces then are those. For Christ is not entred into the holy places that are made with handes/which are but symilitudes of true thinges:but is entred into very heauē/for to appere now in the sight of G God for vs:not to offer hym selfe oftē/as the hye prest entreth into ẏ holy place euery yeare with straūge bloud/for then must he haue often suffered sence the worlde began. But now in the ende of ẏ worlde/hath he appered once/to put synne to flyght/by the offerynge vp of hym selfe: And as it is apoynted vnto mē that they shall once dye/and then cōmeth the iudgemēt/*euen so Christ was once offered to take awaye the synnes of many/& vnto them that loke for hym / shall he appeare agayne without synne vnto saluacyon.

Roma.v.b. 1.Petr.iij.d.

¶ The olde lawe had no power to clense awaye synne but Christe dyd it with offerynge of his body once for all. An exhortacyon to receaue this goodnesse of God thankfully with pacience and stedfast fayth.

¶ The.x.Chapter.

For the lawe which hath but ẏ shadowe of good thynges to come/& not ẏ thinges in their awne fassion can neuer with ẏ sacrifices which they offer yeare by yeare cōtinually/make ẏ cōmers therūto parfayte. For wold not then those sacrifyces haue ceased to haue bene offered/because that the offerers once pourged shuld haue had no moare consciences of synnes. Neuertheless in those sacrifyces is ther mencyon made of synnes euery yeare. *For it is vnpossyble that the bloud of oxen and of gotes shuld take awaye synnes.

Leuit.xvi.c.

Wherfore whē he cōmeth into the worlde/ he sayth.* Sacrifyce & offerynge thou woldest not haue:but a bodie hast thou ordeyned me. In sacrifyces and synneofferynges thou hast no lust. Then I sayde: Lo I come/in the chefest of the boke it is writtē of me/that I shuld do thy will/o God. Aboue/when he had sayed sacrifyce and offerynge/ & burnt sacrifyces and synneofferynges thou woldest not haue/nether hast alowed(which yet are offered by the lawe)and then sayde: Lo I come to do thy will/o God: he taketh awaye the fyrst to stablische the latter. By ẏ which will/we are sanctifyed:by the offeringe of the body of Iesu Christe once for all.

Christes bodye is but onec offered.

And euery prest is redy dayly ministringe/ C & ofte tymes offereth one maner of offeringe which can neuer take awaye synnes. But thys mā after he had offered one sacrifyce for synnes/ sat hym doune for euer on the ryght hande of God/and from hence forth taryeth tyll his foes be made his fotestole. For wyth one offeringe hath he made parfecte for euer thē that are sanctifyed. And the holy goost also beareth vs recorde of thys/ euen when he tolde before: This is the testamēt that I will make vnto them:after those dayes sayth the Lorde. I will put my lawes in their hertes & in their mynde I wyll wryte them/and their synnes and iniquities wyll I remember no moare. And where remission of these thinges is/ther is no moare offeringe for synne.

Seynge brethrē that by the meanes of the D bloud of Iesu/we maye be bolde to enter into that holy place / by the newe and lyuinge waye which he hath prepared for vs/through the vayle/that is to saye/by hys flesshe. And seynge also that we haue an hye prest which is ruler ouer the house of God/let vs drawe nye with a true herte in a full fayth/sprincked in oure hertes from an euyll cōscience/& washed in oure bodyes wyth pure water: & let vs kepe the profession of oure hope/without wauerynge (for he is faythfull that promised) & let vs cōsider one another/to prouoke vnto loue/& to good workes: & let vs not forsake the felischippe that we haue amonge oure selues/as ẏ maner of some is:but let vs exhorte one another/& that so moche the more/because ye se that the daye draweth nye.

a *For yf we synne wyllingly after that we haue receaued the knowledge of the trueth/ ther remayneth no moare sacrifice for synne but a fearfull lokinge for iudgemēt/& violēt fyre/which shall deuoure ẏ aduersaries. *He that despyseth Moses lawe/dyeth wyth out mercy vnder two or thre witnesses. Of how moche sorer punyshment suppose ye shall he be counted worthy/which treadeth vnder fote the sonne of God:and counteth the bloude of the testament as an vnholy thynge wherwyth he was sanctified/and doth dishonoure to the spryte of grace. For we knowe hym that hath sayde:vengeaunce belongeth vnto me/I will recompence sayth the Lorde. And agayne: the Lorde shall iudge hys people.

a *For yf we synne &c. This is the synne wherof is spoke. Math.xij.c that is the synne of blasphemie against the holy ghooste which. S. Johan calleth the synne vnto deeth.i.Joh.v.d.

¶ The .xij. Chapter.

A Wherfore let vs also (seyng that we are cõpased with so great a multitude of witnesses) laye awaye al ỹ presseth doune/ & the synne that hãgeth on/ & let vs runne with pacience vnto ỹ battayle that is set before vs/ lokynge vnto Jesus the auctor & fynisscher of oure fayth/ which for the ioye that was set before hym/ abode the crosse/ & despised the shame/ & is set doune on the right hande of the trone of God. Consyder therfore how that he endured suche spekynge agaynst hym of synners/ lest ye shulde be weryed & faynte in youre myndes.

B For ye haue not yet resysted vnto bloudshedinge/ striuinge agaynst synne. And haue forgotte ỹ consolacio/ which speaketh vnto you as vnto childre: my sonne despyse not ỹ chastenynge of the Lorde/ nether faynt when thou arte rebuked of him: for whom the Lorde loueth/ him he* chastneth: yee/ & he scourgeth euery sonne that he receaueth.

* If anye loueth lawe of God & be chastised of God/ it is a cõfort. Forthorby he is sure that God loueth him & hath chosen hym to hys sonnes heyre of euerlastinge lyfe.

If ye endure chastenynge/ God offereth hym selfe vnto you as vnto sonnes. What sonne is that whõ the father chasteneth not? If ye be not vnder correccio (where of all are parttakers) then are ye bastardes & not sonnes. Moreouer seyng we had fathers of oure flesshe which corrected vs/ and we gaue thẽ reuerence: shulde we not moche rather be in C subiecciõ vnto the father of spretuall gyftes that we myght lyue? And they verely for a feawe dayes/ nurtred vs after their awne pleasure: but he learneth vs vnto that which is profitable/ that we myght receaue of hys holynes. No manner chastisynge for the present tyme semeth to be ioyeous/ but greueous: neuertheles afterwarde/ it bringeth the quyet frute of ryghtewesnes/ vnto them which are therin exercysed.

Stretch forthe therfore agayne the handes D which were let doune/ & the weake knees & se ỹ ye haue straycht steppes vnto your fete/ lest eny haltinge turne you out of the waye: yee let it rather be healed. Embrace peace w̃ all men & holynes: with out the which no mã shall se the Lorde. And loke to/ that no man be destitute of ỹ grace of God/ & that no rote of bitternes sprynge vp & trouble/ and therby many be defyled: and that ther be no fornicator/ or vnclene person/ as Esau/ which for one breakfast solde his byrthryght. *a Ye knowe how that afterwarde whẽ he wolde haue inhereted the blessynge/ he was put by/ and he founde no meanes to come therby agayne: no though he desyred it with teares.

*For ye are not come vnto the mounte that can be touched/ and vnto burnynge fyre nor yet to myst and darcknes and tempest of wedder/ nether vnto the sounde of a trompe & the voyce of wordes: which voyce they that harde it/ wished awaye: that the communicacyon shuld not be spoken to thẽ. For they were not able to abyde that whych was spoken. If a beast had touched ỹ moũtayne/ it must haue bene stoned/ or thrust thorowe w̃ a darte: euẽ so terreble was ỹ syght which appered. Moses sayde/ I feare & quake. But ye are come vnto the mounte Syon/ & to the citie of the liuinge God/ the celestiall Jerusalem: and to an innumerable syght of angels & vnto the congregacio of ỹ fyrst borne sonnes/ which are writtẽ in heuẽ/ and to God the iudge of all/ and to the spretes of iust & parfecte men and to Jesus the mediator of the newe testament/ and to the sprynchlynge of bloud that speaketh better then the bloud of Abel.

James

IAmes the seruaunt of God and of the Lorde Jesus Christ / sendeth gretynge to the.xij. trybes whych are scatered here and there. ✣ My brethren / count it excedynge ioye when ye faule into dyuers temptacions for as moche as ye knowe how that ỹ trying of youre fayth bringeth pacience: and let pacience haue her parfect worke / that ye maye be parfecte & *sounde / lackynge nothinge.

a *Sounde after ỹ Hebrues signifieth him which in lewig the wildome of the chyldren of thys worlde / & the procuryng for hys awne profet / lyueth a symple life and without blame. Soche a one was Jacob of whō Genes. xxv. d.

If eny of you lacke wysdome / let him aske of God whych geueth to all men indifferently / and casteth no man in the teeth: and it shalbe geuen hym. But let hym aske in fayth and wauer not. For he that douteth / is lyke the waues of the see / tost of the wynde and caryed with violence. Nether let that mā thinke that he shall receaue eny thinge of the Lorde. A wauerynge mynded man is vnstable in all his wayes.

b *Let the brother of lowe degre reioyce in that he is exalted / and the ryche in that he is made lowe. For euen as the flower of the grasse / shall he vanysshe awaye. The sonne ryseth wyth heate / and the grasse wydereth / and hys flower falleth awaye / and the beautie of the fassyon of it perisheth: euen so shal the ryche man perisshe with his aboundāce.

b *In christ we are all like good & euen seruauntes one to other for Christes sake / euery mā in his office. And he that taketh more on hym then that / of what soeuer degre he be of / is a false christen and an apostata from Christ.

Happy is the man that endureth in temptacyon / for when he is tryed / he shall receaue the croune of lyfe / which the Lorde hath promysed to them that loue him. ✣

Let no man saye when he is tempted / that he is tempted of God. For c *God tēpteth not vnto euell / nether tempteth he anye man. But euery man is tempted / drawne awaye / and entysed of hys awne concupyscence. Then when lust hath conceaued / she bryngeth forth synne / and synne when it is fynished / bringeth forth deeth.

c *God tempteth not vnto euell. Almighty God hath euer tempted & proued hys electe / by trouble and persecucyon / & by nurtryng thē wyth outwarde plages: neuertheles he doth it not vnto euell / but for good / namely: because he loueth thē / & will haue their fayth exercysed. Thus tēpted he Abrahā. Gene. xxij. And the Israelites. Deu. viij. As for the tentacion that we praye in the Pater noster to be delyuered frō / it is the lust & concupyscence of oure flesshe / wherbywe are entysed vnto euell.

Erre not my deare brethrē. ✣ Euery good gyfte / and euery parfayt gyft / is from aboue and commeth doune from the father of lyght wyth whom is no variablenes / nether is he chaunged vnto darcknes. Of his awne wyll begat he vs wyth the worde of lyfe / that we shuld be the fyrst frutes of his creatures.

Wherfore deare brethren / let euery man be swyfte to heare / slowe to speake / and slowe to wrath. For the wrath of man worketh not that which is ryghteous before God.

Wherfore laye a parte all fylthynes / all superfluyte of malycyousnes / and receaue wyth meknes / the worde that is grafted in you / whych is able to saue youre soules. ✣

✣ And be ye doars of the worde and not hearers only / deceauynge youre awne selues wyth sophistrye. For yf eny heare the worde / and do it not / he is lyke vnto a man that beholdeth hys bodyly face in a glasse. For assone as he hath loked on hym selfe / he goeth his waye / and forgetteth immediatlye what his fassyon was. But who so loketh in the parfayt lawe of libertye / and continueth ther in (yt he be not a forgetfull hearer / but a doar of the worke) the same shalbe happye in hys dede.

If eny man amonge you seme deuoute / and refrayne not hys tonge: but deceaue his awne herte / this mānes deuocīō is in vayne. Pure deuocyon and vndefyled before God ỹ father / is this: to vysyt the faderlesse and widdowes in their aduersyte / and to kepe hym selfe vnspotted of the worlde. ✣

The forbyddeth to haue eny respecte of persones / but to regarde the poore as well as the ryche / to be louynge and mercyfull / and not to boast of fayth where no dedes are: for it is but a dead fayth / where good workes folowe not.

The. ij. Chapter. ✣

BRethrē haue not the fayth of oure Lorde Jesus Christ ỹ Lorde of glory in respecte of persons. If ther come into youre cōpany a mā with a golde rynge & in goodly aparell / & ther come in also a poore mā in vyle raymēt / & ye haue a respecte to him that weareth the gaye clothynge / and saye vnto him. Syt thou here in a good place: and saye vnto the poore / stande thou there or syt here vnder my fote stole: are ye not parciall in youre selues / and haue iudged after euyll thoughtes?

Harken my deare beloued brethren. Hath not God chosen ỹ poore of this worlde / which are ryche in fayth / & heyres of the kingdome whych he promysed to them that loue hym? But ye haue despysed the poore. Are not the rych they which oppresse you / & they which drawe you before iudges? Do not they speake euil of ỹ good name after which ye be named

If ye fulfyll the royall lawe accordynge to the scripture which saith. Thou shalt loue thine neighboure as thy selfe / ye do well. But yf ye regarde one person more then another / ye cōmyt synne / & are rebuked of ỹ lawe / as trāsgressours. Whosoeuer shal kepe ỹ whole lawe / & yet fayle in one poynt / he is gylty in all. For he that sayd. Thou shalt not commyt adulterye / sayed also: thou shalt not kyll. Though thou do none adulterye yet yf thou kyll / thou arte a trāsgressor of the lawe. So speake ye / & so do / as they that shalbe iudged by the lawe of libertye. For ther shalbe iudgement merciles to him ỹ sheweth no mercy / & mercy reioyceth agaynst iudgement. ✣

b * To be iustifyed here & all thys Chapter other/is/to be declared Just/& ỹ before ỹ world/as in Luke ỹ.x.c And.xvi.d. not to be made iust in syght of god So that when he sayth/was not Abrahā our father iustified thorow workes &c. signifyeth thus moche:was not our father Abrahā by his workes declared iust/that is/dyd not his workes declare & shewe that he was iust/and were suer tokens of his rightwesnes? It signifyeth not/ỹ Abrahā was by his workes made iust before god/reputed rightwes/obtayned remissyō of synnes/for by fayth he cā thertly not by workes/as witnesseth. S. Paul. Roma.iiij.a.

c * Ye se then that of deades a man is iustifyed &c.that is/is declared iust/is openly knowen to be ryghtwes:lyke as by the frutes the good tree is knowen for good. Otherwyse maye not this sentence be interpreted. For ther coulde nothing be moare folysshe than this saying of James/yf a man wolde thus interprete it:that no man obtayneth remyssyon of synnes/but because his workes are worthye of so great a benefyte. This interpretacyon who so stycketh forwardly by/vnderstandeth not what remissyon of synnes is/or how the cōscience ought to be cōforted whē it seyth that it byngeth no workes to God which are sufficient to please hym. And this interpretacyon is cleane cōtrary to other open sayinges of the scripture/which teache that remissyon of synnes cōmeth freely.as the Psalmist sayth. I sayde/I wyll knowledge myne offence and accuse my selfe vnto the Lorde/and thou forgauest me the wyckednesse of my synne. And Rom.iiij.a. To hym that worcketh not/but beleueth on him that iustifieth the vngodly &c. what can be moare playnely spoken/than that synnes are forgeuen to a wycked & vngodly man that worcketh not/that is/not for any of his workes but freely. To conclude/yf the Gospell forgeue not synnes/but for oure good workes sakes & for oure worthynes:it differyth nothing from the lawe/it sayeth no moare then the lawe. Thys I trust wyll suffyse the good and wyse. For as touching them that bryng nothyng vnto this cause but a wyll to braule and chyde/wyll neuer suffre them selues to be satisfyed. And yet yf we wolde contend by the stumbre of Authorities/this one place of James is ouerthrowen with many witnesses of Paul/yf men wyll vnderstande by iustifycacyon all one thyng in them both. Therfore when Paul sayth/fayth iustifyeth:vnderstande therby/fayth causeth ỹ we be cōpted Just/reputed ryghtwes/and that oure synnes are not imputed vnto vs/but forgeue vs for Christes sake. When James sayth/workes iustifye/he meaneth thus/workes declare vs iust and shewe cupdently that we are ryghtwes. Thus shalt thou make them accorde. Place fayleth me here (O reader) rather then tyme or wyll/or elles wolde I yet haue spoken moare of thys thyng.

Wilt thou vnderstande O thou vayne mā that fayth with out ded is deed? * Was not Abrahā oure father iustified thorow workes whē he offered Isaac his sonne vpon the aulter? Thou seyst how ỹ fayth wrought wyth his dedes/& thrrough the dedes was the fayth made parfecte:& the scripture was fulfylled wyych sayth: Abrahā beleued God/& it was reputed vnto hym for ryghtewesnes: and he was called the frende of God. ✠ c * Ye se then how that of dedes a mā is iustifyed/ and not of fayth only. C The.iij.Chapter.

My brethrē/be not euery mā a*master/remēbringe how that we shal receaue the more dānacion:for in many thinges we synne all. If a man synne not in worde/ ỹ same is a perfecte man/& able to tame al the body. Beholde we put bittes into the horses mouthes that they shuld obeye vs/& we turne aboute all the body. Euen so the tonge is a lyttell member/and bosteth great thynges.

Beholde how gret a thynge a lyttell fyre kyndleth/and the tonge is fyre/and a worlde of wyckednes. So is the tonge set amonge oure membres/that it defyleth the whole body/& setteth a fyre al that we haue of nature and is it selfe set a fyre euen of hell.

All the natures of beastes/and of byrdes/ and of serpentes/& thinges of the see are mesed and tamed of the nature of man. But the tōge can no mā tame. It is an vnruely euyll full of deedly poyson. Therwyth blesse we God the father/and therwyth curse we men which are made after the symilitude of God. Out of one mouth proceadeth blessinge and cursynge. My brethren these thinges ought not so to be. Doth a fountayne sende forth at one place swete water & bytter also? Can the fygge tree/my brethren/ beare olyue beries: other a vyne beare fygges? So can no fountayne geue bothe salt water & fresshe also. ¶ The.iiij.Chapter.

From whēce commeth warre and fyghtynge amōge you: come they not here hence? euen of youre voluptuousnes / ꝑ raygne in youre membres. Ye lust / and haue not. Ye enuye & haue indignacyon / and cannot obtayne. Ye fyght and warre & haue not / because ye aske not. Ye aske and receaue not / because ye aske a mysse: euen to consume it vpon youre voluptuousnes. Ye aduouterars / and wemen that breke matrimonye: knowe ye not how that the frendshyppe of the worlde is enmyte to godwarde? Whosoeuer wilbe a frēde B of the worlde / is made the enemye of God. Ether do ye thynke that the scripture sayth in vayne. The *spyryte that dwelleth in you / lusteth euen contrary to enuye: but geueth more grace.

* Christes spirite (whych is in al that be his Roma.viij.) resysteth hatered enuye & all synne, whose mocyon yf we folowe / grace increaseth in vs & lustes mynyshe / & therfore he sayth. Submyt youre selues to God.

Submyt youre selues to God / and resyst the deuyll / & he will flye frō you. Drawe nye to God and he will drawe nye to you. Clense youre handes ye synners / & pourdge youre hertes ye wauerynge mynded. Suffre afflic C cions: sorowe ye and wepe. Let youre laughter be turned to mournynge / & youre ioye to heuynes. Cast doune youre selues before ꝑ Lorde / and he shal lyft you vp. Backbyte not one another / brethren. He that *backbyteth hys brother / and he that iudgeth hys brother backbyteth the lawe / and iudgeth the lawe. But and yf thou iudge the lawe / thou art not an obseruer of the lawe: but a iudge. Ther is one lawe geuer / which is able to saue and to destroye. What art thou that iudgest a nother man?

* He that backbyteth or iudgeth hys brother doth he iudge ꝑ lawe to be euell / for the lawe forbyddeth to do so.

D Go to now ye that saye: to daye and to morow let vs go into soche a cytie and continue there a yeare and bye and sell / and wynne: & yet cannot tell what shall happē to morowe. For what thinge is youre lyfe? It is euen a vapoure that apereth for a lytell tyme / and then vanysheth awaye: For that ye ought to saye: yf the Lorde will and yf we lyue / let vs do this or that. But now ye reioyce in youre bostynges. All soche reioysynge is euyll.

He ꝑ knoweth & yet doth not / is without excuse. For god hath promysed no mercye / but to him that wil do his godlye will.

*Therfore to hym that knoweth how to do good / and doth it not / to hym it is synne.

¶ He threateneth the wycked rych mē / exhorteth vnto pacyence / to beware of swearyng / one to knowledge his fautes to another / one to praye for another / & one to laboure to bryng another to the trueth.

¶ The.v.Chater.

Go to now ye ryche men. Wepe / and howle on youre wretchednes that shal come vpō you. Youre ryches is corrupte / youre garmentes are mo eaten. Youre golde and youre syluer are cankred / and the rust of them shalbe a wytnes vnto you / and shall eate youre flesche as it were fyre. Ye haue heaped treasure to gether in youre last dayes: Beholde the hyre of ꝑ labourers whych haue reped doune youre feldes (whych hyre is of you kept backe by fraude) cryeth: and the cryes of them whych B haue reped / are entred into the eares of the Lorde Sabbaoth Ye haue lyued in pleasure on the erth and in wantōnes. Ye haue norysshed youre hertes / as in a daye of *slaughter. Ye haue condempned and haue kylled ꝑ iust and he hath not resysted you.

*Slaughter is then when men kyll bestes to make chere wyth all / & as the Iewes did in their thāke offeringes &c

✝ Be pacient therfore brethren / vnto the cōmynge of the Lord. Beholde the husbande man wayteth for the precyous frute of the erth / & hath longe pacience ther vpon / vntyll he receaue *the erly and the latter rayne. Be ye also pacient therfore and settle youre hertes / for the commynge of the Lorde draweth nye. Grudge not one agaynst another brethren / lest ye be dampned. Beholde the iudge C standeth before the dore. Take (my brethren) the Prophetes for an ensample of sufferinge aduersitie / & of longe pacience / which spake in the name of ꝑ Lorde. ✝ Beholde we counte them happy which endure. Ye haue hearde of the pacience of Iob / and haue knowen what ende the Lorde made. For the Lorde is very pitifull and mercyfull.

* Two spetial raynes haue they / the one at sowēge tyme & the other at bringe tyme of which yf they lacke ether / all is frustelesse.

But aboue all thinges my brethrē / sweare not / nether by heuē / nether by erth / nether by eny other othe. Let youre *yee be yee / & youre naye naye: lest ye faule into ypocrecy. If any of you be euell bered / let hym praye. If eny of you be mery / let him synge Psalmes. If eny be diseased amonge you / let hym call for the elders of the congregaciō / and let thē praye ouer him / and anoynte hym wyth oyle in the name of the Lorde: & *the prayer of fayth shall saue the sycke / and the Lorde shal rayse him vp: & yf he haue cōmytted synnes / they shalbe forgeuen hym.

D * Whether ye saye yee or naye: let it be so. For yf ye haue one thinge in ꝑ harte & another in ꝑ mouth or dede in besture or gesture: it is ypocrysye or dissimulacyon.

✝ Knowledge youre fautes one to another: & praye one for another / that ye maye be healed. The prayer of a righteous man auayleth moche / yf it be feruēt. Helias was a mā mortall euen as we are & he prayed in his prayer that it myght not rayne: & it rayned not on ꝑ erth by the space of thre yeares & syx monethes. And he prayed agayne / & the heuē gaue rayne / and the erth brought forth her frute.

a * And the prayer of faith &c Vnto the prayer of faith ascribeth he the obtayning & saluacyon / not vnto the annoynting ner to the oyle. Amongethose nacyons vnto which. S. Iames wrote thys epystle / it was the māner to anoynte the body with oyle: wherby thyng christ cōmaūdeth hys apostles to do. & oyle / vnto many diseases / is a wholsome medeyn. We / where soche annoynting is not in vse maye vnder the name of oyle / vnderstande the of fyce and duyte of charytie / in ministryng vnto the sycke soche thynges as heneadeth

Brethren yf eny of you erre frō the trueth and another cōuert him / let the same knowe that he which conuerted the synner from goynge a straye out of hys waye / shall saue a soule from deeth / and shall hyde the multitude of synnes.

¶ The ende of the epistle of Saynct Iames.

¶ The Epistle of Saynct Judas.

¶ He rebuketh such as beynge blynded with their awne lustes/refyst the trueth: and that we maye knowe them the better/he sayeth they be such as synne beastly agaynst nature and despyse rulers. &c. He exhorteth vs to edifye one another/to praye in the holy goost to contynue in loue/to loke for the commynge of the Lorde/and one to helpe another out of the fyre.

JUdas the seruaunt of Jesus Christ/the brother of James. To them whych are called and sanctifyed in God the father/and preserued in Jesu Christ. Mercy vnto you and peace and loue be multiplyed.

Beloued/when I gaue all dyligẽce to wryte vnto you of the commen saluacyon it was nedfull for me to wryte vnto you/to exhorte you/that ye shuld contynually laboure in ỹ fayth which was once geuen vnto the saynctes. For ther are certayne craftely crept in/of which it was written a fore tyme vnto soche iudgement. They are vngodly and turne the grace of oure God vnto wantannes/and denye God the only Lorde/and oure Lorde Jesus Christ.

My mynde is therfore to put you in remẽbraũce/for as moche as ye once knowe thys how that the Lorde (after that he had delyuered the people out of Egypt) *destroyed them which afterwarde beleued not. The angels also whych kept not their fyrst estate: but lefte their awne habitacyõ: he hath reserued in euerlastynge chaynes vnder darcknes vnto the iudgement of the greate daye: *euẽ as Sodom and Gomor/& the cytyes about e them (which in lyke maner defyled them selues with fornicacyon/and folowed *straũge flesshe) are set forth for an ensample/& suffre the vengeaunce of eternall fyre. Lykewyse these dreamers defile ỹ flesshe/despise rulars and speake euyll of thẽ that are in auctorite.

Yet Michael the archangell when he stroue agaynst the deuyll/and disputed about ỹ body of Moses/durst not geue raylinge sentence/but sayde: the Lorde rebuke the. But these speake euyll of those thynges whych they knowe not: & what thinges they knowe naturally/as beastes which are without reason/in tho thinges they corrupte them selues.

Wo be vnto them/for they haue folowed the waye of Cayn and are vtterly geuen to the erroure of Balam for lukers sake/*and perysshe in the treason of Core.

These are spottes which of youre kindnes feast to gether/wyth out feare/fedynge thẽ selues. Cloudes they are with oute water/ carryed about of wyndes/and trees with out frute at gadrynge tyme/twyse deed and plucked vp by the rotes. They are the ragynge waues of the see/fomynge out their awne shame. They are wandrynge starres to whõ is reserued the myst of darcknes for euer.

Enoch the seuenth from Adam prophesyed before of suche/sayinge. *Beholde/ỹ Lorde shall come wyth thousandes of saynctes/to geue iudgement agaynst all men/and to rebuke all that are vngodly amonge them of all their vngodly dedes/which they haue vngodly committed/and of all their cruell speakynges/which vngodly synners haue spokẽ agaynst hym.

These are murmurers/cõplayners/walkynge after their awne lustes/whose mouthes speake proude thynges. They haue mẽ in greate reuerence because of auauntage. But ye beloued/remẽber the wordes whych were spoken before of the Apostles of oure Lorde Jesus Christ/how that they tolde you *that ther shulde be begylers in the last tyme which shuld walke after their awne vngodly lustes. These are makers of sectes/fleshlye/ hauynge no spyrete.

But ye derlye beloued/edifye youre selues in youre most holy fayth/prayinge in the holy goost/and kepe youre selues in the loue of God/lokynge for the mercy of oure Lorde Jesus Christ/vnto eternall life. And haue cõpassyon of some/separatynge them: & other saue with feare/pullynge thẽ out of the fyre and hate the fylthy vesture of the flesshe.

Vnto him that is able to kepe you/that ye faule not/and to present you fautlesse before the presence of his glory with ioye/that is to saye/to God oure saueour which only is wyse/be glory/maieste/dominion/ and power/now and for euer. Amen.

The Reuelacion

Happie are they that heare the worde of God and kepe it. He wryteth to the seuen congregacions in Asia/ seyth seuen candelsticks/ and in the myddes of them/ one lyke vnto the sonne of man.

THe reuelacion of Jesus Christ/ which God gaue vnto him/ for to shewe vnto his seruauntes thynges which must shortely come to passe.

And he sent and shewed by his angell vnto his seruaunt John/ which bare recorde of the worde of God/ and of the testimony of Jesus Christ/ and of all thynges that he sawe. Happy is he that redith/ & they that heare the wordes of the prophesy/ and kepe those thynges which are writtē therin. For the tyme is at hande.

John to the. vij. cōgregacions in Asia. Grace be with you and peace/ from him which is and which was/ and which is to come/ & frō the. vij. spretes which are present before his trone/ and frō Jesus Christ which is a faythfull wytnes/ & fyrst begotten of the deed: and Lorde ouer the kinges of the erth. I John youre brother & companion in tribulacio/ & in the kyngdome & pacience which is in Jesu Christ/ was in the yle of Pathmos for the worde of God/ and for the wytnessing of Jesu Christ. I was in the spyrete on a condaye/ & herde behinde me a gret voyce/ as it had bene of a trompe sayinge: I am Alpha & Omega/ the fyrst and the laste. And I turned backe to se the voyce that spake to me. And whē I was turned: I sawe vij. golden candelsticks/ & in the myddes of the candelsticks/ one lyke vnto the sonne of man/ clothed with a lynnē garment doune to the ground/ & gyrd about ỹ pappes wyth a golden gyrdle. His heed/ & his heares were whyte/ as whyte woll/ and as snowe: & hys eyes were as a flame of fyre: & hys fete lyke vnto brasse as though they brēt in a fornace: & his voyce as ỹ soūde of many waters. And he had in his ryghte hande. vij. starres. And out of his mouthe went a sharpe two edged swearde. And his face shone euen as ỹ sonne in his strength.

And ỹ fourth Angell poured out his viall

And he caryed me awaye into the wyldernes in the spyrete. And I sawe a woman syt vpon a rose colored best full of names of blasphemye which had ten hornes. And the ten hornes/ which thou sawest vpon the beast/are they that shall hate ỹ whore / and shall make her desolate & naked/& shall eate her flesche and burne her with fyre. For God hath put in their hertes to fulfyll his wyll/& to do with one consent/for to geue her kyngdome vnto ỹ beast/vntyll the wordes of God be fulfylled.
